RESOLUTION.

(Copy of resolution of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.)

Resolved, that this company will and does hereby accept the terms, conditions and impositions of the act of the Congress of the United States entitled "An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific ocean," passed at the first session of the Thirty-ninth Congress, and that a copy of this resolution of acceptance, certified under the seal of this company, and signed by the president and secretary, be forwarded to and filed with the secretary of the interior.

I, J. L. Willcutt, secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, held at the office of the company, in the city and county of San Francisco, State of California, on the twenty-fourth day of November, 1866, as the same appears on the records of said company.

Witness my hand and the corporate seal of said company, the second day of July, 1895.

J. L. WILLCUTT,
Secretary Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

[Seal.]

I certify that I have compared the foregoing document with the original thereof on the records of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, in their possession, and find the same to be a full, true, and correct copy of same.

Letter of the Secretary.

Department of the Interior.

Washington, D. C., January 3, 1867.

Sir:

I send herewith, for your appropriate official action in the premises, a copy of a letter from T. G. Phelps, Esq., president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, dated the twenty-eighth of September last, with the map accompanying the same showing the preliminary survey of said road from San Francisco, California, to the Colorado river, on the eastern boundary of said State.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obt. servant,

O. H. BROWNING,

Secretary.

Hon. Jos. S. Wilson,

Commissioner of the general land office.

Defendant's Exhibit No. 2.

LETTER.

(Copy.)

San Francisco, September 28, 1866.

Sir:

Herewith you will please find the plat of the preliminary survey of the Southern Pacific Railroad, which the company request may be filed in your office, and that instructions may be at once sent to the officers of the land districts through which the projected road is to run, withdrawing the lands within the exterior lines from which the company is entitled, under the act of Congress, to select the lands donated in aid of the construction of the road (as shown by the colored lines on the map), from market.

You will please note the fact that the company has this day filed a duplicate of this map in the land office in San Francisco, and we respectfully request that that office may be immediately directed by telegram (at the expense of the company) to withdraw the lands, as indicated, in that district from market.

Very respectfully,

T. G. PHELPS,
President S. P. R. R.

Ex. No. 29.

Report.

Los Angeles, California, April 15, 1874.

To Hon. C. Delano, Secretary of the Interior of the United States of America.

Sir:

We, the undersigned, commissioners of the United States, appointed to examine the first (1st) section of fifty (50) miles of the railroad and telegraph line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of Congress, entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, commencing at a point in the northwest quarter (N. W. ¼) of section three (3), township two (2) north, range fifteen (15) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, running thence in a southeasterly direction to the city of Los Angeles, and thence in an easterly direction, and ending at the termination of the fiftieth (50th) mile therefrom, at a point in the northeast quarter (N. E. ¼) of section twenty-seven (27), township one (1) south, range nine (9) west, San Bernardino base and meridian:

(Note.—The affidavit, February 16, 1874, of C. P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, of the completion of this section of fifty miles of railroad, contains a clerical error, in that it describes incorrectly the exact quarter section of public land in which the points of commencement and termination are situated. The particular sections of land in which these points exist are given herein correctly. The difference in the description was caused by a difficulty in connecting the line of the road with the United States surveys.)

Certify: that we have carefully examined such section, and that the alignment and grades are as represented on the accompanying map and profile, and are such as, in view of the capabilities of the ground, the Government should accept as first class.

That in this distance, fifty (50) miles, there are:

20,141	ft. of level line.
8,500	ft. of grades, 0 to 5 ft. pr. mile.
20,500	ft. of grades, 5 to 10 ft. pr. mile.
17,103	ft. of grades, 10 to 15 ft. pr. mile.
18,900	ft. of grades, 15 to 20 ft. pr. mile.
11,700	ft. of grades, 20 to 25 ft. pr. mile.
18,690	ft. of grades, 25 to 30 ft. pr. mile.
22,300	ft. of grades, 30 to 35 ft. pr. mile.
13,944.6	ft. of grades, 35 to 40 ft. pr. mile.
15,800	ft. of grades, 40 to 45 ft. pr. mile.
26,100	ft. of grades, 45 to 50 ft. pr. mile.
26,721.4	ft. of grades, 50 to 55 ft. pr. mile.
20,000	ft. of grades, 55 to 60 ft. pr. mile.
4,400	ft. of grades, 60 to 65 ft. pr. mile.
13,800	ft. of grades, 65 to 70 ft. pr. mile.
5,400	ft. of grades, 72.23 ft. pr. mile.
Total.....264,000	ft., or fifty (50) miles.

Maximum grade, 72.23 feet per mile.

That also in this distance of fifty (50) miles there are:

197,470.5	ft. of straight line.
361.4	ft. of curve of 18 minutes.
17,215	ft. of curve of 20 minutes.
8,720	ft. of curve of 30 minutes.
9,680	ft. of curve of 40 minutes.
5,220	ft. of curve of 50 minutes.
10,102	ft. of curve of 1 degree.
1,575	ft. of curve of 1 degree 20 min.
1,744.6	ft. of curve of 1 degree 30 min.
3,872.4	ft. of curve of 2 degrees 00 min.
200	ft. of curve of 3 degrees 00 min.
3,972.5	ft. of curve of 4 degrees 00 min.
400	ft. of curve of 4 degrees 30 min.
1,331.6	ft. of curve of 5 degrees 00 min.
2,131	ft. of curve of 6 degrees 00 min.
264,000	ft., or over fifty (50) miles.

Maximum radius, 955.4 feet.

That all the iron is of American manufacture, and of the best quality, and that the road is of the gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches (4 ft. 8½ in.); that the rails weigh not less than fifty-six (56) pounds per lineal yard, and the joints are made with fishplates, and that all the rails are fastened with four spikes to each tie; that there are seven (7) sidings, having an aggregate length of twelve thousand six hundred and forty-two feet, connected with the main track at each end with good switches; that there are two turntable tracks, having an aggregate length of five hundred and forty-six feet, connected with the main track with good switches; that there are two thousand four hundred and fifty ties per mile, of redwood or red cedar timber, in all cases at least six by eight inches by eight feet long. (The cross ties are in the aggregate over eight inches wide, and make a bearing surface equal to at least two thousand six hundred and forty ties per mile.) That the said section is ballasted with sand, gravel and loam, of which the roadbed is composed, no other materials being found within many miles of the line of the railroad. When more suitable material shall be found within a reasonable distance, we have the assurance of the officers that the road will, if necessary, be reballasted.

That the excavations and embankments are in strict conformity to the requirements of law and the instructions.

That there are seventeen (17) bridges, all built on pile foundations, as follows:

1 bridge	1,001.7	ft. long;	63 spans,	15.9 each.
1 bridge	795	ft. long;	50 spans,	15.9 each.
1 bridge	556.5	ft. long;	35 spans,	15.9 each.
1 bridge	331.8	ft. long;	21 spans,	15.8 each.
2 bridges.....	190.8	ft. long;	12 spans,	15.9 each.
2 bridges.....	95.4	ft. long;	6 spans,	15.9 each.
5 bridges.....	48	ft. long;	3 spans,	16 each.
3 bridges.....	32	ft. long;	2 spans,	16 each.
1 bridge	16	ft. long;	1 span,	16 each.

Total, 17 bridges.

That there are one hundred and sixteen (116) culverts, as follows:

43 culverts, 1x1 ft., box.
5 culverts, 1x1½ ft., open.
1 culvert, 1x1½ ft., box.
2 culverts, 1x2 ft., open.
1 culvert, 1x2 ft., box.
1 culvert, 1x2½ ft., box.
27 culverts, 2x2 ft., box.
16 culverts, 2x3 ft., box.
4 culverts, 3x3 ft., box.
5 culverts, 3x4 ft., box.
3 culverts, 4x4 ft., box.
1 culvert, 4x6 ft., box.
5 culverts, 6x6 ft., box.
1 culvert, 6 ft., open.
1 culvert, 10 ft., open.

Total, 116 culverts.

No stone suitable for building purposes could be found within a distance of ten (10) miles of the railroad. The material used in the construction of the trestle bridges, culverts and bridge abutments is the most durable the country can afford, being the black or coast redwood or red cedar (the same used for ties), well known on the Pacific Coast, and universally sought after on account of its great durability and resistance to decay.

We have, however, the assurances of the managers and directors that the culverts and bridge abutments will be rebuilt in stone when and as the same may become necessary, and suitable material can be found within a reasonable distance of the line of road.

No wood or coal houses have been built, and they do not seem to be necessary. A permanent arrangement has, notwithstanding, been made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company with the Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company for the full use of the fuel houses at Los Angeles, owned by the latter company. They are large enough for all the fuel required at present by both roads. The dryness of the atmosphere, there being but a very light rainfall in winter, with no rain in summer, and the extreme mildness of the climate, render the use of covering for fuel entirely unnecessary. If, however, other fuel houses shall be hereafter be found requisite, the officers promise that they shall be built immediately.

That at San Fernando there is one passenger and freight house combined, seventy-eight by twenty feet, sided with planed lumber and covered with shingles. On each side of the building there are platforms eight feet wide.

That there is one turntable at San Fernando, with two hundred and seventy-three feet of track, connected at one end by a switch with the main track.

That there is at San Fernando one water tank of eighteen thousand gallons capacity, supplied from a well by a Hooker pump.

That there is at San Fernando one thousand and forty-six feet of side track, connected at both ends with good switches to the main track.

That there are at Sepulveda, thirteen miles from San Fernando, ten acres of land for depot purposes. The officers of the road say that whenever business shall require side tracks or buildings they will be constructed.

That there are at Los Angeles one thousand one hundred and twenty-five feet of side track, connected at both ends by good switches with the main track. Also seven thousand five hundred and fifty and four-tenths feet of side track, connecting by good switches the main line with the passenger and freight depots of the San Pedro & Los Angeles Railroad. Also, two hundred and twenty and six-tenths feet of side track, connecting by good switches the main line with an engine house which the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has constructed on a fifty-acre tract provided for large engine and repair shops when they shall become necessary.

That there are sixty-five acres of land for depots and machine shops. A permanent arrangement has been made and perfected whereby the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has the full use of the passenger and freight depots of the San Pedro & Los Angeles Railroad Company. The road owned by this company consists of a main line of twenty miles from Los Angeles to Wilmington, on the Pacific ocean, and a branch line to Anaheim, seven miles of which is constructed. It is run in connection with the section of fifty miles of railroad under examination. These passenger and freight depots are large, well built, and commodious buildings, and are much more than sufficient to give the fullest accommodations for all the travel and commerce of both roads for many years.

The officers promise that if business should increase to such an extent as to require more ample accommodations other buildings will, when needed, be immediately erected on the sixty-five acres before mentioned.

That at San Gabriel there is one passenger and freight house combined, forty by twenty feet, sided with planed lumber and covered with shingles. On each side of the buildings there are platforms eight feet wide.

That at San Gabriel there is a side track eight hundred and twenty-seven feet long, connected at both ends with good switches to the main track.

That there is at Lexington one passenger and freight house combined, twenty-four by sixteen feet, sided with planed lumber and covered with shingles. On each side of the building there are platforms eight feet wide.

That at Lexington there is a side track eight hundred and twenty-seven feet long, connected at both ends with good switches to the main track.

That at Spadra there is one passenger and freight house combined, seventy-eight by twenty feet, sided with planed lumber and covered with shingles. On each side of the building there are platforms eight feet wide.

That at Spadra there is one turntable with two hundred and seventy-three feet of side track.

That at Spadra there are one thousand and forty-six feet of side track, connected at both ends with good switches with the main track.

That at Spadra there is a water tank of eighteen thousand gallons capacity, supplied from a well by a Hooker pump.

That there are no section houses erected, the hotel and farm houses which are found along the line of the road affording ample accommodation for all the workmen employed.

That no locomotive stall, machine, or repair shops have been bulit; permanent arrangements have been made with the Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company for the use of its machine and repair shops, etc. These we deem sufficient for the work of both roads at present. We are informed by the officers of the company that it is the intention, as soon as enough of the railroad shall be built from which to form a division of any considerable length, to construct permanent machine and repair shops in the most substantial and durable manner, and if, in the meanwhile, additional facilities should be required for repairs or otherwise, they will be supplied promptly.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company owns the following locomotives and cars, which are now used on this portion of its line:

Locomotives.

No.	Diam. of Wheels.	Size of Cylinder.	Name of Makers.
	Ft. In.	Inches.
1	4..8	17	Central Pacific R. R. Co., Sacramento, Cal.
2	5..2	14	McQueen, Schenectady, N. Y.
3	5..2	12	" " "
4	5..2	12	" " "
5	5..2	9	Vulcan Iron Works, San Francisco.

Cars.

2 passenger cars.
2 passenger and caboose cars.
1 smoking car.
1 baggage and express car.
7 box freight cars.
43 platform cars.
2 dump cars.
12 section cars.

Total, 70 cars.

The above locomotives and cars are more than sufficient for present business and requirements, and no more will be needed for some considerable time to come.

The road traverses a section thinly settled by a population that has hardly any commerce, and in consequence business must necessarily be, for a time, very limited and unprofitable. As the road advances it is hoped that immigration will be attracted and the resources and commerce of the country will be developed to such an extent that when, eventually, connection shall be made with the main line from the Eastern States there will be enough of freight and travel to establish at least a paying business.

The directors say that when and as the same shall become necessary, an ample supply of first class rolling stock and other appurtenances will be promptly provided.

That said section of fifty (50) miles of railroad, and the telegraph line connected therewith, or any part thereof, has not been constructed "on the line of any other railroad route, to aid in the construction of which lands have heretofore (prior to July 27, 1866) been granted by the United States."

That this section of railroad and telegraph line was completed and equipped previous to the third day of March, 1874, and both are first class.

That the telegraph line is constructed as follows: Not less than thirty redwood poles to the mile; size at bottom eight by eight inches; at top, four by five inches; length, twenty-four feet. They are set to a depth of four feet in the ground. Number 9 galvanized wire is used. The office instruments are of the very best quality and of the most improved style, and are furnished by the best manufacturers.

We respectfully recommend the acceptance by the Government of the section of fifty (50) miles of railroad and telegraph line hereinbefore described.

We also report and certify that the deficiencies in the ballasting of the Southern Pacific Railroad which existed at the time of the several examinations of said road by the United States railroad commission have been supplied, and that the entire line throughout is ballasted in a first class manner and that the roadway is in an excellent condition and repair.

Respectfully submitted,

Letter of the Secretary.

Department of the Interior.

Washington, D. C., 8th May, 1874.

Sir:

I have the honor to submit herewith, for your action, the report, dated fifteenth ultimo, of Messrs. Foulke, Brown and Sullivan, appointed by you to examine and report upon the Southern Pacific Railroad and telegraph line. They have examined the fifty miles of road, et cetera, commencing at a point in the northwest one-quarter, section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, running thence in a southeasterly direction, to the city of Los Angeles, and thence in an easterly direction, ending at the termination of the fiftieth mile therefrom, at a point in the northeast one-quarter, section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, same base and meridian.

The commissioners in their report represent(with exception of a few defects, which the company promise to remedy hereafter), that this portion of road is completed and equipped as a first class railroad; and that the telegraph line is finished for the same distance, and is first class. I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of the same, and the issue to said company of patents for lands due on account of the construction thereof, agreeably to the provisions of the "act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," approved twenty-seventh July, 1866, and the acts amendatory thereof, approved twenty-fifth July, 1868, and twenty-eighth June, 1870.

Very respectfully,

Your ob't servant,

B. R. COWEN,
Acting Secretary.

To the President.

Ex No. 30.

Report.

Los Angeles, California, October 21, 1875.

To Hon. Zachariah Chandler,
Secretary of the Interior, of the United States of America:

Sir: We, the undersigned commissioners of the United States, appointed to examine the second (2) section of fifty (50) miles of the railroad and telegraph line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of Congress entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, commencing at the termination of section number one (1) of said railroad at a point in the northeast one-quarter (N. E. ¼) of section twenty-seven (27), township one (1) south, range nine (9) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and running thence in a southeasterly direction fifty (50) miles, to a point in the southwest one-quarter (S. W. ¼) of section four (4), township (3) three south, range one (1) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, certify that we have carefully examined such secton, and that the alignment and grades are as represented on the accompanying map and profile, and are such as, in view of the capabilities of the ground, the government should accept as first-class.

That in this distance (50 miles) there are:

16,700	feet of level line.

2,800	"	"	"	5°
1,300	"	"	"	6°

Total 264,000 feet, or fifty (50) miles.

Minimum radius, 955 37-100 feet.

That all the iron is of American manufacture and of the best quality, and that the road is of the gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches (4 ft. 8½ in.); that the rails weigh not less than 56 pounds per lineal yard, and the joints are made with fish-plates, and that all the rails are fastened with four spikes to each tie; that there are four sidings having an aggregate length of 5,557 5-10 feet, each of them connected with the main track at both ends with good switch; that there are 2,450 ties per mile, of redwood a length of 331 feet connected with the main track with a good switche; that there are 2,450 ties per mile, of redwood or red cedar timber, in all cases at least 6x8 inches by 8 feet long (the cross-ties are, in the aggregate, over 8 inches wide and make a bearing surface equal to at least 2,640 ties per mile); that the said section is ballasted with sand, gravel, and loam, of which the road bed is composed, no other material being found within many miles of the line of the railroad.

When more suitable material shall be found within a reasonable distance, we have the assurance of the officers that the road will, if necessary, be reballasted.

That the excavations and embankments are in strict conformity to the requirements of law and the instructions.

That there are twenty (20) bridges, all built on pile foundations, as follows:

1	bridge,	2,624	feet	long;	164	spans,	16	feet	each.

5	"	10	"	"	1	"	10	"	"
3	"	8	"	"	1	"	8	"	"

Total 20 bridges.

That there are 141 culverts as follows:

		inches.
1	culvert,	6x10 open
2	"	9x12 "
3	"	10x12 "
1	"	10x12 open, with penstock

1	"	2x2 open
49	"	2x2 box
10	"	2x3 "
3	"	3x3 "
1	"	3x4 "

Total 141 culverts.

No stone suitable for building purposes could be found within a distance of ten (10) miles of the railroad. The material used in the construction of the trestle bridges, culverts and bridge abutments is the most durable the country can afford, being the black or coast redwood or red cedar (the same used for ties), well known on the Pacific Coast, and universally sought after on account of its great durability and resistance to decay. We have, however, the assurances of the managers and directors that the culverts and bridge abutments will be rebuilt in stone when, and as the same may become necessary and suitable material can be found within a reasonable distance of the line of the road.

No wood or coal houses have been built and they do not seem to be necessary. The dryness of the atmosphere, there being but a very light rainfall in winter, with no rain in summer, and the extreme mildness of the climate render the use of covering for fuel entirely unnecessary. If, however, fuel houses shall hereafter be found requisite, the officers promise that they shall be built immediately.

That at Pomona there are 1,020 feet of side track, connected with the main line at both ends with good switches.

That at Cucamonga there is one platform 8 feet by 24 feet.

That there are two section houses at Cucamonga, one 18 x30 feet, with wing 10x12, and the other 12x16, both sided with lumber, painted, and covered with shingles.

That there are 1,130 feet of side track at Cucamonga, connected with the main track at both ends with good switches.

That there is one water tank of 18,000 gallons capacity at Cucamonga, supplied by gravity from Cucamonga creek.

That at Colton there is one passenger and freight house combined, 32x160 feet, sided with planed lumber, painted and covered with shingles. On each side of the building there are platforms ten feet wide, and at each end platforms twelve feet wide.

That there is at Colton one turntable with 331 feet of track, connected at one end by switch with the main track.

That there is at Colton one water tank of 18,000 gallons capacity, supplied from a well by a windmill.

That there are two section-houses at Colton, 12x16 feet each, sided with lumber, painted and covered with shingles.

That there is one coal platform at Colton, 20x40 feet.

That there are two side tracks at Colton having an aggregate length of 3,401.5 feet, connected with the main track at both ends with good switches.

The officers inform us that it is the intention of the company to build at Mound City (three miles from Colton station), buildings, platforms, etc., as soon as the necessities of business shall require it.

That at Frinks there is one water tank of 18,000 gallons capacity, supplied from a well by hand power, to be replaced as soon as possible by windmill.

That no locomotive stalls or engine houses, machine or repair shops have been built on this section. Those at Los Angeles, heretofore on April 15, 1874, reported upon, being amply sufficient to meet its present requirements. If others should become necessary the officers inform us they will be built when and as they shall be required.

Beyond Mount City the road passes through a country almost uninhabited. Work on the next section of fifty miles is progressing rapidly. As soon as that section shall be ready for examination and acceptance we are informed by the directors that all facilities as regards buildings, water tanks, and other erections and structures which may be required for the complete, prompt and thorough working of the road will be supplied when needed.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company owns the following locomotives and cars, which are used on this part of its railroad:

Locomotives.

No.	Diam. of wheels.	Size of cylinder and length of stroke.	Weight.	Names of makers.
	Inches.		Tons.
2	62	14 x 22	26	McQueen, Schenectady, New York.

Cars.

5	passenger cars
3	smoking "
1	baggage "
33	box "
107	platform "
1	section "

Total 167	cars.

The foregoing locomotives and cars are more than sufficient for present business and requirement, and no more will be needed for some considerable time to come.

The road traverses a section of country thinly settled by a population that has hardly any commerce, and in consequence, business must necessarily be, for a time, very limited and unprofitable. As the road advances it is hoped that immigration will be attracted, and the resources and commerce of the country will be developed to such an extent that when, eventually, connection shall be made with the main line from the Eastern States there will be enough of freight and travel to establish at least a paying business. The directors say that when, and as the same shall become necessary, an ample supply of first-class rolling stock and other appurtenances will be provided.

That said section of fifty miles of railroad and the telegraph line connected therewith, or any part thereof, has not been constructed "on the line of any other railroad route to aid in the construction of which lands have heretofore (prior to July 27, 1866) been granted by the United States."

That this section of railroad and telegraph line are both first-class.

That the telegraph line is constructed as follows: Not less than 30 redwood poles to the mile; size at bottom, 8x8 inches; at top, 4x5 inches; length 24 feet; they are set to a depth of four feet in the ground; number 9 galvanized wire is used. The office instruments are of the very best quality, of the most improved style, and are furnished by the best manufacturers.

We respectfully recommend the acceptance by the government of the section of fifty (50) miles of railroad and telegraph line hereinbefore described.

Department of the Interior,

Washington, D. C., eighth Nov., 1875.

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith for your consideration, and, if deemed proper, for your approval, the report under date of the twenty-first ult., of Messrs. Foulke, Brown and Sullivan, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific Railroad and telegraph line of California. They have examined an additional section of fifty miles of the (branch) road and telegraph line authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of third March, 1871 (known as the Texas Pacific R. W. act), to be constructed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company. This portion of road commences at the termination of section 1 of said branch, at a point in the northeast one-quarter of section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and runs thence fifty miles to a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 4, township 3 south, range 1 west, same base and meridian.

The commissioners report this section completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph as also completed and first-class.

I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of said second section of fifty miles of branch road and the issuance to the company constructing it of patents for lands due on account of such construction, agreeably to the provisions of law.

Very respectfully,

Z. CHANDLER,

Secretary.

Total 264,000 feet, or fifty (50) miles.

Maximum grade, 102 96-100 feet.

That also, in this distance of fifty (50) miles, there are:

214,069.3	feet	of	straight	line.

Total 264,000.0 feet or fifty (50) miles.

That of this distance of fifty (50) miles there are 6 17-100 miles laid with iron rails, and 43.83 miles laid with steel rails; that all the iron and steel is of Amrican manufacture and of the best quality, and that the road is of the gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches (4 ft. 8½ in.); that the iron rails weigh not less than fifty-six (56) pounds per lineal yard, and the steel rails weigh not less than fifty (50) pounds per lineal yard; that all the joints are made with fish plates, and all the rails are fastened with four spikes to each tie; that there are four (4) sidings, having an aggregate length of 4,627 feet, each of them connected with the main track at both ends with good switches, and one siding 957 feet long, connected with the main track at one end with a good switch; that there are three (3) turntable tracks, each 285 feet long, and connected with the main track by means of a good switch; that there are 2,640 ties per mile (or a bearing surface equivalent to that number of ties), of redwood or red cedar timber, 6x8 inches by 8 feet long; that the said section is ballasted with a superior quality of sand and gravel, of which the roadbed is composed, no better material being found within very many miles of the line of the railroad. When more suitable material shall be found within a reasonable distance we have the assurance of the officers that the road will, if necessary, be reballasted.

That the excavations and embankments are in strict conformity to the requirements of law and the instructions.

That there are forty-four (44) bridges, all built on pile foundation, as follows:

1	bridge	160	feet	long,	10 spans,	16 feet each.
3	bridges	96	feet	long,	6 spans,	16 feet each.
1	bridge	64	feet	long,	4 spans,	16 feet each.
1	bridge	58	feet	long,	3 spans,	16 feet each.
1	bridge	58	feet	long,	1 span,	10 feet each.
8	bridges	48	feet	long,	3 spans,	16 feet each.
7	bridges	32	feet	long,	2 spans,	16 feet each.
13	bridges	16	feet	long,	1 span,	16 feet each.
4	bridges	10	feet	long,	1 span,	10 feet each.
6	bridges	8	feet	long,	1 span,	8 feet each.

Total, 44 bridges.

That there are 92 culverts, as follows:

20	culverts,	1x1,	box.
19	culverts,	1x2,	box.
1	culvert,	1x3,	box.
37	culverts,	2x3,	box.
15	culverts,	2x3,	box.

Total, 92 culverts.

No stone suitable for building purposes could be found within a distance of ten (10) miles of the railroad. The material used in the construction of the trestle bridges, culverts, and bridge abutments is the most durable the country can afford, being the black or coast redwood or red cedar (the same used for ties), well known on the Pacific Coast, and universally sought after on account of its great durability and resistance to decay. We have, however, the assurances of the managers and directors that the culverts and bridge abutments will be rebuilt in stone when and as the same may become necessary, and suitable material can be found within a reasonable distance of the line of the road.

No wood or coal houses have been built, and they do not seem to be necessary. The dryness of the atmosphere, there being but a very light rainfall in winter, with no rain in summer, and the extreme mildness of the climate, render the use of covering for fuel entirely unnecessary. If, however, fuel houses shall hereafter be found requisite, the officers promise that they shall be built immediately.

That there are two (2) coal platforms, viz:

One at White Water, size 14 ft. 7 in. by 30 ft. 3 in.

One at Indian Wells, size 14 ft. 7 in. by 30 ft. 3 in.

That there are five water tanks, each of 18,000 gallons' capacity, as follows, viz:

One at San Gorgonia, supplied from a well by a windmill.

One at Jacinto supplied by gravity from a spring 2 82-100 miles distant.

One at White Water, supplied by gravity from a spring 2 9-10 miles distant.

One at Seven Palms, supplied by gravity from a spring 1 8-10 miles distant.

One at Indian Wells, supplied from a well by a windmill.

That there are twelve (12) section houses for the accommodation of employees, all of them being sided with planed lumber, painted, and covered with shingles, viz:

Two at San Gorgonio, one 15x28 ft., with wing 10x14 ft.
One 12x16 ft., with wing 8x10 ft.
Two at Jacinto.....one 12x16 ft., with wing 8x10 ft.
One 12x16 ft.
Two at White River, one 12x18 ft.
One 12x16 ft., with wing 8x10 ft.
Four at Seven Palms, two 12x16 feet each, with wing 8x10 feet. Two 12x16 feet.
Two at a point 40 miles from the commencement of this 50-mile section — one 12x18 feet; one 12x16 feet, with wing 8x10 feet.

That the sidings and turntable tracks hereinbefore mentioned are situated as follows, viz:

At San Gorgonia, one siding, 1,175 feet, switch at each end.

At San Gorgonia, one turntable, 285 feet of track.

At Jacinto, one siding, 975 feet; switch at one end.

At White Water one siding, 1191 feet; switch at each end.

At Seven Palms, one siding, 1,131 feet, switch at each end.

At Seven Palms, one turntable, 285 feet of track.

At Indian Wells, one siding, 1130 feet with switch at each end.

At Indian Wells one turntable, 285 feet of track.

That at San Gorgonio there are two (2) handcar and storehouses, one 10x12 feet and one 12x16 feet.

That at Indian Wells there is one station building, consisting of a passenger and a freight house combined, 20 feet by 42 feet, sided with planed lumber, painted, and covered with shingles, and having platforms 42 feet long by 10 feet wide on each side.

That no locomotive stalls or engine houses, machine or repair shops have been built on this section, those at Los Angeles, heretofore, on April 15, 1874, reported upon being amply sufficient to meet its present requirements. If others should become necessary the officers inform us they will build when and as they shall be required.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company owns the following locomotives and cars, which are used on this part of its railroad, viz:

Locomotives.

No.	Diam. of Wheels.	Size of cylinder and Length of Stroke.	Weight.	Names of Makers.
	In.	In.	Tons.
1	56	17 x 24	32	Central Pacific R. R. Co., Sacramento, California.

Cars—

10 passenger cars.
3 passenger and baggage cars.
2 baggage and mail cars.
58 box cars.
137 platform cars.
31 handcars.

Total, 251 cars.

The foregoing locomotives and cars are more than sufficient for present business and requirements, and no more will be needed for some considerable time to come. The road traverses a section of country thinly settled by a population that has hardly any commerce, and in consequence business must necessarily be, for a time, very limited and unprofitable. As the road advances it is hoped that immigration and settlement of the lands will be atracted, and the resources and commerce of the country developed to such an extent that when, eventually, connection shall be made with the main line from the Eastern States there will be enough of freight and travel to establish at least a paying business. The directors say that when and as the same shall become necessary, an ample supply of first-class rolling stock and other appurtenances will be provided.

That this section of railroad and telegraph line are both first-class.

That said section of fifty (50) miles of railroad and the telegraph line connected therewith, or any part thereof, has not been constructed "on the line of any other railroad route to aid in the construction of which lands have heretofore (prior to July 27, 1866) been granted by the United States."

That the telegraph line is constructed as follows:

Not less than 30 redwood poles to the mile; size at bottom 8x8 inches, at top 4x5 inches; length, 24 feet. They are set to a depth of four feet in the ground. Number 9 galvanized wire is used. The office instruments are of the very best quality, of the most improved style, and are furnished by the best manufacturers.

We respectfully recommend the acceptance by the government of the section of fifty (50) miles of railroad and telegraph line hereinbefore described.

Respectfully submitted.

Letter of the Secretary.

Department of the Interior.

Washington, D. C., 10th July, 1876.

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith for your examination, and, if deemed proper, for your approval, the report, under date of the twenty-second ultimo., of Messrs. L. M. Foulke, Calvin Brown and Eugene L. Sullivan, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific Railroad and telegraph line of California. They have examined the third section of fifty miles of the branch road and telegraph line authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of 3d March, 1871 (known as the Texas Pacific Railway Act), to be constructed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. This portion of road begins at the termination of section No. 2 of said railroad at a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 4, township 3 south, range 1 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and running thence in a southeasterly direction fifty miles to a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, same base and meridian.

The commissioners report this section completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph as also completed and first-class. I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of said third section of fifty miles of branch road, and the issuance to the company constructing it of patents for lands due on account of such construction, agreeably to the provisions of law.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obt. servant,

Z. CHANDLER,
Secretary.

The President.

[Endorsed]: Department of the Interior, 10th July, 1876. Z. Chandler, Secretary, submits to the President report of commissioners on third section, 50 miles, branch line of Southern Pacific Railroad of California.

Report.

San Francisco, California, February 17, 1877.

To Hon. Zachariah Chandler, Secretary of Interior of the United States of America:

Sir: We, the undersigned, commissioners of the United States, appointed to examine the fourth (4th) section of seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths (78 59-100) miles, of the railroad and telegraph line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, authorized by the twenty-third (23d) section of the act of Congress, entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, commencing at or near San Fernando at the initial point of section number one (1) of said railroad heretofore reported upon, said point being in the northwest one-quarter (N.-W. ¼) of section three (3), township two (2) north, range fifteen (15) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and running thence northerly along the line of said railroad and ending at the termination of the seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths mile therefrom, in the northeast one-quarter (N. E. ¼) of section seventeen (17), township eleven (11) north, range twelve (12) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, certify: That we have carefully examined such section, and that the alignment and grades are as represented on the accompanying map and profile, and are such as, in view of the capabilities of the ground, the government should accept as first-class.

That in this distance (78 59-100 miles) there are:

40,900	feet of level line.
17,800	feet of grades	0	to 5	feet per mile.
20,300	feet of grades	5	to 10	feet per mile.
2,800	feet of grades	10	to 15	feet per mile.
16,586.8	feet of grades	15	to 20	feet per mile.
9,700	feet of grades	20	to 25	feet per mile.
15,675.9	feet of grades	25	to 30	feet per mile.
21,000	feet of grades	30	to 35	feet per mile.
14,975	feet of grades	35	to 40	feet per mile.
17,200	feet of grades	40	to 45	feet per mile.
17,637	feet of grades	45	to 50	feet per mile.
37,967.9	feet of grades	50	to 55	feet per mile.
24,816.3	feet of grades	55	to 60	feet per mile.
20,082.7	feet of grades	60	to 65	feet per mile.
12,400	feet of grades	65	to 70	feet per mile.
5,302.7	feet of grades	70	to 75	feet per mile.
24,300	feet of grades	75	to 80	feet per mile.
1,880.9	feet of grades	80	to 85	feet per mile.
6,300	feet of grades	85	to 90	feet per mile.
3,544.3	feet of grades	90	to 95	feet per mile.
8,485	feet of grades	95	to 100	feet per mile.
7,991.7	feet of grades	100	to 105	feet per mile.
23,961	feet of grades	105	to 110	feet per mile.
16,974.7	feet of grades	110	to 115	feet per mile.
26,351.8	feet of grades	115	to 116 16-100	ft. p. mile.

Total, 414,933.7 feet or 78 59.100 miles.

Maximum grade, 116 16-100 feet per mile.

That also in this distance (78 59.100 miles) there are:

317,063.3 feet of straight line.
32,543.1 feet of curve 12 min. to 1 deg. inclusive.
13,339.5 feet of curve 1 deg. to 2 min. inclusive.
10,414.2 feet of curve 2 deg. to 3 deg. inclusive.
8,921.8 feet of curve 3 deg. to 4 deg. inclusive.
6,015.4 feet of curve 4 deg. to 5 deg. inclusive.
11,123.3 feet of curve 5 deg. to 6 deg. inclusive.
1,894.3 feet of curve 6 deg. to 7 deg. inclusive.
7,637.4 feet of curve 7 deg. to 8 deg. inclusive.
1,318.3 feet of curve 9 deg. 30 min. inclusive.
4,663.1 feet of curve 10 deg. inclusive.

Total, 414,933.7 feet or 78 59.100 miles.

Minimum radius, 573.7 feet.

That this section of seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths (78 59-100) miles is laid entirely with steel rails. That all the steel is of American manufacture and of the best quality; and that the road is of the gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches (4 ft. 8½ in.); that the rails weigh not less than fifty (50) pounds per lineal yard; that all the joints are made with fish plates, and all the rails are fastened with four spikes to each tie; that there are nine (9) sidings, having an aggregate length of 10, 493 feet, each of them connected with the main track, at both ends, with good switches, and one siding 1,669 feet long connected with the main track at one end with a good switch; that there is one turntable track, 274 feet long, connected with the main track with a good switch; that there are 2,640 ties per mile (or a bearing surface equivalent to that number of ties) of redwood or red cedar timber, 6 by eight inches by 8 feet long; that the said section is ballasted with a superior quality of sand and gravel, of which the roadbed is composed, no better material being found within very many miles of the line of the railroad.

That the excavations and embankments are in strict conformity to the requirements of law and the instructions.

That there are fifty-six (56) bridges, all built on pile foundations, as follows:

1 bridge	240 feet long,	15 spans,	16 feet each.
2 bridges	128 feet long,	8 spans,	16 feet each.
2 bridges	112 feet long,	7 spans,	16 feet each.
2 bridges	96 feet long,	6 spans,	16 feet each.
6 bridges	80 feet long,	5 spans,	16 feet each.
9 bridges	64 feet long,	4 spans,	16 feet each.
2 bridges	48 feet long,	3 spans,	16 feet each.
10 bridges	32 feet long,	2 spans,	16 feet each.
22 bridges	16 feet long,	1 span,	16 feet each.

Total, 56 bridges.

That there are one hundred and one (101) culverts, as follows:

20 culverts	1 ft. by	1 ft.,	box of redwood.
1 culvert	1 ft. by	1½ ft.,	box of redwood.
10 culverts	1 ft. by	1 ft.,	box of redwood.
38 culverts	2 ft. by	2 ft.,	box of redwood.
9 culverts	2 ft. by	3 ft.,	box of redwood.
6 culverts	3 ft. by	4 ft.,	box of redwood.
1 culvert	4 ft. by	5 ft.,	box of redwood.
11 culverts	4 ft.		open of redwood.
2 culverts	6 ft.		open of redwood.
3 culverts	8 ft.		open of redwood.

Total, 101 culverts.

No stone suitable for building purposes could be found, generally along the line of the road, in places that were reasonably accessible. It would, in consequence of the rough and mountainous character of part of the country passed through, require a haul by wagon of at least ten miles to get a proper quality of stone to the points on the road where it could have been used, although in some instances a few ledges of rock might be found where the distances in a direct line would be much less.

The timber used in the construction of the bridges, culverts, and bridge abutments is the most durable the country can afford, being the black or coast redwood or red cedar (the same used for ties), well known on the Pacific Coast and universally sought after on account of its great durability and resistance to decay. We have, however, the assurances of the managers and directors that the culverts and bridge abutments will be rebuilt in stone when and as the same may become necessary and suitable material can be found within a reasonable distance of the line of the road.

That in this section of seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths (78 59-100) miles there are three tunnels, having an aggregate length of 7,563 2-10 feet, viz:

Tunnel No. 18, situated 23 miles from the commencement of this section, 264.1 feet in length; all of which is on a 9 deg. 30 min. curve.

Tunnel No. 19, situated 22 6-10 miles from the commencement of this section, 332.6 feet in length; all of which is on a tangent.

Tunnel No. 20 (the San Fernando tunnel), situated five (5) miles from the commencement of this section, 6,966.5 feet in length; all of which is on a tangent.

These tunnels, being excavated through soft rock, required lining. They are well and substantially timbered throughout with best quality of coast redwood or Puget Sound cedar, the arch ribs which support the sheeting being in no case more than five feet apart from center to center, and being much nearer wherever the nature of the ground required it.

These tunnels, inside the timbering, have the following dimensions in the clear, viz:

Height from floor to soffit of arch.....20 ft. 10 in.
Height from floor to springing line of arch....12 ft. 10 in.
Width at floor .....14 ft. 00 in.
Width at springing line of arch.....16 ft. 00 in.

That on the 9 deg. 30 min. curve the two latter dimensions are increasing as follows, viz:

Width at floor.....15 ft. 00 in.
Width at springing line of arch.....17 ft. 00 in.

Suitable portals of timber, strongly framed, have been erected at the ends of each of the tunnels, and proper provisions have been made for full and perfect drainage.

No wood or coal houses have been built, and they do not seem to be necessary. The dryness of the atmosphere—there being but a light rainfall in winter, with no rain in summer—and the extreme mildness of the climate, render the use of covering for fuel entirely unnecessary. If, however, fuel houses shall hereafter be found requisite, the officers promise they shall be built immediately.

That there is one coal platform at Ravena, size 19 feet by 139 feet.

That there are seven water tanks, viz: One at Newhall, of 18,000 gallons' capacity, supplied from a well by a windmill.

One at Lang, of 52,000 gallons' capacity, supplied from Santa Clara creek through a pipe 4,450 feet long.

One at Ravena, of 52,000 gallons' capacity, supplied by gravity from a spring distant about 3,000 feet.

One at Acton, of 5,200 gallons' capacity, supplied from a well by a steam engine.

One at Alpine, of 52,000 gallons' capacity, supplied by gravity from a spring 12,350 feet distant.

One at Lancaster, of 52,000 gallons' capacity, supplied from a well by a steam pump.

One at Sand Creek of 52,000 gallons' capacity, supplied from a well by a windmill.

That there are section houses for the accommodation of employees as follows, viz:

One at San Fernando tunnel, size 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet.

Three at Newhall—one 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 14x22 feet; one 12x14 feet.

Three at Lang—one16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 14x22 feet; one 12x14 feet.

Three two miles east of Ravena—one 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 18x20 feet; one 12x14 feet.

Three at Alpine—one 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 14x22 feet; one 12x14 feet.

Three at Lancaster—one 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 14x22 feet; one 12x14 feet.

Three at Sand Creek—one 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 14x22 feet; one 12x14 feet.

That all these houses are sided with rough lumber and covered with shingles, and all of them, except the one at San Fernando tunnel, are painted.

That there are handcar and tool houses along the line of the road as follows, viz:

One at San Fernando tunnel....12x14 feet.
One at Newhall .....12x14 feet.
One at Lang .....12x14 feet.
One at Ravena .....14x20 feet.
One at Alpine .....12x14 feet.
One at Lancaster .....12x14 feet.
One at Sand Creek .....14x20 feet.

All these houses are sided with rough lumber and covered with shingles and all of them are painted, except the one at San Fernando tunnel.

That the sidings and turntable track hereinbefore mentioned are situated as follows, viz:

At San Fernando tunnel, 1 siding, 817 ft., switch at each end.

At San Fernando tunnel, one turntable, 274 ft. of track.

At Andrews, 1 siding, 994½ ft., switch at each end.

At Newhall, 1 siding, 1,167 ft., switch at each end.

At Lang, 1 siding, 1,031½ ft., switch at each end.

At Ravena, 1 siding, 1,121 ft., switch at each end.

At Acton, 1 siding, 1,136 ft., switch at each end.

At Alpine, 1 siding, 1,536 ft., switch at each end.

At Alpine, 1 siding, 1,669 ft., switch at one end.

At Lancaster, 1 siding, 1,400 ft., switch at each end.

At Sand Creek, 1 siding, 1,290 ft., switch at each end.

That for the accommodation of passengers and freight business there are station houses and freight buildings as follows, viz:

At San Fernando tunnel, a passenger and freight house combined, 16 feet by 80 feet, made with rough lumber and covered with shingles, and having platforms 6 feet wide at the front and rear and one of 11 feet wide at one end of the building, and one of 23 feet wide at the other end of it.

At Andrews, a freight house, 18 feet by 30 feet, made with planed lumber, painted, and covered with shingles, and having platforms 10 feet wide at the front and rear and one of 8 feet wide at one end of the building, and one of 22 feet wide at the other end of it.

At Newhall, a station building, consisting of a passenger and freight house combined, 32 feet by 131 feet, made with planed lumber, painted, and covered with shingles, and having platforms 10 feet wide at each side.

At Ravena, a station building, consisting of a passenger and freight house combined, 24 feet by 62 feet, made with planed lumber, painted, and covered with shingles, with platforms 10 feet wide on each side.

That there is at Ravena a sand house 12 feet by 20 feet, made with rough lumber, painted, and covered with shingles.

That there is at San Fernando tunnel an engine house (of one stall), sided with planed lumber, painted, and covered with shingles. This, together with those at Mojave, described below, and at Los Angeles, where the company has built an extensive engine house, and with those at other points on the road, already reported upon, are amply sufficient to meet the present requirements of this section.

That no machine or repair shops have been built on this section. The company has erected at Los Angeles, on section number one of this line, heretofore reported upon, extensive machine and repair shops, which, with those at other points upon the road, also already reported upon, will be amply sufficient to meet all its requirements for some time to come.

Note.—At a point 1,500 feet north of the end of this section of 78 59-100 miles, towit, at "Mojave Station," the company has constructed the following, intended for the use and operation of this section as well as for that of the section immediately north of it, viz:

One station building, consisting of a passenger and freight house combined, 32 feet by 131 1-6 feet, made with rough lumber, painted, and covered with shingles. On three sides of the building there are platforms 10 feet wide. On the fourth side the platform is 50 feet long by 52 feet wide.

Three section houses for accommodation of employees, viz: One 16x30 feet, with wing 12x16 feet; one 14x22 feet, and one 12x14 feet.

Two handcar and tool houses, each 12x14 feet.

One office, 20x40 feet.

One sand house, 24x30 feet.

All these houses are sided with rough lumber, painted, and covered with shingles.

There are also at Mojave:

One engine-house of 15 stalls.

One coal platform, 28x422 feet.

Two water tanks, each of 52,000 gallons' capacity, supplied from a distant spring by gravity.

Five sidings, aggregate length 7,802 feet, switches at each end.

One spur track, 1,223 feet.

One turntable, with 1,014 feet of track.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company owns the following locomotives and cars, which are used on the entire line of its road, which includes this section of seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths miles.

12 dump cars.
9 stone cars.
54 hand cars.
2 wood cars.

The above locomotives and cars are amply sufficient to accommodate present commerce and travel, as this section of 78 59-100 miles runs through a country almost unsettled and undeveloped, affording but little, if any, additional business to the road. The directors say that when and as the same shall become necessary an ample supply of first-class rolling stock and other appurtenances will be provided. That this section of railroad and tele-egraph line was completed and equipped on the fifth day of September, 1876, and that both are first-class.

That said section of seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths miles of railroad and the telegraph line connected therewith, or any part thereof, has not been constructed "on the line of any other railroad route to aid in the construction of which lands have heretofore (prior to July 27, 1866) been granted by the United States."

That the telegraph line is constructed as follows: Not less than 30 redwood poles to the mile. Size at bottom, 8x8 inches; at top, 4x5 inches; length, 24 feet. They are set to a depth of four feet in the ground. Number 9 galvanized wire is used. The office instruments are of the very best quality, of the most improved style, and are furnished by the best manufacturers.

We respectfully recommend the acceptance by the government of the section of seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths (78 59-100) miles of railroad and telegraph line hereinbefore described.

Letter of the Secretary.

Department of the Interior,
Office of the Secretary.
Washington, D. C., 1st March, 1877.

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith for your consideration, and, if deemed proper, for your approval, the report, under date of the seventeenth ultimo, of Messrs. L. M. Foulke, Calvin Brown, and Eugene L. Sullivan, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific Railroad and telegraph line of California. They have examined the fourth section, 78.59 miles of the road, which said company are authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of 3d March, 1871 (16 Stat., 579), to build. Said section begins at a point in the northwest one-quarter of section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, runs northerly, and ends at a point in the northeast one-quarter, section 17, township 11 north, range 12 west, same base and meridian. They report said section as completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph line, also, as completed and first-class. I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of said fourth section, and the issuance to the company constructing it of patents for lands due on account of said construction, agreeably to the provisions of law.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obt. servant,

CHARLES T. GORHAM

Acting Secretary.

The President.

Ex. No. 33.

Report.

San Francisco, California,

December 6, 1877.

To Hon. Carl Schurz, Secretary of the Interior of the United States of America:

Sir: We, the undersigned, commissioners of the United States, appointed to examine the fifth (5) section of one hundred and eighteen and thirty-seven one-hundredths (118 37-100) miles of the railroad and telegraph line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, authorized by the twenty-third (23) section of the act of Congress entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, commencing at the termination of section number three (3) of said railroad, at a point in the southwest one-quarter (S. W. ¼) of section twenty-four (24), in township five (5) south of range (7) seven east, San Bernardino base and meridian, and running thence in a southeasterly direction along the line of said railroad and ending at the termination of the one hundred and eighteenth and thirty-seven one-hundredth (118.37) mile from commencement at the southern boundary of the State of California, in the center of the Colorado River, at a point which would be, if the United States land surveys were extended into said river, in the southeast one-quarter (S. E. ¼) of section twenty-six (26), in township sixteen (16) south, of range twenty-two (22) east, San Bernardino base and meridian, certify that we have carefully examined such section and that the alignment and grades are as represented on the accompanying maps and profile, and are such as, in view of the capabilities of the ground, the government should accept as first-class:

That in this distance (118.37 miles) there are:

139,448.1 feet of level line.
96,500 feet of grades 0 to 5 feet per mile.
112,800 feet of grades 5 to 10 feet per mile.
115,100 feet of grades 10 to 15 feet per mile.
58,700 feet of grades 15 to 20 feet per mile.
33,100 feet of grades 20 to 25 feet per mile.
22,700 feet of grades 25 to 30 feet per mile.
7,437.2 feet of grades 30 to 35 feet per mile.
7,000 feet of grades 35 to 40 feet per mile.
7,300 feet of grades 40 to 45 feet per mile.
3,086.6 feet of grades 45 to 50 feet per mile.
21,797.3 feet of grade 50 to 52 8-10 feet per mile.

Total, 624,969.2 feet, or one hundred and eighteen .37 miles.

Maximum grade 52 8-10 feet per mile.

That also in this distance (118.37) miles there are—

572,077 feet of straight line.
9,802.5 feet of curve 0° 20′
29,442.9 feet of curve 0° 30′
2,562.2 feet of curve 1° 30′
4,274.9 feet of curve 2°
4,144.0 feet of curve 2° 40′
483.5 feet of curve 3°
1,444.8 feet of curve 4°
737.2 feet of curve 9°

Total, 624,969.2 feet, or one hundred and eighteen .37 miles.

Minimum radius 637.27 feet.

That said section of one hundred and eighteen and thirty-seven one-hundredths (118.37) miles is laid with steel rails; that all the steel is of American manufacture and of the best quality; that the road is of the gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches (4 ft. 8½ in); that the rails weigh not less than fifty (50) pounds per lineal yard; that all the joints are made with fish plates and all the rails are fastened with four spikes to each tie; that there are nine sidings, having an aggregate length of 13,078 feet, each of them connected with the main track at both ends with good switches, and four (4) sidings, having an aggregate length of seven hundred and ten (710) feet, connected with the main track at one end with a good switch; that there are two (2) turntable tracks, having an aggregate length of eleven hundred and sixty-one (1,161) feet, each connected with the main track by means of a good switch; that there are 2,640 ties per mile (or a bearing surface equivalent to that number of ties) of redwood or red cedar timber 6 by 8 inches by 8 feet long; that the said section is ballasted with a superior quality of sand and gravel of which the roadbed is composed, no better material being found within very many miles of the line of the railroad. When more suitable materials shall be found within a reasonable distance we have the assurance of the officers that the road will, if necessary be reballasted.

That the excavations and the embankments arein strict conformity to the requirements of law and instructions.

That these is one (1) straining beam bridge across the Colorado river, 668 feet in length, consisting of six (6) fixed spans of 80 feet each resting upon piled foundations, and of one (1) pivot drawbridge having two (2) spans of ninety-three feet seven inches each. The pivot pier is constructed in the most substantial manner and is founded on rock upon the southern bank of the river. Two hundred and fifty-seven feet (257) feet of the north end of this bridge are included in this section of 118.37 miles.

That there are also 123 trestle bridges, all built on pile foundations, as follows:

1 bridge	640 feet long,	40 spans, 16 feet each.
1 bridge	272 feet long,	17 spans 16 feet each.
1 bridge	256 feet long,	16 spans 16 feet each.
3 bridges	208 feet long,	13 spans 16 feet each.
2 bridges	176 feet long,	11 spans 16 feet each.
1 bridge	160 feet long,	10 spans 16 feet each.
1 bridge	112 feet long,	7 spans 16 feet each.
4 bridges,	96 feet long,	6 spans 16 feet each.
10 bridges	80 feet long,	5 spans 16 feet each.
5 bridges	64 feet long,	4 spans 16 feet each.
9 bridges	48 feet long,	3 spans 16 feet each.
36 bridges	32 feet long,	2 spans 16 feet each.
48 bridges	16 feet long,	1 span 16 feet each.
1 bridge	10 feet long,	1 span 10 feet each.

Total, 123 trestle bridges.

There are 329 culverts, as follows:

	ft.		ft.
7 culverts	1	x	1	box of redwood.
29 culverts	1	x	2	box of redwood.
132 culverts	2	x	2	box of redwood.
135 culverts	2	x	3	box of redwood.
22 culverts	3	x	3	box of redwood.
4 culverts	3	x	4	box of redwood.

Total, 329 culverts.

No stone suitable for building purposes could be found within a distance of ten (10) miles of the railroad. The material used in the construction of the bridges, culverts, and bridge abutments is the most durable the country can afford, being the black or coast redwood or red cedar (the same used for ties), well known on the Pacific coast and universally sought after on account of its great durability and resistance to decay. We have, however, the assurances of the managers and directors that the culverts and bridge abutments will be rebuilt in stone when and as the same may become necessary and suitable material can be found within a reasonable distance of the line of the road.

No wood or coal houses have been built and they do not seem to be necessary. The dryness of the atmosphere, there being but a very little rainfall in winter, with no rain in summer, and the extreme mildness of the climate render the use of covering for fuel entirely unnecessary. If, however, fuel houses shall hereafter be found requisite the officers promise that they shall be built immediately.

That no coal platforms have yet been erected on this section of 118.37 miles (one 20 x 150 feet has been built at Yuma 2,800 feet south of the end of this section, the same to be used in the operation of this part of the railroad).

That there are two water tanks, each of 52,000-gallon capacity, as follows, viz:

One at Walters, supplied from a well by a steam pump.

One at Colorado river, supplied from the river by steam pump.

That there are twenty-one (21) section houses for the accommodation of employees, as follows, viz:

Three at Walters: One 14 x 40 feet, with wings 10 x 16 feet sided with planed lumber. One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

Three at Dos Palmos: One 14 x 40 feet with wing 10 x 16 feet, sided with planed lumber. One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

Three at Volcano: One 14 x 40 feet, with wing 10 x 16 feet, sided with planed lumber. One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

Three at 0.76 mile north of Flowing Well: One 14 x 40 feet with wing 10 x 16 feet, sided with planed lumber. One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

Three at Mammoth Tank: One 14 x 40 feet with wing 10 x 16 feet, sided with planed lumber. One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

Three at 2.58 miles south of Mesquite: One 14 x 40 feet, with wing 10 x 16 feet, sided with planed lumber.

One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

Three at 7.25 miles south of Cactus: One 14 x 40 feet with wing 10 x 16 feet, sided with planed lumber. One 18 x 20 feet of rough lumber. One 12 x 14 feet of rough lumber.

All of the above-described section houses are painted and covered with shingles, and each of them is provided with a double roof painted.

That there are seven (7) hand-cars and tool-houses on this section along the line of the road, viz:

One at Walters: Size 14 x 20 feet.

One at Dos Palmos: Size 14 x 20 feet.

One at Volcano: Size 14 x 20 feet.

One 0.76 mile north of Flowing Well: Size 14 x 20 feet.

One at Mammoth Tank: Size 14 x 20 feet.

One at a point 2.58 miles south of Mesquite: Size 14 x 20 feet.

One at a point 7.25 miles south of Cactus: Size 14 x 20 feet.

All of these houses are sided with rough lumber, painted and covered with shingles.

That the siding and turntable tracks, hereinbefore mentioned are situated as follows, viz:

At Walters, one siding, 1,815 feet with good switch at each end.

At Dos Palmos, one siding, 1,171 feet with good switch at each end.

At Frinks Spring, one siding, 1,291 feet with good switch at each end.

At Flowing Well, one siding, 1,652 feet with good switch at each end.

At Fortuga, one siding, 1,500 feet with good switch at each end.

At Mammoth Tank, one siding, 917 feet with good switch at each end.

At Mesquite, one siding, 2,619 feet with good switch at each end.

At Cactus, one siding, 900 feet with good switch at each end.

At Pilot Knob, one siding, 1,213 feet with good switch at each end.

At Dos Palmos, one turntable, and track 331 feet in length.

At Pilot Knob, one turntable, and track 830 feet in length.

No passenger stations or freight buildings have been built on this section of 118.37 miles, and none are required for this railroad passes through the Colorado Desert, which is uninhabitable and without commerce of any kind.

(Note.—At a point 2,800 feet south of the end of this section, towit, at Yuma station in Arizona territory, that there is in course of construction by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company one station building consisting of a passenger and freight house combined 32 feet by 100 feet, to be built of planed lumber, and to be painted and covered with shingles, and to have platforms on each side the whole length of the building, and ten feet wide.

Also that there at said station (Yuma) the following structures, which have been completed.

One freight house, for the accommodation of river freight, 32 feet by 90 feet.

One engine house of seven stalls.

One sand house 18 x 35 feet.

One water tank of 52,000 gallons capacity, supplied from the Colorado river by a steam pump.

One coal platform 20 feet by 150 feet.

That there are also at Yuma:

Five sidings having an aggregate length of 5,562 feet, connected with the main track by good switches at each end.

One spur track 1,100 feet in length, connected to the main track with a good switch.

One turntable, with 750 feet of track, connected with main track by a good switch.

These buildings, water tank, platform, etc., are constructed for and intended to be used in the operation of this section of 118.37 miles as well as for that of the section of railroad immediately south of it in the territory of Arizona.

That no locomotive stalls or engine houses, machine or repair shops have been built on this section, the extensive ones at Los Angeles and at other points on the line heretofore reported upon and those above-mentioned at Yuma, Arizona territory, being amply sufficient to meet its present requirements. If others shall become necessary the officers inform us they will be built when and as they shall be required. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company owns the following locomotives and cars which are used on the entire line of its railroad, which includes this section of 118.37 miles.

The above locomotives and cars are more than sufficient for present business and requirements, and no more will be needed for some considerable time to come. The road traverses a section of country thinly settled by a population that has hardly any commerce, and in consequence business must necessarily be for a time very limited and unprofitable. As the road advances it is hoped that immigration and settlement of the lands will be attracted and the resources and commerce of the country developed to such an extent that when, eventually, connection shall be made with the main line from the Eastern States there will be enough of freight and travel to establish at least a paying business. The directors say that when and as the same shall become necessary an ample supply of first class rolling stock and other appurtenances will be provided.

That this section of railroad and telegraph line are both first class.

That said section of one hundred and eighteen and thirty-seven one-hundredths (118.37) miles of railroad and telegraph line connected therewith, or any part thereof, has not been constructed "on the line of any other railroad route to aid in the construction of which lands have heretofore (prior to July 27, 1866) been granted by the United States."

That the telegraph line is constructed as follows: Not less than 30 redwood poles to the mile; size at bottom, 8 by 8 inches; at top 4 by 5 inches; length 24 feet; they are set to a depth of four feet in the ground. Number 9 galvanized wire is used. The office instruments are of the very best quality, of the most improved style, and are furnished by the best manufacturers.

We recommend the acceptance by the government of the section of one hundred and eighteen and thirty-seven one-hundredths miles of railroad and telegraph line hereinbefore described.

Respectfully submitted.

Letter of the Secretary.

Department of the Interior.
Office of the Secretary,
Washington, D. C., 19th January, 1878.

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith for your consideration the report, under date of the 6th ultimo of Messrs. Eugene L. Sullivan, Andrew S. Bender, and Zebulon B. Sturgus, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific Railroad and Telegraph line of California.

They have examined the fifth section of what is known as the branch line of said road, authorized by the twenty-third section of the Act of 3d March, 1871, incorporating the Texas Pacific Railroad Company (16 Stat., 579). Said section is 118.37 miles in length. It begins at a point in the southwest quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, San Bernardino base and meridian; runs southeastward and ends in the center of the Colorado river at a point which, if the United States surveys were extended into said river, would be in the southeast quarter of section 26, township 16 south, range 22 east, same base and meridian.

The commissioners report said section as completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph line also as complete and first-class.

Said twenty-third section of the Act of 1871 authorizes the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California to construct its road "to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river." The Texas Pacific Railroad not having been constructed at or near said river, the point of contact of said roads has not been ascertained, except as to the fact that it is within the Fort Yuma military reservation.

In view of your action last autumn in relation to said Southern Pacific Railroad's crossing said reservation, I have the honor to recommend that said section examined and reported on be accepted from the point of beginning to the point where the road intersects the western boundary of said reservation, which is represented on the map accompanying said report as a point in the southeast quarter of northeast quarter section 27, township 16 south, range 22 east, San Bernardino base and meridian, and that patents for lands due on account of construction, according to provisions of law, issue to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your ob't servant,

C. SCHURZ,
Secretary.

The President.

[Endorsed]: The secretary of the Interior. 19th January, 1878. Submits report of commissioners on the fifth section; 118.37 miles of Southern Pacific Railroad, authorized by act of 3d March, 1871, and recommends that the road examined be accepted from the beginning of said section to the point where it crosses the western boundary of Ft. Yuma military reservation, California.

Approval by the President.

Executive Mansion, January 23, 1878.

The recommendations of the Secretary of the Interior are hereby approved. The section of railroad is accepted between the points designated by him, and lands will be patented to the company accordingly.

New York, November 1, 1893.

Appearances: Joseph H. Call, Esq., for complainant, Joseph D. Redding, Esq., for defendants; and Patrick A. Nolan, Esq., notary public.

Mr. NOLAN: Pursuant to a notice, of which the following is a copy:

Please take notice that the defendants herein will take the testimony of F. A. Fogg, J. Blickensderfer, Jr., E. N. Robinson, Morris Speyer, C. P. Huntington, I. E. Gates, J. A. Williamson, and others, each and all of whom reside and live more than one hundred (100) miles from the place of trial herein and more than one hundred (100) miles from any place at which the Circuit Court of the United States, for the Ninth Circuit, Southern District of California is appointed to be held by law, at the final hearing for the use on behalf of the defendants before Patrick A. Nolan, a notary public in and for the city and county of New York, State of New York, who is not attorney nor of counsel, nor interested in this case, at the office of Charles H. Tweed, Esq., 7th floor, Mills Building, New York, in the said city of New York, and State of New York, November 1, 1893, at 11 o'clock A. M., and thereafter, from day to day, as the taking of the depositions may be adjourned, and such testimony will be so taken in accordance with the provisions of sections 863, 864, and 865 of the Revised Statutes of the United States and the equity rules.

Dated at San Francisco, October, 1893.

To George J. Denis, Esq., United States Attorney and Solicitor for the complainant in the above-entitled action, and to Joseph H. Call, Esq., Special United States attorney and solicitor for complainant and of counsel.

Endorsed]: Received a copy of within notice, October 7, 1893, at San Francisco, Cal., but not admitting any right to take testimony of said witnesses as mentioned, nor in manner mentioned.

JOSEPH H. CALL,
Special Assistant United States Attorney, Southern District of California.

There now appear before me on this, the first day of November, A. D. 1893, in the city and county of New York, State of New York, Mr. Joseph H. Call, representing the complainant in the above-entitled action, and Mr. Joseph D. Redding, representing the defendants in the above-entitled action, for the purpose of taking testimony on behalf of the defendants, and in pursuance of the said notice.

Thereupon the following proceedings were taken and had before me, Patrick A. Nolan, notary public in and for the city, county and State of New York.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Call, is it agreeable to you that Mr. Nolan shall employ a stenographer who shall reduce the questions and answers to writing, on behalf of the notary, Mr. Nolan, which questions and answers, when so reduced to writing and signed by the witness, will have the same force and effect as if reduced to writing by the notary himself in the presence of the witness; and I would further state that, if satisfactory to you, Mr. Call, and until you make objections to the party chosen, I am agreeable that Mr. C. H. Aron may act as the stenographer for the notary, but if you wish another stenographer I am perfectly agreeable that any one that you deem sufficient, provided he be competent, shall be used by the notary in taking and transcribing the testimony.

Mr. CALL.—Without waiving any objections to the jurisdiction of Mr. Patrick A. Nolan to take testimony in this case, I will state that I have no objection to Mr. Aron taking the testimony as stenographer, with the same effect as if it had been personally reduced to writing by Mr. Nolan, subject to the stipulation that, upon objection being made by counsel for either party, another stenographer may be selected by the parties.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Nolan, are you a notary public for the city, and county, and State of New York.

Mr. NOLAN.—Yes, sir.

Mr. REDDING.—By whom appointed?

Mr. NOLAN.—By the governor.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Call, will you admit that Mr. Patrick A. Nolan is a duly appointed, and now acting under authority, notary public in and for the city and county of New York, State of New York?

Mr. CALL.—Yes.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Call, I desire to give notice that I will take the testimony of Mr. William Salomon, one of the members of the firm of Messrs. Speyer & Company; that I will take his testimony on behalf of the defendants before Mr. Nolan, notary public, in the Mills Building, New York, on Thursday, the second day of November, 1893, at three P. M. I would further state that to-day, being the first of the month and a day of great financial rush and importance in the city of New York, the several witnesses that I have named in my notice, whose testimony we were to commence taking to-day, I find impossible to be present without great embarrassment on their part, and consequently I will ask that the taking of the testimony be adjourned by the notary until to-morrow at three P. M.

Mr. CALL.—I will meet you here at three o'clock to-morrow.

Adjourned, accordingly to to-morrow, Thursday, November 2, 1893, at three o'clock P. M.

New York, November 2, 1893.

Met pursuant to adjournment. Present: Counsel as before.

Adjourned, at the request and on account of the illness of Mr. Call, to-morrow, November 3, 1893, at three o'clock P. M.

Testimony of defendants resumed, November 3, 1893. Present: Mr. Call, representing the complainant; Mr. Redding, representing the defendants, and Mr. P. A. Nolan, notary.

WILLIAM SALOMON, Esq., a witness called on behalf of the defendants, being duly sworn by the notary, in accordance with the provisions of the sections of the Revised Statutes of the United States appertaining thereto, testifies as follows:

By Mr. REDDING.—Q. 1. What is your name, Mr. Salomon? A. William Salomon.

Q. 2. And what is your occupation? A. Banking.

Q. 3. With what firm are you connected?

A. Speyer & Company.

Q. 4. How long have you been connected with the firm of Speyer & Company?

A. About twenty-five years.

Q. 5. Will you state, in general, what the nature of the business is that is transacted by that firm and by yourself in connection with it?

A. It is in large part the purchase of railroad and other loans, with a view to selling those loans—as a rule, under what is called a prospectus, with the name of the firm attached to it.

Q. 6. Do you deal with the general public in the loans and business you have mentioned?

A. We deal with the general public in the countries where we make, either directly or indirectly, the so-called issues, under prospectus, of bonds. We sell our bonds to anybody—whether known to us or unknown to us—who, on reading our prospectus or hearing of the issues, may choose to buy securities which we offer.

Q. 7. Will you state what countries you transact business in?

A. The partners in the firm of Speyer & Company, excepting two, resident in this city, are partners in a firm in London, England, and in a firm in Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany. They are also pecuniarily interested in a firm in Amsterdam, Holland, and the issues of bonds bought by Speyer & Company are generally made in one, two, three or four of the cities in question.

Q. 8. Those cities include New York and other portions of the United States?

A. They include New York; they are New York, London, Frankfort, Amsterdam, (Holland). In connection with the issues which are made in those places by our own partners, practically also issues are made in other cities of this country as well as Europe.

Q. 9. As a member of the firm of Speyer & Company, are you familiar with the trust mortgage of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, trustees, dated April 1, 1875?

Mr. CALL.—Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence in the matter sought to be adduced. And, Mr. Redding, I will ask you to make the usual stipulation, that where objections are made to any question propounded to any witness during this examination before Mr. Nolan, the stenographer, shall repeat the words "same objection" to all subsequent questions until another objection shall be made, with the same effect as if such objection were set out in full; and so on from time to time as each objection shall be made, with the same effect as if the objection were set out in full.

Mr. REDDING.—I am perfectly agreeable that the words "same objection," when inserted by the stenographer, shall include the last stated objection by the counsel, and have the same force and effect as if the last stated objection were repeated in full.

Mr. CALL.—Do you desire me to repeat the objection or allow the stenographer to do it as stated.

Mr. REDDING.—I say, without the necessity of having the objection repeated in full, I am willing that the words "same objection" shall be equivalent to a complete reiteration of the objection in detail.

Mr. CALL.—I will state now to the stenographer that wherever I object to any question, I desire to have him repeat the objection by stating "same objection" until otherwise directed, in each instance.

Mr. REDDING.—Very well.

(Question 9 repeated.)

Answer: I am.

Q. 10. Are you a member of the firm of Speyer & Company?

Same objection.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. Did the firm of Speyer & Company negotiate a sale of bonds of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the trust mortgage referred to?

Same objection.

A. The firm of Speyer & Company issued a prospectus in respect to a portion of the bonds issued under the mortgage referred to.

Q. 12. Have you a copy of that prospectus with you?

Same objection.

A. I have not a copy with me here on my person. I have a copy in the office. This is one of the prospectuses of that issue (referring to paper handed to witness by counsel for defendants).

Mr. REDDING.—The defendants offer in evidence prospectus issued by Messrs. Speyer & Company, of New York, in reference to the issue of a certain amount of the six per cent bonds mentioned in the trust mortgage of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, trustees, dated April 1, 1875, which trust mortgage has heretofore been introduced in evidence in this case, and ask that this exhibit now introduced be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the notary public in New York, No. 1."

The paper is so marked by the notary.

Same objection.

Q. 13. Will you state whether or not the land grant made by Congress to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, of March 3, 1871, was one of the securities offered in connection with said bonds and relied upon in said trust mortgage and prospectus as an inducement for the purchase of said bonds?

Same objection.

A. It was.

Q. 14. Would the firm of Speyer & Company have undertaken the negotiation of these bonds without that security?

Same objection.

A. They would not.

Q. 15. I call your attention to that clause in the prospectus which reads as follows:

"The number of acres of land embraced in the United States land grant, and covered by the mortgage is estimated at upwards of 11,000,000 acres, of which it is stated by the company that over 7,000,000 acres appertain to portions of the road already completed. Of these there have been issued to the company patents for more than one million acres, and lists for selected lands are not pending with the United States government for a large amount."

Were those representations relied upon by you and relied upon by the purchasers of these bonds as a portion of the security upon which the bonds were purchased?

Same objection.

A. They were relied upon by us, and, if our prospectus was relied upon at all by the purchasers of the bonds, it was relied upon by the purchasers of the bonds.

Q. 16. Will you state whether or not these bonds, issued under this trust mortgage heretofore referred to, are held in the open market for value received, by innocent purchasers, and in all of the various localities you have mentioned?

Same objection.

A. The bonds in question are held in England, in Holland, in Germany and in the United States, by the general public, who have bought them upon the prospectus in question, and subsequently; the holding is extremely scattered and it is safe to say has aggregated at times, if not now, approximately $30,000,000.

Q. 17. Are these bonds recognized as a standard security on the market?

Same objection.

A. They are.

Q. 18. And in the various localities you have mentioned?

Same objection.

A. They are.

Q. 19. Will you state whether or not they are dealt with similarly to other bonds issued and negotiated and sold by firms like yourselves?

Same objection.

A. I think I had better say how they are dealt in rather than make a comparison, as there are so many different ways of dealing with bonds under different issues, which I might not know about.

Q. 20. Very well; state it exactly as you wish?

Same objection.

A. The bonds are held more, possibly than usual by serious investors, who hold them for the interest they yield, and, as they may desire to realize the cash or may desire to purchase other securities, they sell them in amounts of anywhere from $1,000 to $100,000, or upwards. They have a market which might be said to be similar to that for United States government bonds, or New York Central bonds or West Shore bonds. They pass from hand to hand, just as people feel disposed to get their cash for them, or exchange them for other securities.

Cross-examined by Mr. CALL:

XQ. 21. For whom did you act in the sale of these bonds?

A. Your question, I suppose, refers to the firm of Speyer & Company?

XQ. 22. Who is your principal; that is, whom did the firm of Speyer & Company act for in the sale of the bonds?

A. In the main Speyer & Company acted for the firm of Speyer & Company, but the firm of Speyer & Company represented, besides themselves, to some extent—to what extent I cannot recall—other financial firms, commonly called members of the syndicate.

XQ. 23. You probably misunderstood my question. For whom did Speyer & Company sell the bonds?

A. I am trying to explain that fully.

XQ. 24. Very well.

A. Furthermore, in the issues of ten millions of bonds, they were including, beyond the amount owned by Speyer & Company, and the so-called members of the syndicate, an amount of option bonds—when I say option bonds I mean bonds upon which Speyer & Company and the members of the syndicate had an option by reason of a firm purchase thereof—

XQ. 25. They had an option to purchase these bonds, did they?

A. They had, by reason of a firm purchase of the bonds—an outright purchase of the bonds—an option to buy further amounts thereof.

XQ. 26. You then purchased, as a firm, some of the bonds yourselves and you sold them as your own bonds—

A. (Interrupting) The facts are these; I will give you the exact facts, which, as I recall them, are that the firm of Speyer & Company made a purchase of a certain amount of these bonds and formed a syndicate to take those bonds over, retaining for the firm of Speyer & Company an interest in said syndicate. The syndicate holding, including Sepeyer & Company, carries with it an option to buy further amounts thereof, which in all amounted to, as well as I remember, the ten million bonds offered under the prospectus.

XQ. 27. From whom did you obtain the option to purchase the bonds?

A. It would be impossible to answer that question exactly without referring to the contracts made at the time. The contracting party might be one or the other of the corporations with which we have dealt, or individuals. It would be impossible for me to tell that without referring to the contracts; but I can say that the negotiations were carried on with Mr. C. P. Huntington, in one of his official capacities—not with him individually.

XQ. 28. You don't know whether it was with him as a director or officer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, or the Pacific Improvement Company?

A. With whom the contract was made I could not tell without reference to the papers drawn at the time, because it is now something like thirteen years ago.

XQ. 29. Who comprised the syndicate which purchased the bonds and sold them?

A. If I desired to give that information it would not be possible to do so, as you can well imagine at this period of time, without reference to books and papers; but I wouldn't give that information unless it was a matter of necessity that I should do so. It discloses the business of Speyer & Company, and while I would not object to naming some parties whom I might remember, unless it was a compulsory matter I should not see fit to disclose, for general public knowledge, my private affairs, or the private affairs of the firm of Speyer & Co., I should say.

Mr. REDDING.—I will state to the witness, on behalf of the defendants, that if the information called for by the government counsel should lead to the necessity of unfolding to the general public the private business of Speyer & Company that does not refer to the general holding of these bonds in the market, I shall advise Mr. Salomon not to answer the question. That of course is a matter which you, Mr. Salomon, can state of your own knowledge whether it be so or not, and upon so stating I would instruct you as the case may be.

The WITNESS.—The information called for does not refer to the general holding of the bonds in the market in any shape or way that I can discover or see. It is simply a matter of an original partnership purchase by the syndicate, which relieved itself of its holding by selling the bonds, through the prospectus in question, to the general public, but the members of the syndicate in question are not known to the general public.

Mr. CALL.—(To Mr. Redding.) I ask you if you rely upon the purchase by the syndicate mentioned, as being a purchase by persons, in good faith and for value, or otherwise?

Mr. REDDING.—I rely on the testimony of the witness given on the direct examination, showing that these bonds are held by the general public, for value received, in open market, similar to United States bonds, and throughout the various monetary centers of the world.

Mr. CALL.—Do you rely upon the purchase by the syndicate as being such a purchase, because if you do I should want to inquire into the purchase by the syndicate.

Mr. REDDING.—I do not; certainly not.

The WITNESS.—I might cover that. I will say that there is no difference between the purchase by Speyer & Company and the purchase by the syndicate. I was asked a question which I couldn't answer by simply saying the purchase was made by Speyer & Company and tell the truth. The purchase was made by Speyer & Company, but subsequently divided among the syndicate for the purpose of dividing the risk, but the purchase by the general public has absolutely nothing to do with it. To the general public it was an anonymous body. Is that clear.

Mr. REDDING.—That is perfectly clear, and I will state to the counsel for the government that we are trying to show by this witness that these bonds have passed into the possession and holding of the general public for value received.

Mr. CALL.—If the claim is made by the defendants in this action, that the purchase by the syndicate or by Speyer & Company for the syndicate is a purchase in good faith and for value such as claimed, it might be necessary to inquire into the knowledge of the parties and as to who constituted the syndicate. If you waive any such question as that and rely upon the sales by the syndicate, then I will not need to inquire as to who constitute the parties in interest.

Mr. REDDING.—I did not ask the witness anything about the syndicate at all but simply asked about the bonds being sold, for value received, to the general public.

Mr. CALL.—Other than the syndicate?

Mr. REDDING.—Yes.

Cross-examination resumed by Mr. CALL:

XQ. 30. I will ask if Mr. Huntington was one of the syndicate? A. Mr. Huntington was not.

XQ. 31. Was Mr. Charles Crocker one of the syndicate?

A. Mr. Crocker was not one of the syndicate.

XQ. 32. Nor Mr. Mark Hopkins?

A. Nor Mr. Mark Hopkins.

XQ. 33. Was Leland Stanford one of the syndicate?

A. No, sir, he was not. May be I can help you by saying, that to the best of my knowledge, none of the parties interested in the Southern Pacific or any of their companies, was interested in the syndicate.

XQ. 34. So far as you know?

A. This purchase was made by bankers and not in partnership with gentlemen who built the road or connected with its management, to the best of my knowledge.

XQ. 35. Can you name the parties to whom you sold these bonds, or any of them?

A. Not at this date. I can say that the bulk of these bonds, when sold under the prospectus in question, were sold in Europe—were sold in London, in Amsterdam and in Frankfort-on-the-Main. There were hardly any bonds subscribed for in the city of New York or in the city of Boston at that time, except one amount of bonds which was subscribed for, but subsequently rebought, therefore the name of that party wil probably not interest you, although that is the one name that I could give you. If you wish to know it I can tell it, but I don't think it bears upon the matter.

XQ. 36. Do you know whether any of the purchasers of these bonds were, of their own knowledge, acquainted with the terms and conditions off the mortgage or deed of trust of 1875?

A. You mean beyond the information contained in the prospectus in question?

XQ. 37. Yes?

A. That I cannot tell you. My most positive belief is they were not acquainted with any other facts than those set forth in the prospectus in question.

XQ. 38. Do you know whether any of the purchasers were acquainted with the terms and conditions of the act of Congress, approved March 3, 1871?

Mr. REDDING.—Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and not proper cross-examination; as calling for the opinion of the witness upon a matter with which he could not be familiar nor could he be competent to testify to.

Answer. My previous answer would cover that question.

XQ. 39. Do you know, or did you know at the time of the sale of these bonds, when the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the mortgagor therein named, was incorporated?

Same objection.

A. The date of the incorporation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California? I have every reason to believe that was a fact known to the firm of Speyer & Company, inasmuch as the issue of the bonds and the drawing of the prospectus was only possible after most thorough and careful examination and investigation of all facts pertaining to the question of value, and legal shape—legal position, you might say.

XQ. 40. Did you know that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the mortgagor, was incorporated by the consolidation of a number of other railroad companies subsequent to the act of Congress of March 3, 1871?

Mr. REDDING.—Same objection, and the further objection that the government counsel is stating in his question a legal opinion of his own, and I move that that portion of the question be stricken from the record.

A. I can't answer that question in any other language, I think, than the previous answer given.

XQ. 41. That is, that you assume that you did know in regard to it?

Same objection.

A. I must assume that. I can't be expected, about thirteen years later, to be able to recite every fact that was then in my knowledge in connection with a large matter of this kind, or the knowledge of other members of my firm. What you ask me is a physical impossibility.

XQ. 42 I believe you stated that you were familiar with the terms and conditions of the mortgage or deed of trust, dated 1875, to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis. Did you so state? A. As I remember it, I did.

XQ. 43. What lands did you understand were granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, upon which it was sought to make a mortgage?

A. The lands coming under the description in that mortgage.

XQ. 44. The description of the lands in the mortgage?

A. Exactly.

XQ. 45. I will ask you to point out what that description of the lands is which contains the lands in question?

A. I don't know anything about the suit. (Referring to the trust mortgage.) The description begins at the foot of page third of the trust mortgage and covers a portion of page 4.

XQ. 46. Did you know that Congress had made a grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company of California.

Same objection.

A. I am unable to answer that question at this date.

XQ. 47. Can you state what investigations were made by any of the proposed purchasers of bonds, or purchasers of bonds, in regard to the title of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to any particular lands?

Same objection.

A. What do you mean by purchasers of the bonds?

XQ. 48. Persons to whom you sold bonds?

A. What we call the general public.

XQ. 49. Yes.

A. I think I have answered that question under another answer.

XQ. 50. You might just state then what it was.

A. As I remember, the answer was, to the best of my knowledge, these bonds were bought by the general public upon the statements made in the prospectus mentioned. The prospectus mentioned referred to the trust mortgage which, I think the prospectus says, was on file and could be referred to, if desired, but I doubt very much whether any reference was made to it as the prospectus gave a general description of it.

Adjourned to Monday, November 6, 1893, at 11 o'clock A. M.

[Endorsed] Opened and filed Dec. 20, 1893. Wm. M. Van Dyke, Clerk.

Issue of $10,000,000 six per cent first mortgage railroad and land gold bonds of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California.

In bonds to bearer of $1,000 and $500 each, with provision for Registration of bonds in the name of holder if desired. Issued April 1, 1875; October 1, 1875, and October 1, 1876, and payable thirty years from date.

Interest at six per cent per annum, payable half-yearly on the first of April and first of October, in gold, at New York.

Messrs. Speyer & Co., New York;
Messrs. Brewster, Basset & Co., Boston;
Mr. Laz. Speyer Ellissen, Frankfort-on-Main;
Messrs. Speyer Brothers, London;
Messrs. Tiexeira de Mattos Bros., Amsterdam;
Mr. E. J. Meyer, Berlin; offer of above bonds for subscriptions.

The subscription list will be opened on Thursday, eleventh of March, and closed on Friday, twelfth of March.

The issue price is ninety-seven and one-half per cent ex. April 1, 1880, coupon, payable as follows:

5 per cent on application.
15 per cent on allotment.
40 per cent on April 15, 1880.
37½ per cent on May 15, 1880.

Allottees may anticipate installments under discount at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on the railroad and telegraph line, rolling stock, fixtures, land and franchises of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, under which $46,000,000 bonds can be issued, of which $29,520,000 (of which the above $10,000,000 are a part) have thus far been issued. The total length of projected road is 1,150 miles, made up as follows: From San Francisco to Soledad, 143 miles; Carnadero to Tres Pinos, 18 miles; Soledad to Poso Junction (Lerdo), 160 miles; Huron to Yuma, 529 miles; Los Angeles to Wilmington, 22 miles; Mohave Junction to Colorado river (estimated), 278 miles; of which 712 miles are completed and in operation, viz: From San Francisco to Soledad, 143 miles; Carnadero to Tres Pinos, 18 miles; Huron to Yuma, 529 miles; Los Angeles to Wilmington, 22 miles.

These 712 miles of railroad are divided into the Northern and Southern Divisions.

The Northern Division runs from San Francisco to Soledad, and from Carnadero to Tres Pinos, in all 161 miles.

The Southern Division extends from Huron to Yuma, with a branch road from Los Angeles to Wilmington, in all 551 miles, and is intersected at Goshen by the San Joaquin branch of the General Pacific Railroad.

The net earnings over operating expenses for these divisions are stated by the company to have been:

	For the Northern Division:	For the Southern Division, through Rental from Central Pacific Railroad Company, lessee:	Total.
1878	$499,344 03	$1,656,360 00	$2,155,704 03
1879	362,761 78	1,635,554 93	1,998,316 71

or more than sufficient to meet the interest on the amount of outstanding bonds.

The company states that the decrease in the earnings of the Northern Division in 1879, was owing in part to temporary causes, which having been recently removed, a return to the former scale of earnings is promised.

The Northern Division is separated from the Southern Division by a gap of about 100 miles by one route, from Tres Pinos to Huron, and by a gap of about 160 miles by another route, from Soledad to Poso Junction. The San Joaquin Valley branch of the Central Pacific Railroad, furnishes the Southern Division with an outlet both to San Francisco and eastwardly over the main line of the Central Pacific Railroad, and, in view of common interests, the Central Pacific Railroad Company has taken a lease of the Southern Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, for a period of not less than five years from January, 1880, and by the terms of the lease 'if a railroad is not completed in five years from that date, so that there is a connection of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California with the eastern system of railroads on what is known as the thirty-second parallel line, the lease shall be extended until such connection is made, provided such extension does not exceed five years longer, or ten years in all," from January, 1880. By the terms of the lease, "the net rental agreed to be paid during the continuance of this lease and any extension thereof, shall be two hundred and fifty dollars a month, or three thousand dollars per year per mile" (being, at present, on about 551 miles, equals about $1,650,000 annual rental), "and if, for any cause, it shall be reduced by mutual consent of the parties that the annual amount of such rental as reduced shall, at least, be sufficient to pay all the interest that has been or may be agreed to be, paid in one year on any bonds of the party of the first part" (Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California), "herein outstanding during the continuance of the lease."

The number of acres of land embraced in the United States land grant, and covered by the mortgage is estimated at upwards of 11,000,000 acres, of which it is stated by the company that over 7,000,000 acres appertain to portions of the road already completed. Of these there have been issued to the company patents for more than one million acres, and lists for selected lands are now pending with the United States government for a large amount. The net cash avails of the land sales are to be applied to the repurchase or ultimate payment of these bonds; $334,000 are stated by the company to have been redeemed up to December 31, 1879, from the surplus so available.

A sinking fund of $100,000 a year, commencing in 1882, from the earnings of the road is provided as a further security for the loan.

It is contemplated that the Southern Pacific Railroad of California will form part of a through line to El Paso where, meeting with other roads projected to that point, an outlet to the Gulf of Mexico, and to the Atlantic seaboard may be obtained. At its terminus at Yuma it connects with the Southern Pacific Railroad of Arizona, an independenet, but closely affiliated company, which during the past year was built and operated to Casa Grande, a distance of about 182½ miles, and is since being rapidly pushed to the vicinity of Tucson, about 65 miles further east.

Applications must be made on the annexed form.

The allotment of the loan, which will be made at the discretion of the issuing houses, will be made as early as possible after the subscription is closed. If no allotment is made, the deposit will be returned in full, and if only a portion of the amount applied for be allotted, the balance of the deposit will be applied towards the payment of the amount due on allotment.

In default of payment of the sum due on allotment, or any subsequent installments, the allotments and all payments will be subject to forfeiture.

Upon payment of the deposit on allotment, scrip certificates to bearer will be issued, which will be exchanged for definite bonds as soon as the issue price is paid up.

The mortgage deed, copy of lease and official statements can be inspected, by intending subscribers, at the office of Speyer & Co., 52 Exchange Place, New York, or Messrs. Brewster, Basset & Co., 35 Congress street, Boston.

Defendant's Exhibit No. 105.

Testimony of JEROME MADDEN.

JEROME MADDEN, called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Where do you reside?

A. In San Francisco.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. I am the land commissioner or land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Call, will you agree that Mr. Madden is the duly appointed land agent, or do you wish that I should procure his appointment?

Mr. CALL.—I wish you to make proof of whatever is essential.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Have you with you your authority, or the authorization, making you land agent?

A. I have. (Producing.)

Q. Have you also a copy of any resolution of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. I have. (Producing.)

Mr. REDDING.—The defendants offer the following certified copy of a resolution of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, appointing Jerome Madden land agent of the company.

(It is stipulated and agreed between counsel that a copy of said paper may be made by the special examiner and inserted in this record, and the original paper here offered in evidence may be returned to the possession of the witness. The certified copy is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 1," and the following is a copy of same:

Appointment.

"Secretary's Office.

"Southern Pacific Railroad Company,

"San Francisco, May 10, 1876.

"I, J. L. Willcutt, secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, do hereby certify that at a meeting of the board of directors of said company, held this day, the following resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote:

"Resolved and ordered that Jerome Madden be, and he is, hereby appointed the land agent of this company for the purpose of selling or contracting to sell its lands in the State of California, or in any other State or Territory of the U. S., and to manage, conduct, and carry on the business of its land office. And he is hereby authorized and empowered as such land agent to sign his name for this company to such contracts, agreements, and other documents or papers as may or shall be requisite and necessary for the full, complete, and effectual transaction of all the business aforesaid.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the corporate seal of the said company.

"J. L. WILLCUTT,

"Secretary S. P. R. R. Co."

[Seal of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.]

Mr. REDDING.—Q. What is the date of that commission, if you please? A. May 10, 1876.

Q. Have you been land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from that date down to the present time? A. I have.

Q. And are you still the land agent?

A. I am still the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Q. Were you in the employ of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants herein, prior to 1876? A. I was.

Q. In what capacity? A. As deputy land agent.

Q. For how long a period of time were you in that capacity?

A. About one year before that, and before that time, without being regularly deputized, I was an assistant in the office of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company's land department.

Q. Then your employment in the land department of the defendant, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, commenced at what time?

A. About the summer of 1871.

Q. Have you been constantly and without intermission in the employ of that corporation ever since?

A. I have.

Q. Are you the custodian of the papers, documents, and records of the defendant, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, in your possession as land agent?

A. I am, that is, all the documents, papers, books, and accounts relating to the lands that were granted to it by the Congress of the United States.

Q. Have you as land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and in its employ, been in correspondence with the various departments of the government of the United States, particularly the interior department.

Same objection.

A. I have been in correspondence with the interior department and sometimes with the Indian department.

Q. Between what years?

Same objection.

A. From the date of my taking charge of the Southern Pacific land office up to the present time.

Q. Has there ever been any change in the corporate relation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as to its identity or its name or its existence from the first date that you have had any connection therewith down to the present time?

Same objection.

A. There never has to my knowledge anywhere, and certainly not in the land department under my charge.

Q. Has any department of the government ever questioned the identity of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the correspondence with you, as being different from what it was when you first commenced your dealings officially with them, as land agent down to the present time?

A. It has not.

Same objection.

A recess was then taken by consent of counsel until 2.30 P. M.

San Francisco, Monday, Sept. 11, 1893, 2.30 P. M.

Direct examination of JEROME MADDEN (resumed).

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Has the interior department of the government of the United States in its dealings with the land department of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants herein, ever called in question the identity of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as being different in any wise from that which existed in 1866 to that which is in existence at the time this suit was brought?

Same objection.

A. It had not and it has not up to the present time.

Q. Do you know whether or not the interior department and the government have recognized the Southern Pacific Railroad Company one of the defendants herein as being one and the same corporation as the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of 1866 and of all of the intermediate time?

Same objection.

A. It has never called in question the identity of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in its dealings with me as land agent; it has always considered it the same as it was in 1866.

Q. Is the same true as to all its dealings with the land department of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

Same objection.

A. It is.

San Francisco, Sept. 18, 1893.

Re-direct examination of JEROME MADDEN (resumed).

Mr. REDDING.—In reference to the effect of the order of withdrawal sent by the interior department of the register and receiver of Los Angeles, and covering the lands involved, under date of April 21, 1871, which order of withdrawal has been introduced in evidence in this case, marked, "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner, No —," this exhibit being a copy of the certified copy of the original, which certified copy of the original is on file in the clerk's office of this Court in Los Angeles, and will be substituted for the copy introduced herein before this special examiner, and which order of withdrawal refers to the granting act of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of March 3, 1871, and which order of withdrawal also refers to the map of designation of route filed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the office of the commissioner of the general land office on April 3, 1871—the defendants herewith refer to certain decisions of the secretaries of the interior, construing the effect of said withdrawal, and herewith refer to the official reporting of said decisions and the opinions of the secretaries of the interior in reference to the above matters, and ask leave to introduce in evidence, if the Court so desires, full copies of said decisions, or in lieu thereof, that an order of Court may be obtained declaring that said decisions are before the Court by virtue of the official publication thereof; and which decisions are as follows, towit, namely:

The opinion of Secretary Schurz of May 8, 1879, in the case of Cox vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which is found in 6 Copp, page 35.

Mr. CALL.—I object to the statements of counsel that the order of withdrawal referred to has been introduced in evidence, that it has the effect, or is the kind of an order which he names it, and I shall object to the introduction in evidence of the copies referred to as incompetent, immaterial, irrelevant, and as not the best evidence.

Mr. REDDING.—Next, bearing upon the same point, a decision of Secretary Schurz, dated June 8, 1880, in the case of Gower vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, found in 7 Copp, page 104.

Same objection.

Mr. REDDING.—Next, bearing upon the same subject, the decision of Secretary Teller, dated February 5, 1883, in the case of Eberle vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, found in 10 Copp, page 13.

Same objection.

Mr. REDDING.—Next, bearing upon the same point, the decision of Secretary Teller, dated May 31, 1884, in the case of Hiller vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, found in 11 Copp, page 118.

Same objection.

Mr. REDDING.—Next, bearing upon the same subject the decision of Secretary Teller, dated January 21, 1884, in the case of Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. Sturm, found in 2 L. D., page 546.

Same objection.

Same objection.

Mr. REDDING.—Next, bearing upon the same subject, the decision of Acting Secretary Muldrow, dated March 13, 1886, in the case of The Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. The State of California, found in 4 L. D., page 437.

Same objection.

Mr. REDDING.—Next, bearing upon the same subject, the decision of Secretary Noble, dated June 23, 1891, in the case of Duncansen vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, found in 12 L. D., page 664.

Same objection.

San Francisco, Oct. 3, 1893.

Testimony of G. L. LANSING.

G. L. LANSNG, called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. What is your present occupation?

A. I am secretary and controller of the Southern Pacific Company.

Q. As such controller, do you have any—official relations with the accounts of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and its dealings with the government of the United States?

A. Yes, sir, the Southern Pacific Company is the lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company's property.

Q. What are your official duties with respect to the Southern Pacific Company and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, acting in the capacity you have named?

A. I have control of the settlement of accounts in connection with the operation of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and in connection with the transportation by the Southern Pacific Railroad for the United States government of mails, troops, military supplies, and so forth, and I have charge of all matters affecting the operations of the Southern Pacific Railroad lines so far as the accounting is concerned and the settlement of the accounts.

Q. Are you in communication officially with the government of the United States in connection with these matters? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company branch line, as it is known, has a grant to it under the act of Congress of March 3, 1871; the terms of this grant provide for the railroad to be constructed, and when constructed to be maintained as a first-class road, and to be at all times subject to the use of the United States for a military and postal road, and for the transportation of the effects of the government and munitions of war, etc.; will you state whether or not there is the relation established between the government of the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under this act of Congress by which this road between a point at or near Tehachapa by way of Los Angeles to Fort Yuma has been and is now being used for the purposes that I have enumerated?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence, and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation in evidence herein marked "Master's Exhibits 1, 2, and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the special examiner, Nos. 88 and 89," has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands and did thereby surrender to the United States in each case of consolidation all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad; and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustees, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department and of the United States land office at Los Angeles and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of state for California, and the public laws of the United States and of California, show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands.)

A. Yes, sir, the relations which at present exist and are recognized between The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, its lessee, The Southern Pacific Company, and the officials of the United States government, so far as my business relations with them are concerned, are those that have been and are provided for by the act of Congress referred to in the question.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether or not the government of the United States is using the line of railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this action, from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass by the way of Los Angeles to a point on the Colorado river near Yuma, for the purpose of transporting its postal business and troops, munitions of war, stores, and other government effects?

Mr. CALL.—Mr. Redding, does our understanding still continue in regard to inserting the words "same objection" to stand in lieu of the objection previously made?

Mr. REDDING.—I understand that it does.

Mr. CALL.—Insert "same objection" to each question.

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, it is.

Mr. REDDING.—Will you state how this information and knowledge comes to be known by you officially?

(Same objection.)

A. In my official position it is my business to settle the accounts between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for transportation of mails, troops, military supplies, etc., for the government over the line of railroad named, and by that means I know personally of the transportation being performed and the terms of its settlement on the part of the government.

Q. Will you please produce the last official report of these transactions issued by the postmaster's department of the government, and state therefrom under what rules and regulations of the postal department the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this action, is now proceeding with reference to government transportation?

A. The volume that I have before me is the postal laws and regulations of the United States of America, published in Washington at the government printing office in 1893; this volume gives the regulations relating to the transportation of mails, and the laws upon which they are based; sections 716, 717, 718 and 719 in this volume, pages 293 and 294, state the method of fixing the rate for the transportation of mail as provided by law. covering all the railroads in the United States, and finally referring to land grant roads; relating to land grant roads, section 719 recites that "railroad companies whose railroad was constructed in whole or in part by a land grant made by Congress on the condition that the mails should be transported over their road at such price as Congress should by law direct, shall receive only eighty per centum of the compensation authorized by this act: act of July 12, 1876."

Q. Is the law that you have just quoted the one that is being applied by the postal department of the United States to the transactions of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between the points named in reference to governmental transportation?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, it is.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants ask leave to refer to the postal laws and regulations of 1893, printed at the government printing office, and entitled as follows: "Postal laws and regulations of the United States of America. compiled, revised and published in accordance with the act of Congress, approved March 3, 1891, Washington. government printing office, 1893," and so much thereof as may refer to land grant railroads, and in particular to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this action; and ask that the same may be considered in evidence; and the defendants hereby offer in evidence this volume, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 97," or in lieu of its being offered in evidence that it may be so considered by this Court as an official document in the record.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—I have no objections to its being considered in evidence by reference, without the necessity of burdening the record by having it actually filed as an exhibit.

Mr. REDDING.—That being satisfactory, we will so consider it.

Mr. CALL.—Yes, sir, subject to the objections made.

Mr. REDDING.—And I understand that on your part to all intents and purposes it is in evidence?

Mr. CALL.—Yes, sir.

Mr. REDDING.—Without objection as to the incompetency of the volume, as an official document?

Mr. CALL.—It is in evidence with the same effect as if it had actually been filed and marked as an exhibit in the case.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Please show how this is so.

(Same objection.)

A. The report of the postmaster general of the United States for 1890, pages 450 and 451, contains a table showing the readjustment of the rates of pay for mail on railroad routes in States and Territories in which the contract term expired June 30, 1890; on page 450 among the routes enumerated is route 176,014, Goshen, California, to Yuma, Arizona, particular title of the company carrying the mail is the Southern Pacific Company, the length of the road is 490 55-100 miles, the average weight of mails carried over entire route per day is 4,737 pounds, the pay per mile per annum for transportation $133.38 for 4,737 pounds, average weight of mail carried over entire route per day; by referring to the postal laws and regulations above quoted it will be seen that the compensation as fixed by those laws requires the ascertainment of the average weight of mails carried over the entire route per diem; applying the laws upon the average weight here shown, 4,737 pounds, the calculation will show that the rate which the postmaster general reports as being paid, namely, $133.38 per mile per annum is eighty per centum of the rate allowed by section 719 of the postal laws and regulations above referred to; this showing that the post-office department in fixing the rate for the contract term commencing with July 1, 1890, recognized the operation of the land grant act of the Southern Pacific Railroad, in allowing but eighty per cent of the usual compensation for the service.

Q. That refers to what years?

(Same objection.)

A. The laws of the postoffice department affecting the transportation of mails requires they shall be based upon weighings made for thirty consecutive days, at least once in four years; they allow the term generally to run for four years, but it may be changed by order of the postmaster general before the end of that term; the rate here fixed went into effect July 1, 1890, and is still in effect.

Q. Do you know whether or not the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by its lessee, the Southern Pacific Company, is transporting the mails of the government between the points named, namely, from Tehachapa Pass by the way of Los Angeles to Fort Yuma upon the basis stated by you, and in accordance with the rates fixed, as stated by you, from the official records?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, it is.

Q. Prior to the last adjustment of rates, which, as you state, dates from 1890, what was the rate fixed, and under what rates was the Southern Pacific Railroad Company doing this business?

(Same objection.)

A. The compensation fixed under the law by the postmaster general on the same route, namely, from Goshen to Yuma, covering the contract period of four years ending June 30, 1890, was $123.80 per mile per annum; the payment for this period was made to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as appears by the report of the postmaster general for 1890, at page 365.

Q. Why was it made to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in that instance, and why was it made to the Southern Pacific Company in the instance cited by you before?

(Same objection.)

A. The reason, I suppose to be, that the lease of the Southern Pacific Railroad to the Southern Pacific Company was made in 1885; the readjustment of pay on which this rate was based by the postmaster general was made July 1, 1886; at that time there was a question as to the proper relations of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the Central Pacific Railroad Company, which was the former lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad; this led to some disputes between the accounting officers of the treasury department of the government, and to avoid any mistake being made as to the proper payee they used the name of the lessor company, namely the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and made settlements with that company direct.

Q. From what period of time were the rates last stated by you applied to the governmental transportation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, between the points named?

(Same objection.)

A. I think that was answered in the previous answer; I said for four years ending June 30, 1890.

Q. That would carry it back, then, to June 30, 1886?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know as a fact that the government of the United States used this portion of the road of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, namely, between Tehachapa and Fort Yuma by the way of Los Angeles for the transportation of government troops, munitions of war, postal service and other effects during that time?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. What were the rates prior to 1886 allowed by the government to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, or its lessees, for similar use and over the same portion of the road, for mails, munitions of war, and all governmental purposes?

(Same objection.)

A. The rates for the transportation of mails can be shown by the annual reports during the period published by the postmaster general; the rates for the transportation of the army, military supplies, etc., were those which were provided by the tariffs of the railroad company from time to time, covering the particular property transported or the persons.

Mr. REDDING.—We offer in the same manner the report of the postmaster general for the year ending June 30, 1890, and particularly the pages cited by the witness. This volume is entitled in the public print as follows: "Annual report of the postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, Washington government printing office, 1890," with the understanding that it shall be considered in evidence to all intents and purposes, without its being filed.

Mr. CALL.—That is satisfactory; and subject to the same objections.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Have you the postmaster general's report for the four years preceding 1886?

(Same objection.)

A. I have the report here for the year 1886 (producing); the report of the postmaster general for 1886, page 312, shows the rate on the route from Goshen, California, to Yuma, Arizona, over the Southern Pacific Railroad, 490 33-100 miles, at $110.13 per mile, per annum; this covers the period of four years ending on June 30, 1886; a note on the table opposite the item reads as follows: "Land grant"; that note is used in those cases where the reduction is made in fixing the compensation allowing but eighty per cent of the usual rates for roads having land grants.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether that was the rate received by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the transportation of the postal service between the points named during that period of time from the government?

(Same objection.)

A. It was during that time either received from the government or credited in account with the Central Pacific Railroad Company, lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad at that time.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence, in the same manner as the last exhibit was offered, report of the postmaster general for 1886, which has the official title as follows: "Annual report of postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886, Washington government printing office, 1886"; and we particularly refer to the pages cited by the witness; and I ask that this be admitted in evidence in the same manner as the last exhibits, without the necessity of this volume being filed as an exhibit at this time.

Mr. CALL.—That is understood, subject to the same objections.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Prior to 1882, what rates were allowed to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for postal service between the points named?

(Same objection.)

A. The report of the postmaster general for 1882 on page 172 shows readjustment of rates in effect July 1, 1881, on route 46,014 from Goshen to Yuma 490 33-100 miles at the rate of $110.13 per mile per annum.

Q. And prior to that what rates were charged?

(Same objection.)

A. The rates prior to that are shown on same page of same report to have been $75.24 per mile per annum, and this rate was also in effect on June 30, 1879, as shown by the report of the postmaster general for the year 1879, at page 99; in the report of the postmaster general for the year 1878, page 151, a table is given showing the readjustment of the rates of pay on contracts which expired June 30, 1878; on page 150 appears, route 40,014 Huron to Yuma, a distance of 530 29-100 miles, rate of pay per mile per annum $79.20; a note on this page recites that 54½ miles apply from November 1, 1875, from May 5, 1877, between Colton and Yuma, the residue of the route from July 1, 1877; the report of the postmaster general for 1877 on page 57, shows that the compensation paid on June 30, 1877, being the rate at that time in effect on route 46,014 from Goshen to Caliente, a distance of 95 71-100 miles, being at the annual rate per mile per annum of $54; a note states that pay on 54 40-100 miles is estimated; this is the commencement of compensation on the line as constructed southerly from Goshen.

Q. Have you now stated the rates as regulated by the government of the United States with reference to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between the points named, namely, Tehachapa and Fort Yuma by the way of Los Angeles, from the commencement of the construction of the road down to the present time?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. REDDING.—The defendants offer in evidence in the same manner as heretofore, that is to say, by reference, the report of the postmaster general for 1877, and we particularly refer to the pages cited by the witness, which report is officially declared to be as follows:"Annual report of the postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877, Washington, government printing office, 1877."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence, in the same manner, the report of the postmaster general for 1878, which is officially published to be as follows: "Annual report of the postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1878, Washington, government printing office, 1870"; with particular reference to the pages cited by witness.

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence, in the same manner, the report of the postmaster general for 1879, officially published to be as follows: "The annual report of the postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1879, Washington, government printing office, 1879," with particular reference to the pages cited by witness.

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the postmaster general for 1880, in the same manner, officially published to be as follows: "Annual report of the postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, Washington, government printing office, 1880," with particular reference to the pages cited by witness.

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence report of the postmaster general for 1882, in the same manner, officially published as "Annual report of the postmaster general of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1882, Washington, government printing office, 1882, with particular reference to the pages cited by the witness; and I ask, Mr. Call, that each one of these may be considered as introduced in evidence by reference, without the necessity of the introduction of them in the records of the case by exhibit mark.

Mr. CALL.—I have no objection to their being offered by reference, to the same effect as if they were filed, saving my objections to the evidence heretofore made.

Mr. REDDING—Q. You have stated that in some instances these rates were allowed direct to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and in other instances to the Southern Pacific Company, lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and in other instances to the Central Pacific Railroad Company, lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; will you state in what manner the adjustment was made between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and its lessees when the rates were allowed to the latter and not to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company direct?

(Same objection.)

A. During the time that the railroad between Goshen and Yuma was leased to the Central Pacific Railroad Company, compensation for United States transportation on that road was withheld by the treasury department on account of the indebtedness of the lessee, the Central Pacific Railroad Company, to the government, owing to the issue of government bonds made for the construction of that road; the settlement with the government, however, for the transportation of mails, as shown by the reports of the postmaster general just quoted, and on the pages named, was made in each case with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the United States government, and the Central Pacific lessee received no payment for the transportation, for each of the years named from the time of the commencement of construction from Goshen, California, southwards towards Yuma—

Mr. REDDING.—(Interrupting) Let me interrupt you, Mr. Lansing. When you speak of Goshen do you speak of a portion of the main line road which runs by way of Goshen to Tehachapa and thence by way of Los Angeles to Fort Yuma?

(Same objection.)

Q. You mean on the main line grant?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, on the main line running southerly through the San Joaquin valley; the line through the upper portion of the valley was constructed by the Central Pacific to Goshen; at Goshen the Southern Pacific construction commenced.

Mr. CALL.—Q. From San Francisco to Goshen was built by the Central Pacific? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And from Goshen below southward it was built by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. Yes, sir; I was saying that from the commencement of the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad from Goshen on the main line near Tehachapa Pass toward Yuma the transportation for the United States has been accounted for by the United States government in the name of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Mr. REDDING—Q. With reference to the use of this line of railroad by the government for purposes other than postal, will you state what is the method adopted by the government in calling upon the road to furnish at all times the necessary means of transportation for these purposes. How is the object accomplished by the government?

A. In the event that the government has any freight, munitions of war, or anything of that kind that it wishes to ship, it sends its freight to the railroad company's depot and delivers it to the railroad company with a prepared bill of lading which is made on a form prescribed by the war department of the government; this bill of lading is accepted by the railroad company and used in a settlement of its account with the government subsequently for the services and transportation performed.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether or not the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between the points named, and the line thereof, and the rolling stock thereof, have been used by the government of the United States from the date of its construction down to the present time for the purpose of transporting its munitions of war, troops, and governmental effects?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, I know that it has been so used continuously.

Q. Is it being used at the present time for these purposes?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has it been ever since 1878?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have stated that the pay given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the government for the transportation of the government mail, and for the general system of postal service rendered to the government by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, between the points named, is less by twenty per cent, or some per cent named, than that allowed other kinds of railroads; what do you mean by that? Will you state why a less percentage is allowed this company than other companies?

(Same objection.)

A. The postal laws fix the compensation for the transportation of mails based upon the service performed, and applying that principle they fixed the rates allowed for all the railroads of the United States; a road receiving pay in proportion to the service performed, and two roads performing the same service receiving equal pay, but with the roads which received the aid of a grant of land from the government, subject to a certain condition regarding transportation, Congress passed a law allowing these lines but eighty per cent of the amount allowed other roads for similar services.

Mr. CALL.—Q. Was not that regulation made by the secretary of the interior?

A. No, by an act of Congress; this is the act of Congress approved July 12, 1876, Volume 19, United States Statutes, page 82.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Has the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this case, been subjected to this deduction by the government in its pay for transportation of mail and postal service?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, and it was considered, and has been interpreted by the government to be in conformity with one of the obligations of the contract existing between the railroad company and the government as stated in the granting act, and part of the consideration for the grant of lands.

Q. Has this deduction continued through all these years that you have testified?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the last adjustment of rate given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as a land grant road under the instructions of the interior department by acts of Congress?

(Same objection.)

A. The Southern Pacific Railroad, under an act of Congress making appropriations for the transportation of the army for the present fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, was allowed but fifty per cent of the regular rates of transportation for freight and troops.

Q. Was this act of Congress designed to refer to land grant railroads?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has the interpretation of this act been applied to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants herein?

(Same objection.)

A. It has.

Q. Do you know whether or not the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants herein, holds itself in position and readiness at all times and under all circumstances and conditions to supply the government of the United States with transportation over its lines of road, and between the points named herein as aforesaid, for all kinds of governmental effects, including postal service, munitions of war, etc.?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, it is a fact; the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has always recognized its obligation under the granting act to perform all service required by the government at all times.

Q. Has that been a continuous existence of things since the construction of the road down to and including the present time?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company?

(Same objection.)

A. Since March 1, 1885.

Q. Prior to that time in the employ of what corporation were you?

(Same objection.)

A. I was employed by the Central Pacific Railroad Company prior to that time.

Q. In what capacity?

(Same objection.)

A. As assistant secretary.

Q. Did you in that capacity have charge of the accounts between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Central Pacific Railroad Company as lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then your testimony with reference to the relations of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company through its lessee, the Central Pacific Railroad Company, with the government of the United States is based on an intimate knowledge of the occurrences happening in the years named?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, my experience in connection with the subject extends to the time of the commencement of the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad from Goshen toward Yuma.

Q. And down to and including the present time?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

(The witness was temporarily withdrawn in order to take the testimony of James B. Randol and D. G. Scofield, whose testimony appears in this record next following the testimony of this witness, being so placed for convenience in signing.)

(An adjournment was then taken by consent of counsel until Wednesday, October 4, 1893, at 10:30 A. M.)

San Francisco, Oct. 4, 1893.

Cross-Examination of G. L. Lansing.

Mr. CALL.—Q. Referring to your testimony on direct examination to the effect that the Southern Pacific Company was a lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of the line from Goshen by way of Los Angeles to the Colorado river—state when that line was leased to the Southern Pacific Company by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

A. The lease took effect March 1, 1885; it was dated in February, 1885; the exact date I do not recollect.

Q. Can you produce before the special examiner a copy of the lease? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. CALL.—I ask you to do so.

The WITNESS.—This is the original (producing.

Q. Have you produced before the special examiner the lease referred to? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This is the original lease? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. CALL.—I offer the lease in evidence and ask that the same be marked "Exhibit before the special examiner M."

Have you any objections, Mr. Redding, to the special examiner making a copy of it and certifying to it as a copy?

Mr. REDDING.—Not provided it is made here in the building.

(The lease produced by witness and offered in evidence by Mr. Call is marked by the special examiner "Exhibit before the special examiner, M, Stephen Potter, special examiner," and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. CALL.—I understood you to say that in reference to the payment by the government for transporting mails over lines of railroad in which the construction was aided by land grants, that the government paid eighty per cent of what was paid on other lines—is that correct?

A. Yes, sir. Eighty per cent of which is paid to other roads for similar service.

Q. Does the same rule prevail with reference to the transportation of troops, and munitions of war and public stores?

A. No, sir, they are paid fifty per cent of what is charged private parties for similar services under the present appropriation acts.

Q. What is the remedy of an aided railroad if the compensation fixed is not satisfactory or is not deemed sufficient by the company?

A. I understand that there is no remedy, that the rate is fixed by the government at its own will in consideration of the stipulations of the contract which are embodied in the granting act, that the government can fix a rate of eighty per cent or of two per cent or of one per cent, if it chooses to do so.

Q. Has the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky recovered any moneys from the government in the court of claims outside of those allowed by the department for transporting of mails or other government property?

Mr. REDDING.—We will object to the question as being misleading; and request the counsel to specify what he means in reference to the recovery of moneys.

Mr. CALL.—I wish the witness to explain that.

Mr. REDDING.—I object to the question as misleading. The question does not state that it refers to transactions between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the government in particular. The Southern Pacific Company is dealing with a half dozen or more companies and I ask that the counsel for the government in order not to mislead the witness specify what particular moneys or suits or claims he refers to and between the government on the one side and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company or the Southern Pacific Company in its dealings with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company on the other.

A. The Southern Pacific Company has received a judgment in the court of claims which has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States for an amount to exceed $1,800,000 for transportation services due it in cash; Congress has never made any appropriation for the payment of this claim; I am not advised whether any portion of the amount is for transportation over the line between Goshen and Yuma or any portion of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Q. Referring to those lines which are not aided by the government, is the mode for payment by the government the same as over aided lines—that is, is it done as you were stating by means of transportation requests?

A. Yes, sir; the method of accounting and payment between the government and the railroad companies is conducted in the same way between aided lines and non-aided lines; by aided lines I mean lines aided, like the Southern Pacific, by grant of lands and not of subsidy bonds; for lines subsidized by bonds a different method is adopted.

Q. When was that judgment rendered in the court of claims for a million and odd dollars?

A. It was affirmed by the Supreme Court within a year, but I cannot give the date from recollection.

Q. Was it not affirmed by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia?

A. Oh, I am mistaken about that; it was not appealed on the part of the government from the court of claims.

Mr. REDDING.—Judgment was rendered last January, I believe.

The WITNESS.—I can give you the reference.

Mr. CALL.—Oh, it is not important.

Q. Under what provision of law was that suit brought?

A. I understand under the same provisions of law that any common carrier would bring a suit for transportation services to the government, simply that the services had been performed and the compensation was due.

Q. I thought you said that when the rates were fixed by the contract that there was no remedy for the railroad company if it disputed the adequacy of the amount; please explain how that is.

A. I have stated that I did not know that any portion of this judgment, of the amount involved in the suit, had reference to transportation over the lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and that upon those lines the eighty per cent was allowed for transportation of the mails under the act of Congress, the granting act; that in the suit, and amount involved in the suit in question, there were, as I understand it, no claims for transportation on that line; I am very sure there was no claim for transportation for disputed amounts of any kind.

Q. How does the amount allowed to the Southern Pacific Railroad under contract compare with amounts allowed in Eastern States?

A. For the portion of the line which has received a grant of lands the government paid eighty per cent for the transportation of mails of the rates allowed for similar service performed by roads in the Eastern States.

Q. Is the rate from Chicago to Mississippi valley States, twenty per cent added to what is paid the Southern Pacific, or is it less than that?

A. I will explain my statement a little more clearly by saying that in the transportation of the mails for the United States compensation is fixed by law and is determined upon the weights of mails carried; the law applies to all railroads in the United States; a special act applying to the land grant line of the Southern Pacific Railroad provides that the government may fix the rates for the transportation of mails of the Southern Pacific road—

Mr. CALL.—(Interrupting). The postmaster general?

The WITNESS.—The government.

A. (Continuing) And the government subsequently by an act of Congress did fix the rates at eighty per cent for the transportation of mails of those which are provided by the general law prescribing the rates which shall apply to all railroads in the United States, so that the Southern Pacific Railroad receives but eighty per cent of the amount which roads in the Eastern States receive for the transportation of mails where they perform a similar amount of service.

G. L. LANSING.

Exhibit Before the Special Examiner.

"M."

This agreement, made this tenth day of February, 1885, between the Southern Pacific Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Kentucky, and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the United States and the State of California, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the Territory of Arizona, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the Territory of New Mexcio, the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railway Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Texas, the Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company, of 1874, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Texas, the Louisiana Western Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Louisiana, Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Louisiana, and the Mexican International Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Connecticut, witnesseth:

I.

That the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, organized and existing under the laws of the United States and the State of California, hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroad situated in the State of California, known and designated as the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, with all its branches and all railroads now leased by it, together with the rolling-stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever, now in use upon or in connection with said railroads, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

II.

That the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, organized and existing under the laws of the Territory of Arizona, hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroads situated in the Territory of Arizona, and known and designated as the Southern Pacific Railroad of Arizona, together with all its branches, and all the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever, now in use upon or in connection with said railroad or branches, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

III.

That the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, organized and existing under the laws of the Territory of New Mexico, hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company, for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroad situated in the Territory of New Mexico and known and designated as the Southern Pacific Railroad of New Mexico, together with all its branches and all the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever now in use upon or in connection with said railroad or its branches, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

IV.

That the said Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railway Company hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroad situated in the State of Texas and known and designated as the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railway, with all its branches and all the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever now in use upon or in connection with said railroad or its branches, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, and all other property now owned, held and possessed by it, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

V.

That the said Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company, of 1874, hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroad situated in the State of Texas, and known and designated as the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, of 1874, together with all its branches, and all the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever now in use upon or in connection with said railroad or branches, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

VI.

That the said Louisiana Western Railroad Company hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroad situated in the States of Texas and Louisiana, and known and designated as the Louisiana Western Railroad, together with all its branches and all the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever now in use upon or in connection with said railroad or branches, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

VII.

That the said Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for a term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, its railroad situated in the State of Louisiana, and known and designated as the Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad, all the branches thereof, and the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever now in use upon or in connection with said railroad and branches and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging ing; also all the steamships, steamboats, tugs, wharves, piers, landings, depots, buildings and all other property real and personal, now owned, held or possessed by the said Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company; with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

VIII.

That the said Mexican International Railroad Company hereby leases to the said Southern Pacific Company for the term of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, all of its railroad and the branches thereof situated in the Republic of Mexico, known and designated as the Mexican International Railroad, together with all its branches and the rolling stock, telegraph lines, tools and property of every kind and nature whatsoever now in use upon or in connection with said railroad, and together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the right to possess, maintain, use and operate the said property, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof.

In consideration of the leases aforesaid, the said Southern Pacific Company agrees to and with the other corporations, parties hereto, that it will keep the said leased property in good order, condition and repair; operate, maintain, add to and better the same at its own expense; pay all taxes legally assessed against or levied thereon; and will, upon the termination of this lease, return the same to the respective parties from which it was leased, or to their successors, with additions and betterments, in as good condition and repair as the same was at the date hereof.

That it hereby assumes and will discharge all the liabilities and obligations of every kind of the said railroad companies, and each of them, except the obligations to pay the principal of their indebtedness, known as the bonded indebtedness, now outstanding and secured by mortgage or deed of trust, or which may hereafter be incurred by either of said companies under the provisions of any existing mortgage or deed of trust, or any mortgage or deed of trust hereafter, with the consent of this company made. That as to such bonded indebtedness, it will pay off and discharge at maturity the interest upon the same, and will upon demand of either of said railroad companies guarantee in such form as said company may require, the payment of the principal and interest thereof.

That said Southern Pacific Company will annually on the first day of May, pay the following named railroad companies as rental, a sum equal to ninety-three and one-telfth (93 1-12) per cent of its net profits—if any net profits there be—for the year ending on the thirty-first day of December next preceding that date, as follows:

To the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, existing under the laws of the United States and of the State of California, twenty-six and one-half (26½) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, existing under the laws of the Territory of Arizona, twelve (12) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, existing under the laws of the Territory of New Mexico, four (4) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railway Company, sixteen and one-quarter (16¼) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company, of 1874, seven and one-half (7½) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Louisiana Western Railroad Company, three and one-third (3⅓) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company, twenty-two and one-half (22½) per cent of said net profits.

To the said Mexican International Railroad Company, one (1) per cent of said net profits.

The term net profits as used herein, shall be construed to mean the monies on hand available for dividends after all expenses, payments and disbursements of every nature and kind of the said Southern Pacific Company—except for the rental of railroads now or hereafter leased by said company—have been deducted.

In testimony whereof, the parties hereto have caused these presents to be signed by their respective presidents and countersigned by their secretaries, and their corporate seals to be hereunto affixed, pursuant to orders of their respective boards of directors, on the day and year first herein written.

[Endorsed]: Agreement Southern Pacific Company and Southern Pacific Railroad of California, Southern Pacific Railroad of Arizona, Southern Pacific Railroad of New Mexico, Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway, Texas & New Orleans Railroad, Louisiana Western Railroad, Morgan's Louisiana & Texas Railroad and Steamship Company, Mexican International Railroad. Dated February 10, 1885 (Southern Pacific Company No. 3. Documents.) (Marked) Exhibit before the Special Examiner "M," Stephen Potter, Special Examiner.)

I hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing document with the original, and find it to be a full, true and correct copy thereof.

STEPHEN POTTER,
Special Examiner.

San Francisco, October 14, 1893.

Filed December 5, 1893. Wm. M. Van Dyke, Clerk.

Testimony of CHARLES F. CROCKER.

CHARLES F. CROCKER, called as a witness on behalf of defendants, being duly sworn, testified as follows, said testimony being taken on September 14, 1893, and inserted at this point in the record for convenience in signing.

Direct Examination.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Are you an officer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company? A. I am.

Q. What office do you hold in that company?

A. President.

Q. How long have you been president of the Company? A. At least five years.

Q. Were you an officer of the company other than president prior to that time?

A. I was one of the vice-presidents.

Q. How long have you been an officer of the company and connected with it, covering what period of years?

A. A director or executive officer for from ten to twelve years.

Q. The title of this suit is The United States of America against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and others, and the suit involves a land grant made by Congress to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, dated March 3, 1871, extending from Tehachapa by way of Los Angeles to Fort Yuma; is that the Company of which you are president of which you are speaking? A. It is.

Q. Do you know whether or not the identity of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has been changed, or whether the company itself has been changed by any of its articles of amalgamation and consolidation which it has filed during the last twenty years, or whether it has been the intention of the officers of the company to maintain the same corporation and the same identity?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial, and not the best evidence, and as involving a conclusion of law.)

A. The identity and chcaracter of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California was preserved in the amalgamation and proceedings which have been held during my term of office as a director and executive officer in that company; I personally instructed the officers of the law department who prepared the papers in the proceedings which were had in 1888, at the time various corporations were amalgamated into the Southern Pacific Railroad of California——

Mr. REDDING (interrupting)—That is the defendant in this action, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

THE WITNESS.—Yes, sir, the company to which the United States government granted certain sections of land.

A. (Continuing)—to preserve the character and identity of that corporation; it was reported to me that the law permitted that to be done, and they were instructed to proceed upon that line.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether or not there was an intention on the part of the directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and the executive officers, and those in authority, to preserve the identity and same character of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to which Congress made this land grant, or otherwise?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence, and as calling for a conclusion of law, and upon the further ground that the intentions of the several companies amalgamating can be gathered and shown only by the proceedings had upon consolidation and by the written evidence of the amalgamation of the roads.)

A. It was intended to preserve the identity and character of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California as it existed previous to that amalgamation, and the legal officers of the company were instructed to prepare the papers accordingly.

Q. Were you present at the conferences of the directors of the company anterior to taking in these other corporations?

(Same objection.)

A. I was present.

Q. Did you take part in the proceedings?

(Same objection.)

A. I did.

Q. Will you state whether or not you gave your own views at those meetings as to what you wanted done as an officer and director of the Company?

(Same objection.)

A. I did, according to my answers already given to these questions.

Q. Do you know whether or not the land department of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has remained the same ever since its inception, so far as referring to one land grant and one corporation, or whether it has been changed?

(Same objection.)

A. It has remained the same.

Q. Were you an officer of the company, or in anywise connected with it during the period when prior amalgamations were made, for instance the one of 1873?

(Same objection.)

A. I was not.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. CALL.—Q. Were you an officer of the company, that is, a general officer, at the time of the amalgamation of 1874? A. No, sir; I was not.

CHAS. F. CROCKER.

San Francisco, Thursday, Sept. 28, 1893.

2:15 P. M.

Testimony of J. L. WILLCUTT.

J. L. WILLCUTT, called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. What is your present occupation?

A. Secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and other corporations.

Q. How long have you been secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. Since October, 1870.

Q. In what occupation were you before that time?

A. Secretary of the San Francisco & San Jose Railroad Company, which was one of several corporations that were consolidated into the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Q. Can you produce the resolution of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, or a copy thereof, showing when you were appointed secretary, if desired by the government counsel?

A. I can give you a certified copy of the record of the proceedings of the meeting at which I was elected.

Mr. REDDING.—I wish you would do so at your convenience.

Q. The Congress of the United States made a grant of lands on March 3, 1871, to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, known as the branch line grant from Tehachapa by the way of Los Angeles to Fort Yuma; can you produce the minutes of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at about that time, wherein, if it is a fact that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company accepted the terms, impositions and conditions of that grant?

A. I can do so.

Q. Will you please produce them?

(Witness produces a book which is endorsed "Record A, Southern Pacific Railroad Company.")

Q. What volume have you produced?

A. Volume A of the minutes of the meetings of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, both of the stockholders and the directors.

Q. Will you please turn to that page of the record wherein you were declared elected the secretary of the company, and will you read, and quote in reading that portion of the record of the particular meeting, giving it as to date, when you were elected?

Mr. CALL.—I object to the question, and to the testimony asked for, upon the ground that the same is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation, nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions which are in evidence herein.

A. (Reads.) "At a meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company held on Wednesday, the twelfth day of October, 1870, for the purpose of organizing as a board and the election of the necessary officers for the ensuing year . . . . J. L. Willcutt was nominated for secretary, and receiving the unanimous vote of the board was declared duly elected secretary of the company."

(I hereby certify that I have compared the statement of the witness in the foregoing answer with the minutes of the meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, held on Wednesday, the twelfth day of October, 1870, as they appear on page 6 of the volume endorsed "Record A, Southern Pacific Railroad Company," and find it to be a full, true and correct statement of the words appearing in said minutes in that particular.

STEPHEN POTTER,
Special Examiner.)

Mr. REDDING.—I suppose that the same agreement between us will be followed in this case, that where the special examiner certifies to the correctness of a portion of any document or resolution, that that will suffice instead of putting the entire volume in evidence?

Mr. CALL.—I have no objections to the special examiner making a copy of such parts of the written evidence as you direct him to make in this instance, and that it may stand in lieu of the original, subject to the same objections made.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Examiner, if the quotation of the witness from the original record is correct, will you please state so in parenthesis after the quotation in your record of this testimony.

Q. Will you please turn to the resolution of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, if such resolution exists, wherein it was resolved to accept the terms, impositions and conditions of the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, above referred to, and will you read that resolution from your original record?

(Same objection.)

A. (Reads.) "At a meeting of the board of directors held on May 16, 1871, the following resolution was presented by Lloyd Tevis, and adopted by a unanimous vote:

"Resolved, that thiscompany will and does hereby accept the terms, conditions and impositions of the act of Congress of the United States entitled 'An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes,' approved March 3, 1871, and that a copy of this resolution of acceptance, certified under the seal of this company, be forwarded to and filed with the secretary of the interior."

(I hereby certify that I have compared the statement of the witness in the foregoing answer with the minutes of the meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company held on May 16, 1871, as they appear on page 41 of the volume endorsed "Record A, Southern Pacific Railroad Company," and find it to be a full, true and correct statement of the words appearing in said minutes in that particular.

STEPHEN POTTER,
Special Examiner.)

Mr. CALL.—The evidence is objected to upon the ground that the same is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation, nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions which are in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that it is not the best evidence of the matter sought to be adduced.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Is that resolution followed by the seal of the company and the signature of the secretary of the company, certifying that the resolution was passed?

A. It is not usual to place any seal, but to sign upon the records by myself, as secretary of the meeting, which was done in this case.

Q. Has a copy of this resolution been forwarded by you as secretary and deposited in the interior department?

(Same objection.)

A. It has been.

Q. What directors were present at that meeting of the company when that resolution was passed?

(Same objection.)

A. Charles Crocker, Leland Stanford, Lloyd Tevis, Charles Mayne and Peter Donahue.

Q. Who were the directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at that time?

(Same objection.)

A. Those already named, together with C. P. Huntington and Mark Hopkins.

Q. Is that the original record that you are reading from?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that your signature attached to the resolution?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir; attached to the proceedings of the meeting.

Q. Did you sign your name there?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you present at the meeting?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you hear the resolution proposed and carried?

(Same objection.)

A. I did; I read it myself.

Q. Were those gentlemen present that you have enumerated?

(Same objection.)

A. They were.

Q. Did you see them there?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you, as secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, had in charge, or been instrumental in making any reports to the interior department of the government of the proceedings of this railroad company subsequent to March 3, 1871, and in pursuance of the act of Congress last above referred to?

(Same objection.)

A. I have.

Q. Will you state in what manner reports have been made, and for what purpose, and generally with reference to what subject matter, from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the interior department?

(Same objection.)

A. I have here a complete list of such reports, which I can give in extenso, if they are wished.

Q. What are those reports in general?

(Same objection.)

A. The operations of the road.

Q. Please give a list of these reports that have been made through your instrumentality to the interior department subsequent to 1870?

(Same objection.)

A. In 1871, 1872, 1873, 1874, 1875, 1876, and 1877 annual reports were made to the secretary of the interior for the year ending June 30th. They called for:

A report was made for the half year ending June 30, 1879, in same book form.

Reports for the half year ending December 31, 1879, June 30, 1880, and December 31, 1880, were made in exhaustive detail in book form designated as 8-002.

In addition to these reports there were furnished (on sheet forms sent to us by the United States auditor of railroad accounts) reports of revenue, operating and income expenses, tonnage, mileage, etc. for same periods.

Commencing with 1881 and since that year the reports have been made to the commissioner of railroads and for the half years ending June 30, 1881, December 31, 1881, June 30, 1882, December 31, 1882, June 30, 1883, and December 31, 1883, were made in same book form (8-002) and in addition we also furnished upon separate sheets statements of earnings and expenses by months for the years ending December 31, 1881, 1882, and 1883.

For the years ending June 30, 1884, and 1885, and the half year ending December 31, 1885, reports were made in book form designated 8-008, the first two periods being accompanied by same statements of earnings and expenses as before.

Commencing with the year ending December 31, 1885, yearly and half yearly reports were made in book form designated "A" and "B" respectively up to and including the year ending December 31, 1888, since which date only annual reports have been asked for and made, viz: for the years ending June 30, 1889 and 1890, 1891, 1892, and 1893.

Mr. REDDING. Q. You state throughout this list of reports that they were asked for; by whom were they asked for?

(Same objection.)

A. The officers to whom the reports were made?

Q. To whom were these reports made?

(Same objection.)

A. As stated in the reports, part of the time to the secretary of the interior, part of the time to the United States auditor of railroad accounts.

Q. In other words, to various officers of the government?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you in your possession, and can you produce any of these requests made upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by officers of the government?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, they are all on file in my office.

Q. Have these annual reports and semi-annual reports of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company been made and forwarded at the direct instigation of the government of the United States through its officers?

(Same objection.)

A. They have been.

(An adjournment was taken by consent of counsel until Thursday, September 29, 1893, at 10:30 A. M.)

San Francisco, Sept. 30, 1893.

Direct Examination of J. L. Willcutt (Resumed.)

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Will you state generally in what manner you have been requested or ordered to make reports to the government of the United States, as secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, of its actions, transactions, and doings under its land grants of July 27, 1866, known as the main line grant, and of March 3, 1871, known as the branch line grant?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the Act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the Act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the supreme court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions which are in evidence herein, and upon the further ground that it is not the best evidence of the matters sought to be adduced.)

A. In some instances the forms upon which the reports were made have been sent to me direct, and sometimes through the Southern Pacific Company as lessee of various railroad properties.

Q. Have you been able to procure from your archives any original correspondence between the government of the United States, through its officers, on the one side, and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, through its officers, on the other side, in relation to the branch line grant of March 3, 1871?

(Same objection.)

A. I have considerable of such correspondence upon my files.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence an original letter from the department of the interior and from the acting secretary of the interior to the president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, dated April 3, 1871; and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner, No. 65"; and ask that the special examiner make a certified copy of the same in lieu of the original.

(Same objection.)

(The letter from the department of the interior and from the acting secretary of the interior to the president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, dated April 3, 1871, is marked by the special examiner "Defendant's Exhibit before the special examiner No. 65, Stephen Potter, special examiner", and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence original letter from the department of the interior to the president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and from the secretary of the interior, dated August 5, 1868, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 66," and which reads as follows:

Mr. CALL.—I object, in addition to the grounds above mentioned, to reading matters into the record, where they are offered in evidence as exhibits, on the ground that it encumbers the record, and is superfluous.

Mr. REDDING.—(Reads.) "Sir: I invite your attention to an act entitled 'An act relative to filing reports of railroad companies,' approved June 25, 1868.

"It will be perceived that the reports required by the Act of July 1, 1862, and the acts mandatory thereof, to be made to the secretary of the treasury, are hereafter to be made to the secretary of the interior' on or before the 'first day of October of each year.'

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence a letter from the department of the interior, dated September 26, 1868, to the president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, requesting the said company to furnish a report of the progress and condition of the road, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 67."

Mr. CALL.—The admission of the letter is objected to upon the ground that the same is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation, nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Mr. Willcutt, have you received instructions from the department of the interior enclosing blank forms for filling in and forwarding to the interior department of the United States, which forms when filled in are to show the reports of the proceedings and transactions of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the years indicated.

Same objection.

A. I have since the year 1878; prior to that I have not; I had a written form of report up to and including the year 1877; since then they have furnished me with blanks.

Q. Has the interior department from time to time changed the forms of those blanks sent to your office?

Same objection.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence letter dated May 7, 1887, from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, addressed to J. L. Willcutt, Esq., secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, signed by Edward Herrick, for the commissioner, enclosing a supply of blank forms as follows "3 forms 8-002," and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 84."

(Objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions which are in evidence herein; and upon the further grounds that it is not the best evidence of the matters sought to be adduced; and upon the further ground that it is not an official letter by any officer of the United States authorized to send such letter.)

(Letter dated Washington, May 7, 1887, from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, addressed to the secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and signed by Edward Herrick, for the commissioner, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 84, Stephen Potter, special examiner"; and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Were three forms 8-002 enclosed you in such letter of May 7, 1887?

Same objection.

A. Probably sent in a separate package; they were received by me.

Q. Did you as secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company make out the semi-annual reports on said forms?

Same objection.

A. I did.

Q. And forward them?

Same objection.

A. I did.

Q. Have you from year to year, as indicated in these letters, and at the times indicated in these letters, which letters show the receipt of these reports, made out reports in accordance with the forms furnished you as secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the interior department?

Same objection.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. CALL.—I want to say here that as to any letters which are signed by the secretary of the interior, or his proper assistant, or acting secretary of the interior, I have no objections to the special examiner making certified copies to stand in lieu of the originals; but as to any letters here which are not signed in that manner, I wish the originals to be introduced in evidence, and I shall not consent to copies being made of them. That includes the letter just offered, dated May 7, 1887.

Mr. REDDING.—We have no objection to letting the original letter go in.

Defendants next offer in evidence letter from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, dated Washington, D. C., September 17, 1887, to the secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, signed by Edward Herrick, for the commissioner, acknowledging receipt of report form B, for June 30, 1887.

(Objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its maps of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions which are in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that it is not the best evidence of the matters sought to be adduced; and upon the further ground that it is not an official letter by any officer of the United States authorized to send such letter; and also upon the further ground that the letter offered is not signed by any officer of the United States.

(Letter from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, dated Washington, September 17, 1887, addressed to the secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and signed Edward Herrick, for the commissioner, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 85, Stephen Potter, special examiner"; and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence a letter from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, dated Washington, D. C., April 2, 1888, addressed to the secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, signed by Edward Herrick, for the commissioner, acknowledging receipt of reports A and B for December 31, 1887, and ask that it be marked, "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 86."

Same objection.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence a letter from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, dated Washington, D. C., June 4, 1889, signed by Edward Herrick, in charge, addressed to the secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, acknowledging receipt of reports form A for the year ending December 31, 1888, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 87."

Same objection.

(Letter from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, Washington, D. C., June 4, 1889, addressed to the secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, signed by Edward Herrick in charge, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 87, Stephen Potter, special examiner"; and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Since the year 1889, to whom have the reports of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the interior department of the United States been acknowledged?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same paries, as shown by the records of such decisions, which are in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that it is not the best evidence of the matters sought to be adduced.)

A. Acknowledgment has been made to Mr. G. L. Lansing, secretary of the Southern Pacific Company in connection with an acknowledgment of a report of the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific Railroad Companies; one acknowledgment has been made for the three reports.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants give notice that they have made requests for certified copies of the reports on file in the interior department, and have asked the interior department to make these copies, and forward them at their earliest convenience to the special examiner in this case, Mr. Stephen Potter, to his address, San Francisco, or to the standing examiner, Mr. E. H. Lamme, Los Angeles, California; and that when the same are made and forwarded by the interior department, duly certified, that they will be offered in evidence by the defendants in this action.

Defendants offer in evidence the articles of consolidation and amalgamation, dated December 17, 1874, between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Los Angeles and San Pedro Railroad Company, and ask that the special examiner make a certified copy of the articles in lieu of the original, and that the same be marked, "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 88."

(Articles of association, amalgamation and consolidation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Los Angeles and San Pedro Railroad Company, dated December 17, 1874, filed in the office of secretary of state, December 18, 1874, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 88, Stephen Potter, special examiner"; and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence articles of amalgamation and consolidation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company with other railroad companies, dated May 4, 1888, and ask that the same be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 89," and that the special examiner certify to a printed copy of the same.

(Articles of association, incorporation, amalgamation, and consolidation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company with the San Jose, and Almaden and sixteen other railroad companies, dated May 4, 1888, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 89, Stephen Potter, special examiner," and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Q. Will you state as secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company whether the stock of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was changed in these amalgamations and consolidations herein referred to, or whether it remained the same?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions, which are in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that it is not the best evidence of the matters sought to be adduced.)

A. It remains the same.

Q. Has the business of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company since December 2, 1865, been transacted as one main corporation down to the present time?

(Same objection.)

A. It has.

Q. How long have you had charge of the books of this corporation?

(Same objection.)

A. Since October, 1870.

Q. Have you been its secretary ever since?

(Same objection.)

A. I have.

Q. Do you know whether or not the identity of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as it existed at that time has been preserved down to the present time?

(Same objection.)

A. It has.

Q. Have the accounts of this company been kept continuously by you so far as your duties of secretary apply to the accounts and finances of this company?

(Same objection.)

A. I have.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether or not the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has forwarded to the interior department, to the secreary of the interior of the United States, to the auditor of railroad accounts of the United States, to the commissioner of railroads of the United States, full reports giving full answers to all requests and demands made upon the company by those several officers of the government?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Were these reports made under your supervision and by you as secretary?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know that the information therein set forth is authentic and correct excerpts from your books and from the business of the company?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you compare them before they were sent in each instance and have them compared?

(Same objection.)

A. The matter was furnished by the heads of the different departments to me.

Q. Did you compare the information furnished with the reports as sent by you, or have it compared?

(Same objection.)

A. I had it compared.

Q. Did these reports contain from time to time the names of the stockholders of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as they have existed for each year from the date of the first report down to the date of the last report?

(Same objection.)

A. I think that has been one of the requirements in every form of report which has been made.

Q. Do these reports also include the names of the directors in each year?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The amount of the capital stock of the corporation from time to time?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The complainant in the case at bar alleges in paragraph sixteen of his bill of complaint that the defendants D. O. Mills, and G. L. Lansing have a mortgage or deed of trust from the defendant, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, covering the lands involved in this suit to secure the payment of certain indebtedness of said company to them as trustee, dated April 1, 1875; is there such a mortgage in existence?

(Same objection.)

A. There is. (Producing.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence the original trust mortgage of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, dated April 1, 1875, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 90," and with the usual understanding that a certified copy of the original may be substituted in lieu of the original.

Mr. CALL.—I have no objection to a certified copy being made in lieu of the original, subject to the same objections.

(Same objection.)

(Trust mortgage, Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, trustees, dated April 1, 1875, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner No. 90, Stephen Potter, special examiner," and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Will you state from the books of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company what the amount of the bonds is that was issued under this mortgage?

(Same objection.)

A. $39,285,000, a portion of which has been redeemed.

Q. What is the amount outstanding at present?

(Same objection.)

A. $31,293,500.

Q. Are the bonds issued under this mortgage negotiable?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have they passed into the hands of third persons for value received?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein referred to is not the same corporation nor the same Southern Pacific Railroad Company defendant in this suit; and upon the further ground that the lands involved in this case were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the terms and conditions of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, the lands in suit herein having been withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the questions of law and of fact at issue in this case have been finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States and by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California in a suit between the same parties, as shown by the records of such decisions, which are in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that it is not the best evidence of the matters sought to be adduced); and upon the further ground that the question calls for the opinion of the witness; and upon the further ground that the mortgage on its face discloses that it only purports to cover lands which were granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the alleged purchasers of such bonds are conclusively presumed to take notice of the terms of said mortgage and of the terms and conditions of the grant to said company by the acts of March 3, 1871, and July 27, 1866, and are also required to take notice of the records of the United States land office in the district where such lands are situated, and the records of the general land office at Washington, all of which discloses that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company had no interest in or title to said lands.

A. They have.

(An adjournment was then taken by consent of counsel, until Monday, October 2, 1893, at 10 A. M.)

San Francisco, October 2, 1893.

Direct examination of J. L. WILCUTT (resumed).

Mr. CALL.—We do not dispute the proposition that the defendant railroad company made reports to the secretary of the interior, as required by law, and I will make the admission that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company organized and created by the articles of incorporation of 1865 and articles of consolidation of 1870, 1873, 1874, and 1888, respectively, and in evidence herein, marked "Master's Exhibits Nos. 1, 2, and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the special examiner Nos. 88 and 89," did in pursuance of written demands from the secretary of the interior make annual and semi-annual reports and other reports to the secretaryof the interiorof the United States, from the year 1870 down to and including 1893, and between the years 1878 and 1881, to the auditor of railroad accounts created under the act of Congress approved March 19, 1878, and commencing with 1881, and since that year to the commissioner of railroads created by general appropriation act approved March 3, 1881; and that those reports set forth the transactions, doings, and acts performed by defendant railroad company under the terms of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and

March 3, 1871, making grants to Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that said reports set forth the names of stockholders and boards of directors, amounts of capital stock and statement of all contracts, consolidations, and agreements entered into with other corporations, companies, and persons, and substantially as stated in the testimony of Joseph L. Wilcutt, given in this case on September 28, 1893, before special examiner in chancery Potter, and that such reports were received by the secretary of the interior, the auditor of railroad accounts, and commissioner of railroads of the United States, respectively, and were filed in the interior department; and the matters contained in such reports were duly reported by the auditor of railroad accounts and commissioner of railroads to the secretary of the interior, in their printed and published reports, as required by law. As no controversy is made in regard to this matter, and as I deem the matter entirely irrelevant and immaterial to the issues in this case, I have made a record of this admission in order to remove any excuse or ground for encumbering the record with documentary and other evidence to establish such facts, which, as I am informed, may amount to several thousand pages.

Mr. CALL.—In addition to the objections stated to the last question asked of the witness on September 30, I make the following additional objections to said question; the question is objected to as irrelevant, immaterial, and incompetent, and not the best evidence, and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation in evidence herein, marked "Master's Exhibits 1, 2, and 3, and Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner, Nos. 88 and 89," has surrendered to the United States all interests in these lands, and did thereby surrender to the United States in each case of consolidation all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad, and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustees, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department and of the United States land office at Los Angeles and the United States land office at San Francisco and the records of the office of the secretary of State of California and the public laws of the United States and of California show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands.

Mr. CALL.—I will consent that certified copies may be made of all letters offered in evidence on September 30, 1893, which may stand in lieu of the originals, subject to the objections made to the originals, and that such copies be certified in the usual manner by the special examiner.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Have all these bonds issued that are now outstanding prior to the year 1890, so far as your books show?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, and not the best evidence, and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation in evidence herein, marked "Master's Exhibits 1, 2, and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the special examiner Nos. 88 and 89," has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands and did thereby surrender to the United States, in each case, of consolidation all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad, and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustee, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department and of the United States land office at Los Angeles and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of State for California and the public laws of the United States and of California show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands.)

A. To the best of my recollection, without looking at my records.

Q. Have you ascertained from the records in this case and from the land department how much land is involved in this litigation?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many acres are there involved?

(Same objection.)

A. About 651,750 acres.

Q. From what sources have you obtained this information?

(Same objection.)

A. From the land department.

Q. How many acres of land so far as the grant of March 3, 1871, is concerned, are included in these two causes of the mortgage of 1875—marked "Defendants'

Exhibit before the special examiner No. 90," which reads as follows: "And, therefore, this indenture further witnesseth, that the said party of the first part for the purpose of securing a payment of the sums of money mentioned in said bonds and the interest thereon and in consideration of the premises, and also for and in consideration of the sum of one dollar to the said party of the first part in hand paid, by the parties of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged has granted, bargained, sold, released, enfeoffed, conveyed, confirmed, and by these presents does grant, bargain, sell, release, enfeoff, convey, and confirm unto the said parties of the second part as trustees and to their successors and survivors, and their assigns forever, all and singular the said several sections of land so as aforesaid granted by said acts of Congress; and also all estate, right, title, interest, claim and demand whatsoever at law or in equity of, in, or to the same or any part or parcel thereof, which the said party of the first part now has, holds, owns, or is entitled to or hereafter may or shall acquire, have, hold, own, or be or become entitled to by force or virtue of the said acts of Congress."

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—I do not see that that describes any land.

Mr. REDDING.—That is a matter of opinion.

A. 4,400,000 acres.

Q. Then what is the proportion of the indebtedness secured by this mortgage which would be borne by the lands involved in this suit?

(Same objection.)

A. About one-sixth.

Q. Do the books of your company and do these mortgages show that the lands in controversy have been included as an asset for the payment of this mortgage?

(Same objection.)

A. They do.

Q. Do the representations made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the purchasers and holders of these bonds and to the mortgagees under this mortgage show that the lands in controversy in this suit were included as a portion of the assets upon*n* which to pay the indebtednes created by this mortgage and these bonds?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you as secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made these representations to the purchasers of these bonds?

(Same objection.)

A. I personally have had no negotiations with parties for the purchase of them.

Q. Do you know whether the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has made these representations.

(Same objection.)

A. It has.

Q. What has been done with the money received by the sale of these bonds, that is to say, so far as the Southern Pacific Railroad Company shows upon the books of the secretary, what application of these funds has been made?

(Same objection.)

A. Paying the indebtedness of the company in various ways.

Q. Does that include the payment for the work of construction?

(Same objection.)

A. The most of the construction has been paid for in bonds.

Q. Does your term "the indebtedness of the company" include all forms and kinds of indebtedness that the company is put to in the transaction of its business?

(Same objection.)

A. It does.

Q. Do you know that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has received the money or its equivalent for the bonds issued and the bonds now outstanding?

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—The witness has just stated that the bonds were issued for construction.

Mr. REDDING.—Yes, I understand that.

The WITNESS.—That is, a large portion of the bonds were; there have been some few that were sold for cash, but not to any great extent.

A. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has not been interested in the proceeds of the bonds; the bonds were issued to the Pacific Improvement Company and the sales have been made by the Pacific Improvement Company; the larger portion of the bonds; so far as sales have been made by the company direct it has received the money for the sales of bonds which have been actually made by the company.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence a certified copy of a deed of trust, dated August 25, 1888, between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of the first part, the Southern Pacific Company of the second part, and Central Trust Company of New York of the third part, and ask that the same be marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the special examiner, No. 91" and that the special examiner make a certified copy of this certified copy in lieu of the one now offered in accordance with our stipulation upon these matters.

(Objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, and not the best evidence, and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation in evidence herein, marked "Master's Exhibits 1, 2, and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the special examiner Nos. 88 and 89," has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands and did thereby surrender to the United States, in each case, of consolidation all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad, and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustee, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department and of the United States land office at Los Angeles and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of State for California and the public laws of the United States and of California show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands; and upon the further ground that the pretended mortgage or deed of trust referred to does not purport to cover any of the lands in suit herein and upon the further ground that the said pretended mortgage or deed of trust is null and void and of no effect so far as it is pretended that it covers or includes any of the lands in suit herein, for that there is no description given of any lands, or any reference made to any other instrument for any such description, and upon the further ground that the Central Trust Company is a corporation, organized under the laws of the State of New York, as appears from said pretended deed of trust or mortgage, and is a nonresident of the State of California and of the Southern District of California, and is not a party defendant in this suit, and upon the further ground that said Central Trust Company has no interest in the subject matter of this suit.)

Q. State what your mortgage of 1888 as evidenced by the last exhibit purports to cover?

(Same objection.)

A. A first mortgage upon certain new lines as therein described, and a second mortgage upon the old lines and all the lands that have been granted to the company under its various land grants.

Q. Do you know whether or not as a matter of fact the intention of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in executing this mortgage was to secure a second mortgage upon the land grant to it of March 3, 1871?

(Same objection.)

A. It was.

Q. What do you mean by a first mortgage upon new lines as distinguished from the old lines?

(Same objection.)

A. Lines that were not in existence at the time of the making of the mortgage of 1875. Lines which have since been laid out and built.

Q. From the books of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, what do you ascertain to be the amount of outstanding bonds negotiated under this second mortgage of August, 1888?

(Same objection.)

A. $12,932,000.

Q. Is that the amount outstanding or the amount of issuance?

(Same objection.)

A. Both; there have been no redemptions.

Q. Referring to Exhibit No. 90, otherwise known as trust mortgage of 1875, will you state whether or not the Southern Pacific Railroad Company mentioned in the second line of the first page of said mortgage and mentioned throughout said mortgage and finally mentioned on page 8, in the following language: "In witness whereof, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company has caused these presents to be signed by its president and secretary, and sealed with its corporate seal and the above parties of the second part do hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

"CHARLES CROCKER,

"President Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

"J. L. WILLCUTT,

"Secretary Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

"[Corporate Seal S. P. R. R. Co.]"

is one of*n* the defendants in this action, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is the J. L. Willcutt mentioned in this mortgage as the secretary of the Southern Pacific Company yourself?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you execute that mortgage yourself?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that your signature attached thereto?

(Same objection.)

A. Attached to the original, yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign your name at that time and place?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And attached the corporate seal of the railroad company thereto?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Referring to Defendants' Exhibit No. 91, is the Southern Pacific Railroad Company mentioned on the first and second lines of the first page and mentioned throughout said deed of trust and particularly mentioned on page 12 in the following langugae: "In witness whereof the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, party of the first part has caused these presents to be signed in its name, by its president and attested by its secretary, and sealed with its corporate seal.

"SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,

"By Charles F. Crocker, President.

"Attest: J. L. Willcutt, Secretary.

"[Seal]"

the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this action?

(Same objection.)

A. It is.

Q. Is that your signature attached to the original deed of trust?

(Same objection.)

A. It is.

Q. Did you sign the same yourself?

(Same objection.)

A. I did.

Q. Did you attach the seal of the company at that time?

(Same objection.)

A. I did.

Q. And witness the execution of the deed of trust by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. I did.

Q. In reference to the deed of trust of 1888, is the same proportion of the entire land grant of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under the grant of March 3, 1871, mortgaged and given as security as a second mortgage, as you stated, was given first to secure a mortgage in reference to the trust mortgage of 1875?

(Same objection.)

A. It bears the same proportion.

Q. Has the Southern Pacific Railroad Company represented to the purchasers of the bonds under this deed of trust of 1888, that the lands in controversy were a part of the security mortgage for the purpose of securing the payment of the indebtedness created by said deed of trust?

(Same objection.)

A. It has.

Q. Do the reports sent by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the various officers of the government herein mentioned include a statement of the execution of these various mortgages?

(Same objection.)

A. They do.

Q. What information, if at all, and in what manner has the Southern Pacific Railroad Company informed the various officers of the government of the existence of these mortgages, amounts thereof and the nature thereof?

(Same objection.)

A. In their various annual and semi-annual reports.

Q. Do those reports set forth in detail a true statement of the nature and extent of the Exhibits 90 and 91?

(Same objection.)

A. They do.

Q. Has the government been fully advised by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of these mortgages and deeds of trust?

(Same objection.)

A. It has.

Q. And at the time they were created and issued?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir; that is they are included in the first reports following the execution of the mortgages and deeds of trust.

Mr. REDDING.—That is all. I may recall Mr. Willcutt for the purpose of getting some testimony from his department in connection with the treasury department, but this is my direct testimony from him at the present time.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. CALL.—Q. When you stated that you understood that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company which is defendant in this suit, was the same corporation that the grant was made to, by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, did you have in mind the consolidations made by the original Southern Pacific Railroad Company in 1870, 1873, 1874, 1888?

(Question objected to by Mr. Redding as immaterial and irrelevant; it is immaterial for the reason that Congress made a grant of lands to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in 1866, on July 27th of that year; that in 1870, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company entered ino articles of amalgamation and consolidation which are introduced by the government in this case and marked Examiner's Exhibit No. 3, and in 1871 on March third of that year, the government of the United States, by its Congress, made a second grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company which is the grant in controversy. That this latter grant known as the branch line grant was made subsequent to the amalgamation and consolidation last referred to, and that Congress, at the time of making this latter grant, namely, of March 3, 1871, had full knowledge of the said amalgamation and consolidation and full knowledge of the method of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in entering into the articles of amalgamation and consolidation of 1870, heretofore referred to and introduced by the government in this case and marked Examiner's Exhibit No. 3; that the articles of amlagamation and consolidation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company subsequent to March 3, 1871, and subsequent to the said articles of amalgamation and consolidation of 1870 are identical in terms and conditions and procedure and with which the said government of the United States, the complainant, in this suit were informed and familiar; that therefore the complainant in this action is estopped from denying the validity of the articles of consolidation and amalgamation entered into between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and other railroad companies as herein set forthand introduced; that the governmentof the United States, the complainant herein, has recognized the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as it has existed from December, 1865, the date of its incorporation, down to and including the present time and particularly the commencement of this suit, and has been fully informed of every contract, article, or articles, and all acts of said Southern Pacific Railroad Company entered into of all kinds and nature and has approved the same and endorsed the same, and furthermore the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, making the main line grant and the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, making the branch line grant from a point at or near Tehachapi Pass by the way of Los Angeles to a point on the Colorado river near Fort Yuma which latter grant is the one in controversy, was made in direct terms to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, its successors or assigns; that for the above reasons the question is immaterial and irrelevant.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then I infer from your answer that your view is that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company organized in 1865, still exists, notwithstanding the consolidations referred to?

(Same objection.)

A. That is my understanding and my view of it.

Q. And it is then your view that it is the same corporation and same individuality that was organized in 1865?

(Same objection.)

A. It has been treated as such throughout in our relations with the government in our accounts and in our entire business.

Q. I assume from your answers that you are familiar with the terms and conditions of the consolidation referred to?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are then probably familiar in point of fact with the laws of this State in reference to consolidations and the effect of such consolidations?

(Same objection.)

A. I am.

Q. Do your records in your possession show the proceedings of the stockholders and board of directors of the consolidating companies in reference to such consolidations?

(Same objection.)

A. They do.

Mr. CALL.—I will ask you to produce the record containing the proceedings upon consolidation, commencing in 1873 and including that of 1874.

(Same objection.)

The WITNESS.—I might ask, if you wish the minutes of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company only, or that of the various roads consolidated with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

Mr. CALL.—Q. Commencing with the consolidation of 1873, did you keep separate records prior to that time for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Southern Pacific Branch Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after that date, did you keep a record of the Southern Pacific Branch Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. None whatever.

Q. And in the consolidation of 1874, did you keep a record of those amalgamating and consolidating companies up to the time of consolidation separately?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after that date did you keep any records of any of the companies other than a record of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. No, sir.

Mr. CALL.—I ask you to produce the record of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company commencing with 1873 and including the year 1874.

(Same objection.)

A recess was then taken by consent of counsel until 2 P. M.

San Francisco, Oct. 2, 1893, 2 P. M.

Cross-examination of J. L. Willcutt (resumed).

Mr. CALL.—Q. Have you produced the record requested?

A. Yes, sir. (Producing.)

Q. When you were referring to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company organized in 1865, being the same corporation that is defendant here, during all that time did you have in mind the records of your company in reference tothe construction of the railroad from Tehachapa by way of Los Angeles to the Colorado river, as to what corporation instructed that road?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you consider that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company organized in 1865, constructed that railroad?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do the records of your office show what was done in that respect, and what corporation did it?

(Same objection.)

A. There is but one corporation shown herein my records.

Q. Do the records show what was done and how it was done?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. REDDING.—Mr. Call, I understand that where the words "same objection" are used, it is the equivalent of repeating in full the last stated objection?

Mr. CALL.—I understand that that is understood all during the trial of this case before the special examiner.

Q. Do the records of your office show as to the manner of constructing the railroad from Tehachapa by way of Los Angeles to the Colorado river, that is, as to how the contract work was let and when it was approved?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you please produce the record showing those matters referred to, or is it all contained in this book?

(Same objection.)

A. It is contained in this book.

Q. Referring to the construction of the railroad from Tehachapa by way of Los Angeles to Colorado river, was that road constructed direct by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, or was it by contract with the Pacific Improvement Company, or some other company?

(Same objection.)

A. Under contract with another company.

Q. What company?

(Same objection.)

A. I find that it was The Pacific Improvement Company.

Q. Was the Pacific Improvement Company paid for constructing that railroad in cash or in bonds and stock?

(Same objection.)

A. In bonds and stock.

Q. How much did they receive per mile?

(Same objection.)

A. $25,000 per mile in bonds and $30,000 per mile in stock?

Q. Altogether?

(Same objection.)

A. $55,000 per mile.

Q. At the par value of the stock and bonds?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many miles is it from Mojave by way of Los Angeles to the Colorado river at Yuma?

(Same objection.)

A. 242 507-1000 miles.

Q. These stocks and bonds were stocks and bonds of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, were they?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Making altogether how much in bonds for the building of that line?

(Same objection.)

A. $6,062,500, or thereabouts in bonds.

Q. Were bonds also issued to the Pacific Improvement Company for constructing the other branch lines of road mentioned in the mortgage to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir. bonds were issued under different contracts, either with the Pacific Improvement Company, the Western Development Company, or the Contract and Finance Company; there were contracts with all of those companies.

Q. One of those three companies built all the roads, taking their pay in bonds and stock?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. CALL.—From the record produced by the witness, marked on the back "Record Southern Pacific R. R. Co., A" I offer the following parts of the record referred to:

Pages 117 to 132, inclusive, excepting the duplicate copy of articles as proposed and as adopted, which will be omitted.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—By consent, in lieu of copying the articles of consolidation of 1873, as they appear in the original record, as now being offered, it is agreed that the articles of consolidation of that date heretofore offered, and marked Exhibit ——, shall stand in lieu thereof. Is that satisfactory to you?

Mr. REDDING.—That is satisfactory to me, with the same objection to its competency, relevancy, and materiality.

Mr. CALL.—I also offer in evidence pages 136 and 137.

(Same objection.)

Also pages 145, 146.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also page 147.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—I also offer in evidence page 148.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also pages 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, and 158, omitting the articles of consolidation of 1874.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Mr. Redding, is it admitted that the articles of 1874 marked "Master's Exhibit ——," shall stand in lieu of the excerpt from the record, without the necessity of copying again the articles set forth herein?

Mr. REDDING.—Yes, sir, subject to the same objections heretofore made.

Mr. CALL.—I also offer pages 159, 160, 161, and 162 to 166 inclusive.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also pages 196 to 202, inclusive.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also pages 215 to 219, inclusive.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading of the meeting at page 220, and the matter contained on page 222.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading of the meeting commencing at page 230, and omitting from there to page 231, commencing on page 231 with the following language: "The following preamble and resolutions," the balance of page 231, 232, and the first line on 233, and the signature of the secretary on page 234.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also page 245, and the first seven lines on page 246, and that part of 247 commencing with the words: "The following resolution was offered," and ending at the bottom of said page.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also page 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 276, and that part of 277 ending with the words "a proper receipt therefor" near the bottom of page 287, page 288, 289, 290, excepting the letter pasted on that page, the first two lines of 291, 292.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also pages 301 to 304, inclusive.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also pages 309, to 311, inclusive, 312, and 313.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—The heading at page 457, and then omit down to the seventh line from the bottom on page 458, and including the last six lines on page 458, page 459, the heading of the meeting on page 460, and the first resolution on 462, omitting what occurs between.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also page 474, and ending on page 475.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—The heading on page 476, and that part of page 479, commencing with the words "the following resolution was offered," and ending with "J. L. Willcutt, Secretary."

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—The heading on page 480, and that part of 481 commencing with the words, "the following resolution was offered by Charles Mayne," and ending with the the words, "taking a proper voucher therefor," and comprising seventeen lines.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading of the meeting on page 486, omitting until the following words are reached on page 490, "the following resolution was offered by Charles Mayne," and including the balance of 490, excepting the last three lines; also the signature of J. L. Willcutt, secretary on page 491.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading on page 492, and the last half of page 493, commencing with the words "the following resolution was offered," and ending with the first three lines of page 494.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading of page 495 and the first resolution on page 497, taking half of the page.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading of the meeting on page 500, and the resolution contained on the bottom half of page 501, and ending on page 502.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—Also the heading on page 503, and the last half of page 504 commencing with the words, "the following resolution was offered," and ending with the first three lines on page 505, also the signature of the secretary on the same page.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—The heading of 504 and the resolution at bottom of page 515, commencing with the words "on motion of N. T. Smith," and ending on page 516 with the words "on open account," also the signature of the secretary on page 518.

(Same objection.)

Mr. CALL.—I will ask the special examiner to make copies of this portion of this record which I have offered, and to file it in evidence in the case as exhibit before the special Examiner L; and would it be satisfactory for him to do so, to be taken with the same effect as the original, subject to the same objection?

Mr. REDDING.—Yes, sir; satisfactory, provided it is understood that my objection runs to each excerpt taken throughout the entire series of pages on the ground of incompetency, immateriality, and irrelevancy, as heretofore set forth.

Mr. CALL.—Q. Referring to your testimony on direct examination that representations were made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to purchasers of bonds, or proposed purchasers of bonds, that the company represented to such purchasers that the mortgage of 1875 to Mills and Tevis, trustees, covered the lands in suit, I ask you to state how such representations were made and by whom?

A. The mortgage, I understand, covers all those lands, and from information which I have been called upon to furnish the New York office from time to time, I assume those representations were made to the purchasers of the bonds.

Q. Did you personally make such representations yourself? A. No, sir.

Q. Were such representations made in your presence by any authorized officer of the company to any proposed purchaser? A. No, sir.

Q. In assuming that the mortgage covered the lands in suit, are you familiar with the terms and conditions of the mortgage?

The WITNESS.—As expressed therein?

Mr. CALL.—Q. You are aware that the mortgage states in substance that it covers lands granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, are you not?

(Question objected to by Mr. Redding as being misleading, and not the best evidence; the mortgage itself sets forth what it pretends to cover in the shape of security.)

Mr. CALL.—I want to get the source of information of the witness? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. CALL.—And you are then aware that the mortgage does not describe any particular tracts of lands in terms?

A. There are no particular tracts described, but reference is made on page 1 of the mortgage to the fact that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is about to issue its first mortgage bonds for the said railroad and telegraph line, and its rolling stock, fixtures, and franchises, and also upon the lands granted to it by Congress by the act of Congress entitled "An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," approved July 27, 1866, and the act entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, not sold or otherwise disposed of prior to the execution of this mortgage, and upon page 6 the expression that this mortgage covers "all and singular the said several sections of land so as aforesaid granted by said acts of Congress; and also all the estate, right, title, interest, claim and demand whatsoever, at law or in equity of, in, or to the same, or any part or parcel thereof, which the said party of the first part now has, holds, owns, or is entitled to, or hereafter may or shall acquire, have, hold, own, or be or become entitled to by force or virtue of the said acts of Congress; saving, excepting, and reserving all parts and parcels of said lands which have been sold or contracted to be sold or disposed of heretofore, or which are or shall be included in the right of way of the said railroads and telegraph lines of the said company, as defined and granted by the acts of Congress aforesaid, or used for the construction or operation thereof, or for the track, yards, depot grounds, buildings, or erections thereon."

Q. Are you familiar with the terms and conditions of the acts of Congress therein referred to?

(Question objected to by Mr. Redding as immaterial, irrelevant, and incompetent, and calling for the opinion of the witness.)

A. Only in a general way.

Q. When you stated that you assumed that the mortgage covered lands in suit, did you or did you not assume that the lands were covered by the grants or acts of Congress referred to?

A. I assumed that they were; I understood that they were.

Q. Were you aware that the Acts of Congress referred to did not grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company lands which had been previously granted and also lands which had been reserved for any purpose?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has there been any consolidation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company with other railroad companies since that made in 1888?

A. No, sir.

Re-direct Examination.

Mr. REDDING. Have you obtained from Mr. Lansing the letter of acknowledgment from the office of commissioner of railroads showing the receipt by the department of the interior of the reports of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the years of 1889, 1890, 1891, 1892, and 1893?

A. I have.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence letters from the department of the interior, office of commissioner of railroads, addressed to G. L. Lansing, Esq., secretary and controller Southern Pacific Company, dated respectively, October 24, 1889, October 21, 1890, October 21, 1891, September 28, 1892, and September 16, 1893, and ask that they be marked "Defendants' Exhibits before the special examiner Nos. 92, 93, 94, 95, and 96."

(Enclosure.)

(Public—No. 51.)

An act relative to filing reports of railroad companies.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the reports required to be made to the secretary of the Treasury on or before the first day of July of each year, by the corporations created by or entitled to subsidies under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri river to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military and other purposes," approved July first, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and the acts supplemental to and amendatory thereof, shall hereafter be made to the secretary of the interior, on or before the first day of October of each year. Said reports shall furnish full and specific information upon the several points mentioned in the twentieth section of the said act of eighteen hundred and sixty-two and shall be verified as therein prescribed, and on failure to make the same as herein required, the issue of bonds or patents to the company in default shall be suspended until the requirements of this act shall be complied with by such company. And the reports hitherto made to the secretary of the treasury under the said act of July first, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, shall be transferred and delivered by him to the secretary of the interior to be filed by him.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the corporations created by the provisions of the acts of Congress approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-four and July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, and known as the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, shall make reports to the secretary of the interior on or before the first of October of each year, as are required to be made by the Union Pacific Railroad and branches, under the provisions of the first section of this act, and on failure to do so, shall be subject to the like suspension.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, that the reports required from the commissioners appointed to examine and report in relation to the road of any of the corporations whereto reference is made in this act, shall be addressed to and filed in the department of the interior; and all such reports heretofore made shall be transferred to and filed in said department of the interior; and so much of any and all acts as requires any reports from such companies, or any officers thereof, to be made to the secretary of the treasury, is hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, that, in addition to the eight subjects referred to, in section twenty of the act of July, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, to be reported upon, there shall also be furnished annually to the secretary of the interior all reports of engineers, superintendents, or other officers who make annually reports to any of said railroad companies.

Department of the Interior.

Office of the Secretary,

Washington, D. C., 1st Sept., 1876.

Sir:

I enclose herewith a printed circular, issued by this department twenty-sixth October, 1872, concerning the annual reports of railroad companies, which the law requires to be filed in this department.

I desire, that in making up the annual report of your company, you will see that it conforms in every respect to the requirements of this circular, and that it be furnished to the department on or before the first proximo.

Very respectfully,

Z. CHANDLER,

Secretary.

Chas. Crocker, Esq.,
Pres. Southern Pacific R. R. Co.,
9 Nassau St., New York.

[Endorsed]: Hon. Z. Chandler, secretary of the interior to Chas. Crocker, President Southern Pacific Railroad Company.—Annual report of company to secretary of interior. (Enclosure.)

Department of the Interior.
Washington, D. C., October 26, 1872.

Gentlemen:

The following named railroad companies are required by the twentieth section of the act of first of July, 1862 (12 Statutes, 498), to make annual reports to the secretary of the interior under certain specified heads: The Union Pacific, Central Pacific, Western Pacific (now consolidated with Central Pacific), Central Branch Union Pacific, Denver Pacific, Sioux City and Pacific, and Kansas Pacific, and the act of twenty-fifth of June, 1868 (15 Statutes, 79), requires such reports from the Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, and the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Companies.

These reports are required by said twentieth section to show—

"First. The names of the stockholders and their places of residence, so far as the same can be ascertained;

"Second. The names and residences of the directors, and all other officers of the company;

"Third. The amount of stock subscribed, and the amount thereof actually paid in;

"Fourth. A description of the lines of road surveyed, of the lines thereof fixed upon for the construction of the road, and the cost of such surveys;

"Fifth. The amount received from passengers on the road;

"Sixth. The amount received for freight thereon;

"Seventh. A statement of the expense of said road and its fixtures; total and annual.

"Eighth. A statement of the indebtedness of said company, setting forth the various kinds thereof.

"Which report will be sworn to by the President of said company."

There is also required from the Atlantic & Pacific Company, by the thirteenth section of the act of twenty-seventh of July, 1866 (14 Statutes, 297), "An annual report of their proceedings and expenditures, verified by the affidavits of the president and at least six of the directors, a copy of which shall be deposited in the office of (the) secretary of the interior." The fourth section of the act of twenty-fifth June, 1868 (15 Statutes, 79), also requires "that, in addition to the eight subjects referred to in section twenty of the act of July, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, to be reported upon, there shall also be furnished annually to the secretary of the interior all reports of engineers, superintendents or other officers who make annual reports to any of said railroad companies." The first section of the said act of twenty-fifth June, 1868, requires the reports of the above-mentioned companies "to be made to the secretary of the interior on or before the first day of October of each year," and that they "shall furnish full and specific information upon the several points mentioned in the twentieth section of the said act of 1862, and shall be verified as therein prescribed, and on failure to make the same as herein required, the issue of bonds or patents to the company in default shall be suspended until the requirement of this act shall be complied with by such company." The thirteenth section of the act of third of March, 1871 (16 Statutes, 577), requires a sworn report to be made by the Texas & Pacific Railroad Company to the secretary of the interior "by the first day of July" of each year. Said section requires this report to exhibit "the financial situation of the company, the amount of money received and expended, and the number of miles of road constructed each year; and further the names and residences of the stockholders, of the directors, and of all other officers of the company; the amount of stock subscribed, and the amount thereof actually paid in, a description of the lines of road surveyed and fixed upon for construction, the amount received from passengers and for freight, respectively, on the road, a statement of the expenses of said road and its fixtures, and a true statement of the indebtedness of said company, and the various kinds thereof."

The number of shares of stock held by each director should be given.

B. R. COWEN,
Acting Secretary.

To Presidents of Railroad Companies:

If no such reports are made to the company it should be so stated in your report.

[Endorsed]: Requirements by department of the interior. September 1, 1876.

I hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing instrument with the original, and find it to be a full, true and correct copy thereof.

First Letter.

Requirements from Department of the Interior.

Office of Auditor of Railroad Accounts,
Washington, D. C., July 13, 1878.

Sir:

I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of the act of Congress entitled "An act to create an auditor of railroad accounts, and for other purposes," approved June 19, 1878, and to call your attention to the requirements of the same.

Under the provisions of this act, I hereby respectfully request that you direct the secretary of your company to furnish this office, by return mail, with the name and residences of all the officers and directors of the company, as of date July 1, 1878, and with the business address of the company.

I have further to request that you direct all the officers of your company, in compliance with the requirements of law, to render to this office all information and reports that I may require from time to time, to submit the books and records of the company to my inspection, or that of any person acting in my place or stead, and to furnish transportation over your road for myself or any person acting under my direction, without expense to the United States.

I will thank you also for copies of the full series of your printed reports to stockholders, including that for last year.

I have the honor further to request that this office be furnished, by return mail, or as soon thereafter as possible with copies of all schedules of "through" and "way" passenger and freight tariffs, or rates in force on the first instant, and of such others as have been in force during the year ending June 30, 1878, also of all joint schedules of passenger and freight tariffs agreed upon between your company and other railroad companies, and in force during the same periods; and of all contracts for special rates that have been made by your company with any person, firm, or corporation during the same period.

Very respectfully,

THEO'S FRENCH,

Auditor.

Charles Crocker, Esq.,

President Southern Pacific Railroad Company,

San Francisco, Cal.

P. S.—If the method of keeping your accounts will permit this information to be furnished specifically as requested, it is so desired; if not, then as near thereto as possible.

Twenty-second Letter.

Department of the Interior.
Office of Auditor of Railroad Accounts.
Washington, D. C., April 17, 1879.

Sir:

Herewith please find enclosed twenty-five blanks and twelve return envelopes, for monthly report of the earnings and expenses of your road from January, 1879, inclusive.

A change in the form of report for the year commencing July 1, 1879, is now being considered, with a view to make it less troublesome, to simplify it, and if possible to reduce it to the minimum of information required.

The design in asking for these statements of earnings and expenses is that the information furnished may be consolidated into a monthly official statement to be issued by this office.

For this reason, it is desirable that the blanks should be filled and forwarded to this office as soon as possible after the close of each month.

Very respectfully,

THEOS. FRENCH,
Auditor.

S. G.

Charles Crocker, Esq.,
President Southern Pacific R. R. Co.,
San Francisco, California.

Twenty-third Letter.

Department of the Interior.
Office of Auditor of Railroad Accounts.
Washington, D. C., May 17, 1879.

Sir:

Under the act of Congress approved June 19, 1878, requests have been made from time to time, for reports to be rendered by your company to this office, as follows, viz:

July 13, 1878; Compliance with auditor's act.
July 13, 1878; Address of officers and directors.
July 13, 1878; Business address of company.
July 13, 1878; Information, inspection of books and right of way.
July 13, 1878; Copies of printed reports.
July 13, 1878; Freights, etc., schedules, copies of.
July 13, 1878; Copies of joint tariffs.
July 13, 1878; Special contracts.
July 29, 1878; By-laws and list of committees.
July 24, 1878; Land agent's report.
July 26, 1878; Contracts with telegraph and other companies.
July 22, 1878; Form 1, financial condition.
Aug. 1, 1878; Form 2, revenue.
Sept. 3, 1878; Form 3, ownership and control.
Aug. 27, 1878; Form 4, statistical—traffic.
Sept. 20, 1878; Form 5, operating and other expenses.
Sept. 27, 1878; Form 6, income expenses.
Oct. 1, 1878; Form 7, cost on construction.
Oct. 4, 1878; Form 8, statistical — employees, supplies, repairs, taxes, etc.

Oct. 7, 1878; Form 9, statistical—accidents.

Oct. 10, 1878; Form 10, statistical—funded debt.

Oct. 12, 1878; Form 11, statistical—capital stock.

Oct. 15, 1878; Form 12, statistical—roadway.

Oct. 16, 1878; Form 13, statistical—locomotives.

Feb. 19 1879 — Sept. 25. 1878; Form 14, land department, statistical.

Feb. 19 1879 — Sept. 25,1878; Form 15,land department,financial.

Oct. 17, 1878; Form 16, statistical—bridges.

Oct. 19, 1878; Form 17, statistical—passenger, freight and miscellaneous cars.

Oct. 22, 1878; Form 18, statistical—stocks and bonds.

Oct. 24, 1878; Form 19, freight carried.

Apr. 7, 1879; Form 20, earnings and expenses—monthly.

If any compliance has been made with these requests, it has been only partial. The Supreme Court of the United States having decided that the so-called "Thurman act" of May 7, 1878, is constitutional, there can be little question but that in the main the act of June 19, 1878, creating an auditor of railroad accounts and for other purposes, is also constitutional.

So far as this office is concerned, it is not desirable to have to enforce the penalties provided in case of neglect or refusal on the part of any company to make such reports as may be called for, and it is hoped that your company will comply with the requirements of the law in all respects, upon demand hereby now and again made, without necessitating an appeal to the courts.

Very respectfully,

THEOPHILUS FRENCH,

Auditor.

S. G.

Charles Crocker, Esq.,

President Southern Pacific R. R. Co.,

San Francisco, California.

Twenty-fourth Letter.

Department of the Interior.

Office of Auditor of Railroad Accounts.

Washington, D. C., September 1, 1879.

Sir:

Herewith I hand you two copies of blank form adopted by this office for half yearly reports.

This form takes the place of all forms hitherto issued from this office with the exceptions of Form No. 1 and form for "statement of earnings and expenses" (sample copies enclosed) upon which reports will be required monthly as heretofore. To save the labor of copying by hand and to insure accuracy in the copies to be retained, the new are printed in copying ink.

If the information cannot be given in full, or the exact form prescribed, without considerable special expense, it should be given as complete and as nearly in accordance with the form as may be.

Hereafter your accounts should be so kept that you are able to comply fully with the requirements.

The amount received as car service should be reported in full in earnings. The amount paid as "car service" should be reported in full in expenses.

I have to request that reports be made to this office by your road, as follows:

First, Half yearly reports on new form—for each of the periods of six months ending December 31, 1878, and June 30, 1879, showing operations, etc., etc., of the land grant portion of your road.

Second, Half yearly reports, in any convenient form—for each of the aforementioned periods of six months, showing operations, etc., of such portions of your road as have have not received, and are not entitled to receive, any lands of the United States by direct grant from Congress, or indirectly through any State; giving in each case the basis upon which business is pro-rated therewith.

Third, Abstracts of debit and credit footings, on Form No. 1, of your general ledger at close of business before transfer of balances, January 31, 1879, and for the last day of each subsequent month.

Fourth, Statement of earnings and expenses for the months, January, 1879-78, and monthly thereafter.

I will thank you to cause the above-described reports to be made at an early day.

Very respectfully,

THEOS. FRENCH,

Auditor.

S. G.

Charles Crocker, Esq.,

Sir:

By this mail a blank form for semiannual report has been forwarded to your address, and I have to request that report be made upon the same for the six months ending December 31, 1879.

Your attention is respectfully called to the following points, viz:

Pages 4 and 5—"additions and betterments, etc."—This is merely for six months—with the understanding that the total cost has been given in former reports.

Page 6—give such information as may be possible from your accounts as kept.

Pages 7 and 7A—the order of detail is so arranged as to enable the classification "conducting transportation." "Motive power," etc., to be obtained by footing the consecutive items.

Pages, 11, 12, 13, and 13A—the information required by these blanks must of course be governed by your own record of statistics.

Pages 18 and 18A—these pages it will be noted refer to rolling stock owned, and rolling stock not owned, by which latter is meant such as has been rented, leased or purchased on installments.

Pages 19 to 20A—these pages, you will notice, refer to accidents, their classification, casualties and expenses. It is especially requested that this information be given as fully as possible.

While it is not desirable to put you to any extraordinary or unnecessary expense in this matter of making up reports, it is desirable to have the reports as complete as may be, and that they be rendered at as early a day as practicable.

Very respectfully,

THEOS. FRENCH,
Auditor.

Sir:

After careful consideration, I have concluded that your company may render an annual report on our form 8—002, in lieu of the half-yearly reports heretofore required. Such annual report should be made for the fiscal year ending June 30, in each year, and should reach this office not later than September 1. This change is made to promote the convenience of your office and upon your assurance that the report will be furnished by the time indicated, the semi-annual report will be dispensed with, reserving, however, the right to require it as heretofore, if it should appear necessary.

The monthly reports of earnings and expenses will be required as formerly.

Dear Sir:

I have received the letter of the fourteenth instant in which you inform me that "by reason of the lease of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California to the Southern Pacific Company, the operations of this road will hereafter be included in the statements of that company."

I beg leave to suggest that the obligations of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California to the United States government are in no manner affected by the lease to which you refer, and consequently, that statements of the operations of that company are as necessary now and will be hereafter, as they have been hitherto. Therefore I respectfully request that you will continue to furnish them.

Most respectfully yours,

J. E. JOHNSTON,
Commissioner.

System of Reports.

Department of the Interior.
Office of the Commissioner of Railroads,
Washington, D. C., November 27, 1885.

By virtue of the authority vested in the commissioner of railroads by the third section of the act of June 19, 1878, by and under the direction, and with the approval of the secretary of the interior, I do hereby prescribe the following system of sworn "reports to be rendered" to me by "the railroad companies, whose roads are in whole or in part west, north, or south of the Missouri river, and to which the United States have granted any loan of credit or subsidy in bonds or lands," which system is to take effect on and after the thirty-first day of December, 1885.

1. Annual report to be returned to the commissioner of railroads, to be made on or before the first day of February of each year, and to include business to the thirty-first of December in the year next preceding, in accordance with form hereto annexed marked "A."

2. Semi-annual report, embracing—The whole earnings of each road and the whole earnings of each branch, the net earnings of each road and the net earnings of each branch. The items of charge which make the difference between the gross earnings of each road and its net earnings, and of each branch and its net earnings, specifically showing the items composing such difference, and, in other respects, according to the form hereto annexed marked "B."

3. A monthly report, between the first and fifteenth of each month, showing the gross and net earnings of each road during the last preceding month.

4. Where a portion of any road is subsidized and a portion not subsidized, a separate account and report of the actual gross and net earnings of the subsidized portion of the road, and the actual gross and net earnings of the nonsubsidized part according to rules 1, 2, and 3, and forms "A" and "B."

5. A report—at least ten days in advance of each meeting of the stockholders—specifying distinctly what business is to be done or submitted for action at such meeting.

6. A report, to be made at least ten days before each meeting of the directors, with a full and specific statement of all business to be submitted to such board.

7. A report to be made at least three days in advance of each meeting of the executive committee of the board of directors, with a full statement of all business to be submitted to each committee.

8. A report of the minutes of each meeting of the stockholders within ten days after the adjournment of such meeting.

9. A full report of the minutes of each meeting of the board of directors, to be returned within ten days after the adjournment of such meeting, including names of directors present, and how each voted.

10. A full report of the minutes of each meeting of the executive committee, to be submitted within ten days after adjournment, including the names of directors present, and how each voted.

11. A quarterly report of the rates charged during each quarter, within fifteen days after the close of the quarter, for passengers and traffic on each road and each of its branches, both as to through and local traffic on each, and the portion of road or roads to which such rate or rates applied.

12. A distinct and full report of all special rates, if any, to whom allowed, also all, if any, rebates or drawbacks, and to whom, and the aggregate amount of each, to be returned within fifteen days, after the close of each quarter.

13. All contracts made with any other railroad or transportation company or companies within ten days after such contract is made, with a copy of the contract if in writing, with a full statement thereof if in parol.

J. E. JOHNSTON,
Commissioner of Railroads.

Series "A" to consist of thirteen thousand bonds for one thousand dollars each, numbered from one to thirteen thousand, both inclusive, and four thousand bonds for five hundred dollars each, numbered from thirteen thousand and one to seventeen thousand, both inclusive. Series "B" to "F," both inclusive, consisting each of five thousand bonds, for one thousand dollars each, numbered from seventeen thousand and one to forty-two thousand, both inclusive, and series "G," consisting of six thousand bonds for one thousand dollars each, numbered from forty-two thousand and one to forty-eight thousand, both inclusive. All of said bonds being payable thirty years after date, with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually. The said series "A" to bear date April first, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and the said several succeeding series to bear such dates respectively as the board of directors of said company may direct, all of said bonds aggregating the sum of forty-six millions of dollars; and

Description of Bonds.

Whereas, the said board of directors, at the meeting aforesaid, and in the manner and form, and by the vote aforesaid, did further resolve, that the said series "A" of said bonds should be executed and issued in substantially the following form, and that the succeeding series of said bonds should be in a similar form, with the necessary changes to conform to said resolutions or orders, which form is as follows, to-wit:

The United States of America:

Form of Bond. $1,000 in United States Gold Coin (Vignette.) In United States $1,000 Gold Coin

First Mortgage Bond.

No. —— Series "A."

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company (of California).

with such changes in amount in the body and in the coupon as shall be necessary to conform to the order of the board of directors aforesaid, in regard to the several amounts or sums which are payable in each class of bonds; and

Whereas, by an act of Congress of the United States of America, approved on the twenty-seventh day of July, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-six, entitled "An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," there was granted to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, party of the first part, a large body of public lands of the United States, to-wit: Every alternate section of public lands, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of ten alternate sections per mile on each side of the railroad and telegraph line of said company, running from the bay of San Francisco to the southeasterly line of the State of California, being about six hundred and thirty-six miles, not sold, reserved, granted or otherwise appropriated, and free from preemption, homestead, or other claims or rights at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof, filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office, and such other alternate sections, designated by odd numbers as aforesaid, and situated not more than ten miles beyond the limits of the said first alternate sections, which may be selected by said company in lieu of any of the sections first aforesaid which may have been sold, granted, reserved, preempted, occupied as homesteads, or otherwise disposed of, or to which other rights may have attached, as provided in the act of Congress aforesaid for the purpose of aiding in the construction of the railroad and telegraph line of the said party of the first part; and

U. S. Government Land Grant.

Whereas, by an act of Congress of the United States of America, approved on the third day of March, eighteen hundred and seventy-one, entitled

"An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes," there was granted to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company the authority to construct a line of railroad from a point near Tehachapi Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad, at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, land grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions as were granted to and imposed upon the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, by the aforesaid act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, before recited, subject to the rights, present and prospective, of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, which said last line of road is of the length of three hundred and fifty-six and seven one-hundredths miles; and

Act of Congress Authorizing the Company to construct lines to connect with Texas Pacific Railroad and Atlantic & Pacific Railroad.

Whereas, the said board of directors, at the meeting aforesaid, and in the manner and form, and by the vote aforesaid, did further direct that, to secure the payment of said bonds, a first mortgage upon said road and its rolling stock, stations, fixtures, right of way and franchises, and the lands aforesaid granted by said acts of Congress, not sold or otherwise disposed of or contracted to be sold, as shown by the books of said company, should be executed under the corporate seal of said company, and be signed by its president and secretary, to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, both of the city and county of San Francisco, State of California, as trustees for the holders of said bonds; and Mortgage to be executed to Trustees.

Whereas, said board of directors, at the meeting aforesaid, and in the manner and form, and by the vote aforesaid, did further direct that a sinking fund should be created for the redemption and payment of said bonds, by setting apart the sum of one hundred thousand dollars of the net income of said road in the year eighteen hundred and eighty-two, and each year thereafter until all of said bonds, principal and interest, shall have been redeemed or paid in trust to be loaned out at interest, upon good securities, or otherwise invested under the order and direction of said board of directors, or used to redeem said bonds as often as one hundred thousand dollars shall come into the sinking fund, in which case notice shall be published in one paper in the city of San Francisco and two papers in New York City, that bonds will be redeemed at a price not exceeding their par value, and inviting bids for the surrender thereof at prices to be named, not exceeding the par value of said bonds; the lowest bids less than par to be accepted, and bonds redeemed, to the extent of the money in the sinking fund.

Sinking Fund $100,000 yearly commencing 1882.

Redemption of Bonds.

Now, therefore, this indenture witnesseth, that the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for the better securing of the payment of the principal and interest of the said first mortgage bonds, and in consideration also of the sum of one dollar, to it in hand paid by the said parties of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, has granted, bargained, sold and aliened, conveyed and confirmed, and by these presents, doth grant, bargain, sell, alien, convey and confirm unto the said parties of the second part, and to their successors duly appointed, for the execution of the trusts herein set forth, the following property, now or hereafter constituted, purchased, acquired, held in possession and owned by said company, towit: The whole of the railroad and telegraph line of the said company, running from the city of San Francisco, in the State of California, in a southerly and southeasterly direction, by way of Carnadero Junction, Salinas Valley and Polonio Pass, to the Colorado river, at or near the "Needles"; also from Carnadero Junction to San Benito; also from Los Gatos creek, via Goshen, to the junction with the first mentioned line, between Poso creek and Kern river; also from the junction near Tehachapi Pass, via Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad near Fort Yuma; and also from Los Angeles to Wilmington, on San Pedro bay, aggregating eleven hundred and fifty miles of railroad and telegraph line, including all the rights of way, roadway, track and tracks, together with all the superstructures, depots, depot grounds, stationhouses, wateringplaces, workshops, machineshops, machinery, side tracks, turnouts, turntables, weighing scales, locomotives, tenders, cars, rolling stock of all kinds, full equipments, fixtures, tools and all other property which may be necessarily or ordinarily used in operating or repairing the said railroad, including all of the said property, which is now or may hereafter, in whole or in part, be constructed or completed, purchased, acquired, held or owned by the said company, pertaining to said railroad, and all the corporate rights, privileges and franchises of said company, pertaining to said road, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments, and appurtenances, thereunto belonging and appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, incomes, issues and profits thereof, with all the rights, titles, interests, estate, property, succession, claim and demand, in law or equity, of the said party of the first part, of, in and to the same, or any part and parcel thereof; to have and to hold the above granted and described premises, property and franchises, with the appurtenances, unto the said parties of the second part, and to the survivor of them and to their successors, duly appointed, upon trust and for the use and benefit of the person or persons, body or bodies, politic or corporate, who shall have become, or be from time to time, holders of the said "first mortgage bonds," or any of them. Provided, always, and these presents are upon the express condition that if the said party of the first part, or its successors, shall well and truly pay, or cause or procure to be paid unto the holders, from time to time, of said bonds, and each and every one of them, the said sums of money secured to be paid by the said bonds, and the interest coupons attached thereto, at the places and times, and in the manner set forth in the said bonds, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, then these presents, and all the property, estate, right, franchises and privileges herein and hereby granted and conveyed, shall cease, determine and be void. But if default shall be made in the payment of the said sums of money specified in said bonds, or in the payment of said interest coupons, or either of them, or any part thereof, and if the same shall remain unpaid for the period of six months from and after the time when the same should have been paid, according to the terms of said bonds, then the said parties of the second part, or either of them, upon the refusal of the other, or their successors in said trust, by themselves, or their agents, or servants, in that behalf, may, upon request of the holder or holders of not less than one-fourth of said bonds, on which the interest or principal shall so be and have so remained in default, as aforesaid, enter into and upon and take possession of all, or in their or his discretion, any part of the said premises and property hereinbefore described, and work and operate the said railroad, and receive the income, receipts and profits thereof, and out of the same pay: First. The expenses of running and operating the same, including therein such reasonable compensation as they or he may allow to the several persons employed or engaged in the running and superintendence of the same, and a reasonable compensation to the parties of the second part, or their successors, or such of them as shall act in the premises, for their or his care, diligence and responsibility in the premises.

Description of property conveyed to Trustees.

Proceedings in event of default in payment

Second. The expenses of keeping the said road, the appurtenances, the locomotives and the rolling stock thereof in good and sufficient repair, to prevent deterioration in the value thereof, and all other reasonable and proper charges and expenses of the care and management thereof. And, Third. Pay as far as the same will suffice, all interest and principal, if any, which may be due on said bonds; and in case of any deficiency, to apply said receipts, after the payment of all said charges and expenses, to the payment thereof, ratably, without preference of any kind, or the said parties of the second part may in such case foreclose this mortgage, and sell and dispose of, according to law, all the rights, property, privileges, franchises, real and personal, with the appurtenances herein and hereby granted, or so much thereof as may be necessary, and out of the money arising from such sale, pay: First. The costs, and charges, and expenses of the foreclosure and sale, including therein reasonable counsel fees for conducting said proceedings, to be allowed and fixed by the Court, but not exceeding thirty thousand dollars. Second. Any expenses, costs and charges of the execution of the trust previously incurred and remaining unpaid. Third. A reasonable compensation to the trustees, or one of them, who may act, for their or his care, trouble and service in completing the execution of his trust and the distribution of the proceeds of sale, to be fixed by the Court, but not exceeding twenty thousand dollars. And, Fourth. To distribute the residue of such proceeds among the holders of said bonds, in proportion to their several interests, until all have been paid in full, principal and accrued interests.

Proceeds from sale of Depot Lands, etc., not needed for such purposes, may be sold and proceeds applied to redemption of Bonds.

And the said party of the first part hereby covenants and agrees that if, at any time, any lands now used for depot or shop purposes, or right of way, or water, or any lands not now used, but which may be hereafter used for such purposes, shall, for any cause, cease to be needed or used by said party of the first part for such purposes, the said parties of the second part may sell the same at the price to be agreed upon by the parties of the first and second parts, and apply the money realized from such sale or sales to the redemption of said bonds, in the manner hereinafter provided in the case of money realized from the sale of lands granted by the United States to the said party of the first part.

Company to pay all taxes, assessments, etc., or in default Trustees may pay and receive 7 per cent interest on such payments.

And the said party of the first part hereby agrees and covenants to and with the said parties of the second part, and their successors in said trust, that it will pay all ordinary and extraordinary taxes, assessments, and other public burdens and charges which shall or may be imposed upon the property herein described and hereby mortgaged, and every part thereof, and the said parties of the second part, the survivor of them, or their successors in said trust, or any one or more of the holders of said bonds, may, in case of default of the said party of the first part in this behalf, pay and discharge the same, and any other lien or incumbrance upon said property, which may in any way, either in law or equity, be or become in effect a charge or lien thereon, prior to these presents, or to which this mortgage may be subject or subordinate and for all payments thus made the parties so making the same shall be allowed interest thereon at the rate of seven per centum per annum, and such payments, with the interest thereon, shall be and are hereby secured to them by these presents, and declared to be payable and collectible in the same sort of currency or money wherein they shall have been paid, and the same shall be payable by said party of the first part to said parties of the second part, upon demand in trust for the party or parties paying the same, and may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said property and franchises hereinbefore provided.

Will execute any further conveyances required.

And the said party of the first part hereby further covenants and agrees to and with the said parties of the second part, and their successors in said trust, that they will at any and all times hereafter, upon the request of the said parties of the second part, execute, acknowledge and deliver to the said parties of the second part, all and every such further, necessary and reasonable conveyances and assurances of the said premises or any part thereof, as may by the parties of the second part, or the survivor of them, or his or their successors in the trust hereby created, be reasonably advised or required for more fully carrying into effect the objects of this conveyance, and the said parties of the second part, and their successors in said trust, shall be entitled to receive a just and proper compensation for all services rendered by them in the discharge of said trust, and the same shall be deemed to be secured hereby.

Agents of Trustees.

And it is hereby stipulated and agreed that the said parties of the second part, and their successors in said trust, shall not be responsible for the acts or omissions of any agent or agents employed by him or them, in any manner, in and about the execution of the trust hereby created, when such agent or agents are selected with reasonable discretion; or with the approbation, or with the knowledge and without the express disapprobation of said party of the first part, nor shall either of the said parties of the second part be responsible for any act or omission of the other in the execution of said trust.

Conveyance of land to Trustees.

And, therefore, this indenture further witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, for the purpose of securing the payment of the sums of money mentioned in said bonds, and the interest thereon, and in consideration of the premises, and also for and in consideration of the sum of one dollar to the said party of the first part in hand paid by the parties of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, has granted, bargained, sold, released, enfeoffed, conveyed and confirmed, and by these presents does grant, bargain, sell, release, enfeoff, convey and confirm unto the said parties of the second part, as trustees, and to their successors and survivor, and their assigns forever.

All and singular, the said several sections of land so as aforesaid granted by said acts of Congress; and also all the estate, right, title, interest, claim and demand whatsover, at law or in equity, of, in, or to the same, or any part or parcel thereof, which the said party of the first part now has, holds, owns, or is entitled to, or hereafter may or shall acquire, have, hold, own, or be or become entitled to by force or virtue of the said acts of Congress; saving, excepting and reserving all parts and parcels of said lands which have been sold, or contracted to be sold or disposed of heretofore, or which are or shall be included in the right of way of the said railroads and telegraph lines of the said company, as defined and granted by the acts of Congress aforesaid, or used for the construction or operation thereof, or for the track, yards, depot grounds, buildings or erections thereof, to have and to hold, all and singular, the lands hereby granted or intended to be granted and each and every part and parcel thereof, with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, unto the said parties of the second part and their successors and survivor, and their assigns forever, as trustees, for the uses and purposes, and upon the trusts, terms, conditions, and agreements in this indenture set forth and declared.

Reserved Lands.

Provided, always, and these presents are upon the express condition, that if the said party of the first part shall well and truly pay, or cause to be paid, to

Lands shall revert to and re t in the S. P. R. R. if—the holders of said bonds, and every of them, the principal sums of money therein mentioned, according to the tenor therof, with the interest thereon, at the times and in the manner hereinbefore provided, according to the true intent and meaning of these presents, then and from thenceforth this indenture and the estate hereby granted shall cease and determine, and all the right, title and interest in any and all property hereby conveyed to the parties of the second part, not then disposed of under the powers hereby conferred, shall revert to and vest in the said party of the first part.

This indenture further witnesseth, that these presents, and the said bonds are made, executed and delivered upon the trusts, terms, conditions and agreements following, that is to say: That all the lands hereinabove conveyed and mortgaged shall be under the sole and exclusive management and control of the said party of the first part, who shall have full power and authority to make contracts for the sale of the same at such price, on such credit or terms of payment, and such other conditions as shall be agreed on by the said parties of the first and second parts, and as shall seem to them best calculated to secure the payment in full of all the bonds issued as hereinbefore provided, until entry or foreclosure by the trustees, as hereinafter provided. But no title to any tract of land, contracted to be sold by the said party of the first part, shall be given until the whole of the purchase money of said tract shall be paid to said parties of the second part, or their successors or survivor, in cash or in said bonds, or overdue coupons thereof. And for this purpose it is agreed that the said party of the first part and said trustees shall cause all such lands, as they shall from time to time become subject to sale, to be carefully examined, and surveyed, and shall affix to each tract or parcel such price as in their judgment shall be most judicious, having in view the interests of all parties; and said lands shall be and remain at all times thereafter open for sale to any person who may desire to purchase and pay therefor; the prices being, nevertheless, at all times subject to revision and alteration by the said parties; and the party of the first part may reserve from sale any lands necessary for depot grounds, or other purposes connected with the construction or operation of the said railroad or telegraph.

Land to be granted, etc.

The purchaser of any such land shall be at liberty to pay for the same in the aforesaid bonds or overdue coupons at par; and when any tract or parcel of said lands shall have been purchased and paid for, either in bonds, coupons, or cash, as hereinbefore provided, the same shall be conveyed by the said parties of the first and second parts to the purchaser, in fee simple, and shall by such conveyance be absolutely and forever released from any and all lien or incumbrance, for or on account of said bonds, or any other debt or obligation of the said party of the first part.

Lands may be paid for in Bonds and overdue Coupons.

Trustees may convey land by power of attorney.

Provided, that for the sake of convenience in making said conveyances, the said trustees shall have power to act by attorney, duly nominated and appointed, by them, jointly, by letter of attorney, which shall be duly acknowledged and recorded in each and all of the counties in which said lands, or any part thereof, are situated; and all deeds made in their names by such attorney shall have the same force and effect as if made by them in person.

Residence of such attorney.

Provided, further, that the attorney so appointed shall be a resident of the city of San Francisco, in the State of California, and shall reside within convenient distance of the party of the first part.

The said trustees shall and will cancel and discharge each and every bond, and the coupons thereon, and all overdue coupons, which they may receive in payment for land, or by purchase, by defacing the seal of the corporation, perforating the signatures of the president and secretary and drawing lines across each of the interest coupons, on receipt thereof; and all bonds and coupons received in payment for lands, as aforesaid, shall, when so cancelled, be delivered to the said party of the first part.

Trustees to cancel Bonds and Coupons.

Proceeds of sales of lands shall be applied to the purchase of Bonds.

The said trustees shall apply the proceeds of the sales made by them of lands hereby conveyed, to the sole and exclusive purpose of the payment of the bonds provided for in, and issued in conformity to, the terms of this indenture.

And for such purpose all such avails shall, from time to time, as the same are realized, be used in the purchase of such bonds in the market, to be cancelled, so long as purchases thereof can be made at par; and whenever such bonds cannot be purchased at that rate, said trustees shall advertise for proposals to sell such bonds to them in two newspapers published in the city of New York, and one newspaper published in the city of San Francisco; and after receiving such proposals they shall have power to purchase such bonds at the lowest terms so offered.

The said party of the first part does hereby covenant and agree to pay to the holders of said bonds respectively, the said principal sums of money therein mentioned and the interest thereof as aforesaid.

If any default shall be made in the payment either of principal or interest on any of said bonds for six months, after demand at the place of payment when the same shall become due, then the said trustees may, on being requested by the holders of at least one hundred thousand dollars of such bonds, enter into and take possession of any of the lands above conveyed, and foreclose this mortgage, and may sell at public auction so much of said lands as may be necessary to discharge all arrears of such interest, and apply the proceeds, after deducting the costs, charges, and expenses of such entry, foreclosure and sale, to the payment of such arrears of interest. If any such default shall continue for one year from the time of such demand and refusal, the principal sum of all bonds then outstanding shall become due and payable, and the said trustes may enter into and take possession of all the lands above by the presents mortgaged or conveyed, foreclose this mortgage, and sell at public auction all said lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary, first giving at least six months' previous notice of the time and place of sale in at least one newspaper published in the city of New York, and in one published in each of the cities of San Francisco, Sacramento, Los Angeles and San Diego; and they shall apply the proceeds thereof, after deducting the costs, charges, and expenses of such last mentioned entry, foreclosure and sale, to the payment of all said bonds, then outstanding, and the interest accrued thereon, rendering the surplus, if any there shall be, unto the said party of the first part. In case of any sale upon any such foreclosure, or at any such public auction, the said trustees shall make, execute and deliver a conveyance of the said lands so sold, which shall convey to the purchasers all the rights and privileges of the said party of the first part, in and to the property so sold, to the same extent as the same shall have been previously enjoyed and held by the said party of the first part.

Foreclosure proceedings for interest to cease if interest is subsequently paid.

If, after any such entry shall be made or any such foreclosure proceedings shall be commenced for the satisfying of interest only, as above provided, and before the lands are sold thereon, the said party of the first part shall pay and discharge such interest and deliver the coupons therefor to the said trustees, and pay all the costs, charges, and expenses incurred in such entry and foreclosure and the proceedings thereon; then and in every such case the said trustees shall discontinue their proceedings thereon, and restore to the said party of the first part all of such lands to be held subject to the above conveyance and mortgage, and subject to all the provisions, terms and conditions of these presents in like manner as if such entry had not been made, nor such foreclosure proceedings commenced. In case a vacancy shall happen in the number of trustees hereinbefore mentioned as parties of the second part in this indenture, or if one of them shall be temporarily absent, the remaining trustee shall, while said vacancy or absence exists have all the rights, exercise all the powers and discharge all the duties devolving on the said trustee by said instrument. But as soon as it conveniently may be done, such vacancy shall be filled by the nomination by the remaining trustee of some proper person to fill such vacancy, which nomination shall be submitted to the board of directors of said company, and if approved by them, the person so nominated and approved, immediately shall become a trustee under this instrument. If said nomination is not approved, another person shall be nominated by said remaining trustee, and in like manner submitted for approval, and so on till three nominations shall have been made. But if three successive nominations shall be made, and none of them shall be approved by said board, said vacancy shall be filled by a committee of three persons, selected, one by said remaining trustee, one by said board of directors, and a third by the two thus selected, and the person appointed trustee by a majority of the committee shall be and remain a trustee under this instrument. And the person regularly appointed a trustee to fill a vacancy in either of the forms above specified, shall, from and after his said appointment, and his acceptance of the appointment, become vested with the same estates, powers, rights and interests, and charged with the same duties and responsibilities as if he had been one of the original trustees, parties of the second part, named in and executing this instrument; and the prior remaining trustee may and shall execute such conveyances and instruments as may be proper or necessary to vest the same in such new trustee jointly with him, or to furnish evidence of such vesting. If at any time either of the said trustees shall resign his place as trustee by a proper deed in writing to that effect, and such resignation shall be accepted by the said party of the first part, then, and in every such case, the place of such resigning trustee thereupon shall become and be vacant.

Whenever all the bonds which shall have been made and issued by the said party of the first part, under and in conformity to the provisions of this indenture, with the interest thereon, together with all the expenses incurred by the said trustees in the execution of the trust herein and hereby created, shall have been fully paid or satisfied, the said trustees shall reconvey to the said party of the first part all and singular the said lands then in the hands of the said trustees, and not before that time sold or disposed of, in the execution of the trust hereby created. In case the said trustees shall at any time have any trust moneys on hand, received from the sale of the lands hereby conveyed, which will not be required to meet any immediate liabilities of the company, to which said moneys are by these presents devoted, the said moneys shall be loaned on interest, or deposited on interest, with some bank or trust company in the city of San Francisco, or Sacramento, subject to be drawn by checks signed by the trustees, or such one of them as they may designate. All of the books of the said company, and of the trustees, relating to the lands hereby conveyed, shall be mutually open to the inspection of said company and said trustees. It shall be the duty of the said trustees to certify and deliver to the said parties of the first part the said bonds, as the same from time to time shall be demanded, issued or used by the said party of the first part.

Deposit of surplus monies by Trustees.

And it is hereby mutually agreed by and between the parties hereto, that the said parties of the second part, and their survivor and successors, and their heirs, executors and administrators, shall not be answerable for the acts, omissions or defaults of each other, nor for anything short of their own gross negligence or wilful misfeasance.

Responsibility of Trustees.

It is hereby declared by the parties to this indenture, that all the provisions of said acts of Congress, Provisions of Acts of Congress to be observed.

so far as they are applicable, are hereby made and shall be deemed and taken to be a part of this instrument; and the said provisions in all that concerns the sale and disposal of the said lands hereby conveyed to the parties of the second part are to be observed and strictly and faithfully carried out and fulfilled.

And the said party of the first part covenants and agrees to and with the said parties of the second part, that the said party of the first part shall and will, at any and all times hereafter, and from time to time, execute, acknowledge and deliver, under its corporate seal, to the said parties of the second part, and their survivors or successors, all such other or further assurances, deeds, mortgages, obligations, transfers, indentures and instruments in writing and shall and will do and perform all such other or further acts or things, as shall or may be necessary or proper, or as their counsel, learned in the law, shall deem necessary, proper or expedient, for the better or more effectually securing upon the above conveyed and mortgaged premises the payment of the said bonds so to be issued, and the interest due and to grow due thereon in manner aforesaid, or for carrying into effect the true intent, design, objects and purposes of these presents. And the said parties of the second part hereby accept the trust created and declared by this instrument, and agree to discharge the same pursuant to the provisions in that behalf herein contained.

Will execute further instruments if necessary to secure payment of Bonds.

In witness whereof, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company has caused these presents to be signed by its president and secretary, and sealed with its corporate seal, and the above parties of the second part have hereunto set their hands and seal, the day and year first above written.

I hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing document with the original exhibit and find it to be a full, true and correct copy thereof.

STEPHEN POTTER,
Special Examiner.

San Francisco, Oct. 14, 1893.

[Endorsed]: Filed Dec. 5, 1893. Wm. M. Van Dyke, Clerk.

[Endorsed]: Trust Mortgage Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, trustees.

Dated April 1, 1875. Resignation of Lloyd Tevis and appointment of Gerrit L. Lansing. Acceptance April 18, 1883.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 91.—Deed of Trust.

(Before the Special Examiner.)

This indenture, made this twenty-fifth day of August, 1888, between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a railroad corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the United States and of the State of California, party of the first part, the Southern Pacific Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Kentucky, and lessee of portions of the Southern Pacific Railroad, a party of the second part, and the Central Trust Company of New York, a corporation created, organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, party of the third part; witnesseth:

That whereas, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as it existed prior to the consolidation and amalgamation hereinafter set out did, to secure the payment of its bonds in the sum of $46,000,000, heretofore, to-wit, on the first day of April, 1875, make and execute its first mortgage on its entire line of railroad as then constituted, towit, on the whole of its railroad and telegraph line, running from the city of San Francisco, in the State of California, in a southerly and southeasterly direction, by way of Carnadero Junction, Salinas Valley, and Polonio Pass, to the Colorado river at or near the Needles; also from Carnadero Junction to San Benito; also from Los Gatos creek via Goshen to the junction with the first mentioned line, between Poso creek and Kern river; also from the junction near Tehachapi Pass via Los Angeles to the Texas Pacific Railroad, near Fort Yuma, and also from Los Angeles to Wilmington, on San Pedro Bay, aggregating eleven hundred and fifty (1,150) miles of railroad and telegraph line, more or less, and on the several sections of land granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the acts of Congress of July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871, as stated in said mortgage, saving, excepting and reserving, however, all parts and parcels of said lands which had been sold or contracted to be sold or disposed of theretofore, or which were or should be included in the rights of way of said railroads and telegraph lines of said company, as defined and granted by the acts of Congress aforesaid, or used for the construction or operation thereof, or for the track, yards, depot grounds, buildings or erections thereof.

And whereas, subsequent thereto by instrument in writing, dated the fourth day of May, 1888, and pursuant to the laws of the State of California, in such cases made and provided, the San Jose and Almaden Railroad Company, the Pajaro and Santa Cruz Railroad Company, the Monterey Railroad Company, the Monterey Extension Railroad Company, the Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company, the San Pablo and Tulare Extension Railroad Company, the San Ramon Valley Railroad Company, the Stockton and Copperopolis Railroad Company, the Stockton and Tulare Railroad Company, the San Joaquin Valley and Yosemite Railroad Company, the Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company, the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad Company, the Long Beach, Whittier and Los Angeles County Railroad Company, the Long Beach Railroad Company, the Southern Pacific Railroad Extension Company and the Ramona and San Bernardino Railroad Company (railroad corporations organized and existing under the laws of the State of California) amalgamated and consolidated their capital stocks, debts, properties, assets and franchises with the capital stock, debts, properties, assets, and franchises of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California.

And whereas, by force and effect of said amalgamation and consolidation, the said party of the first part has succeeded to all of the debts, properties, assets and franchises of said several railroad companies, and now holds and owns the said several lines of railroad heretofore owned and held by them respectively, together with their respective properties, assets and franchises.

And whereas, the said Pajaro and Santa Cruz Railroad Company, to aid in the construction and completion of its line of railroad, did, prior to said amalgamation and consolidation, authorize the issuance of five hundred and thirty (530) of its thirty-year first mortgage bonds of one thousand dollars each, bearing date the first day of January, 1885, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, bearing date the first day of January, 1885, to S. T. Gage and E. R. Ryan, and covering its railroad, commencing at the town of Pajaro, in the county of Monterey, in the State of California, and extending thence to the city of Santa Cruz, in the county of Santa Cruz, in said State, with a branch line commencing at the town of Aptos, in said county of Santa Cruz, and running thence in a northerly and northeasterly direction, following the meanders of Aptos creek to the point of confluence of said creek with the creek running from White's Lagoon, a distance of twenty-six miles, as near as may be, together with all its corporate rights, its appurtenances, etc.

And whereas, the said Monterey Railroad Company, to aid in the construction and completion of its line of railroad, did, prior to said amalgamation and consolidation, authorize the issuance of two hundred and fifty (250) of its twenty-year first-mortgage bonds of one thousand dollars each, bearing date the first day of April, 1880, bearing interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, bearing date the ninth day of March, 1880, to Stephen T. Gage and E. B. Ryan, and covering the whole of the railroad line of same company, commencing at or near the town of Castroville, in the county of Monterey, in the State of California, and running through the county of Monterey, to a point at or near the city of Monterey in said county, a distance of fifteen and four-tenths (15.4) miles, together with all its corporate rights, its appurtenances, etc.

And whereas, the said Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company, to aid in the construction and completion of its line of railroad, did, prior to said amalgamation and consolidation, authorize the issuance of nine thousand of its fifty-year first-mortgage bonds of one thousand dollars each, bearing date the first day of April, 1887, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of November, 1886, to William E. Brown and Gerrit L. Lansing, and covering the whole of the railroad line of the said company, commencing at a point near San Miguel, in the county of San Luis Obispo, in the State of California, there connecting with the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and running from thence in a general southeasterly direction through and into the counties of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Los Angeles, to a connection with the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, near Newhall, in said Los Angeles county, a distance of about two hundred and fifty miles, as near as may be, together with all the corporate rights pertaining to said road, its appurtenances, etc.

And whereas, the said San Pablo and Tulare Railroad Company to aid in the construction and completion of its line of railroad, did, prior to said amalgamation and consolidation, authorize the issuance of three thousand, seven hundred and fifty (3,750) of its thirty-year first mortgage bonds of one thousand dollars each, bearing date the first day of April, 1878, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, secured by mortgage or deed of trust, bearing date the second day of September, 1878, to Albert Gallatin and Charles Miller, and covering its line of railroad, constructed and unconstructed, running from a point at or near Martinez, in the county of Contra Costa, through the counties of Contra Costa, San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Merced and Fresno to a point at or near Los Gatos creek, a distance of one hundred and fifty (150) miles, as near as may be, with all rolling stock, appurtenances, etc.

And whereas, the said Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company, to aid in the construction of its line of railroad, did, prior to said amalgamation and consolidation, authorize the issuance of two thousand eight hundred (2,800) of its thirty-year first mortgage bonds of one thousand dollars each, bearing date the first day of July, 1880, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, secured by a mortgage or deed of trust bearing date the second day of December, 1880, to S. T. Gage, and E. B. Ryan, and covering its railroad line constructed and unconstructed, from the city of Los Angeles, in a southerly direction, to the city of San Diego, in the southwestern part of the State of California, with all rolling stock, appurtenances, etc., a distance of 140 miles, as near as may be.

And whereas, there are now outstanding $530,000 of said Pajaro and Santa Cruz Railroad Company's bonds; $220,000 of said Monterey Railroad Company's bonds (the balance of $30,000 having been redeemed, canceled and retired); $3,145,000 of said Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company's bonds (the balance, $5,855,000 being unissued and in the hands of the party of the first part); $1,023,000 of said San Pablo and Tulare Railroad Company's bonds (the balance $2,727,000 being unissued in the hands of the party of the first part); and $556,000 of the said Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company's bonds (the balance $2,244,000, being unissued and in the hands of the party of the first part.)

And whereas, said mortgages and each of them are valid and subsisting liens upon the lines of railroad heretofore described, and now the property of the party of the first part.

And whereas, the owners of all the outstanding bonds heretofore issued as aforesaid by the Pajaro and Santa Cruz Railroad Company, the Monterey Railroad Company, the San Pablo and Tulare Railroad Company, and the Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company, are willing to surrender said bonds and permit the respective mortgages heretofore made to secure the payment thereof and hereinbefore described, to be satisfied of record and canceled, and receive in lieu thereof new fifty-year five per cent bonds secured by this mortgage.

And whereas, the party of the first part desires and intends to redeem and take up said mortgage bonds issued by said constituent companies, towit: The outstanding mortgage bonds of the Pajaro and Santa Cruz Railroad Company in the sum of $530,000, the outstanding mortgage bonds of the Monterey Railroad Company in the sum of $220,000, the outstanding mortgage bonds of the San Pablo and Tulare Railroad Company in the sum of $1,023,000, and the outstanding mortgage bonds of the Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company in the sum of $556,000, and retire the same, and to destroy, cancel and retire the unissued bonds of the San Pablo and Tulare Railroad Company in the sum of $2,727,000, and the unissued bonds of the Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company in the sum of $2,244,000, and cause said existing mortgages to be satisfied of record and canceled; and as rapidly as the same can be done, upon terms satisfactory to the party of the first part to arrange for the redemption of the mortgage bonds, issued by said Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company, and when arrangements have been made for the redemption of all of such bonds to cause the same to be canceled, and the mortgage securing the same to be satisfied of record; and in lieu of said outstanding bonds, to issue new fifty-year five per cent bonds secured by this mortgage, and said party of the first part desires and intends to pay off and discharge the floating debt incurred in the construction and completion of certain portions of its lines of railroad, and desires to complete the construction and equipment thereof, and to that end desires and intends to issue its bonds in an amount necessary to accomplish said objects and purposes, and to secure the payment thereof by mortgage upon certain of its constituent lines of railroad hereinafter more particularly described.

And, whereas, heretofore, towit, on the twenty-first day of August, 1888, the board of directors of said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, at a meeting of said board, at which all the members thereof were present, by a resolution to that effect, which was unanimously adopted, passed and concurred in, did determine and direct that bonds of said company be prepared, executed and issued in its name, and under its corporate seal, and signed by its president and secretary, to bear date the first day of October, 1888, in the sum of one thousand dollars each, to the number of thirty-eight thousand, numbered from one to thirty-eight thousand inclusive, payable to the Central Trust Company of New York, or to the bearer thereof, fifty years after date, with interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, on the first days of April and October of each year ensuing its date, payable both principal and interest in United States gold coin in the city of New York.

And whereas, the board of directors, at the meeting aforesaid, and in the manner and form, and by the vote aforesaid, did further order and direct that said bonds should be drawn in substantially the following form, towit:

$1,000 United States of America. $1,000.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (of California)

First Mortgage Five Per Cent Gold Bond.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company (of California) acknowledges itself indebted to the Central Trust Company of New York, of to the bearer hereof, in the sum of one thousand dollars gold coin of the United States, which sum it promises to pay to the bearer hereof, or, if registered, to the registered holder hereof, fifty years after date, and it further promises that, on presentation and surrender at or after maturity of the respective interest coupons hereunto annexed, it will pay to the person presenting the same, or, if this bond is registered and the interest coupons appertaining thereto canceled, it will pay to the registered holder hereof, interest on such principal sum at the rate of five per cent per annum semi-annually, on or after the first day of April and October of each year ensuing the date hereof, both principal and interest payable at the office or agency of the company in the city of New York, in United States gold coin.

This is one of the first mortgage bonds issued under and secured by the indenture of mortgage or deed of trust from this company to the Central Trust Company of New York, trustee, dated the twenty-fifth day of August, 1888.

None of said bonds are to be in anywise binding or obligatory unless authenticated by a certificate endorsed thereon, signed by said trustee or its successor or successors in said trust.

This bond may at any time, upon production thereof to said Railroad Company, and proper endorsement being made thereon, and either with or without the surrender to said railroad company for cancellation of all unpaid interest coupons appertaining thereto, be registered upon the books of the company in the name of the holder thereof, and thereupon its transferability by delivery will cease, and thereafter it can be transferred only by the registered holder or his attorney by transfer duly made upon said books.

In witness whereof, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company has caused its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, and this bond to be signed by its president and ary, this first day of October, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,

President.

Secretary.

And whereas, the said board of directors, at the meeting aforesaid, and in the manner and form and by the vote aforesaid, did further direct that to each of said bonds there should be attached one hundred interest coupons, numbered respectfully from one to one hundred, inclusive, substantially in the following form, to-wit:

$25. (Coupon.) $25.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company (of California).

First Mortgage Five Per Cent Gold Bond, No. ——.

Interest coupon for twenty-five dollars, due ——— payable in the city of New York, in United States gold coin.

Coupon No. ——. ————, Treasurer.

And that all such coupons should bear the impression of the engraved signature of the treasurer, which impression should be regarded and treated, in fact and in law, as equivalent to a manual signing by said officer.

And whereas, the said board of directors, at the meeting aforesaid, and in manner and form and by the vote aforesaid, did further direct that, to secure the payment of said bonds, a mortgage upon certain of its constituent lines of railroad and telegraph, and upon certain of its lands, should be executed in its name and under its corporate seal, and be signed by its president and secretary, to the Central Trust Company of New York, as trustee, for the holders of said bonds, said mortgage to cover the railroad and telegraph line, rolling stock, stations, fixtures and franchises held, owned and possessed by it in the following constituent lines of railroad, all lying within the State of California.

Second.—Running from Pajaro in Monterey county to Santa Cruz in Santa Cruz county; also, running from Aptos in said Santa Cruz county, northerly and northeasterly about five miles, being twenty-six and two-tenths (26.2) miles in length, more or less.

Third.—Running from a point at or near Castroville station in Monterey county to a point at or near Monterey in said county thence northwesterly to a point at or near Pacific Grove Retreat; and thence southwesterly to a point near the mouth of the Carmel river, an estimated length of thirty-one and twelve-hundredths (31.12) miles.

Fourth.—Running from a point near San Miguel in San Luis Obispo county, in the State of California, there connecting with the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and running from thence in a general southeasterly direction through and into the counties of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, and Los Angeles, to a connection with the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in said Los Angeles county near Newhall, being about two hundred and fifty (250) miles in length.

Fifth.—Running from a point near Martinez in Contra Costa county to Tracy in San Joaquin county, a distance of forty-seven and fifty-eight hundredths (47.58) miles, more or less; running thence from Tracy through the counties of San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Merced, Fresno, and Tulare, to a connection with the San Joaquin division of the railroad of the party of the first part at or near Pampa, in the county of Kern, a distance of two hundred and sixty miles, more or less, and aggregating three hundred and seven and fifty-eight hundredths (307.58) miles, more or less.

Sixth.—Running from a point at or near Avon in Contra Costa county to a point on the Central Pacific Railroad at or near Pleasanton, in the county of Alameda, a distance of thirty-five (35) miles, more or less.

Seventh.—Running from a point at or near Oakdale in Stanislaus county, through and into the counties of Stanislaus, Merced, Fresno, and Tulare, to a point at or near the town of Poso, in Kern county, a distance of two hundred (200) miles, more or less, with branches connecting with the Central Pacific Railroad to or near Modesto in Stanislaus county, a distance of sixteen (16) miles, more or less, to or near Merced, in Merced county, a distance of ten (10) miles, more or less, to or near Sycamore, in Fresno county, a distance of ten (10) miles, more or less, to or near Fresno, in Fresno county, a distance of ten (10) miles, more or less, with a branch to or near Tulare, in Tulare county, there connecting with the San Joaquin division of the railroad of the party of the first part, a distance of sixteen (16) miles, more or less; said line and branches being two hundred and sixty-two (262) miles in length, more or less.

Eighth.—Running from Berenda Station in Fresno county to a point at or near Perry's Ranch in said county, a distance of twenty-five (25) miles, more or less.

Ninth.—Running from a point at or near the city of Los Angeles, in the county of Los Angeles, to the towns of Anaheim and Santa Ana in said county; and thence through the counties of Los Angeles and San Diego, to a point at or near the city of San Diego, in said last mentioned county, a distance of one hundred and forty (140) miles, more or less.

Tenth.—Running from a point at or near the city of Los Angeles to Santa Monica, in Los Angeles county, a distance of eighteen and fifty-hundredths (18.50) miles, more or less.

Eleventh.—Running from a point at or near Long Beach, in Los Angeles county, to Whittier; thence to Ramona, a distance of thirty (30) miles, more or less; also running from a point at or near Los Angeles to a point on the main line of the railroad of the party of the first part between El Monte and Puente, and then northeasterly to a point on or near San Dimos creek, a distance of thirty (30) miles, more or less, al in said county of Los Angeles, and aggregating sixty (60) miles in length, more or less.

Twelfth.—Running from a point at or near Long Beach Junction, in Los Angeles county, to the town of Long Beach; thence easterly to the boundary line between the Ranchos Los Cerritos and Los Alamitos, in said county, a distance of four (4) miles, more or less.

Thirteenth.—Running from a point on the line of the Wilmington division of the railroad of the party of the first part, between the towns of Wilmington and San Pedro, in the county of Los Angeles, through said town of San Pedro to a point at or near Point Fermin; thence westerly through the lands of the San Pedro Harbor, Dock, and Land Association to the westerly boundary of said lands, all in the county of Los Angeles, and being five (5) miles in length, more or less.

Fourteenth.—Running from a point at or near Ramona, in Los Angeles county, to a point at or near Crafton, in San Bernardino county, a distance of seventy-one (71) miles, more or less.

Fifteenth.—Running from the city of San Francisco, in a southerly and southeasterly direction by way of Carnadero Junction, Salinas Valley, and Polonio Pass to Mojave Junction; also from Carnadero Junction to San Benito; also from Los Gatos Creek, via Goshen, to the junction with the first-mentioned line between Poso Creek and Kern river; also from the junction near Tehachipi Pass, via Los Angeles, to Yuma, in the county of San Diego; and also from Los Angeles to Wilmington, on San Pedro Bay, aggregating nine hundred and eight miles of railroad and telegraph line, or thereabouts.

And also to cover the lands granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the acts of Congress of July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871, above referred to, not sold or contracted to be sold or disposed of prior to the execution of this mortgage, or included in the right of way of the railroads and telegraph lines of the said company, or used, or to be used for the construction or operation thereof, or for the track, yards, depot grounds, buildings, or erections thereof.

And whereas, said board of directors at the meeting aforesaid and in the manner and form, and by the vote aforesaid, did further direct that a sinking fund should be created for the redemption and payment of said bonds by setting apart the sum of twenty thousand dollars of the net income derived by said company from the constituent lines of railroad herein mortgaged in the year 1898, and in each year thereafter, until all of said bonds, principal and interest, shall be redeemed or paid in trust, to be loaned out at interest upon good securities, or otherwise invested, under the order and direction of said board of directors, or used to redeem said bonds as often as twenty thousand dollars shall come into the sinking fund; in which case notice shall be published in one daily paper in the city of New York, and one daily paper in the city of San Francisco, for such length of time as the board of directors may order, that said bonds will be redeemed, and inviting bids for the surrender thereof at prices to be named, the lowest bids to be accepted, and bonds redeemed to the extent of the money in the sinking fund.

And whereas, the Southern Pacific Company, party of the second part herein, and lessee of certain portions of the railroads of the party of the first part affected by this mortgage, has been in writing notified and informed of this mortgage, and has, in writing, by order of its board of directors, given its consent thereto, and as an evidence of such consent has become a party hereto.

Now, therefore, this indenture witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, for the purpose of securing the payment of the sums of money mentioned in said bonds, and the interest thereon, and in consideration of the sum of one dollar to the said party of the first part, in hand paid by the party of the third part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledegd, has granted, bargained, sold, released, enfeoffed, conveyed, and confirmed, and by these presents does grant, bargain, sell, release, enfeoff, convey and confirm unto the said party of the third part, as trustee, and to its successors and assigns forever, the following property, now and hereafter constructed, purchased, acquired, held in possession and owned by said party of the first part, towit:

Its constituent lines of railroad lying within the State of California and running:

First.—From Hillsdale to the town of New Almaden, all in Santa Clara county, being seven and eight-tenths (7.8) miles in length, more or less.

Second.—From Pajaro in Monterey county to Santa Cruz, in Santa Cruz county; also running from Aptos in said Santa Cruz county, northerly and northeasterly about five (5) miles; being twenty-six and two-tenths (26.2) miles in length, more or less.

Third.—From a point at or near Castroville Station in Monterey county, to a point at or near Monterey in said county; thence northwesterly to a point at or near Pacific Grove Retreat, and thence southwesterly to a point near the mouth of Carmel river, an estimated length of thirty-one and twelve hundredths (31.12) miles.

Fourth.—From a point near San Miguel, in San Luis Obispo county, in the State of California, there connecting with the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and running from thence in a general southeasterly direction through and into the counties of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, and Los Angeles, to a connection with the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in said Los Angeles county near Newhall, being about two hundred and fifty (250) miles in length.

Fifth.—From a point at or near Martinez in Contra Costa county to Tracy in San Joaquin county, a distance of forty-seven and fifty-eight hundredths (47.58) miles, more or less; thence from Tracy through the counties of San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Merced, Fresno, and Tulare, to a connection with the San Joaquin division of the railroad of the party of the first part at or near Pampa, in the county of Kern, a distance of two hundred and sixty (260) miles, more or less, and aggregating three hundred and seven and fifty-eight hundredths (307.58) miles, more or less.

Sixth.—From a point at or near Avon, in Contra Costa county, to a point on the Central Pacific Railroad at or near Pleasanton, in the county of Alameda, a distance of thirty-five miles, more or less.

Seventh.—From a point at or near Oakdale in Stanislaus county through and into the counties of Stanislaus, Merced, Fresno, and Tulare to a point at or near the town of Poso in Kern county, a distance of two hundred (200) miles more or less, with a branch connecting with the main line of the Central Pacific Railroad to or near Modesto in Stanislaus county, a distance of sixteen (16) miles more or less, a branch to or near Merced in Merced county, a distance of ten (10) miles, more or less, a branch to or near Sycamore in Fresno county, a distance of ten (10) miles, more or less, a branch to or near Fresno in Fresno county, a ..... distance of ten (10) miles, more or less, a branch to or near Tulare, in Tulare county, there connecting with the San Joaquin division of the railroad of the party of the first part, a distance of sixteen (16) miles, more or less; said line and branches being two hundred and sixty-two (262) miles in length more or less.

Eighth.—From Berenda Station in Fresno county to a point at or near Perry's ranch in said county, a distance of twenty-five (25) miles, more or less.

Ninth.—From a point at or near the city of Los Angeles, in the county of Los Angeles, to the towns of Anaheim and Santa Ana in said county, and thence through the counties of Los Angeles and San Diego to a point at or near the city of San Diego, in said last-mentioned county, a distance of one hundred and forty (140) miles, more or less.

Tenth.—From a point at or near the city of Los Angeles to Santa Monica in Los Angeles county, a distance of eighteen and fifty hundredths (18.50) miles, more or less.

Eleventh.—From a point at or near Long Beach in Los Angeles county to Whittier, thence to Ramona, a distance of thirty (30) miles, more or less; also running from a point at or near Los Angeles to a point on the main line of the railroad of the party of the first part between El Monte and Puente, and thence northeasterly to a point on or near San Dimos creek, a distance of thirty (30) miles, more or less, all in said county of Los Angeles, and aggregating sixty (60) miles in length, more or less.

Twelfth.—From a point at or near Long Beach Junction in Los Angeles county to the town of Long Beach; thence easterly to the boundary line between the Ranchos Los Cerritos and Los Alamitos in said county, a distance of four (4) miles, more or less.

Thirteenth.—From a point on the line of the Wilmington division of the railroad of the party of the first part between the towns of Wilmington and San Pedro, in the county of Los Angeles, through said town of San Pedro to a point at or near Point Fermin, thence westerly through the lands of the San Pedro Harbor, Dock and Land Association to the westerly boundary of said lands, all in the county of Los Angeles, and being five (5) miles in length, more or less.

Fourteenth.—From a point at or near Ramona in Los Angeles county to a point at or near Crafton in San Bernardino county, a distance of seventy-one (71) miles, more or less.

Fifteenth. From the city of San Francisco in a southerly and southeasterly direction by way of Carnadero Junction, Salinas Valley, and Polonio Pass to Mojave Junction; also from Carnadero Junction to San Benito; also from Los Gatos Creek via Goshen to the junction with the first-mentioned line between Poso Creek and Kern river; also from the junction near Tehachapi Pass via Los Angeles to Yuma, in the county of San Diego; also from Los Angeles to Wilmington on San Pedro bay, aggregating nine hundred and eight (908) miles of railroad and telegraph line or thereabouts.

Including all the rights of way, roadway, track and tracks, together with all the superstructures, depots, depot grounds, station houses, watering places, side tracks, turnouts, turntables, weighing scales, locomotives, tenders, cars, rolling stock of all kinds, equipments, fixtures, tools, telegraph lines, and all other property which may now or hereafter be acquired for the purpose of operating the constituent lines of railroad hereby mortgaged, including all of the said property which now is or may hereafter, in whole or in part, be constructed or completed, purchased, acquired, held or owned by the said company pertaining to that portion of said lines of railroad hereby mortgaged, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments, and appurtenances thereunto belonging and appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, incomes, issues, and profits thereof, with all the rights, titles, interest, estate, property, succession, claim, and demand, in law or equity of the said party of the first part of, in, and to the same or any part or parcel thereof.

Also all and singular the several sections of land so as aforesaid granted by said acts of Congress, and also all the estate, right, title, interest, claim, and demand whatsoever, at law or in equity of, in, or to the same, or any part or parcel thereof, which said party of the first part now has, holds, owns, or is entitled to, or hereafter may or shall acquire, have, own, or be or become entitled to, by force or virtue of the said acts of Congress, saving, excepting, and reserving all parts and parcels of said lands which have been sold or contracted to be sold or disposed of heretofore, or which are or shall be included in the right of way of the railroads and telegraph lines of the said company, as defined and granted by the acts of Congress aforesaid, or used for the construction and operation thereof, or for the track, yards, depot grounds, buildings, or erections thereof.

To have and to hold the above granted and described premises, property, and franchises, with the appurtenances, unto the said party of the third part, and to its successors duly appointed, upon trust and for the use and benefit of the person or persons, body or bodies, politic or corporate, who shall have become or be from time to time holders of the said first mortgage bonds secured hereby, or any of them.

Provided, always, and these presents are upon the express condition that if the said party of the first part, or its successors, shall well and truly pay or cause or procure to be paid unto the holders, from time to time, of said bonds, and each and every one of them, the said sums of money secured to be paid by the said bonds, and the interest coupons attached thereto, at the places and times, and in the manner set forth in the said bonds, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, then these presents, and the property, estate, rights, franchises and privileges herein and hereby granted and conveyed shall cease, determine, and be void.

Until default shall be made by the said party of the first part, its successors and assigns, in the payment of the principal or interest of the said bonds or some of them, or some part thereof, as hereinafter provided, the said party of the first part, its successors and assigns, shall be suffered and permitted to possess and enjoy the said premises, with their appurtenances and all and singular the rights and franchises hereinbefore described, and to receive, take, and use the tolls, income, earnings, and profits thereof, and the trustee or trustees hereunder shall have full power in its or their discretion, upon written request of the party of the first part, its successors, or assigns, to convey, by way of release or otherwise, and fully release from the lien of this mortgage, any lands or other property of any description (except only the lands granted by acts of Congress, as hereinbefore prescribed), which in its or their judgment shall not be necessary for or for use in connection with the said railroads, and to consent to such changes in the location of tracks, depots, and other buildings as in its or their judgment may be expedient, and to make and deliver the releases and conveyances necessary to carry the same into effect, but any lands or other property which may be acquired for permanent use in substitution for any so released or conveyed, shall thereupon become subject to the lien of this mortgage, and upon request of the trustee or trustees hereunder, shall be conveyed to it or them by the party of the first part, its successors or assigns, upon the trusts of these presents.

But if default shall be made in the payment of the said sums of money specified in said bonds, or in the payment of said interest coupons, or either of them, or any part thereof, and if the same shall remain unpaid for the period of six months from and after the time when the same should have been paid according to the terms of said bonds, then the said party of the third part, or its successor in said trust, by itself or its agents or servants, in that behalf, upon request of the holder or holders of not less than one-fourth of said bonds then outstanding, on which the interest or principal shall be and have so remained in default as aforesaid, enter into and upon and take possession of all, or in its or their discretion any part of, the said constituent lines of railroad hereby mortgaged, and work and operate the said constituent lines of railroad, and receive the income, receipts, and profits thereof and out of the same pay:

First.—The expense of running and operating the same, including therein reasonable counsel fees and such reasonable compensation as it may allow to the several persons employed or engaged in the running and superintendence of the same.

Second.—The expense of keeping the said roads, the appurtenances, the locomotives, and rolling stock thereof in good and sufficient repair to prevent the deterioration in the value thereof, and all other reasonable and proper charges and expenses of the care and management thereof; and

Third.—Pay, as far as the same will suffice, all interest and principal, if any, which may be due on said bonds, and in case of any deficiency apply the said receipts, after the payment of all said charges and expenses to the payment thereof, ratably, without preference of any kind.

Or the said party of the third part may, in case of default as aforesaid, and upon request as aforesaid, foreclose this mortgage and sell and dispose of, according to law, all of the constituent lines of railroad hereby mortgaged, together with all of the rights, property, privileges, franchises, real and personal connected therewith or pertaining thereto that are subject to this mortgage, with the appurtenances herein and hereby granted, or so much as may be necessary, and out of the money arising from such sale, pay:

First.—The cost and charges and expenses of the foreclosure and sale.

Second.—Any expenses, costs, and charges of the execution of the trust previously incurred and remaining unpaid; and Third.—Distribute the residue of said proceeds among the holders of said bonds and coupons in proportion to their several interests, until all have been paid in full, principal and accrued interest.

If any default shall be made in the payment of interest on any of said bonds for six months, after demand at the place of payment, when the same shall become due, then the said trustee may, on being requested by the holders of at least one hundred thousand dollars of such bonds, enter into and take possession of any of the lands above conveyed, and foreclose this mortgage therein, and may sell at public auction upon like notice as hereinafter prescribed, so much of said lands as may be necessary to discharge all arrears of such interest, and apply the proceeds, after deducting the costs, charges, and expenses of such entry, foreclosure and sale, to the payment of such arrears of interest. If any such default shall continue for one year from the time of such demand and refusal, the principal sum of all bonds then outstanding shall become due and payable, and thereupon or upon default in the payment of the principal of such bonds at their maturity, the said trustee may enter into and take possession of all the lands above by these presents mortgaged or conveyed, foreclose this mortgage thereon and sell at public auction all said lands or so much thereof as may be necessary, first giving at least six months' previous notice of the time and place of sale in at least one newspaper published in the city of New York, and in one published in each of the cities of San Francisco, Sacramento, Los Angeles, and San Diego, and they shall apply the proceeds thereof, after deducting the costs, charges, and expenses of such last-mentioned entry, foreclosure and sale, to the payment of all said bonds, then outstanding, and the interest accrued thereon, rendering the surplus, if any there shall be, unto the said party of the first part.

In case of any sale upon any such foreclosure or at any such public auction, the said trustee shall make, execute, and deliver a conveyance of the said lands so sold, which shall convey to the purchasers all the rights and privileges of the said party of the first part, in and to the property so sold, to the same extent as the same shall have been previously enjoyed and held by the said party of the first part.

If, after any such entry shall be made or any foreclosure proceedings shall be commenced, for the satisfying of interest only, as above provided, and before the lands are sold thereon, the said party of the first part shall pay and discharge such interest and deliver the coupons therefor to the said trustee, and pay all the costs, charges, and expenses incurred in such entry and foreclosure and the proceedings thereon; then and in every such case the said trustee shall discontinue its proceedings thereon, and restore to said party of the first part all of such lands to be held subject to all the provisions, terms, and conditions of these presents, in like manner as if such entry had not been made, nor such foreclosure proceedings commenced.

All lands granted or conveyed under the acts of Congress hereinbefore referred to and in anywise covered or affected by the provisions hereof shall be subject to the express provision that if and so long as the bonds issued under and secured by the said indenture of mortgage to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, dated April 1, 1875, or any thereof, shall remain outstanding, any and all sales made in the manner in said last-mentioned indenture of mortgage prescribed, shall absolutely and forever release the said lands from any and all lien or encumbrance of, under, or in respect of this mortgage or the bonds issued thereunder; and if and when all the bonds issued under said indenture of mortgage of April 1, 1875, shall have been fully satisfied and discharged, and the lien of such last-mentioned indenture of mortgage upon such lands fully released, then the said lands so far as they remain unsold at that time shall be subject to the like provisions in respect to sale and conveyance, and release from the lien of this mortgage as are in said mortgage of April 1, 1875, prescribed in respect to sale, and conveyance, and release from the lien thereof.

This indenture further witnesseth, That said party of the first part hereby agrees and covenants to and with said party of the third part that it will create a sinking fund for the redemption and payment of said bonds, by setting apart the sum of twenty thousand dollars of the net income derived by it from the constituent lines of railroad herein mortgaged, in the year 1898, and in each year thereafter, until all of said bonds, principal and interest, shall be redeemed or paid, in trust, to be loaned out at interest upon good securities, or otherwise invested under the order and direction of the board of directors of the party of the first part, or used to redeem said bonds as often as twenty thousand dollars shall come into the sinking fund; in which case notice shall be published in one daily paper in the city of New York, and one daily paper in the city of San Francisco for such length of time as said board of directors may order, that said bonds will be redeemed, and inviting bids for the surrender thereof, at prices to be named, the lowest bids to be accepted, and bonds redeemed to the extent of the money in the sinking fund.

And this indenture further witnesseth, That the said party of the first part hereby agrees and covenants to and with the said party of the third part, and its successors in said trust, that it will pay all ordinary and extraordinary taxes, assessments, and other public burdens and charges which shall or may be legally imposed upon the property herein described and hereby mortgaged, and every part thereof, and the said party of the third part, or its successors in said trust, or any one or more of the holders of said bonds, may in case of default of the said party of the first part in this behalf, pay and discharge the same, and any other lien or encumbrance upon said property which may in any way, either in law of equity, be or become in effect a charge or lien thereon prior to these presents, or to which this mortgage may be subject or subordinate, and for all payments thus made, the parties so making the same shall be allowed interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum, and such payments, with the interest thereon, shall be and are hereby secured to them by these presents, and declared to be payable and collectible in the same sort of currency or money wherein they shall have been paid, and the same shall be payable by said party of the first part to said party of the third part, upon demand, in trust for the party or parties paying the same, and may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said property and franchises hereinbefore provided.

And this indenture further witnesseth, That the said party of the first part further covenants and agrees to and with the said party of the third part, and its successors in said trust, that it will at any and all times hereafter upon the request of the said party of the third part, execute, acknowledge, and deliver to the said party of the third part and its successors in said trust, all and every such further necessary and reasonable conveyances and assurances of the said premises, or any part thereof as may by the party of the third part or its successors in the trust hereby created, be reasonably advised or required for more fully carrying into effect the objects of this conveyance.

And the said party of the third part and its successors in said trust shall be entitled to receive a just and proper compensation for all services rendered by it or them in the discharge of said trust, and the same shall be deemed to be secured hereby. And it is hereby stipulated and agreed that the said party of the third part and its successors in said trust shall not be responsible for the acts or omissions of any agent or agents employed by it or them in any manner in and about the execution of the trust hereby created, when such agent or agents are selected with reasonable discretion, or with the approbation or with the knowledge and without the express disapprobation of said party of the first part.

This indenture further witnesseth, That should the said party of the third part for any reason fail, refuse, or become incompetent to discharge the duties or trusts herein conveyed to, imposed on, and accepted by it, then and in that event the board of directors of the party of the first part shall nominate and appoint a successor or successors to said party of the third part, which said successor or successors shall be vested with the same properties and clothed with the same powers, rights, and duties, and be subject to the same obligations as the said party of the third part named herein, as fully as though he, they, or it had been named herein as such trustee or trustees.

And this indenture further witnesseth, That the party of the first part hereby agrees to take up, pay off, discharge, and retire the outstanding bonds of the Pajaro and Santa Cruz Railroad Company in the sum of five hundred and thirty thousand dollars ($530,000); the outstanding bonds of the Monterey Railroad Company, in the sum of two hundred and twenty thousand dollars ($220,000); the outstanding bonds of the San Pablo & Tulare Railroad Company, in the sum of one million and twenty-three thousand ($1,023,000) dollars; and the outstanding bonds of the Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad Company, in the sum of five hundred and fifty-six thousand ($556,000) dollars, and to destroy, cancel, and retire all of said bonds unissued and in its hands, and cause said existing mortgages to be satisfied of record and canceled, and to take up said outstanding bonds with the new fifty-year five per cent bonds to be issued under this mortgage, upon such terms as may be agreed upon, said redemption and cancellation and satisfaction to be made without unnecessary delay.

It is further provided, covenanted, declared, and agreed that the party of the third part and its successors in the trust hereby created is and are from time to time to authenticate and certify as issued hereunder and deliver to the party of the first part, its successors or assigns, first mortgage bonds in the form, or substantially the form, above prescribed, to amounts which shall aggregate, but shall not exceed, twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars par value of such bonds per mile for each mile of road constructed or acquired by the said party of the first part, its successors or assigns, and described in the foregoing thirteen subdivisions hereof designated from "First" to "Third," both inclusive, and from "Fifth" to "Fourteenth," both inclusive, and for twenty-five miles in addition thereto; and to further amounts not exceeding seven thousand five hundred dollars per mile additional thereto for expenses and disbursements incurred in and about double tracking, masonry, iron bridges, rolling stock or other betterments or improvements either to the permanent way, local or terminal facilities or rolling stock. The said party of the third part, and its successors in the trust hereby created, is and are also from time to time to authenticate and certify as issued hereunder, and deliver to the party of the first part, its successors and assigns, additional first mortgage bonds in the form or substantially the form above prescribed to the amounts to which bonds of the Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company issued, or to be issued under and secured by the mortgage of November 24, 1886, hereinbefore referred to, shall have been deposited with the trustee hereunder.

All bonds so deposited with the trustee hereunder shall be held as collateral security for the bonds issued under this mortgage until all of the bonds issued under and secured by such mortgage of the Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company shall have been so deposited, whereupon such deposited bonds shall be canceled and the mortgage securing the same shall be satisfied of record. While such Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company's bonds remain so on deposit with the trustee, neither such bonds nor the coupons appertaining thereto shall be required to be paid unless proceedings shall be taken for the foreclosure of the mortgage securing the same, in which case all the bonds and coupons which shall have been so deposited with the trustee shall be entitled to share, for the benefit of the bonds issued under this mortgage, on equal terms with the other bonds issued under and secured by said Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company mortgage.

When said Southern Pacific Branch Railway Company mortgage shall have been satisfied of record, the party of the first part, its successors and assigns, shall be entitled from time to time receive from the trustee hereunder, duly authenticated, as issued under and secured by this mortgage, bonds in respect of the line described in the foregoing subdivision "Fourth" hereof, on the mileage basis of $22,500 and $7,500 as above prescribed in respect of the lines described in subdivisions "First" to "Third," both inclusive, and from "Fifth" to "Fourteenth," both inclusive, due allowance being made on the basis of $30,000 per mile for the bonds theretofore issued against deposit of said Southern Pacific Branch Line bonds.

Authenticating certificates to such bonds are to be signed, and deliveries thereof to be made by the trustee under this mortgage from time to time upon presentation to it of certificates, in writing, executed by the president and chief engineer of the party of the first part, or its successors, reciting the facts authorizing delivery of such bonds hereunder and without other evidence or proof of such facts. Provided, however, that notwithstanding anything herein contained, the party of the first part or its successors, may at any time or from time to time require the party of the third part or its successors to authenticate and certify hereunder and deliver to said party of the first part, its successors or assigns, and permit the sale of such amount or amounts of such bonds as the party of the first part, or its successors, may think fit; provided, that the proceeds of any such bonds issued in excess of the limits hereinabove prescribed shall be received by the trustee or trustees hereunder and not by the party of the first part or its successors or appointees, and shall be disbursed by said trustee or trustees to the party of the first part, or its successors or appointees, only pro rata as and when the party of the first part or its successors would have been entitled to receive such bonds under the foregoing provisions hereof; and, provided further, that the total amount of bonds issued under or secured by this deed of trust is not in any event to exceed for all purposes herein mentioned the aggregate sum of thirty-eight million dollars.

In witness whereof, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the party of the first part, has caused these presents to be signed in its name by its president and attested by its secretary, and sealed with its corporate seal.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,

By Chas. F. Crocker, President.

Attest: J. L. Willcutt, Secretary.

[Seal.]

The Southern Pacific Company, party of the second part, the lessee of portions of the said Southern Pacific Railroad affected by the foregoing instrument, does hereby consent thereto, and hereby waives any and all objection it might or could have to the execution thereof, or to the issuance of the bonds therein provided for, provided that nothing in this consent or assent contained shall be construed as a grant of any of the property rights of said Southern Pacific Company, or of its franchises, to the mortgagee or trustee named herein.

In testimony whereof, said Southern Pacific Company has caused these presents to be signed in its name by its third vice-president and attested by its secretary, and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed this twenty-fifth day of August, 1888.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY,

By Charles F. Crocker, Third Vice-President.

Attest: G. L. Lansing, secretary.

[Seal]

The Central Trust Company of New York, party of the third part to the foregoing mortgage or deed of trust, hereby accepts the trust created and declared in and by the foregoing instrument, and agrees to discharge the same, pursuant to the provisions in that behalf therein contained.

In testimony whereof, said Central Trust Company of New York has caused these presents to be signed in its name by its second vice-president and attested by its assistant secretary, and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, this seventh day of September, 1888.

Communication from Western Development Company.

A communication was presented from the Western Development Company, reading as follows:

To the President and Directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Gentlemen:

The undersigned, Western Development Company, having purchased from the Contract & Finance Company (with your approval) the contract for the construction of your railroad from Gilroy, in the county of Santa Clara, to the eastern boundary of the State of California, dated on the first day of May, A. D. 1871, find that by the amalgamation and consolidation of your company with other companies and the addition of other lines by act of Congress, that you now require the construction of a line by the way of Soledad through the Polonio Pass to intersect the old line at or near Poso Creek, and also a line from Tehechapa junction via Los Angeles to a point near Fort Yuma—making about eight hundred and seventy-nine miles of unfinished road that it is necessary to construct within the term required by the laws of the United States and of this State, while the amount left uncompleted of that part of the road included in the contract now held by this company is only about three hundred and twenty-two miles. It is believed that the whole work can be done more economically by one company than it could be by a number of companies, and being desirous of extending our operations we propose to surrender the contract purchased from the Contract & Finance Company, and enter into a new contract substantially in the form herewith marked "A." We believe the terms are more favorable than the work can be done by several contractors or by any other company. We respectfully ask you to consider the subject.

WESTERN DEVELOPMENT COMPANY,
By JOHN MILLER,
Secretary.

Whereupon the following resolution was offered by Robert Robinson, and being duly seconded was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Approving assignment to contract to W. D. Co.

Whereas, on the first day of May, A. D. 1871, this company entered into a contract with the Contract & Finance Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of this State by which said contract the said Contract & Finance Company covenanted and agreed to construct and equip the railroad of this company from Gilroy, in the county of Santa Clara, to the easterly boundary of the State of California, near Fort Mojave, and shown by said contract as spread upon the records of this company. And

Whereas, the said Contract & Finance Company has, by an instrument in writing under its corporate seal, assigned and transferred said contract to the Western Development Company, a corporation duly incorporated and organized under the laws of the State of California.

Now, therefore, it is resolved that this company consents to, and approves of, said assignment and accepts the said Western Development Company as contractor and party to said contract as fully and in the same manner as the said Contract & Finance Company was before said assignment, and entitled to all the rights and privileges of said Contract & Finance Company before said assignment.

A draft of agreement submitted by the Western Development Company was presented, reading as follows:

Agreement with Western Development Co.

Articles of agreement made this day of A. D. 1875, between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of California, party of the first part, and the Western Development Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of said State, party of the second part, witnesseth:

Article First.

The said party of the second part hereby covenants and agrees to and with the said party of the first part, its successors and assigns, that it will, in good workmanlike manner, construct, finish, furnish, and complete the railroad and telegraph line of the said party of the first part, upon the routes selected by said party of the first part, beginning at Soledad in the county of Monterey, thence to the eastern boundary of the State on the Colorado river at or near the "Needles" (less the amount constructed between Poso Creek and Sumner Station), also between Los Gatos Creek and Goshen station, also from the junction at or near Tehachapa Pass by way of Los Angeles to the Texas Pacific Railroad near Fort Yuma, all in the State of California, together with the rolling stock, buildings, instruments, and fixtures therefor, that is to say, to construct, furnish, finish, do and complete, all the clearing, grading, excavations, embankments, ditches, drains, masonry, culverts, bridges and trestling, furnish all the ties, timber, rails, iron of all kinds, for bridges and other purposes; all the chairs, fishplates, spikes, frogs, and switches; lay and complete all the main line of track, and all the side tracks, spur tracks, and turnouts, necessary, usual, and proper for a single track railroad.

Also all necessary and proper buildings and erections for stations, freight and passenger depots, water tanks, turntables, engine-houses, work and repair shops, with all the tools, furniture and implements, necessary or proper therefor; also to furnish and place on said railroad all necessary and proper rolling stock, instruments and equipments, including locomotives, passenger, box, freight, baggage, platform, and dump and hand cars for the proper and successful working, operating and repairing of said railroad and telegraph line; such rolling stock to be furnished and delivered as may be required by the said party of the first part, not to exceed the following quantity and proportion, viz: One locomotive for every five miles of road constructed under this contract; one passenger car for every mile of road. Three box and flat cars for every mile of road; the proportion of each to be determined by the said party of the first part. On hand car for every six miles of road. Such number of dump cars as may be required for maintaining the line.

Twenty miles of railroad and telegraph line to be constructed and equipped each year, and an additional twenty miles a year if the same be required by the said party of the first part, until the whole is completed. First twenty miles to be completed on or before the first day July, A. D. 1875, and the whole to be completed within the time which now is or may hereafter be limited by act of Congress.

Article Second.

And the said party of the second part hereby further covenants and agrees that it will furnish and provide and pay for all the engineer service necessary or requisite for the location and construction of said railroad and its appurtenances, such location and construction to be subject to the approval of the president or chief engineer of said party of the first part, who may direct such changes to be made as they may deem proper; the salary of the chief engineer of the said railroad company to be paid by the said party of the first part.

The said party of the second part also agrees to pay all the cost and expense of the right of way, and of procuring the same for the portion of said railroad constructed under this contract.

Article Third.

And the said party of the first part hereby covenants and agrees to and with the said party of the second part, its successors and assigns, that it will pay for the construction and equipment of said railroad and telegraph line as aforesaid, the sum of thirty-one millions, six hundred and fifty-four thousand dollars in first mortgage bonds of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and thirty-one millions, six hundred and fifty-four thousand dollars of the capital stock of said company not heretofore subscribed for or issued; and the said party of the second part shall subscribe for all said capital stock as aforesaid and shall receive certificates of stock and the bonds of said company therefor pro rata, as the construction of the railroad and telegraph line progresses and is accepted by the said party of the first part in sections of twenty miles each.

Article Fourth.

And the said party of the first part hereby further covenants and agrees to transport and convey over its railroads free of charge, all agents, laborers and employees, and all provisions, tools, iron and other materials, and all other property, employed or used, or to be employed or used in and about the construction of said railroad and telegraph line, and their appurtenances by or for the said party of the second part.

Article Fifth.

And it is further covenanted and agreed that this contract or any part thereof shall not be assigned or transferred by said party of the second part without the written consent of the said party of the first part being first had and obtained, and neither the said party of the second part nor any assignee or sub-contractor, or any employer, laborer, or any person or corporation furnishing any material, or performing any labor or service upon the said railroad or telegraph line, or the equipments, fixtures or appurtenances, or any part thereof, shall have, hold, or enforce any lien, incumbrance or claim against or upon the said party of the first part, their successors, or assigns, or their railroad or telegraph line; or said equipments, fixtures or appurtenances, or any part thereof, or any property of any kind of said parties of the first part, or any of the said work contracted to be done herein either under the laws of the State of California, now in force, or which may hereafter be enacted or in any other way whatsoever.

Article Sixth.

And it is hereby further agreed that should the said party of the first part at any time become dissatisfied with the manner of the prosecution of the work by the said party of the second part, and if the said party of the second part shall fail, neglect or refuse, when requested, to remove the cause of such dissatisfaction, or to prosecute said work as required by said party of the first part, or to fully observe, perform and execute its agreements as herein set forth, then and in such case the said party of the first part shall have the right to take possession of all the said work whether finished or unfinished, as also of all the locomotives, cars, and rolling stock, rails, ties and all other railroad material; all the tools, horses, carts, wagons, provisions, material and machinery of all kinds and in the construction of said railroad or telegraph line or purchased for that purpose and may go on and complete the said road and telegraph line at the expense of the said party of the second part, the profit or loss as the case may be, to be received or sustained by the said party of the second part.

Article Seventh.

And it is hereby further stipulated and agreed, that no stockholder of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company shall be individually or personally liable or bound by the terms of this agreement, beyond or exceeding the actual amount of stock of said company held by him at the date of said agreement.

In testimony whereof the said parties have caused these presents to be signed by the president and secretary of the party of the first part and the secretary of the party of the second part, and their respective corporate seals to be hereto affixed the day and year aforesaid, as the act and deed of said companies.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,

[Seal] By President.

WESTERN DEVELOPMENT COMPANY,

[Seal] By Secretary.

Whereupon E. H. Miller, Jr., offered the following resolution, which, being duly seconded, was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Resolution accepting proposition of W. D. Co.

Resolved, that this company do accept the proposition of the Western Development Company to construct, complete, and equip so much of the road and telgraph line, as is mentioned in the form of contract submitted, and that the president and secretary are hereby ordered and directed to subscribe their names to the said contract and affix the corporate seal thereto as the act and deed of this company.

Directors' Meeting.

August 27, 1875.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was held at the office of the company on Friday, August 27, A. D. 1875, at 3 o'clock P. M., pursuant to the call of the president.

Present: Directors Chas. Crocker, David D. Colton, Robert Robinson, E. H. Miller, Jr., S. T. Gage, N. T. Smith and J. L. Willcutt; President Chas. Crocker presiding.

The following resolution was offered by S. T. Gage, and, duly seconded, was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Resolved, that this company enter into a contract with Harvey S. Brown, in the following words and figures, towit:

Agreement with Harvey S. Brown.

"Articles of agreement made and entered into this —— day of August, A. D. 1875, by and between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, party of the first part, and Harvey S. Brown, party of the second part, witnesseth: that the party of the first part in consideration of the sum of one dollar, to it in hand paid, contracts and agrees to quit claim and release to the said Harvey S. Brown, party of the second part and his assigns, all of its interest in and to the Rancho of the Sobrante of San Jacinto, as patented by the government of the United States and situated in township three (3) south, ranges five (5) and six (6) west, and township four (4) south, and ranges four (4), five (5) and six (6) west, San Bernardino base and meridian of United States surveys, being the same rancho upon which are situated the Tin Mines of Temescal, and situated in the county of San Bernardino, State of California, upon the payment by said Harvey S. Brown, to the said party of the first part, in gold coin of the sum of sixty-one thousand dollars, on or before the ninth day of March, 1876. It being understood by both parties that the United States has patented said land to parties, other than either of the parties hereto.

"And it is hereby expressly agreed and understood, that in the event of a failure by said Harvey S. Brown, or his assigns, to make the payments herein provided and stipulated, on or before the said ninth day of March, 1876, then this agreement ceases and determines, and becomes utterly void and of no effect.

"In witness whereof, the said party of the first part has caused these presents to be signed by its president and secretary, and affixed its corporate seal thereto, as the act and deed of said corporation, and the said party of the second part has signed and sealed the same this day and date first above written.

"SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

"By ————————, President.

[Seal] "By ————————, Secretary."

And that the president and secretary be and they are hereby directed to sign the same and affix the corporate seal of the company thereto as the act and deed of this company.

The following preamble and resolution was offered by N. T. Smith, and adopted by a unanimous vote.

Whereas, on the ninth day of March, A. D. 1870, Leland Stanford, C. P. Huntington, Mark Hopkins, Chas. Crocker and E. B. Crocker, made a contract with Lloyd Tevis for the benefit of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and

Whereas, on the second day of November, A. D. 1872, this company ratified and assumed said contract, and

Whereas, the said Lloyd Tevis has fully performed and completed said contract on his part, and

Whereas, the said Leland Stanford, C. P. Huntington, Mark Hopkins and Chas. Crocker did on the third day of August, A. D. 1875, pay to said Lloyd Tevis one hundred and seventy-five first mortgage bonds of this company of the denomination of $1,000 each in fulfillment of said contract on the part of this company, now therefore be it

To deliver S. H. H. & Co. $175,000 in bonds account Lloyd Tevis.

Resolved, that the treasurer of this company be, and is hereby authorized to deliver to said Stanford, Huntington, Hopkins & Crocker, one hundred and and seventy-five first mortgage bonds of this company, of one thousand dollars each, or in lieu thereof one hundred and seventy five bonds of the county of Los Angeles of $1,000 each, in full satisfaction of said contract on the part of this company, and to accept and file the receipt of the said Tevis as a voucher for such payment.

On motion of David D. Colton the following preamble and resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, by the articles of association, amalgamation and consolidation between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company into this company, made and executed on the seventeenth day of December, 1874, it was provided among other matters and things that the stockholders of said companies should severally receive the same number of shares of the capital stock of this company which they held of the capital stock of said companies; and

Whereas, at the date of said consolidation the capital stock of said Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company consisted of five hundred thousand dollars divided into five thousand shares of one hundred dollars each; and

Whereas, two thousand seven hundred and forty shares of the capital stock of said last-named company, at the date of said consolidation, was owned and held by Leland Stanford, Collis P. Huntington, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins in common; and

Whereas, the railroad and appurtenances of said last-named company were out of repair and required a large expenditure of money to improve and repair the same, and

Whereas, at the instance and request of said company, the said Stanford, Huntington, Crocker, and Hopkins did make said improvements and repairs at their own cost and charge and therein did expend large sums of money, and upon the like instance and request did expend other large sums of money in paying off and satisfying the indebtedness of said company; and

Whereas, the said Stanford, Huntington, Crocker and Hopkins are the owners and holders of the bonded indebtedness of the said Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company, which existed at the time of said consolidation to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars in six hundred bonds for the sum of five hundred dollars each, bearing ten per cent interest, which bonds it has been heretofore deemed and considered advisable to call in and cancel and to issue in lieu thereof and deliver to the holders thereof three hundred of the first mortgage bonds of this company, for the sum of one thousand dollars each, bearing six per cent interest;

Now, therefore, in consideration of the premises, it is ordered:

To deliver 2740 shares new stock to S. H. H. & C.

First. That two thousand seven hundred and forty shares of the capital stock of this company be issued in the usual form and delivered to said Stanford, Huntington, Crocker and Hopkins, pursuant to the aforesaid condition of said articles of consolidation in place of the stock so held as aforesaid by them in the said Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company.

To pay $500,000 in bonds to S. H. H. & C. in payt. of expenditures on account L. A. & S. P. R. R. Co.

Second. That first mortgage bonds of this company, for the sum of one thousand dollars each, to the number of five hundred be delivered to said Stanford, Huntington, Crocker and Hopkins in payment and satisfaction of their said claim for moneys expended by them in making the aforesaid repairs and improvements and in paying off and satisfying the aforesaid indebtedness of said Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company, and that the usual vouchers be taken therefor; and

To exchange Bonds of S. P. R. R. Co. for Bonds of L. A. & S. P. R. R. to amount of 300,000.

Third. That first mortgage bonds of this company, for the sum of one thousand dollars each, to the number of three hundred, be delivered to said Stanford, Huntington, Crocker and Hopkins in exchange for the aforesaid six hundred bonds of said Los Angeles & San Pedro Railroad Company so as aforesaid held by them upon the surrender thereof, and when said last-named bonds shall have been so surrendered that they be canceled by defacing the seal of said company, punching the signatures of the president and secretary and drawing a red line through each of the coupons annexed thereto.

No further business appearing before the board, and the foregoing minutes having been read and approved, on motion, the meeting adjourned.

The following preamble and resolutions, on motion or E. H. Miller, Jr., were unanimously adopted:

Resolution to under-

Whereas, this company has constructed over five hundred miles of its road from the city of San Fran-take construction of Texas Pacific Railroad.

cisco to its proposed junction with the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river in the south-eastern part of the State, leaving only two hundred miles to be completed, upon which the heaviest work is nearly finished;

And, whereas, this company expects to complete its road to the Colorado river by the first of July, 1876;

And, whereas, the eastern portion of the road will be of little value to the company, and of little convenience to the public so long as it remains without a connecting road running to the east on the line of the so-called Texas Pacific Railroad;

And whereas, it is of vital importance to the company to secure as speedily as possible a through railroad connection with the commercial centers of the East;

And whereas, the Texas Pacific Railroad Company has failed to comply with the conditions imposed upon it by an act of Congress entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and to aid in the construction of ts road, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871; now, therefore,

Resolved: First. That this company, if so authorized and empowered by Congress, will undertake the construction and equipment of the entire railroad and telegraph line provided for in said act lying to the east of eastern boundary line of the State of California, or to construct the same to a point of connection with said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, upon the same considerations, terms, conditions, restrictions, immunities, powers, rights and privileges which, by said act, were granted to and imposed upon said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and will agree to complete the same within five years after the passage of an act of Congress, vesting in it, all the grants, powers, rights, privileges and immunities, and imposing upon it all the conditions, limitations, and restrictions, respectively vested in and imposed upon said Texas Pacific Railroad Company by said act, and will ask of Congress no other or further aid.

Resolved: Second. That C. P. Huntington be and hereby is authorized and empowered on behalf of this company to submit the foregoing proposition to Congress, and urge its acceptance.

Resolved: Third. That a copy of these resolutions, under the seal of the company, and signed by the vice-president, the president being absent, and secretary, be forwarded to said Huntington.

Secretary.

Directors' Meeting.

March 28, 1876.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was held at the office of the company on Tuesday, March 28, 1876, at 11 o'clock A. M., pursuant to the call of the president.

Present: Directors Charles Crocker, David D. Colton, Robert Robinson, E. H. Miller, Jr., N. T. Smith, and J. L. Willcutt—Charles Crocker presiding as president of the board.

Absent: Director S. T. Gage.

The following resolution was offered by David D. Colton and adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution adopting line of road 80th to 100th mile south from Goshen, map F.

Resolved, That the line of the railroad as it has been surveyed and laid out on map marked "F" and described as follows:

Commencing at a point at the end of the eightieth (80th) mile on the line of the said railroad, south from the intersection of the Southern Pacific Railroad with the San Joaquin Valley Branch of the Central Pacific Railroad (said point of commencement being the northeast quarter (N. E. ¼) of section five (5), township thirty (30) south, range twenty-nine (29) east, Mount Diablo base and meridian) running thence in a southeasterly direction and ending at the termination of the twentieth (20th) mile therefrom in the southeast quarter (S. E. ¼) of section thirty-three (33), township thirty (30), south range thirty-one (31), east Mount Diablo base and meridian, be, and the same is hereby adopted as the route of said railroad between the points named.

The following resolution was offered by E. H. Miller, Jr., and adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution adopting line of road San Gorgonio Pass to 1st Indian Wells, map CC.

Resolved, That the line of the railroad as it has been surveyed and laid out on map marked "C C" and described as follows:

Commencing at a point in the southwest quarter (S. W. ¼) of section four (4), township three (3) south, range one (1) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and running thence in a southeasterly direction fifty (50) miles to a point in the southwest quarter (S. The following resolution was offered by David D. Colton and adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution to pay W. D. Co. for road.

Whereas, the Western Development Company has completed one hundred and forty miles under its contract of the date of February 2, 1875, for the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and in accordance with said contract is entitled to receive from this company five million and forty thousand dollars in the first mortgage bonds of the company, and also five million and forty thousand dollars in full paid shares of its capital stock as payment therefor.

Therefore, resolved, That the said one hundred and forty miles of railroad are hereby accepted and the president and secretary are hereby authorized and directed to issue to said Western Development Company the said bonds and stock in accordance with said contract, taking a proper voucher therefor on account.

No further business appearing before the board, and the foregoing minutes having been read and approved, on motion, duly seconded, the meeting adjourned.

Directors' Meeting.

June 8, 1887.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was held at the office of the company on Friday, June 8, A. D. 1877, at 4 o'clock P. M., pursuant to the call of the president.

Present: Directors Charles Crocker, E. H. Miller, Jr., H. M. Newhall, N. T. Smith, and J. L. Willcutt.

Absent: Directors David D. Colton and Robert Robinson.

The president stated the object of the meeting, whereupon, on motion of E. H. Miller, Jr., the following preambles and resolutions were adopted unanimously:

Appointment of N. H. Alexander for Arizona Territory.

Whereas, on the seventh day of February, 1877, the legislative assembly of the Territory of Arizona passed an act whereby certain grants, powers, franchises and privileges were conferred upon this company, to be exercised, possessed and enjoyed in said territory upon the condition that this company should appoint some person residing in said territory as its attorney in fact, upon whom service of legal process might be made with the same force and effect as if served personally upon the president or other officer or managing agent of this company.

Now, therefore, Resolved, That H. N. Alexander, of Yuma, in said territory, be appointed as the attorney in fact of this company, pursuant to the provisions of said act.

Resolved, further, That letters of attorney in due form of law be prepared under the corporate seal of this company, and signed by its president, and countersigned by its secretary, and delivered by the president of the company to said Alexander, with instructions to file the same, or a copy thereof, in the office of the secretary of the territory aforesaid.

The following preamble and resolution was offered by J. L. Willcutt, and on motion, duly seconded, was adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution dating Series D of Bonds.

Whereas, one of the conditions of the mortgage executed by this company on the first day of April, A. D. 1875, provides that Series "A" of its mortgage bonds shall bear date of April 1, 1875, and the several succeeding series such dates respectively as the board of directors may direct; therefore, be it Resolved and ordered, That Series "D" of said bonds shall bear the date of October 1, 1876, and that the first interest coupon thereon shall be due and payable on the first day of April, A. D. 1877.

No further business appearing before the board and the foregoing minutes having been read and approved, on motion, duly seconded, the meeting adjourned.

(Signed) J. L. WILLCUTT,
Secretary.

Note.—The power of attorney issued under the foregoing resolution reads as follows:

Copy of power of attorney to H. N. Alexander.

"Whereas, on the seventh day of February, 1877, the legislative assembly of the Territory of Arizona passed an act entitled 'An act to secure the construction and operation of certain railroad and telegraph lines and to provide for other matters relating thereto, whereby certain franchises, grants, powers, rights and privileges were conferred upon a corporation therein named, towit: the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, upon the express condition that said corporation should appoint, under its corporate seal, an attorney residing in said territory, upon whom process of law might be served with the same force and effect as if served personally upon the president or other officer, or managing agent of said corporation,"

"Now, therefore, know all men by these presents, that the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company has appointed and hereby does appoint H. N. Alexander as its attorney pursuant to said statute, to reside in said territory with full power to receive and accept service of process of law on behalf of said corporation, with the same force and effect as if served personally upon the president or other officer or managing agent of said corporation."

"In testimony whereof, said corporation has caused these presents to be signed by its president and countersigned by its secretary and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, on this the eighth day of June, 1877."

The following resolution was offered by David D. Colton, and being duly seconded, was adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution to pay W. D. Co. for 118.31 miles road.

Whereas, the Western Development Company has completed 118 31-100 miles of railroad and telegraph line under its contract of February 2, 1875, and in accordance with said contract is entitled to receive as payment therefor ($8,518,320.00) eight million five hundred and eighteen thousand three hundred and twenty dollars in the stock and bonds of this company (one-half each); therefore be it

Resolved, That the said 118 31-100 miles of railroad and telegraph line be and are hereby accepted, and and instructed to issue to said Western Development the president and secretary are hereby authorized Company the said stock and bonds in accordance with said contract, taking a proper voucher therefor.

No further business appearing before the board, and the foregoing minutes having been read and approved, on motion, duly seconded, the meeting adjourned.

Directors' Meeting.

August 8, 1877.

A regular meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was held at the company's office on Wednesday, August 8, A. D. 1877, at 1 o'clock P. M., in pursuance of the by-laws.

Present: Directors Chas. Crocker, David D. Colton, Jerome Madden, N. T. Smith, H. M. Newhall, Chas. Mayne, and J. L. Willcutt.

On motion of David D. Colton the minutes of the last meeting of the board were read and approved.

The president referred to the contract made with the Contract & Finance Company on May 1, A. D. 1871, for the construction and equipment of this road and the assignment of the same to the Western Development Company. He gave an explanation of the purport and intent of the new contract as understood between the two companies.

Whereupon, the following preamble and resolution was offered by H. M. Newhall and adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution to transfer $10,000,000 to construction account.

Whereas, heretofore, towit, on the first day of May, 1871, this company entered into a contract with a certain corporation known as the Contract & Finance Company for the construction and equipment of its road and telegraph, then estimated to be seven hundred miles in length, whereby it agreed to pay to said Contract & Finance Company, in consideration of construction and equipment as aforesaid, all of its capital stock not then subscribed for or issued, and all the bonds which it was authorized to issue, towit: $40,000 per mile, aggregating the sum of $28,000,000—$5,000,000 in stock, and $5,000,000 in bonds to be delivered on the execution of said contract, and the remainder pro rata per mile as the construction progressed. And whereas, said $5,000,000 in stock and said $5,000,000 in bonds was delivered to said Contract & Finance Company, as provided in said contract;

And whereas, said stock and bonds were entered in the books of this company as debits against said Contract & Finance Company, and still remain so entered;

And whereas, this company had paid and delivered to said Contract & Finance Company in bonds, including the $5,000,000 aforesaid, the sum of $13,596,000 on account of construction, and $750,000 to the holders of old bonds of the company in redemption thereof prior to the assignment of said contract as hereinafter stated;

And whereas, afterwards, towit; on the —— day of January, 1875, after a partial performance thereof, said Contract & Finance Company, with the knowledge and consent of this company, assigned said contract to a corporation known as the Western Development Company, upon the condition that said last named company should perform it to the entire satisfaction of this company for and in consideration of so much of the stock and bonds of this company mentioned in said contract as had not theretofore been paid out and delivered to said Contract & Finance Company, and to other parties in redemption of old bonds of the company, as aforesaid;

And whereas, afterwards this company, acting under certain laws of Congress and the State of California, amended its articles of incorporation so as to enable it to construct additional lines of road and telegraph provided for in said acts of Congress, aggregating 750 miles or thereabouts, and to issue additional bonds for the construction thereof, and whereas this company did thereupon authorize the issue of bonds to the amount of $46,000,000, $14,346,000 of which were used in the redemption of the bonds which had been issued previously as aforesaid.

And whereas, afterwards, towit, on the second day of February, 1875, this company entered into another contract with the Western Development Company for the construction and equipment of its road and telegraph, including the unfinished portions provided for in said contract first aforesaid, as well as the additional road and telegraph provided for in said amended articles of incorporation, whereby this company agreed, for and in consideration of such construction and equipment, to pay and deliver to said Western Development Company $31,654,000 in the stock of the company and an equal amount in the bonds of the company, making together with the $14,346,000 paid out as aforesaid, $46,000,000, being the full amount of the bonds authorized to be issued as aforesaid—it being the true intent and meaning of said contracts that said Con- bonds of the company in part payment for the con- opment Company should together receive all the tract & Finance Company and said Western Devel- struction and equipment of the road and telegraph of the company, as provided in said contracts; yet, nevertheless it appears by the books of the company, as hereinbefore stated, that said Contract & Finance Company is indebted to this company to the amount of $5,000,000 in its bonds and an equal amount in its stock, contrary to the true intent and meaning of said contracts.

Now, therefore, resolved, that the secretary be directed and instructed, and he is hereby instructed and directed, to cancel said debts and transfer the same to his construction account, where the same properly belongs.

The following resolution was offered by Chas. Mayne, and on motion, duly seconded, was adopted by a unanimous vote:

Amending Section 5 of By-laws.

Resolved, That section 5 of the by-laws be amended by substituting the word "Tuesday" for "Wednesday," the said section then reading as follows: "Section 5. The regular weekly meetings of the directors shall be held on Tuesday of each week at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the office of the company, without further notice than the operation of this by-law, and four or more of the directors shall constitute a Quorum special meetings.

Directors' meetings.

quorum at all meetings for the transaction of business. Special meetings may at any time be called by the president, or any three members of the board, to convene at such time and place as may be appointed, but it shall require a majority of the whole board to adopt any measure."

No further business appearing before the board and the foregoing minutes having been read and approved, on motion, duly seconded, the meeting adjourned.

Directors' Meeting.

February 12, 1878.

A regular meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was held at the company's office on Tuesday, February 12, A. D. 1878, at 1 o'clock P. M., pursuant to the by-laws.

Present: Directors Chas. Crocker, Chas. Mayne, N. T. Smith, Jerome Madden and J. L. Willcutt, President Chas. Crocker presiding.

Absent: Directors David D. Colton and H. M. Newhall.

The following resolution was offered by Chas. Mayne and adopted by a unanimous vote:

(Texas Pacific R. R.) Resolution as to construction of road east of Colorado River (Amended pp. 312, 319).

Whereas, this company has constructed its road to its proposed junction with the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, in the southeastern part of this state;

And whereas, the eastern portion of the road will be of little value to the company and of litle convenience to the public so long as it remains without a connecting road running to the East on or near the line of the so-called Texas Pacific Railroad;

And whereas, it is of vital importance to the company to secure as speedily as possible a through railroad connection with the commercial centers of the East;

And whereas, the Texas Pacific Railroad Company has failed to comply with the conditions imposed upon it by an act of Congress entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, and the amendments thereto; now, therefore

Resolved: First. That this company, if so authorized and empowered by Congress, will undertake the construction and equipment of the entire railroad and telegraph line, provided for in said act, lying to the east of the eastern boundary line of the State of California, or to construct the same to a point of connection with said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, upon the same considerations, terms, conditions, restrictions, immunities, powers, rights, and privileges which by said acts were granted to and imposed upon said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and will agree to complete the same within six years after the passage of an act of Congress vesting in it all the grants, powers, rights, privileges and immunities, and imposing upon it all the conditions, limitations and restrictions respectively vested in and imposed upon said Texas Pacific Railroad Company by said acts, and will ask of Congress no other or further aid.

Resolved: Second. That this company will pro rate with all Eastern lines of transportation on all through traffic between its eastern terminus and any part of the Pacific, which it may reach by its own road, or by any line it may control by lease or otherwise.

Resolved: Third. That C. P. Huntington be and he hereby is authorized to submit the foregoing proposition to Congress and urge its acceptance.

Resolved: Fourth. That a copy of these resolutions under the seal of the company and signed by the president and secretary, be forwarded to said Huntington.

The following resolution was offered by Chas. Mayne and adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution as to grading Kentucky Street.

Whereas, it is proposed to grade Kentucky street and the crossings thereof, lying between Sierra street and Centre street;

And whereas, this company owns property on said street;

Now, therefore, resolved, That this company join in a petition to the board of supervisors of the city and county of San Francisco, asking that said street be graded.

Resolved, further, That Chas. Crocker, president of this company, be, and he is hereby authorized to sign such petition on behalf of this company, and to attach thereto its corporate seal.

The following resolution was offered by N. T. Smith and adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolution to give Quitclaim Deed to I. M. Hellman.

Resolved, That the president and secretary of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company be authorized and instructed to prepare and execute in behalf of said company a quitclaim deed conveying to Sarah A. Wicks, the party now having the equitable interest in the same, all that certain property conveyed to said company by I. M. Hellman by deed dated the ——— day of August, A. D. 1873, and acknowledged by him before A. W. Potts, county clerk of Los Angeles county, California, August 20, 1873; said deed being recorded on said twentieth day of August, A. D. 1873, at 5 minutes past 5 P. M., in Book 25 of Deeds, page 633, in the recorder's office of Los Angeles county. Cal., the land described therein not having been used as a portion of the right of way of said Southern Pacific Railroad, for which it was intended when said deed was executed by said I. M. Hellman.

No further busin appearing before the board, and the foregoing r..nutes having been read and approved, on motion, duly seconded, the meeting adjourned.

Directors' Meeting.

February 21, 1878.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was held at the company's office on Thursday, February 21, A. D. 1878, at one o'clock P. M., pursuant to the call of the president.

Present: Directors Chas. Crocker, Charles Mayne, H. M. Newhall, N. T. Smith, Jerome Madden and J. L. Willcutt, President Charles Crocker presiding.

Absent, Director David D. Colton.

The object of the meeting having been stated by the president, the following resolution was offered by Charles Mayne and adopted by a unanimous vote:

(Texas Pacific R. R.) to construct road east of Colorado River (2nd amendment).

Whereas, this company has constructed its road to its proposed junction with the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river near the southeastern line of this State;

And whereas, the eastern portion of the road will be of little value to the company and of little convenience to the public so long as it remains without a connecting road running to the east on or near the line of the so-called Texas Pacific Railroad;

And whereas, it is of vital importance to the company to secure as speedily as possible a through railroad connection with the commercial centers of the East;

And whereas, the Texas Pacific Railroad Company has failed to comply with the conditions imposed upon it by an act of Congress entitled "An act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, and the amendments thereto; now, therefore,

Resolved: First. That this Company, if so authorized and empowered by Congress, will undertake the construction and equipment of the entire railroad and telegraph line provided for in said act, lying to the east of the eastern boundary line of the State of California, or to construct the same to a point of connection with said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, upon the same consideration, terms, conditions, restrictions, immunities, powers, rights and privileges which, by said acts, were granted to and imposed upon said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and will agree to complete the same within six years after the passage of an act by Congress, vesting in it all the grants, powers, rights, privileges and immunities, and imposing upon it all the conditions, limitations, and restrictions respectively vested in and imposed upon said Texas Pacific Railroad Company by said acts, and will ask of Congress no other or further aid.

Resolved: Second. That this company will pro rate with all Eastern lines of transportation on all through traffic between its eastern terminus and any part of the Pacific, which it may reach by its own road, or by any line it may control by lease or otherwise.

Resolved: Third. Further, and this company hereby agrees that if the foregoing proposition is accepted by the United States, the rates of fare and freightage from the eastern terminus of the proposed road to San Pedro, Santa Monica and San Diego in California may be established and regulated from time to time by Congress.

Resolved: Fourth. That C. P. Huntington be and he hereby is authorized and empowered, on behalf of this company, to submit the foregoing proposition to Congress, and urge its acceptance.

Resolved: Fifth. That a copy of these resolutions, under the seal of the company, and signed by the president and secretary, be forwarded to said Huntington.

No further business appearing before the board and the foregoing minutes having been read and approved, on motion, duly seconded, the meeting adjourned.

I hereby certify that the foregoing ninety-three pages have been compared by me with the original thereof, and I find them to be a full, true and correct copy of those portions of the minutes of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company offered in evidence before me on behalf of the complainants on cross-examination of defendant's witness J. L. Willcutt.

STEPHEN POTTER,
Special examiner.

San Francisco, October 14, 1893.

[Endorsed]: Filed December 5, 1893. Wm. M. Van Dyke, Clerk.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence by reference, in the same manner that we offered yesterday the postmaster general's reports, the report of the auditor of railroad accounts for 1880, officially published as follows:

"Annual report of the auditor of railroad accounts, made to the secretary of the interior for the year ending June 30, 1880. Washington Government Printing Office, 1880," for the purpose of showing the relations between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Government of the United States, with reference to the accounts and reports rendered by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the Government of the United States, in accordance with the instructions of Congress, given to the auditor of railroad accounts, and I ask that they be referred to by title only, as it is stipulated that the volume being an official publication is before the Court. Is that right, Mr. Call, subject to your objections?

Mr. CALL.—I have no objections to the mode of their being offered, and it may have the same effect as though the volume referred to was filed in the case as an exhibit.

I object to it upon the following grounds: as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant and not the best evidence; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation in evidence herein, marked Master's Exhibits 1, 2 and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the Special Examiner, Nos. 88 and 89, has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands, and did thereby surrender to the United States, in each case of consolidation, all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad; and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustees, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department, and of the United States land office at Los Angeles, and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of state for California, and the public laws of the United States and of California, show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands.

Mr. REDDING.—You do not object to the incompetency of the evidence, as not being the best evidence of the facts therein stated, do you?

Mr. CALL.—I waive any objection to the mode and manner of offering the document, and consent that it may be made by reference with the same effect as if it was now filed before the special examiner as an exhibit in the case duly offered, but I do object to it upon the grounds stated.

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1881, officially published as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1881. Washington. Government Printing Office, 1881."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1882, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1882. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1882."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1883, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1883. Washington. Government Printing Office, 1883."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1884, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1884. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1884."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1885, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1885. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1885."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1886, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the secretary of the interior, for the year ending June 30, 1886. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1886."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1887, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1887. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1887."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1888, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1888. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1888."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1889, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1889. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1889."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1890, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1890. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1890."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1891, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior for the year ending June 30, 1891. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1891."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence the report of the commissioner of railroads for 1892, officially published, as follows:

"Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads, made to the Secretary of the Interior, for the year ending June 30, 1892. Washington. Government Printing Office. 1892."

(Same objection.)

Mr. REDDING.—These are all offered by reference under Mr. Call's stipulation, as official publications from the government printing office, and for the purpose of showing the receipt of the reports of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company sent to the commissioner of railroads and set forth by him in the said annual reports to Congress and to the various officers of the Government.

Mr. CALL.—All under the same objections.

Testimony of CHARLES J. WILDER.

CHARLES J. WILDER called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. What is your present occupation?

A. I am freight auditor of the Southern Pacific Company.

Q. How long have you occupied that position?

A. Since the company came into existence.

Q. In 1885? A. In 1885; yes, sir.

Q. As auditor of the Southern Pacific Company, do you have anything to do with the freight accounts of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. Only in so far as they are covered by their relations to the Southern Pacific Company.

Q. Do the accounts for freight transported over the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between Mojave, by the way of Los Angeles, to Fort Yuma, in any way come under your inspection or official action?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what way?

A. All the accounts covering freight of any character moved over that line are kept by me, kept in my office.

Q. Has the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, through its lessee, the Southern Pacific Company, any relations with the Government of the United States between the points named, with reference to the transportation of governmental effects over the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation, in evidence herein, marked Master's Exhibits 1, 2 and 3, and defendants' exhibits before the special examiner Nos. 88 and 89, has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands, and did thereby surrender to the United States in each case of consolidation, all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad; and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustees, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department, and of the United States land office at Los Angeles, and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of state for California, and the public laws of the United States and of California, show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands.)

A. Yes, sir; such freight is being constantly transported.

Q. What is the method of the Government obtaining transportation of freight—I am now speaking of other than postal service—over the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, between the points named?

(Same objection.)

A. Freight is presented in exactly the same manner that any freight from a commercial house would be, and is handled and carried through in the same way.

Q. Who presents the freight on behalf of the Government?

(Same objection.)

A. Usually the freight is shipped through the quartermaster's department, and their teamsters present the freight at the warehouse.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, between the points named, holds itself all of the time in readiness to transport the freight of the Government, such as munitions of war, soldiers, et cetera?

(Same objection.)

A. It does; through its relations with the Southern Pacific.

Q. Does it do this through its lease with the Southern Pacific Company at present?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you state in what manner accounts are made up between the Government of the United States on the one side and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, through its lessee, the Southern Pacific Company, on the other, for Government transportation?

(Same objection.)

A. Accompanying the various shipments of Government freight, is a bill of lading, which is an acknowledgment by the railroad company that they have received the freight from the shippers, usually the quartermaster, for transportation to the various points to which it is destined. This bill of lading accompanies the freight through to its destination, and is there signed, what is called accomplished, by the consignee, acknowledging that he has received this freight, that the transportation has been performed; these documents are then returned to my office, and I make up an account against the Government in the name of the Southern Pacific Company for the transportation, and present these bills of lading as the evidence of the transportation having been performed.

Q. How are the accounts for such transportation settled, as between the Southern Pacific Company and the Government, and afterwards between the Southern Pacific Company and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. The account is made in the name of the Southern Pacific Company, and presented to the accounting officers of the Government, and is settled the same as any other account would be.

Q. Are the same prices for transportation received by the Southern Pacific Company, as lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for transportation of soldiers and governmental effects between the points named, over the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as are received for a like service performed for individuals?

(Same objection.)

A. Our accounts are all based on those same rates, yes, sir.

Q. Is it not a fact that in the appropriations by Congress a less rate is allowed for governmental transportation for this particular road?

(Same objection.)

A. I know what you mean, but it is hardly in that shape; that only applies to the army appropriation act; there is in the army appropriation act a clause which says that disbursements of money from that fund shall be not to exceed 50 per cent of the regular charges; the charge is extended at the same rate, but a portion of that charge is disallowed.

Q. Do you know why that is the case?

(Same objection.)

A. That is one of the conditions in the appropriation act.

Q. Then I understand that the rate made up and charged to the Government is the same rate, so far as your office is concerned, as would be charged to individuals?

(Same objection.)

A. Certainly.

Q. Do you know how much is allowed by the Government for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, through its lessee, the Southern Pacific Company, and between the points named of that rate?

(Same objection.)

A. Fifty per cent of that charge.

Q. Can you produce any settled account between the Government and the Southern Pacific Company, as lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for transportation recently performed between the points named?

(Same objection.)

A. I can show you an account for service performed in the months of September, October and November, 1889, which has been settled, and I can refer you to the date of the settlement, and the warrant which was drawn in settlement. (Producing.)

Q. Is this the original?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I understand you now produce an original statement of account for transportation between the United States and the Southern Pacific Company, Pacific System, No. 5,487, on account of the war department, for the months of September, October and November, 1889, for freight, in the sum of $4,089.53, covering transportation, which includes the points named, Tehachapi, by way of Los Angeles, to Fort Yuma.

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. REDDING.—We offer this in evidence as defendants' exhibit before the special examiner No. 120, and ask that under the stipulation a copy be made of the same and certified by the special examiner, which copy, when so made and certified, shall stand in lieu of the original.

Mr. CALL.—I have no objection to the special examiner making a copy and certifying to the same.

I will object to the introduction of the paper in evidence on the ground that it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation, in evidence herein, marked Master's Exhibits 1, 2 and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the Special Examiner Nos. 88 and 89, has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands, and did thereby surrender to the United States, in each case of consolidation, all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad; and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustees, shows upon its fact that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department, and of the United States land office at Los Angeles, and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of state for California, and the public laws of the United States and of California, show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands; and the further objection that the Southern Pacific Company, mentioned in the account, and referred to by the witness is a different corporation from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and that the Southern Pacific Company is not a party to this suit.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Is this exhibit we have offered the original from which an exact copy was made and forwarded to the war department?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They were compared under your own supervision?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. . this a form similar to those used for other accounts of like nature with the Government?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For how many years has the Southern Pacific Railroad Company performed transportation for the Government between the points named and under similar procedure as herein testified to?

(Same objection.)

A. Ever since the road has been in operation.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from Mojave, by way of Los Angeles, to Fort Yuma has always been maintained as a first-class railroad for governmental transportation?

(Same objection.)

A. So far as I am able to know, not being an expert.

Q. Don't you know as a fact that the road has been used all the time for that purpose?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have not accounts been audited for freight transported for the Government during these years?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Prior to the 50 per cent rate, of the charge being allowed, what was the percentage allowed?

(Same objection.)

A. The full payment.

Mr. CALL.—Q. When was it changed to 50 per cent?

A. This last Congress; the previous Congress it was 60.

Q. What was it before that? A. Full payment.

Mr. REDDING.—What is your method of crediting to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company its proportion of these governmental transportation charges?

(Same objection.)

A. They are included in our regular earning statements, and apportioned the same as all the other traffic is apportioned over that part of the line.

Q. Do you know as a fact whether the Southern Pacific Railroad Company gets its due credit for the governmental transportation between the points?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It does?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has the Government of the United States recognized the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between the points named as one of its means of governmental transportation during all these years?

(Question objected to by Mr. Call as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation, in evidence herein, marked "Master's Exhibits 1, 2 and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the Special Examiner Nos. 88 and 89," has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands, and did thereby surrender to the United States in each case of consolidation, all right to earn such lands by by constructing a railroad; and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mlils, trustees, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department, and of the United States land office at Los Angeles, and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of state of California, and the public laws of the United States and of California, show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands; and the further objection that the Southern Pacific Company mentioned in the account and referred to by the witness as a different corporation from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and that the Southern Pacific Company is not a party to this suit; and the further objection that the testimony sought calls for a conclusion of law on the part of the witness, and the matter has been fully shown by the previous evidence.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you with you any of the original orders or demands from the Government for governmental transportation over the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir (producing).

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants offer in evidence transportation order made by the Government of the United States upon the Southern Pacific Company, wherein the demand is made by the Government that the Southern Pacific Company transport Private F. Armstead and —— pounds of extra baggage, of Company C, Tenth Regiment Infantry, from San Francisco, California, to Los Angeles, California, by the way of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, signed by R. N. Batchelder, quartermaster general, United States army, duly countersigned; and ask that it be marked Defendants' Exhibit before the Special Examiner No. 121, and that a copy made by the special examiner be certified, and when so certified stand in lieu of the original.

Mr. CALL.—Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not the best evidence; and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were excepted out of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, made by the act of March 3, 1871, by the terms and conditions of said act, and upon the further ground that the lands in suit herein were withdrawn for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and were reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company filed its map of definite location; and upon the further ground that the matters in issue in this suit have been finally decided and adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California, as shown by the records of such decisions in evidence herein; and upon the further ground that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to which the grant was made by the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, by entering into the articles of consolidation and amalgamation in evidence herein, marked Master's Exhibits 1, 2 and 3, and Defendants' Exhibits before the Special Examiner Nos. 88 and 89, has surrendered to the United States all interest in these lands, and did thereby surrender to the United States, in each case of consolidation, all right to earn such lands by constructing a railroad; and upon the further ground that the mortgage of 1875 to Lloyd Tevis and D. O. Mills, trustees, shows upon its face that it does not purport to cover lands not granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and upon the further ground that the records of the interior department, and of the United States land office at Los Angeles, and the United States land office at San Francisco, and the records of the office of the secretary of state for California, and the public laws of the United States and of California, show that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, defendant herein, has no interest in these lands.

(Transportation order made by the Government of the United States upon the Southern Pacific Company to transport F. Armsted, is marked Defendants Exhibit before the Special Examiner No. 121, Stephen Potter, special examiner, and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Defendants next offer in evidence similar order for transportation upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, dated June 30, 1893, and signed by R. N. Batchelder, quartermaster general of the United States army, and duly countersigned, calling upon the Scuthern Pacific Railroad Company to transport Sergeant Charles H. Trask, of Troop G, and two privates, Ccmpany C, First Regiment Cavalry, en route from Alcatraz Island, California, to Wilcox, Arizona, and ask that it be marked Defendants' Exhibit before the Special Examiner No. 122, and when a copy is certified by the special examiner, that the copy may stand in lieu of the original.

(Same objection.)

(Order for transportation upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, dated June 30, 1893, to transport Sergeant Charles H. Trask, is marked "Defendants' Exhibit before the Special Examiner, No. 122, Stephen Potter, special examiner," and a certified copy thereof is attached hereto.)

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Are these two demands or requests for transportation by the Government recently made for transportation upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Southern Pacific Company?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the transportation performed by the Southern Pacific Company, as lessee of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, in conformity with such demand or request by the Government?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the common form of demand made by the Government for transportation over the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between the points named?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it honored by that company in each instance?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. CALL.—What proportion of the full amount of the fare was paid upon that transportation request last referred to?

A. It has not been paid yet. It has never been settled.

Q. Has either one of them been settled?

A. No, sir.

Q. What is the deduction which you say is usually made for a land grant road? A. Fifty per cent.

Q. What was it in 1891? A. Sixty per cent.

Q. What was it in 1890? A. Full payment.

Q. What was it prior to that time?

A. I believe there was a deficiency appropriation that had the same condition of 60 per cent in it, which covered the deficiency of 1890, but the general appropriation was full payment prior to 1891.

Q. Did that cover transportation of troops, munitions of war, public stores and other Government property?

A. Do you mean full payment?

Q. Yes, sir. A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long has the railroad been operated by the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky

A. Since 1885.

Q. What deductions were made for land grant roads in paying for transportation of mails prior to 1890?

Mr. REDDING.—We object to the question as not proper cross-examination; I have not asked Mr. Wilder anything in reference to postal service, and I doubt if the witness' testimony would be competent, as not being the best evidence.

A. Twenty per cent reduction.

Mr. CALL.—Q. How long did that deduction continue previous to 1890?

A. I think it was in the law of 1876.

Q. It was all fixed by law? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you an officer of the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky, or of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company? A. Southern Pacific Company.

Q. How are the accounts adjusted between the Southern Pacific Company and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. The accounts are all kept in the name of the Southern Pacific Company, and then monthly we make a distribution of the earnings for the different roads over which service is performed, including the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Q. And then there is paid by the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky the amount called for under the lease?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has the Government ever made a deduction for transportation of troops and munitions of war and public stores where the service was performed by the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky, and accounts made by that company to the Government? A. No, sir.

(This answer was subsequently corrected. See foot note on page 680, at the end of Mr. Wilder's testimony. —S.P.)

Q. Has the Government ever made deduction for transporting of mails where the service was performed by the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky?

A. The same deduction as if it had been performed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Corporation.

Q. Then a deduction was in fact made where the service was performed by the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky?

A. Just the same as if it had been performed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Q. When was the present contract made for carrying mails from Goshen to Yuma by the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky?

A. The present arrangement, which is hardly in the nature of a contract, went into effect July 1, 1890; we made no contract, so far as having any written agreement; we were obliged to carry the mails; I believe the act compels that, and the compensation is determined by law, based on the weight of the mails carried, which is determined by weighing once in four years.

Q. What is paid to the Southern Pacific Company for carrying mails from Goshen to Yuma?

A. I cannot tell the figures.

Q. What is the mode of keeping the account with the Government—do you make out an account monthly or otherwise, in reference to the transportation of mails?

A. We make no account; the sum paid is a fixed sum, and the postoffice department draw their warrants for the amount quarterly.

Q. And send it?

A. Send it? yes, sir. Of course, we enter up the amounts on our books.

Q. Do you mean to say then that the amount paid now is only one-half the amount paid to other roads for similar services?

A. Not for mails.

Q. How is it for mails?

A. The amount paid for mail transportation is the same to any other land grant road for mail transportation, that is 80 per cent of the regular rates.

Redirect Examination.

Mr. REDDING.—Q. Where is Wilcox?

(Same objection.)

A. In Arizona.

Q. How far from San Francisco?

(Same objection.)

A. Say in the neighborhaad of one thousand miles.

Q. The lines of what companies leased by the Southern Pacific Company are used in the transportation of soldiers and other governmental effects, not postal, between San Francisco and Wilcox?

(Same objection.)

A. The Central Pacific between San Francisco and West Oakland; the Northern Railway between West Oakland and Martinez; the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between Martinez and Tracy; the Central Pacific Railroad Company between Tracy and Goshen; the Southern Pacific Railroad Company between Goshen and Yuma; the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of Arizona from Yuma east to Wilcox.

Q. Then if a Government transportation was made by the Southern Pacific Company from San Francisco to Wilcox, recently, will you please state how the amounts to be paid by the Government would be adjusted over the several lines of leased railroads used?

(Same objection.)

A. The settlement would be made with the Southern Pacific Company for the entire distance, the payment due the land grant portion of the line being reduced according to the law.

Q. What portion of the distance named is the land grant portion of the line?

(Same objection.)

A. I have not the miles in my mind.

Q. Would it include that portion of the line from Mojave by the way of Los Angeles to Fort Yuma?

(Same objection.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you state whether the Southern Pacific Company would receive from the Government the same rate for the transportation of soldiers between Mojave, by the way of Los Angeles, and Fort Yuma, and between Goshen and Yuma, and between Tracy and Yuma, as it would receive from San Francisco to Tracy?

(Same objection.)

A. The rate used is a through rate, covering the entire distance from San Francisco to Wilcox.

Q. How would that be apportioned afterwards?

(Same objection.)

A. On the basis of the mileage of land grant and non-land grant roads.

Q. Then there would be a difference between the land grant portion of the road and the non-land grant portion of the road?

(Same objection.)

A. In the final settlement there would be a deduction from the land grant portion.

On page 676, line 14, I desire to withdraw my answer, "No, sir," and substitute the following answer in lieu thereof: The same deductions have been made as would have been made if settlements had been made with the individual corporations over whose roads the service was performed.

Washington, D. C., 11th May, 1874.

Sir.

I transmit herewith, for appropriate action, a map of 50 miles of the Southern Pacific Railroad, showing the line of that road from a point in the northwest one-quarter, section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, running thence in a southeasterly direction to the city of Los Angeles, and thence in an easterly direction, to the termination of the 50th mile therefrom, at a point in the northeast one-quarter, section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, same base and meridian.

I also send you a copy of Dept.—— letter of the eighth instant, to the president of the United States, recommending the acceptance of this portion of road, and of his endorsement thereon, of the ninth instant accepting it.

Department of the Interior.
Washington, D. C., 8th May, 1874.

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith for your action the report, dated 15th ultimo, of Messrs. Foulke, Brown & Sullivan, appointed by you to examine and report upon the Southern Pacific Railroad and Telegraph Line. They have examined the 50 miles of road, etc., commencing at a point in the northwest one-quarter, section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, running thence in a southeasterly direction to the city of Los Angeles and thence in an easterly direction, ending at the termination of the 50th mile therefrom, at a point in the northeast one-quarter, section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, same base and meridian.

The commissioners in their report represent (with exception of a few defects which the company promise to remedy hereafter) that this portion of road is completed and equipped as a first-class railroad; and that the telegraph line is finished for the same distance; and is first-class. I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of the same, and the issue to said company of patents for lands due on account of the construction thereof, agreeably to the provisions of the "act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," approved 27 July, 1866, and the acts amendatory thereof, approved 25 July, 1868, and 28th June, 1870.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

B. R. COWEN,

Sir:

I transmit herewith, for appropriate action, a map of fifty miles of the railroad constructed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California under the act of 3d March, 1871, which authorized said company to build a line "from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado River." The section delineated on the map begins at a point in the northeast quarter section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and ends in a point in the southwest one-quarter section 4, township 3 south, range 1 west, same base and meridian.

I also transmit herewith copy of a letter addressed by me on the eighth instant, to the President, recommending the acceptance of said section, and of his endorsement thereon approving the recommendation.

Sir:

I have the honor to submit herewith for your consideration and, if deemed proper, for your approval, the report under date of the twenty-first ult. of Messrs. Foulke, Brown and Sullivan, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific R. R. and telegraph line of California. They have examined an additional section of fifty miles of the (branch) road and telegraph line authorized by the 23d section of the act of 3d March, 1871, (known as the Texas Pacific Railway act), to be constructed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company. This portion of road commences at the termination of section 1 of said branch, at a point in the northeast one-quarter of section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and runs thence fifty miles to a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 4, township 3 south, range 1 west, same base and meridian.

The commissioners report this section completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph as also completed and first-class.

I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of said second section of fifty miles of branch road and the issuance to the company constructing it of patents for lands due on account of such construction, agreeably to the provisions of law.

Very respectfully,

Z. CHANDLER,

Sir:

I have the honor to submit herewith for your examination and if deemed proper for your approval, the report, under date of the twenty-second ultimo, of Messrs. L. M. Foulke, Calvin Brown and Eugene L. Sullivan, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific Railroad and telegraph line of California. They have examined the third section of fifty miles of the branch road and telegraph line authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of 3d March, 1871 (known as the Texas Pacific Railway act), to be constructed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. This portion of road begins at the termination of section No. 2 of said railroad at a point in the southwest one-half of section 4, township 3 south, range 1 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and running thence in a southeasterly direction fifty miles to a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, same base and meridian.

The commissioners report this section completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph as also completed and first-class. I therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance of said third section of fifty miles of branch road, and the issuance to the company constructing it of patents for lands due on account of such construction, agreeably to the provisions of law.

Washington, D. C., 30th January, 1878.

Hon. J. A. Williamson, Commr. Gen. Land Office.

Sir: I transmit herewith, for your information and appropriate action, copy of my letter of the nineteenth instant to the President, recommending the acceptance of a portion of the fifth section of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, and of his endorsement thereon of the twenty-third instant; also the map which accompanied the report of the commissioners who examined said section.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obt. servant,

C. SCHURZ,

Secretary.

Copy.

Department of the Interior.

Office of the Secretary.

Washington, D. C., 19th January, 1878.

Sir:

I have the honor to submit herewith for your consideration the report, under date of the sixth ultimo of Messrs. Eugene L. Sullivan, Andrew S. Bender and Zebulon B. Sturgus, commissioners appointed by you to examine the Southern Pacific Railroad and telegraph line of California.

They have examined the fifth section of which is known as the branch line of said road, authorized by the twenty-third section of the act of 3d March, 1871, incorporating the Texas Pacific Railroad Company (16 Stat., 579). Said section is 118 37-100 miles in length. It begins at a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, San Bernardino base and meridian; runs southeastward and ends in the center of the Colorado river at a point which, if the United States surveys were extended into said river, would be in the southeast one-half of section 28, township 16 south, range 22 east, same base and meridian.

The commissioners report said section as completed and equipped as a first-class railroad, and the telegraph line also as completed and first-class.

Said twenty-third section of the act of 1871 authorizes the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California to construct its road "to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river." The Texas Pacific Railroad not having been constructed at or near said river, the point of contact of said roads has not been ascertained, except as to the fact that it is within the Fort Yuma military reservation.

In view of your action last autumn in relation to said Southern Pacific Railroad's crossing said reservation, I have the honor to recommend that said section examined and reported on be accepted from the point of beginning to the point where the road intersects the western boundary of said reservation, which is represented on the map accompanying said report as a point in the southeast one-quarter of northeast one-quarter section 27, township 16 south, range 22 east, San Bernardino base and meridian, and that patents for lands due on account of construction, according to provisions of law, issue to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obt. servant,

C. SCHURZ,
Secretary.

The President.

[Endorsed]: The secretary of the interior, 19th January, 1878, submits report of commissioners on the fifth section; 118.37 miles of Southern Pacific Railroad, authorized by act of 3d March, 1871, and recommends that the road examined be accepted from the beginning of said section to the point where it crosses the western boundary of Fort Yuma military reservation, California.

Executive Mansion, January 23d, 1878. The recommendations of the secretary of the interior are hereby approved. The section of railroad is accepted between the points designated by him, and lands will be patented to the company accordingly. R. B. Hayes.

D. A. Chambers, Esq., City.

Sir: I have at hand your letter of yesterday asking to be advised of the dates of receipt and filing in the department of the reports of the commissioners, and accompanying maps and profiles, on the completed sections of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, branch line.

In answer I have to state that the report, with accompanying map and profile, of the first section, with letter of May 4, 1874, from C. P. Huntington was received and filed May 7, 1874; that of the second section from same person with letter of November 5, 1875, was received and filed November 6, 1875; that of the third section from same person with an undated letter was received and filed July 10, 1876; that of the fourth section from same person with letter of February 27, 1877, was received and filed February 28, 1877, and that of the fifth section from same person with letter of December 26, 1877, was received and filed December 28, 1877.

Very respectfully,

LETTER.

President's Office.

Boston, April 8, 1872.

Hon. Columbus Delano,

Secretary of the Interior,

Washington, D. C.

Sir: I respectfully ask on behalf of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company the opinion of your department upon the proper construction to be given to the eighth and ninth sections of the act of July 27th, 1866, in respect to the condition imposed upon said company to build fifty miles of road per year.

The construction which we place upon these sections is, that by the eighth section the company was required to commence the work as early as the 27th day of July, 1868, two years after the approval of the act, that during the first and second years thereafter, that is, from July 27th, 1868, to July 27th, 1870, no specific amount of road was required to be built, but on the third year thereafter, that is "after the second year" (from the time limited for the commencement of the work) or after July 27, 1870, the company was required to complete fifty miles per year; that by the terms of the ninth section this limitation is practically enlarged by the period of one year, for the reason that no consequences can attach to a failure to perform according to the provisions of the preceding section until the lapse of this period after a default.

Under this construction, should the third division of fifty miles be completed upon the 27th day of July, 1874, the company would not by the delay have lost any of the rights conferred by the charter.

Owing to the fact that the portion of the Indian Territory lying west of the present terminus of the road was not, and under the present conditions cannot have any wants to be supplied by a railroad, or any business to offer as an inducement for its immediate construction, it may be deemed by the company advisable to delay the construction of this section of road as long as the terms of the act will permit.

We, therefore, ask the decision of the department in advance for the government of the action of the company upon the point above stated.

It is also, our opinion that the requirement to build fifty miles per year does not compel the company to build this precise amount within each period of twelve months, but only to build at the rate of fifty miles per year, so that it is complied with by constructing with sufficient rapidity to secure at the expiration of any year the completion of the entire amount of road which by the terms of the act is required to be then completed, although the result should be reached by applying an excess built in one year, or at a time sooner than required by the act, to make up the deficiency of a subsequent year.

Upon this point also we request the opinion of the department.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANCIS B. HAYES,
President.

CIRCULAR No. 15.

Grants from Congress to States and Corporations.

Department of the Interior.

General Land Office.

January 24, 1867.

Gentlemen: By the first section of the act of Congress approved July 1, 1864, statutes 1863-64, page 335, chap. 196, it is provided that from and after the passage of that act, "in the location of lands by States and corporations, under grants from Congress for railroads and other purposes (except for agricultural colleges), the registers and receivers of the land offices for the several states and territories, in the districts where such lands may be located, for their services therein, shall be entitled to receive a fee of one dollar for each final location of one hundred and sixty acres, to be paid by the State or corporation making such location; the same to be accounted for in the same manner as fees and commissions on warrants and pre-emption locations, with limitations as to maximums of salary prescribed by existing laws, in accordance with such instructions as shall be given by the commissioner of the general land office."

First. Under this law the registers and receivers are each entitled to receive a fee of one dollar for each final location of one hundred and sixty acres, or any quantity approximate thereto, when the deficit is less than forty acres.

2. When the several quantities shall have been definitely ascertained by you to inure to the grant, as hereinafter prescribed, the fees will then be due thereon.

3. The State through its grantee, or the grantee, as the case may be, is required to file with the register and receiver of the proper land office descriptiive lists of the tracts of land claimed as inuring under the grant, within sections of —— miles each, along the line of route on both sides thereof, to be dated and verified by the signature of the selecting agent.

For agent's certificate to be attached to each list, see form A.

The party appearing as the agent of the grantee must file with the register and receiver written and satisfactory evidence under seal, showing his authority to act in the premises.

In the preparation of the descriptive lists, the register and receiver will afford the agent all reasonable facilities, taking care, however, not to interrupt the current public business.

The lists must be carefully and critically examined by the register and receiver; their accuracy tested by the plats and records of their office. When so examined and tested, and found correct in all respects, to be a final location; and you will on the payment of the requisite fees to the receiver, so certify at the foot of each list, according to form B.

After such lists have been examined, and you have attached your certificate thereto, the same will be consecutively numbered, commencing with No. 1, for each railroad or separate grant. Upon the payment of the fees and certification of the lists by you, the register will post the selections in the Tract Book, after the following manner:

"Selected ————————, 186—, by A. B., agent for the ————————Railroad Co., act ————, list No. ——"; and on the plats he will mark the tracts so selected "———————— R. R."

After the selections are properly posted and marked on the plats, the lists will be transmitted to this office, accompanied by the evidence of the agent's appointment.

Fourth. The fees will be due in all cases where the service may have been rendered subsequent to the passage of said act of 1864.

Fifth. The receiver will account for the fees thus paid in his monthly and quarterly accounts, specially setting forth in the same the particular case or cases on which such fees had accrued, giving the name of road, number and date of the list of selections for which they had been paid.

Sixth. By joint resolution No. 10 of January 30, 1865, "mineral lands" are not embraced in the grants made at the first session of the thirty-eighth Congress, unless otherwise specially provided in the act or acts making the grants.

Pacific Railroads.

Acts approved July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864.

Seventh. By section twenty-one of the latter act, these companies are required to pay cost of "surveying, selecting, and conveying" the lands, in addition to the register and receiver's fees exacted by the act of July 1, 1864, before mentioned. This cost of surveying and conveying is, by the decision of the secretary of the interior of November 8, 1866, limited to the lands granted by act July 2, 1864. Therefore, the "cost" will be assessed and collected on the lands outside of ten miles and within twenty miles from the line of the road, where the grant is under both acts.

To ascertain the cost of "surveying," which includes both surveying in the field and office work, the company will apply to the surveyor general of the state or territory in which the lands are situated. Upon ascertaining the sums due for surveying and office work for the "section or sections of road" for which selections have been or are to be made, a deposit of those sums must be made, to the credit of the treasurer of the United States, with an authorized depositary. The duplicate of deposit must be filed with the surveyor general; whereupon he will transmit to the register and receiver of the proper land office his certificate of such payment having been made, specifying how much was for surveying and how much for office work, as per form C.

The surveyor's general's certificate, together with the triplicate certificate of deposit and the evidence of the agent's appointment, must accompany the lists of selection when transmitted by you to this office.

Eighth. Herewith is a form of title-page to be prefixed to the list of selection.

Let me here call your special attention to the necessity of great care in the examination and testing of these lists, so that all conflicts may be avoided and improper selections be excluded, and that the verified schedules may be absolutely accurate, thus avoiding embarrassment and delay to all concerned.

Ninth. Pacific Railroad act, July 2, 1864, It is provided in section 4 that the word "mineral," when it occurs in that act, shall not be held to include iron and coal. Therefore, iron and coal lands are subject to selection by the Pacific railroads; but all other minerals are expressly excluded from the grant, and must necessarily be so from all selections you may certify to this office. When the verified lists are received at the general land office, prepared and certified as above required, such definitive action as the law requires will be here taken, with the view to invest the grantee with a complete title.

These instructions will supersede those of May 30, 1866, Circular No. 9. The forms attached hereto, which are made a part hereof, will be followed in certifying to maps and lists, where the same may be applicable.

You will please acknowledge the receipt of this circular, giving the date of reception.

Commissioner.

of the United States land offices.

Sir: I have received your letter of the 9th instant, suggesting a change in the 7th section of the circular issued by your Office on the 24th January, 1867, in regard to selections of lands in satisfaction of railroad and other Congressional grants. The then secretary, Mr. Browning, held that the 21st section of the act approved 2d July, 1864, (13 Stat. 365) applied only to lands granted by that act, and the circular conformed to his ruling.

The Supreme Court of the United States at its December term, 1872, decided, in the cases of the Kansas Pacific Railway Company vs. John H. Prescott, and the same Company vs. Charles C. Culp, that said act applied also to the lands granted by the original act of 1st July, 1862.

I fully concur in your opinion that the circular should be made to conform to this decision, and you are authorized to make the required change.

The papers are herewith returned.

General Land Office, October 15, 1873.

Gentlemen: By the first section of the act of Congress approved July 1, 1864 (Statutes 1863-64, page 335, chap.

196) it is provided that from and after the passage of that act, "in the location of lands by States and corporations, under grants from Congress for railroads and other purposes (except for agricultural colleges) the Registers and Receivers for the Land Offices for the several States and Territories, in the districts where such lands may be located, for their services therein, shall be entitled to receive a fee of one dollar for each final location of one hundred and sixty acres, to be paid by the State or corporation making such location; the same to be accounted for in the same manner as fees and commissions on warrants and pre-emption locations, with limitations as to maximums of salary prescribed by existing laws, in accordance with such instructions as shall be given by the Commissioner of the General Land Office."

1st. Under this law the Registers and Receivers are each entitled to receive a fee of one dollar for each final location of one hundred and sixty acres, or any quantity approximate thereto, when the deficit is less than forty acres.

2d. When the several quantities shall have been definitely ascertained by you to inure to the grant, as hereinafter prescribed, the fees will then be due thereon.

3d. The State though its grantee, or the grantee, as the case may be, is required to file with the register and receiver of the proper Land Office descriptive lists of the tracts of land claimed as inuring under the grant within sections of ——— miles each along the line of route on both sides thereof, to be dated and verified by the signature of the selecting agent.

r agent's certificate to be attached to each list, see Form A.

The party appearing as the agent of grantee must file with the register and receiver written and satisfactory evidence, under seal, showing his authority to act in the premises.

In the preparation of the descriptive lists, the register and receiver will afford the agent all reasonable facilities, taking care, however, not to interrupt the current public business.

The lists must be carefully and critically examined by the register and receiver; their accuracy tested by the plats and records of their office. When so examined and tested, and found correct in all respects, to be a final location; and you will, on the payment of the requisite fees to the receiver, so certify at the foot of each list, according to Form B.

After such lists have been examined and you have attached your certificate thereto, the same will be consecutively numbered, commencing with No. 1, for each railroad or separate grant. Upon the payment of the fees and certification of the lists by you, the register will post the selections in the tract book, after the following manner:

"Selected ————, 186——, by A. B., agent for the ——— Railroad Company, act ————, list No. ———;" and on the plats he will mark the tracts so selected "———— R. R."

After the selections are properly posted and marked on the plats, the lists will be transmitted to this office, accompanied by the evidence of the agent's appointment.

4th. The fees will be due in all cases where the service may have been rendered subsequent to the passage of said act of 1864.

5th. The receiver will account for the fees thus paid in his monthly and quarterly accounts, specially setting forth in the same the particular case or cases on which such fees had accrued, giving the name of road, number and date of the list of selections for which they had been paid.

6th. By joint resolution No. 10, of January 30, 1865, "mineral lands" are not embraced in the grants made at the first session of the Thirty-eighth Congress, unless otherwise specially provided in the act or acts making the grants.

Pacific Railroads.

Acts approved July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864.

7th. By section 21 of the latter act, these companies are required to pay cost of "surveying, selecting and conveying" the lands in addition to the register and receiver's fees exacted by the act of July 1, 1864, before mentioned. This cost of surveying and conveying is, by the decision of the United States Supreme Court, at the December term, 1872, applicable to all the lands granted by acts of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864. Therefore the "cost" will be assessed and collected on all the lands within twenty miles from the line of the road, where the grant is under both acts.

To ascertain the cost of "surveying," which includes both surveying in the field and office work, the company will apply to the surveyor general of the State or Territory in which the lands are situated. Upon ascertaining the sums due for surveying and office work for the "section or sections of road" for which selections have been or are to be made, a deposit of those sums must be made, to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, with an authorized depositary. The duplicate of deposit must be filed with the surveyor general; whereupon he will transmit to the register and receiver of the proper land office his certificate of such payment having been made, specifying how much was for surveying and how much for office work, as per Form C.

The surveyor general's certificate, together with the triplicate certificate of deposit and the evidence of the agent's appointment must accompany the list of selection when transmitted by you to this office.

8th. Herewith is a form of title-page to be prefixed to the list of selection.

Let me here call your special attention to the necessity of great care in the examination and testing of these lists, so that all conflicts may be avoided and improper selections be excluded, and that the verified schedules may be absolutely accurate, thus avoiding embarrassment and delay to all concerned.

9th. Pacific Railroad act, July 2, 1864.—It is provided in section 4 that the word "mineral" when it occurs in that act, shall not be held to include iron and coal. Therefore, iron and coal lands are subject to selection by the Pacific railroads; but all other minerals are expressly excluded from the grant, and must necessarily be so from all selections you may certify to this office. When the verified lists are received at the general land office, prepared and certified as above required, such definite action as the law requires will be here taken, with the view to invest the grantee with a complete title.

These instructions will supersede those of May 30, 1866, circular No. 9, and of January 24, 1867, circular No. 15. The forms attached hereto, which are made a part hereof, will be followed in certifying to maps and lists, where the same may be applicable.

You will please acknowledge the receipt of this circular, giving the date of reception.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

LANDS,

PRIMARY LIMITS.

LOS ANGELES, INDEPENDENCE, SAN FRANCISCO

AND VISALIA LAND DISTRICTS.

CALIFORNIA.

[Stamped]: Land Dept. S. P. R. R. Co.
Received July 23, 1894.

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and joint resolution of June 28, 1870, "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of the State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act, from the city of San Francisco, to a point of connection with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company, "every alternate section of public land designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad, on the line thereof, and within the limits of twenty miles on each side of said road" "not sold, reserved, or otherwise disposed of by the United States, and to which pre-emption or homestead claim may not have attached at the time the line of said road is definitely fixed."

And whereas, official statements from the secretary of the interior have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President, under the provisions of the fourth section of the said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him, that the line of said railroad and telegraph, from San Jose to Tres Pinos and from Alcalde to Mojave, together comprising two hundred and fifty-two miles and four hundred and seventy-nine thousandths of a mile has been constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by said act of July 27, 1866, and accepted by the President.

And whereas, the following tracts have been duly listed under the act aforesaid, by the duly authorized land agent of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by his original lists of selections, approved by the local officers and on file in this office.

And whereas, the said tracts of land lie coterminous to the constructed line of said road and are particularly described as follows, towit:

North of base line and west of San Bernardino meridian, State of California.

CALIFORNIA.

[Stamped]: Received April 14, 1876.
Answered ———.

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and "joint resolution" of June 28, 1870 "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas, to the Pacific Coast, and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes," authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of the State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act from the city of San Francisco to a point of connection with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company "every alternate section of public land designnated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad on the line thereof, and within the limits of twenty miles on each side of said road not sold, reserved, or otherwise disposed of by the United States, and to which pre-emption or homestead claim may not have attached at the time the line of said road is definitely fixed."

And whereas, it is further provided by said act that "whenever prior to said time any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, or occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted, or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof under the direction of the secretary of the interior in alternate sections and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections, and not included in the reserved numbers."

And whereas, it is further enacted by the twenty-third section of the act of March 3, 1871, "for the purpose of connecting the 'Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is authorized to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants, and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions, and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California by the aforesaid" act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas, official statements bearing dates May 11, 1874, and November 13, 1875, from the secretary of the interior, have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President under the provisions of the fourth section of said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him that the line of said branch railroad and telegraph, from a point in the northwest quarter of section three (3), township two (2) north, range fifteen (15) west, San Bernardino meridian, to a point in the southwest quarter of section four (4), township three (3) south, range one (1) west, at San Gargonio Pass, making one hundred miles of road constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by the said act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas, it is further shown that copies of the reports of said commissioners, have been filed in the department of the interior, with copies of the order of the President of the United States, dated May 9, 1874, and November 8, 1875, of the completion of the above portion of said railroad and telegraph line.

And whereas, certain tracts have been selected under the said act of March 3, 1871, by Benjamin B. Redding, land agent of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as shown by his original lists of selections, dated January 20, 1876, and certified January 28, 1876, by the register and receiver at Los Angeles, California. The said tracts being described as follows, towit:

Received, July 25, 1882.
Answered, ———, 188—.
Book ——, page ——.

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and joint resolution of June 28, 1870, to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of the State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act from the city of San Francisco to a point of connection with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company, "every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any State, and whenever, on the line thereof, the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office."

And whereas, it is further enacted by the twenty-third section of the act of March 3, 1871, "for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants, and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions, and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California," by the aforesaid act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas, official statements bearing dates May 11, 1874, November 13, 1875, July 22, 1876, March 3, 1877, and January 30, 1878, from the secretary of the interior, have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President under the provisions of the fourth section of the said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him that the line of said branch railroad and telegraph from the town of Mojave, in township eleven north, range twelve west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and thence to the Fort Yuma reservation, in the southeast quarter of section twenty-six, township sixteen south, range twenty-two east, same base and meridian, making three hundred and forty-six miles and ninety-six one-hundredths of a mile of road has been constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by the said act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas it is further shown that copies of the reports of said commissioners have been filed in the department of the interior with copies of the orders of the President of the United States, dated May 9, 1874, November 8, 1875, July 2, 1876, March 2, 1877, and January 23, 1878, on the completion of the above portion of said railroad and telegraph line.

And whereas certain tracts have been selected under the aforesaid act of March 3, 1871, by B. B. Redding, and Jerome Madden, the duly authorized land agents of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by their original lists of selections, dated January 20, 1876, June 27, 1877, and September 30, 1881, and certified January 28, 1876, July 2, 1877, and October 10, 1881, by the register and receiver at Los Angeles, California; the said tracts of land lie coterminous to the constructed line of road and are particularly described as follows, towit:

South of base line and west of San Bernardino meridian, California.

"Granted limits."

Township two, range fourteen.

The south half of the northeast quarter of section eleven, containing eighty acres.

Township one, range eleven.

The lot numbered one of the northwest quarter of section seven, containing forty acres.

Township one, range twelve.

The lots numbered three and four of the southwest quarter of section seven, containing eighty-three acres and sixteen one-hundredths of an acre.

Now know ye, that the United States of America, in consideration of the premises and pursuant to the said acts of Congress, have given and granted, and by these presents do give and grant unto the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, and to its successors and assigns, the tracts of land selected as aforesaid and described in the foregoing, yet excluding and excepting "all mineral lands," should any such be found in the tracts aforesaid, but this exclusion and exception according to the terms of the statute, shall not be construed to include "coal and iron lands."

To have and to hold the same, together with all rights, privileges, immunities and appurtenances of whatever nature thereunto belonging unto the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, and to its successors and assigns forever.

In testimony whereof, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, have caused these letters to be made patent and the seal of the general land office to be hereunto affixed.

OF

LANDS GRANTED IN CALIFORNIA.

TO THE

COMPANY,

ACT, MARCH 3, 1871.

(Stamped) Land Dep't S. P. R. R.
Received, Jan. 22, 1884.
ANSWERED ———— 188—,
Book ———— Page ————

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, by the act of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, and joint resolution of June 28, 1870, "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military and other purposes, authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of the State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act from the city of San Francisco to a point of connection with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company, "every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile, on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any State, and whenever, on the line thereof, the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated and free from pre-emption or other claims, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof, filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office."

And whereas, it is further enacted by the twenty-third section of the act of March 3, 1871, " for the purpose of connecting The Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants, and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions, and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California," by the aforesaid act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas, official statements bearing dates May 11, 1874, November 13, 1875, July 22, 1876, March 3, 1877, and January 30, 1878, from the secretary of the interior, have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President under the provisions of the fourth section of the said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him that the line of said branch railroad and telegraph from the town of Mojave, in township eleven north, of range twelve west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and thence to the Fort Yuma reservation, in the southeast quarter of section twenty-six, township sixteen south, range twenty-two east, same base and meridian, making three hundred and forty-six miles and ninety-six one-hundredths of a mile of road, has been constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by the said act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas it is further shown that copies of the report of said commissioners have been filed in the department of the interior with copies of the orders of the President of the United States, dated May 9, 1874, Nov. 8, 1875, July 2, 1876, March 2, 1877, and January 23, 1878, of the completion of the above portion of said railroad and telegraph line.

And whereas, certain tracts have been selected under the act aforesaid, by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by his original lists of selections, dated July 12, 1882, and May 14, 1883, and certified July 14, 1882, March 9, and May 25, 1883, by the register and receiver at Los Angeles district, California. The United States of America, To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come, Greeting:

Whereas,by the Act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and joint resolution of June 28, 1870, "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast," and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of the State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line, under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act, from the city of San Francisco to a point of connection with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company, "every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd unmbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile, on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any State, and whenever, on the line thereof, the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office."

And whereas, it is further provided by said act, that "whenever, prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof, under the direction of the secretary of the interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections, and not included in the reserved numbers."

And whereas, it is further enacted by the 23d section of the Act of March 3, 1871, "for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants, and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions, and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Raliroad Company of California," by the aforesaid Act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas official statements bearing dates March and January 30, 1878, from the secretary of the interior, and January 30, 1898, from the secretary of the interior, have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President under the provisions of the fourth section of the said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him that the line of said branch railroad and telegraph, from the town of Mojave, in township eleven north of range twelve west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and thence to the Fort Yuma reservation, in the southeast one-quarter of section twenty-six, township sixteen south, range twenty-two east, same base and meridian, making three hundred and forty-six miles and ninety-six one-hundredths of a mile of road, has been constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by the said act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas it is further shown that copies of the reports of said commissioners have been filed in the department of the interior with copies of the orders of the President of the United States, dated May 9, 1874, November 8, 1875, July 2, 1876, March 2, 1877, and January 23, 1878, on the completion of the above portion of said railroad and telegraph line.

And whereas certain tracts have been selected under the act aforesaid by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized land agent of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by his original list of selections, dated June 27, 1884, and certified, July 19, 1884, by the register and receiver at Los Angeles, California. The said tracts of land lie coterminous to the constructed line of road and are particularly described as follows, towit:

North of base line and west of San Bernardino principal meridian, California.

Township Seven, Range Fifteen.

The west half of the north quarter of section five, containing eighty acres.

Now know ye, that the United States of America, in consideration of the premises and pursuant to the said acts of Congress, have given and granted, and by these presents do give and grant unto the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, and to its successors and assigns, the tracts of land selected as aforesaid and described in the foregoing. Yet excluding and excepting "all mineral lands," should any such be found in the tracts aforesaid, but this exclusion and exception according to the terms of the statute "shall not be construed to include coal and iron lands."

To have and to hold the same together with all rights, privileges, immunities and appurtenances of whatever nature thereunto belonging, unto the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, and to its successors and assigns forever.

In testimony whereof, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, have caused these letters to be made patent and the seal of the general land office to be hereunto affixed.

Given under my hand at the city of Washington, this ninth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and ninth.

By the President:

CHESTER A. ARTHUR,

M. McKean,

Secretary.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Complainant,

vs.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS, et al., Defendants. } No. 600.

Report of Special Examiner.

To the Honorable Circuit Court of the United States, in and for the Southern District of California:

In accordance with the request of Joseph H. Call, Esq. counsel for the complainant in this cause, I now report to the Court the following extracts from the proceedings before me as special examiner herein, in order that the Court may make such ruling in the matter as it may deem proper:

On the sixth day of August, 1896, JEROME MADDEN, a witness on behalf of the defendants, appeared before me, and after being duly sworn, proceeded to give his testimony, from which the following extract is made:

"Mr. SINGER.—I will exhibit in evidence original patent No. 26, issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands within the primary limits of its main line grant. The patent is dated the twenty-second day of December, 1894, and conveys 47,505.86 acres of land, and ask that the examiner make and attach a copy to the record as 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 329.' My understanding is that this patent conveys 12,338.77 acres only of lands involved in this suit.

"(The original patent exhibited by counsel is marked by the special examiner 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 329,' and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

"Mr. SINGER.—I exhibit in evidence original patent No. 27, issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands within the indemnity limits of its branch line grant. The patent is dated the twenty-eighth day of November, 1894, and conveys 30,899.45 acres of land. I ask that the examiner make and attach a copy as 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 330.' My understanding is that this patent conveys 25,297.15 acres of land only involved in this suit.

"(The original patent exhibited by the counsel is marked by the special examiner 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 330,' and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

"Mr. SINGER.—I exhibit in evidence patent No. 27, issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands within the indemnity limits of its main line grant. The patent is dated the twenty-seventh day of July, 1895, and conveys 11,260.68 acres. I ask that the examiner make a copy and attach it to the record as 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 331.' My understanding is that this patent conveys 1,838.86 acres only of the lands involved in this suit.

"(The original patent exhibited in evidence by counsel is marked by the special examiner 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 331,' and a copy thereof, certified by the examiner, is attached hereto.)

"Mr. CALL.—These several patents, and particularly the patent last offered, dated July 27, 1895, are objected to upon the further ground that the same were procured fraudulently and surreptitiously through the interior department and contrary to the express orders of the secretary of the interior, and in pursuance of a fraudulent conspiracy to obtain title to the lands involved in this suit; it further appearing from the face of the patent dated July 27, 1895, that said writing therein contained is in the handwriting of the same person who fraudulently altered the letters dated March 9, 1872, from the secretary of the interior to Hillyer, attorney for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and from the secretary of the interior of the same date to the president of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and the letter of the same date from the secretary of the interior to the commissioner of the general land office; and I object to the patent being withdrawn for those reasons, upon making any copy, and I direct that the same be retained and filed with the record in the case as an original document."

On cross-examination of the witness Madden, the following proceedings were had touching the matters referred to in the foregoing extract:

"Mr. CALL.—Q. Referring to one of the patents produced by you, being patent No. 27, marked 'Defendants' Exhibit No. 321,' state when and where that patent came into your possession?

"A. It was received by me at the land office of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in San Francisco, on the sixth of August, 1895.

"Q. Do you know anything about the circumstances under which it was issued?

"A. I only know that the land was selected by the company and patent issued on the selection.

"Q. Did you know that there was an order of the secretary of the interior that no patents should be issued within the limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant pending the trial of this suit? A. I did not.

"Q. Do you know whose handwriting that patent is in?

"A. I have not the slightest idea; I never saw it before.

"Mr. CALL.—I offer this patent in evidence and request that the same be marked 'Exhibit B' on cross-examination of Jerome Madden.

"Mr. SINGER.—I object to the introduction of the patent, and deny the right of counsel to offer it, as it was only given him for the purpose of the cross-examination, and as attorney for the defendants I instructed Mr. Madden not to permit the patent to leave his possession except for the purpose of being copies by the examiner.

"Mr. CALL.—I give notice that at the earliest opportunity I will move the Court to suppress and exclude this deposition of Jerome Madden, by reason of the refusal of the witness to produce and to file in evidence before the examiner the patent referred to.

"Mr. SINGER.—The patent is exhibited to the examiner in evidence, and will be produced in Court at the hearing, or on any order of the Court to produce it, but I deny the right of counsel to appropriate the property of the defendants in the way sought.

"Mr. CALL.—I wish to say further on behalf of the government that I insist that the original patents offered by the defendants shall be filed in evidence, and not any substituted copies. Mr. Madden, under the advice of your counsel, then, you refuse to file the originals with the examiner, except for the purpose of making copies?

"A. I refuse to, except for that purpose, acting under the advice of counsel.

"Mr. CALL.—I request that the examiner will certify to the Circuit Court, wherein this cause is pending, the full circumstances of this controversy, and the refusal of the witness, Jerome Madden, to produce and to permit to be filed the patents called for by the government on cross-examination, in order that the Court can take proper action in respect thereto."

I certify that the foregoing report contains a full, true and correct copy of the testimony and proceedings had before me on the sixth day of August, 1898, touching the matters referred to therein, and that it contains all of the testimony and proceedings relating thereto.

Witness my hand this twenty-seventh day of August, A. D. 1896.

STEPHEN POTTER,
Special examiner.

[Endorsed]: No. 600. United States of America vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company et al. United States Circuit Court, Southern District of California. Report of special examiner Stephen Potter. Extract of proceedings. Filed August 28, 1896. Wm. M. Van Dyke, Clerk, by E. H. Owen, deputy.

In the Circuit Court of the United States, Ninth Circuit, Southern District of California.

IN EQUITY.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Complainant,
vs.
THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS, et al., Defendants.
No. 600.

Proceedings had before Special Examiner Potter.

On August 6, 1896, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the city of San Francisco, State of California, there appeared before me, Joseph H. Call, Esq., special United States attorney and solicitor for the complainants, on behalf of the complainants, and William Singer, Jr., attorney for the defendants, on behalf of the defendants, whereupon the following procedings were had:

JEROME MADDEN, called as a witness on behalf of defendants, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Mr. SINGER.—Q. You are the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this suit, are you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. For how long have you been such officer?

A. Since the tenth of May, 1876.

Q. That was the date of the establishment of the land department independently, was it not, of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. No, it was established about the first of April, 1875; afterward Mr. B. B. Redding was land agent from 1875 until May 10, 1876, and then I became his successor.

Q. Who is the custodian of the contracts issued by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the sale of its lands? A. I am.

Q. Do you keep a record in your office of all deeds issued by the company conveying lands sold by it?

A. I do.

Q. Do your records correctly show all contracts and deeds issued by the company for the sale of its lands and the particulars of the sales? A. They do.

Mr. CALL.—It will be understood that the testimony of this witness is all objected to by the government as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, together with the documents offered in connection therewith.

Mr. SINGER.—That will be the understanding.

Q. Have you a statement made from the records of your office showing the sales made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of lands involved in this suit which have been patented to it?

A. This is a statement of the patented lands involved in this suit, so far as my knowledge extends; it was made up in the land office of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under my instructions, and is correct.

Q. Is it a correct statement of each of the transactions shown upon it? A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I offer the statement produced by the witness in evidence, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 326."

(The paper is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 326," and is attached hereto.)

Q. How many forms of contracts have been used in your office in making sales of the company's lands?

A. Two.

(The witness here produced the two forms referred to by him.)

Q. For what class of lands is the contract backed "unpatented lands" used?

A. It is used for the sale of lands for which the company has not received a patent at the time of the sale.

Mr. SINGER.—I offer the form of contract produced by the witness, backed "unpatented lands," and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 327."

(The paper is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 327," and is annexed hereto.)

Q. For what class of lands is the contract backed "contract for a deed" used?

A. It is used for the sale of lands for which the company has a patent.

Q. A patent at the date of the sale?

A. A patent at the date of the sale.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer that form in evidence, and ask that it be marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 328."

(The paper is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 328," and is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—I will exhibit in evidence original patent No. 26, issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands within the primary limitsof its main line grant. The patent is dated the twenty-second day of December, 1894, and conveys 47,505.86 acres of land, and ask that the examiner make and attach a copy to the record as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 329." My understanding is that this patent conveys 12,338.77 acres only of lands involved in this suit.

(The original patent exhibited by counsel is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 329," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—I exhibit in evidence original patent No. 27, issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands within the indemnity limits of its branch line grant. The patent is dated the twenty-eighth day of November, 1894, and conveys 30,899.45 acres of land. I ask that the examiner make and attach a copy as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 330." My understanding is that this patent conveys 25,297.15 acres of land only involved in this suit.

(The original patent exhibited by the counsel is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 330," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—I exhibit in evidence patent No. 27, issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands within the indemnity limits of its main line grant. The patent is dated the twenty-seventh day of July, 1895, and conveys 11,260.68 acres. I ask that the examiner make a copy and attach it to the record as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 331." My understanding is that this patent conveys 1,838.86 acres only of the lands involved in this suit.

(The original patent exhibited in evidence by counsel, is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 331," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

Mr. CALL.—These several patents, and particularly the patent last offered, dated July 27, 1895, are objected to upon the further ground that the same were procured fraudulently and surreptitiously through the interior department, and contrary to the express orders of the secretary of the interior, and in pursuance of a fraudulent conspiracy to obtain title to the lands involved in this suit; it further appearing from the face of said patent dated July 27, 1895, that said writing therein contained is in the handwriting of the same person who fraudulently altered the letters dated March 9, 1872, from the secretary of the interior to Hillyer, attorney for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and from the secretary of the interior of the same date to the president of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and the letter of the same date from the secretary of the interior to the commissioner of the general land office; and I object to the patent being withdrawn for those reasons, upon making any copy, and I direct that the same be retained and filed with the record in the case as an original document.

(A recess was then taken until 1:15 P. M.)

August 6, 1896. Afternoon Session.

Direct Examination of JEROME MADDEN (resumed).

Mr. SINGER.—The record of proceedings had on July 8, 1894, before special examiner Potter shows that Mr. Redding offered in evidence as exhibits for the defendants a certified copy of a number of lists, but that they were not delivered to the master and did not accompany his report of those proceedings. For that reason I will now offer the same documents, and ask that they be given the numbers then assigned for them.

Q. Have you present list No. 42 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the granted limits of its main line grant?

A. Yes, sir. (Producing same.)

Q. Is this the original list?

A. This is one of the original lists; that is to say, there are five original lists made out, each of which is called an original; that is the original that I keep; it is practically the original list.

Mr. SINGER.—I will exhibit the list mentioned in evidence and ask that the examiner make a copy of it and attach it to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 187.

Mr. CALL.—Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and upon the further grounds that the list is not approved by the secretary of the interior. Mr. Singer, there are some notations in this list; in making the copies you do not wish to have those notations copied? Those notations are made in red ink in each instance; they are not a part of the list.

Mr. SINGER.—No. It is understood the offer includes the list itself without any notations that are made that do not belong to it.

Mr. CALL.—Or copies of letters attached.

Mr. SINGER.—No. They are not offered.

Mr. CALL.—You do not offer this as a list which has been approved by the secretary of the interior?

Mr. SINGER.—Lists are never approved by the secretary of the interior, and the list is offered as containing the only approval that any list ever does contain, that of the register and receiver.

Mr. CALL.—Here are other notations made in black ink that are not to be copied.

Mr. SINGER.—Certainly not.

Mr. CALL.—I will consent that copies may be substituted after having been compared and certified by the examiner, subject to objections made to the originals.

(List No. 42 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the granted limits of its main line grant is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 187," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 77 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the main line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 189.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 189," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Is this original list No. 80 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the main line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 191.

Mr. CALL.—The same objection and the same stipulation.

(The original list identified by the witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 191," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 1 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the Los Angeles land district, State of California, within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made by the examiner and certified and attached to the record as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 193."

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 193," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this list No. 2, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the Los Angeles land district, State of California, within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 195.

Mr. CALL.—The same objection and the same stipulation.

(The original list identified by the witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 195," and a copy thereof certified by the examiner is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER—Q. Is this original list No. 4, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the Los Angeles land district, State of California, within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 197.

Mr. CALL.—The same objection and the same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 197," and a copy thereof duly certified is attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 5, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in the Los Angeles land district, State of California, within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 199."

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 199," and a copy thereof duly certified is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 8, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 201.

Mr. CALL.—The same objection and the same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibits No. 201," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 11, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 203."

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 203, and a copy thereof duly certified is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 13, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as "Defendants' Exhibit No. 205."

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 205," and a copy thereof duly certified is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 17, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 207.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 207," and a copy thereof, duly certified by the examiner, is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 18, of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 209.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by the witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 209," and a certified copy of same attached hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 21 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 211.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by the witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 211," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 28 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 213.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by the witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 213," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 30 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 215.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 215," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 33 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 217.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 217," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 34 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 219.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked by the special examiner "Defendants' Exhibit No. 219," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is annexed hereto.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 63 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the granted limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 229.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 229," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 19 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the indemnity limits of the branch line grant (showing)? A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 231.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 231." and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 20 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the indemnity limits of the branch line grant (showing)? A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 233.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 233," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 25 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the indemnity limits of the branch line grant (showing)? A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 235.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 235," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 26 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the indemnity limits of the branch line grant (showing)? A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 237.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 237," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 28 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the indemnity limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer this list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 239.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 239," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Is this original list No. 30 of lands selected by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company within the indemnity limits of the branch line grant (showing)?

A. It is.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer the list in evidence and ask that a copy be made and certified by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 241.

Mr. CALL.—Same objection and same stipulation.

(The original list identified by witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 241," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Cross-Examination of JEROME MADDEN.

Mr. CALL.—Q. Was the value of this land the amount stated in these contracts for the purchase price?

A. Yes, sir; it was valued at that time at those figures.

Q. Is that the value now?

A. In some cases, yes sir; in some cases they have been shaded off.

Q. Reduced somewhat?

A. Reduced somewhat, yes; the value of lands fluctuates, sometimes it is higher and sometimes it is lower; in my department we accommodate ourselves to circumstances, and do as any other person would.

Q. Are any of these lands of less value than a dollar and a quarter an acre?

A. Yes.

Q. Which tracts?

A. I will have to go over the books and see; in the whole grant there are some that are only worth seventy-five cents.

Q. I mean that are covered by these contracts?

A. No, I don't consider that any of them are worth less than a dollar and a quarter an acre.

Q. They have all been sold, as the contracts show, for more than that figure?

A. The value of the land is truly expressed in the contracts, and a larger figure or a smaller figure than the real value has never been put in any of them.

Mr. CALL.—It is admitted that the value of the land is the price it was contracted to be sold at, is it?

Mr. SINGER.—I will admit that the value of the land at the time the contracts were made was the sale price stated in the contract, and I know of no material depreciation below the value at which the land was sold.

Mr. CALL.—Q. Referring to the tabulated statement, marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 326," you have purported to give in this statement the number, date of the contract, name of purchaser, address, description of the land, number of acres, and amount paid; now, state whether the columns marked "amount paid" represent the purchase price of the several tracts of land, or the amount that was paid to the company?

A. Where the lands were paid for in full, the figures in the column "amount paid" represent truly the full consideration of the contract; where they were bought on time the figures represent the amount the company has received for them up to the date of the contract.

Q. Then that statement does not show the amount of the agreed purchase price?

A. It does not, except in these notes here under the head of "remarks".

Q. Turning to page 2 of this tabulated statement I infer that the column marked "amount paid" there represents the agreed purchase price of the land, with the single exception of the tract sold to M. J. Golden?

A. Yes, that is so.

Q. And as to that tract the agreed purchase price is not the figure given in the column "amount paid" being $427.17?

A. It is not the agreed purchase price, it is the amount received by the company; that is to say, the agreed purchase price was $320, the amount of interest paid was $139.17, making $459.17, from which deduct $32, part of the purchase money yet unpaid, and it leaves $427.17, the figures described in the column headed "amount paid."

Q. Turning to page 3 of the tabulated statement concerning contract No. 10,253, to William Dickey, I find in the column "amount paid" the sum of $800; that figure does not represent the purchase price of the land sold there, does it?

A. $800 is the purchase price in that instance.

Q. In the next sale referred to E. H. Forrester, the "amount paid" is marked as $1,780.80; what was the agreed purchase price in that instance?

A. The agreed purchase price was $4,200, the interest paid was $940.80; the remainder of purchase money due is $3,360; a part of the principal and the interest received by the company amounted to $1,780.80, that is up to September 24, 1888.

Q. Then the "amount paid" in each instance on that tabulated statement is the amount which the company has received?

A. The amount which the company has received, part of the principal and interest up to the dates given.

Q. Then it does not appear on that tabulated statement anywhere what the amount was which was agreed upon as the purchase price?

A. It does under the "amount paid," where it is uncontrolled by any memorandum under the head of "remarks;" the amounts appearing there are the allowance of the purchase money and interest.

Q. And where there is nothing said under the head of "remarks" then the column marked "amount paid" represents the agreed purchase price in each instance?

A. The figures under "amount paid" represent the purchase price and they also represent the interest received, if any.

Q. What is there, then, to show what the purchase price was exclusive of interest?

A. By reference to the books of the Southern Pacific Land office it can be very easily ascertained.

Q. But it is not shown on this tabulated statement?

A. It is not shown on the tabulated statement, except under the head of these "remarks."

Q. Is there anything on the tabulated statement to show how much interest has been paid?

A. Except under the head of "remarks," no.

Q. Then in the columns where there are no remarks it does not appear from the tabulated statement what part of the amount indicated there as the amount paid represents principal and what part interest?

A. No.

Q. You have referred to two forms of contracts as having been used by the company in making these sales; one is marked "Defendants' Exhibit 327," and the other "328"; did the company, in making each of these sales, use either one or the other of these forms of contract?

A. Those were the only two forms that were used.

Q. Then you used either one or the other of these forms in making each of those sales?

A. Where the land was patented at the time of sale I used the short form; where it was not patented at the time of sale I used the long form; by the short form I mean "Defendants' Exhibit No. 328," and by the long form I mean "Exhibit No. 327."

Q. Does the tabulated statement referred to show what sales were made under the form marked "Exhibit 327," and what sales under the form marked "Exhibit 328"?

A. Some of the sales were made under the form of "327" and some of them were made under the form of "328"; in the one case the land was patented at the time of the sale, and in the other case the land was not patented at the time of the sale, but the patent was received after the sale.

Q. The tabulated statement itself does not show then what sales were made under form "327" and what ones under "328"?

A. It does, but they are not segregated.

Q. It shows all made under both forms?

A. It shows all made under both forms, all lands that were patented on March 26, 1896.

Q. Then if this tabulated statement also contained the date of the issuance of patent for each contract you could know from that which form of contract had been used?

A. Yes, or by reference to the books I could tell at once which form of contract was used.

Q. You have, you say, duplicate copies of these contracts? A. Yes.

Q. I request you to produce for examination before the examiner your duplicate copy of the contracts No. 2418, No. 2338, No. 3627, No. 3931, No. 2830, No. 7687, No. 3596, and No. 4576, set forth on tabulated statement marked "Defendants' Exhibit 26."

A. Yes, I will produce them all.

(Witness produces the contracts asked for.)

Q. The contract of sale No. 2338 was made upon the form marked "Defendants' Exhibit 328" was it not?

A. Contract 2338 was made upon the form of "Defendants' Exhibit 328."

Q. The contract of George L. Arnold and Charles M. Wells on contract No. 7687 was made upon contract form marked "Defendants' Exhibit 327," was it not?

A. It was.

Q. Have you the contracts here for sales Nos. 7657 to 7665 inclusive? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you here contract No. 3596?

A. Yes, sir. (Producing contract.)

Q. I notice on the tabulated statement six contracts marked 3596; were there six separate contracts of that number, or were all those tracts of land included in one contract?

A. They were all included in one contract; they aggregated 54,456 acres; you asked me a while ago whether any sold for less than $1.25 an acre; that was all sold for $1 an acre.

Q. Is that all involved in this suit?

A. No, only a portion of it, a very small portion of it, along about the edges of the Tejon ranch, the Castac ranch and the San Emidio ranch.

Q. That land is worth $1.25 an acre, I suppose.

A. They sold it for $1; there is only a small part of the lands described in that contract that is included in this contention.

Q. The lands that are involved in this suit covered by that contract are shown then by the tabulated statement? A. They are.

Q. And covered by this contract No. 3596?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And are described there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The number of acres being given?

A. That is right.

Q. That contract was made upon form marked "Exhibit 327"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. These Arnold contracts are all made on the same form, you know that?

A. No, I don't know that, because Arnold he paid up on some and did not pay up on others; where he paid up in full the short form was issued to him, and where he bought on time the long form was used.

Q. But it appears that all these of Arnolds and Wells were made on time payments that are marked on the tabulated statement?

A. If they are marked time payments, there, then they are so; if marked as anything being due I think they were time payments.

Q. They were made on the form marked "Defendants' Exhibit 327"?

A. Yes, sir, if they are time payments.

Q. You can see here from that statement (showing)?

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. They were all time payments and on the form "Defendants' Exhibit 327"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say that the company has made deeds to these several purchasers and the several tracts of land upon the dates shown upon the tabulated statement, marked "Defendants' Exhibit 326"? A. It has.

Q. What has been the form of that deed?

A. I can produce forms such as we gave.

Q. Please produce the form that you used?

A. That is practically the form; as each lot was exhausted there may have been a change of a word or two in the whole form, but that is practically the form, with the exception that when the railroad did not go through a tract the reservation for right of way is stricken out. (Producing.)

Mr. CALL.—I request that it be marked "Exhibit A on cross-examination of Jerome Madden."

(The paper produced by witness is marked "Exhibit A on cross-examination of Jerome Madden," and is hereto annexed.)

Q. Referring to one of the patents produced by you, being patent No. 27, marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 321," state when and where that patent came into your possession?

A. It was received by me at the land office of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, in San Francisco, on the sixth of August, 1895.

Q. Do you know anything about the circumstances under which it was issued?

A. I only know that the land was selected by the company and patent issued on the selection.

Q. Did you know that there was an order of the secretary of the interior that no patents should be issued within the limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, pending the trial of this suit? A. I did not.

Q. Do you know whose handwriting that patent is in?

A. I have not the slightest idea, I never saw it before.

Mr. CALL.—I offer this patent in evidence, and request that the same be marked Exhibit B on cross-examination of Jerome Madden.

Mr. SINGER.—I object to the introduction of the patent in evidence, and deny the right of counsel to offer it, as it was only given him for the purpose of the cross-examination, and as attorney for the defendants, I instruct

Mr. Madden not to permit the patent to leave his possession except for the purpose of being copied by the examiner.

Mr. CALL.—I give notice that at the earliest opportunity I will move the Court to suppress and exclude this deposition of Jerome Madden by reason of the refusal of the witness to produce and to file in evidence before the examiner the patent referrred to.

Mr. SINGER.—The patent is exhibited to the examiner in evidence, and will be produced in Court at the hearing, or on any order of Court to produce it, but I deny the right of counsel to appropriate the property of the defendants in the way sought.

Mr. CALL.—I wish to say further on behalf of the government that I insist that the original patents offered by the defendants shall be filed in evidence, and not any substituted copies. Mr. Madden, under the advice of your counsel then, you refuse to file the originals with the examiner, except for the purpose of making copies?

A. I refuse to, except for that purpose, acting under the advice of counsel.

Mr. CALL.—I request that the examiner will certify to the Circuit Court wherein this cause is pending the full circumstances of this controversy, and the refusal of the witness, Jerome Madden, to produce and to permit to be filed the patents called for by the government on cross-examination, in order that the Court can take proper action in respect thereto.

Mr. SINGER.—Mr. Call, will you excuse the signature of Mr. Madden to his deposition?

Mr. CALL.—Yes, sir.

WILLIAM SEXTON, called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Mr. CALL.—Is it understood that the testimony of this witness is objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant?

Mr. SINGER.—That is my understanding.

Q. Where do you reside?

A. My home is San Jose, and my business place is 401 California street, San Francisco.

Q. How long have you been in business in San Francisco?

A. Twenty-three years.

Q. What is your business?

A. Fire insurance; I am now fire insurance adjuster of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company.

Q. Have you ever purchased any land from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did a contract issue to you for the land purchased?

A. Yes, sir, I purchased on contracts always.

Q. You have made more than one purchase then, have you?

A. Yes, sir; a great many; that is, a great many for me; a dozen, fifteen or twenty.

Q. Have you with you any contract that issued byb the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to you for the purchase of land? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you please produce one of your contracts?

A. Yes, sir; one of them. (Producing paper.)

Q. Was the signature "William Sexton" to that contract written by you?

A. Yes, sir, that is my signature.

Mr. SINGER.—Mr. Call, will you admit that the signatures of Jerome Madden and J. L. Willcutt to the contract are genuine?

Mr. CALL.—Yes, sir, that is admitted.

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Was this contract executed at the time it bears date? A. Yes, sir; it was.

Mr. SINGER.—I will offer in evidence the contract presented, which is numbered 9654, dated June 1, 1888, and ask that a copy be made by the examiner and attached to the record as Defendants' Exhibit No. 332.

Mr. CALL.—I have no objection to the copy being made and certified by the examiner in lieu of the original, subject to all objections to the original as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

(The original document produced by the witness is marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 332," and a copy thereof duly certified by the examiner is hereto annexed.)

Mr. SINGER.—Q. At the time this contract was made what was your belief in respect of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company's title to the land, the subject thereof?

A. I understood the title was good; I had bought lands from them before in other parts of the State, and I bought with the understanding I would get a title whenever they got it, and that I would pay up for it when I could; that is, I would pay for it if I could when they were ready to pass over the title.

Q. The whole of your agreement is expressed in that contract, is it not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you at the time of this purchase know, or were you then informed, that the United States had, or pretended to have, any title or claim to this land?

A. No, I only knew it was a railroad grant, was subject to all the questions of railroad grants, whatever they might be; I did not know anything about the legal part of it at all, paid no attention.

Q. You did not as a fact at that time either know or have information that the government did claim that particular land in any way?

A. No, sir, I did not; I had no means of knowing other that I did know the railroad company did not have a patent to it, and when they got a patent I would get one. I bought other lands on the same condition; I bought lands in Fresno and Tulare.

Q. At the time of your purchase had you any information at all that the Company's title was in many respects defective?

A. No, I had the information that they did not have a title and were waiting for a patent, that is what I got from them, but I had no information that they would not get a title any more than I had in regard to the other lands I had bought from them before.

Q. Was the consideration expressed in the contract actually paid by you at that time?

A. Yes, the payment was made; I paid it; I bought it on the information I received; in fact, I received the information from my son; he was over there attending to some timber claim I had, and he was over there for his health; he told me about this piece and told me it was good wheat land, up in the rolling wheat land, that is the reason I bought it; I can tell why I bought each one when my attention is called to it; I never saw this, and I bought it because he said it was good wheat land, it was rolling land, and good wheat was raised in the neighborhood; I have never been there; I bought this as I have bought other lands, on speculation, supposing I would sell it to some one.

Q. Has the contract remained in force ever since?

A. I so consider it, but I have not been able to pay on it as I would like to; the times got hard and I was overloaded with that and other lands, too.

Q. You have never surrendered the contract?

A. No, indeed.

Q. State whether the transaction represented by the contract was a genuine and sincere business transaction?

A. It was; I did it as an investment, and tried to make some money out of it; as I say, I have bought considerable land, probably 2000 acres from them before that, bought and sold again.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. CALL.—Q. This contract recites that $80 has been paid down on it, and $22.40 interest at the time of the execution? A. Yes.

Q. Have you made other payments in addition to that?

A. I don't know whether I have paid the interest on it or not; that is my last contract, and about that time money got scarce; I have a lot of contracts I paid interest on, but I am not certain whether I have paid the interest on that or not.

GEORGE T. FOLSOM, called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Where do you reside?

A. In San Francisco, 1001 Pine street, corner of Taylor, Hotel Bella Vista.

Q. Are you an officer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, one of the defendants in this suit?

A. I am not; I am simply the general accountant of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Q. For how long have you held that office?

A. Twenty-three years.

Q. Have you kept or have you now in your custody a record of the bonds issued and sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under the trust deed made on April 1, 1875, by that company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, trustees, in trust?

Mr. CALL.—Is it understood that the testimony of this witness is objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant?

Mr. SINGER.—It will be so understood.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Please state from your records the total amount of such bonds sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company?

A. We treat as sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company all bonds issued; if they are paid out to the contractors for the building of the road we treat them as sold; that is to say, they have paid us for those bonds in road which they have built for us.

Q. What is the total amount of such sale prior to March 3, 1887?

A. The sale of the bonds of 1875 from their date, April, 1875, to March 3, 1887, would be $14,626,000 to the Western Development Company, and $8,476,000 to the P. I. Company, making in all $32,102,000.

Q. And some of them to the Contract and Finance Company?

A. Those were in the old bonds, which I could not very well tell you about; the 1875 bonds were issued to cover a former issue of bonds retired, and then to go on with the construction of the road.

Mr. CALL.—Q. That is the total amount issued between those dates under the mortgage of 1875?

A. Yes, sir, that is the total amount between those dates under the mortgage of 1875; that is, between the dates of April 1, 1875, and the date of March 3, 1887.

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Were all those sales genuine and made for considerations actually paid?

A. They were.

Q. Were the bonds sold at their face value or for some other value?

A. I can say in answer to that that all those bonds were sold at par; yes, sir, they were all sold at par, taken by the contractors; in other words, they were all sold to the contractors of the road in payment for the road; we received as pay for those bonds the road itself, and they were taken by the contractors at par.

Q. To what extent have these bonds been redeemed?

A. We have redeemed bonds to the extent of eight million and some odd thousand dollars, nearly nine million dollars, and those redemptions we treat as applying to the previous issues; in other words, the old bonds were replaced by the now bonds; now, the new bonds, the total issue being an addition to the amount of the old bonds, to the bonss paid out, as I have stated for the construction of the road, to be added to that; it was from those first issues that these redemptions are made; in other words, we consider them as redeeming the oldest bonds.

Q. Then the nine million of dollars of bonds redeemed have been applied to the payment of bonds other than the $32,000,000 that you have mentioned as issued subsequent to April, 1875?

A. That is a question I would have to answer in this way: The total issue of our bonds, that is the present issue of bonds, the 1875 bonds issued in retirement of the old bonds, and in the construction of the new road, of all those bonds that were issued there has been a redemption of somewhere of nine million dollars in round numbers; now we treat that as applying to the earlier bonds, naturally.

Mr. CALL.—Well, that was the earlier bonds?

A. Not necessarily; it was the bonds of 1875, because those bonds replaced the old bonds, and we may redeem bonds of numbers that were issued only six months ago.

Mr. SINGER.—Q. What amount of bonds issued under the trust mortgage of April 1, 1875, are still outstanding unredeemed?

A. I would have to get additional memoranda.

Q. Will this memorandum help you any? (Showing.)

A. Yes, sir, this will; we redeemed, as I stated here, to December 31, 1895, $8,617,500.

Q. Have you redeemed any of the 1875 bonds since December 31, 1895?

A. No, we have not, none at all.

Q. Then the figure $8,617,500 represents the extent of the redemption of the 1875 bonds to date?

A. They do, yes, sir.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. CALL.—Q. The amount outstanding, then, is the difference between those figures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The difference between the sum of $23,102,000 and $8,617,500? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All of those bonds were issued to the Pacific Improvement Company or to the Western Development Company?

A. Yes, sir, all these bonds, the figures of which I have given you.

Q. What was the date of that old mortgage which you spoke of redeeming some of the bonds of?

A. I don't remember the date of that mortgage; I don't like to answer unless I know absolutely; of course, I can ascertain the date, but I have so many things to think of in the way of figures that I don't carry the thing in my mind; the mortgage having ceased many years ago, of course I dismissed it from my recollection entirely.

Mr. SINGER.—Will you excuse the signature of Mr. Folsom to his deposition?

Mr. CALL.—Yes, sir.

FRANK S. DOUTY, called as a witness on behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Are you an officer of the Pacific Improvement Company? A. I am.

Q. Were you at any time an officer of the Western Development Company? A. I was.

Q. Did either of those companies ever purchase bonds issued under the trust deed, executed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, trustees?

Mr. CALL.—It is understood that the testimony of this witness is objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant?

Mr. SINGER.—That is my understanding.

A. In the performance of our business in railroad building we acquired these bonds; that was a part of the consideration for building the roads.

Q. Did those companies accept the bonds in payment of contract price for the construction of railroad?

A. On account of the contract price; there were other considerations besides bonds.

Q. Were they taken at their face value? A. Yes.

Q. And in exchange for that did the companies credit them with that amount of money on the contract price for construction?

A. They so treated it, I believe.

Q. Have you any memoranda showing to what extent the bonds were taken by the Western Development Company, and to what extent by the Pacific Improvement Company?

A. Yes, sir. (Producing memoranda.) The Southern Pacific Railroad Company paid the Western Development Company $14,576,000 in bonds at par; they paid the Pacific Improvement Company $7,962,000 in bonds at par, making a total of $22,538,000 in bonds at par.

Q. Do you know to what extent those bonds have been redeemed? A. I am unable to say.

Q. What disposition, if any, did the Western Development Company make of its bonds?

A. Sold them.

Q. To people at large?

A. Yes, sir; wherever they could find buyers.

Q. To various individual purchasers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What disposition did the Pacific Improvement Company make of the bonds taken by it?

A. The same disposition.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. CALL.—Q. How many of those bonds do they own now? A. They do not own any.

Q. How many of those bonds do the Western Development Company own now?

A. They do not own any.

Q. Do you know to whom they sold those bonds?

A. I could not say from recollection; I presume I could find records of the transactions in the accounts as they occurred, but that would be no guide as to who owns them now; they are nearly all held in Europe, or in the eastern states, I believe.

Q. The Western Development Company is a corporation organized under the laws of this State?

A. Yes.

Q. And the same of the Pacific Improvement Company? A. Yes.

Q. The officers and stockholders of the Pacific Improvement Company were the same as the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, I believe? A. No.

Q. Substantially?

A. None of the officers, I think, were the officers of the Pacific Improvement Company; some of the directors of the Southern Pacific were the owners of the principal stock of the Pacific Improvement Company.

Q. And also of the Western Development Company?

A. At present, yes, sir.

Q. They were at the time of the construction of the road?

A. I mean by saying "at present, yes" the owners of the Western Development Company originally died and did not participate in the ownership of the Pacific Improvement Company.

Q. Mr. C. P. Huntington, Mr. Leland Stanford, Mr. Charles Crocker, Mr. Mark Hopkins, they were directors of both the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Pacific Improvement Company and the Western Development Company?

A. I think none of them were ever directors of the Pacific Improvement Company or the Western Development Company.

Q. But they owned the stock?

A. They owned the stock; they were the principal owners of the stock.

Re-direct Examination.

Mr. SINGER.—Q. Those bond purchases of the Western Development Company and Pacific Improvement Company were all made prior to March 3, 1887, were they? A. Yes.

Q. And the sales of the bonds were also made prior to that date? A. Yes.

Mr. SINGER.—Mr. Call, will you excuse the signature of Mr. Douty from his deposition?

Mr. CALL.—Yes, sir.

(The further hearing of the matter was then continued by consent until August 7, 1896, at the hour of 9:30 o'clock A. M.)

San Francisco, August 7, 1896.

Mr. CALL.—I waive the introduction in evidence of the original contracts and deeds set forth on the tabulated statement marked "Defendants' Exhibit No. 326" in connection with the testimony of Jerome Madden, and consent that the original contracts and lists offered at this hearing may be withdrawn upon a copy of each duly certified by Examiner Potter being substituted therefor; and it is agreed that each of the persons named on the said tabulated statement would, if called as a witness by the defendants, testify in respect of the purchase made by him as did the witness, William Sexton, in respect of the purchases made by him; and that it may be so considered in this case.

(It is agreed that the supplemental answer of the other defendants shall be considered the same as if Homer S. King had been named as one of the defendants to the supplemental answer filed herein by order of Court made on July 27, 1896, and that such answer shall be deemed and considered to be the answer of Homer S. King, as trustee.

And it is further agreed that the amendments to the defendants' answer filed herein, pursuant to the order of court, made on July 20, 1896, be considered the same as if Homer S. King had been named therein as one of the defendants answering.)

IN EQUITY.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Complainant,

vs.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS, et al., Defendants. } No. 600.

Certificate to Depositions.

I certify the foregoing testimony was taken pursuant to an order of Court entered upon the minutes of said Court, dated the third day of August, 1896, at No. 4 Montgomery street, in the city and county of San Francisco, and State of California, at the several times set forth in the foregoing record, in my presence, and in the presence of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause; that previous to giving his testimony each of the witnesses in said record named was by me duly sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth in said cause; that said testimony was fully, truly and correctly taken in shorthand and transcribed by me; that the said testimony, after being so transcribed, was not read by, or by me to, the said witnesses, nor signed by them, respectively, it being expressly agreed and stipulated between counsel for the respective parties that such reading and signing should be waived, as in said record set forth; and that I have retained said testimony for the purpose of delivering the same with my own hand to the Court for which it was taken.

Accompanying said testimony and forming part thereof are the several exhibits introduced in connection therewith and referred to and specified therein, except where counsel presenting the exhibits requested that copies thereof be made and attached in lieu of the originals, as set forth in the foregoing record, and in such cases copies of said exhibits duly certified by me as being full, true and correct copies of the original exhibits presented before me are annexed in place of said original exhibits.

I further certify that I am not attorney nor of counsel for any of the parties to said cause, nor in any way interested in the event thereof.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, this thirteenth day of August, A. D. 1896.

State of California,
City and County of San Francisco. } ss.

I, Jerome Madden, being duly sworn, depose and say: that I am the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, that the foregoing list of lands which I hereby select is a correct list of a portion of the public lands claimed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as inuring to it, to aid in the construction of the railroad of said company from a point in the northeast one-fourth, section 5, township 30 south, range 29 east, Mt. Diablo base and meridian to Mojave, for which a grant of lands was made by the acts of Congress approved July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, as aforesaid; that the said lands are vacant, unappropriated, and are not interdicted mineral nor reserved lands, and are of the character contemplated by the grant, being within the limits of twenty (20) miles on each side of the line of route for a continuous distance of sixty-one and sixty-six one-hundredths (61.66) miles, being for the seventh and tenth sections of said road, starting from a point in northeast one-fourth, section 5, township 30 south, range 29 east, Mt. Diablo base and meridian, and ending at a point in northeast one-fourth, section 17, township 11 north, range 12 west, San Bernardino base and meridian.

United States Land Office.

June 1st, 1888.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct, except as noted in red ink opposite tracts named; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, preemption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us, allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of four hundred and eighty-eight dollars ($488.00) in full payment and discharge of said fees.

H. W. PATTON,
Register.

J. H. POLK,
Receiver.

I certify that I have compared the foregoing document with the original of which it purports to be a copy, marked "U. S. vs. S. P. 600, Defendants' Exhibit 187, Stephen Potter, Special Examiner," and find it to be a full, true and correct copy of said original.

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10, 1893.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of thirteen hundred and twenty-eight ($1,328.00-100) dollars in full payment and discharge of said fees.

I, Benjamin B. Redding, being duly sworn, depose and say: That I am the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that the foregoing list of lands which I hereby select is a correct list of a portion of the public lands claimed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as inuring to it, to aid in the construction of the railroad of said company from San Fernando to Spadra, for which a grant of lands was made by the acts of Congress approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, as aforesaid; that the said lands are vacant, unappropriated, and are not interdicted mineral nor reserved lands, and are of the character contemplated by the grant, being within the limits of twenty (20) miles on each side of the line of route for a continuous distance of fifty (50) miles, being for the first (1st) section of said road, starting from a point in the northwest one-quarter, section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and ending at the termination of the fiftieth mile therefrom, at a point in the northeast one-quarter, section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, San Bernardino base and meridian.

BENJAMIN B. REDDING. [Seal]

Sworn to and subscribed before me this twentieth (20th) day of January, 1876.

CHARLES J. TORBERT,
Notary Public in and for the City and County of San Francisco, State of California.

[Seal]

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., January 28, 1876.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Benjamin B. Redding, the duly authorized agent, and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us, allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of one hundred and twenty-nine ($129.00) dollars in full payment and discharge of said fees.

ALFRED JAMES,
Register.

J. W. HAVERSTICK,
Receiver.

I certify that I have compared the foregoing document with the original of which it purports to be a copy, marked "U. S. vs. S. P. 600, Defendants' Exhibit No. 193. Stephen Potter, Special Examiner," and find it to be a full, true and correct copy of said original.

REMARKS.

G. 399. 5-2-89-500.

State of California,
ss.
City and County of San Francisco.

I, Jerome Madden, being duly sworn, depose and say: That I am the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that the foregoing list of lands which I hereby select is a correct list of a portion of the public lands claimed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as inuring to it, to aid in the construction of the railroad of said company from San Fernando to Indian Wells for which a grant of lands was made by the acts of Congress approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, as aforesaid; that the said lands are vacant, unappropriated, and are not interdicted mineral nor reserved lands, and are of the character contemplated by the grant, being within the limits of twenty (20) miles on each side of the line of route for a continuous distance of one hundred and fifty (150) miles, being for the first, second and third sections of said road, starting from a point in the northwest one-quarter, section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and ending at the termination of the one hundredth and fiftieth mile therefrom, at a point in southwest one-quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, San Bernardino base and meridian.

JEROME MADDEN. [Seal]

Sworn to and subscribed before me this twenty-seventh (27th) day of June, 1877.

THOS. H. REYNOLDS,

County Clerk of the City and County of San Francisco, California, and ex-officio Clerk of the 12th District Court thereof, the same being a court of record.

[Seal]

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, California, July 2, 1877.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us, allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of seven hundred and forty-eight and fifty hundredths ($748.50) dollars in full payment and discharge of said fees.

ALFRED JAMES,
Register.

J. W. HAVERSTICK,
Receiver.

I certify that I have compared the foregoing document with the original of which it purports to be a copy, marked "U. S. vs. S. P. 600, Defendants' Exhibit No. 195. Stephen Potter, Special Examiner" and find it to be a full, true and correct copy of said original.

Los Angeles, Cal. July 14th, 1882.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side, and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or any valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of one hundred and ninety-five ($195.00) in full payment and discharge of said fees.

REMARKS

City and County of San Francisco. } ss.
State of California, }

I, Jerome Madden, being duly sworn, depose and say: that I am the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that the foregoing list of lands which I hereby select is a correct list of a portion of the public lands claimed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as inuring to it, to aid in the construction of the railroad of said company from Mojave to Indio, for which a grant of lands was made by the Acts of Congress approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, as aforesaid; that the said lands are vacant, unappropriated, and are not interdicted mineral nor reserved lands, and are of the character contemplated by the grant, being within the limits of twenty (20) miles on each side of the line of route for a continuous distance of two hundred, twenty-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths (228.59-100) miles, being for the first (1st), second (2d), third (3d), and fourth (4th) sections of said road, starting from a point in northeast one-quarter, section 17, township 11 north, range 12 west, S. B. B. & M., and ending at a point in southwest one-quarter, section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, S. B. B. & M.

JEROME MADDEN. (Seal.)

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19, 1884.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by Acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above-mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the Act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of four hundred and ten and fifty one-hundredths dollars ($410.50-100) in full payment and discharge of said fees.

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., January 16, 1885.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by Acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above-mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the Act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of eight hundred and ninety-eight and fifty one-hundredths (898.50-100) dollars in full payment and discharge of said fees.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 23, 1885.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of one hundred and eighty-one and 50-100 ($181.50) dollars in full payment and discharge of said fees.

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., ———, 1891.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of twenty (20) miles on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of four ($4.00) dollars, in full payment and discharge of said fees.

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19, 1884.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent, and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct, and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limits of the exterior ten (10) miles indemnity belt, on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of twenty-seven ($27.00) dollars, in full payment and discharge of said fees.

CHAS. R. JOHNSON,
Register.

J. W. HAVERSTICK,
Receiver.

United States Surveyor-General's Office.

San Francisco, California, July 9, 1884.

I, W. H. Brown, surveyor-general for the United States, in and for the State of California, hereby report and certify that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has this day filed with me, at San Francisco, a duplicate certificate of deposit No. 6, dated July 9, 1884, to the credit of the United States, showing that the sum of $72.27 has been deposited as cost of survey, and $24.09 for office work, and that the said sums are the correct amount of the cost of survey and office work for the lands mentioned and described in the list of lands hereto annexed, to the extent of said list.

Survey $72.27
Office work 24.09

$96.36

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and official seal.

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., January 16, 1885.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of one hundred and fifty-one and fifty one-hundredths ($151.50) dollars, in full payment and discharge of said fees.

CHAS. R. JOHNSON.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 12, 1885.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent, and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office; and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side, and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

ceiver, the full sum of six dollars ($6.00) in full payment and discharge of said fees.

I, Jerome Madden, being duly sworn, depose and say: that I am the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that the foregoing list of lands which I hereby select is a correct list of a portion of the public lands claimed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as inuring to it, to aid in the construction of the railroad of said company from a point in the northeast one-quarter of section 17, township 11 north, range 12 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, to a point in the northwest one-quarter of section 3, township 2 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and from a point in the northeast one-quarter of section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, to a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, San Bernardino base and meridian, for which a grant of lands was made by the acts of Congress approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, as aforesaid; that the said lands are vacant, unappropriated, and are not interdicted mineral nor reserved lands, and are of the character contemplated by the grant, being within the limits of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side of the line of route for a distance of one hundred and seventy-eight and fifty-nine one-hundredths (178.59) miles, being for the second (2d), third (3d), and fourth (4th) sections of said road, starting from a point in the northeast one-quarter of section 17, township 11 north, range 12 west, San Bernardino base and meridian, and ending at a point in the southwest one-quarter of section 24, township 5 south, range 7 east, San Bernardino base and meridian, and that the specific losses for which indemnity is claimed are truly set forth and described in said list, and that said losses have not heretofore been indemnified in any manner.

JEROME MADDEN. [Seal]

Sworn to and subscribed before me this sixteenth day of January, 1886. Witness my hand and notarial seal, at the said city and county.

HOLLAND SMITH,

Notary public in and for the city and county of San Francisco, State of California.

[Seal]

San Francisco, California, January 16, 1886.

In presenting with this list of selections, a list of tracts lying within twenty miles of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, lost to the company, and in lieu of which the selections are made, the said company respectfully claims that it is not required by law to specify lost lands when selecting indemnity; because the grant to said company by Congress is of a quantity of 12,800 acres of land per mile of road, and the fact is notorious that the company has not received patents for one-half as much land as is due it under the orders of the president of the United States, accepting its railroad according to law.

The company also pays the expense of surveying these lands under protest, because it claims to be exempted from such payment by provisions of the said grant of lands to it by Congress.

JEROME MADDEN,
Land Agent, Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

United States Land Office.

Los Angeles, Cal., February 1, 1886.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify thatthe foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of two hundred and ninety-six dollars ($296.00) in full payment and discharge of said fees.

Los Angeles, Cal., October 3, 1887.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side, and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands, nor is there any homestead, pre-emptions, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by the act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of thirteen hundred and ninety-three ($1393) dollars, in full payment and discharge of said fees.

San Francisco, California, Sept. 28, 1887.

In presenting with this list of selection a list of tracts lying within 20 miles of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, lost to the company and in lieu of which the selections are made, the said company respectfully claims that it is not required by law to specify lost land when selecting indemnity, because the grant to said company by Congress is of a quantity of 12,800 acres of land per mile of road, and the fact is notorious that the company has not received patents for one-half as much land as is due it under the order of the President of the United States, accepting its railroad according to law.

The company also pays the expenses of surveying these lands under protest, because it claims to be exempted from such payment by provisions of the said grant of lands to it by Congress.

I, Jerome Madden, being duly sworn, depose and say: that I am the land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that the foregoing list of lands which I hereby select is a correct list of a portion of the public lands claimed by the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as inuring to it, to aid in the construction of the railroad of said company from Spadra to San Gorgonio, for which a grant of lands was made by the acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870 as aforesaid; that the said lands are vacant, unappropriated, and are not interdicted mineral nor reserved lands, and are of the character contemplated by the grant, being within the limits of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side of the line of route for a continuous distance of fifty (50) miles, being for the second (2nd) section of said road, starting from a point in northeast one-quarter, section 27, township 1 south, range 9 west, S. B. B. & M., and ending at a point in southwest one-quarter, section 4, township 3 south, range 1 west, S. B. B. & M., and that the specific losses for which indemnity is claimed are truly set forth and described in said list, and that said losses have not heretofore been indemnified in any manner.

We hereby certify that we have carefully and critically examined the foregoing list of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the grant to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by acts of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, July 27, 1866, July 25, 1868, and June 28, 1870, above mentioned, and selected by Jerome Madden, the duly authorized agent; and we have tested the accuracy of said list by the plats and records of this office, and that we find the same to be correct; and we further certify that the filing of said list is allowed and approved, and that the whole of said lands are surveyed public lands of the United States, and within the limit of the exterior ten (10) miles, indemnity belt, on each side; and that the same are not, nor is any part thereof, returned and denominated as mineral land or lands, nor claimed as swamp lands; nor is there any homestead, pre-emption, State, or other valid claim to any portion of said lands on file or record in this office, except those filed simultaneously with this list.

We further certify that the foregoing list shows an assessment of the fees payable to us allowed by an act of Congress, approved July 1, 1864, and contemplated by the circular of instructions, dated January 24, 1867, addressed by the commissioner of the general land office to registers and receivers of the United States land offices; and that the said company have paid to the undersigned, the receiver, the full sum of sixteen ($16) dollars, in full payment and discharge of said fees.

In presenting with this list of selections a list of tracts lying within 20 miles of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, lost to the company and in lieu of which the selections are made, the said company respectfully claims that it is not required by law to specify lost land when selecting indemnity, because the grant to said company by Congress is of a quantity of 12,800 acres of land per mile of road, and the fact is notorious that the company has not received patents for one-half as much land as is due it under the orders of the President of the United States, accepting its railroad according to law.

The company also pays the expenses of surveying these lands under protest, because it claims to be exempted from such payment by provisions of the said grant of lands to it by Congress.

Deed No. ——.

To all to whom these presents shall come:

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation, duly incorporated and organized under the laws of the State of California, and D. O. Mills and Gerrit L. Lansing, trustees of all the lands of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, lying in the State of California, which remained unsold on the first day of April, A. D. 1875, send Greeting:

Whereas, on the first day of April, A. D. 1875, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company conveyed all its lands lying in the State of California, then unsold, of which the lands hereinafter described were and are a part, to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, to hold in trust as security for the payment of forty-eight thousand bonds, forty-four thousand thereof for the sum of one thousand dollars each, and four thousand thereof for the sum of five hundred dollars each, issued and to be issued by said Southern Pacific Railroad Company in seven series, to be designated by the letters of the alphabet, commencing with the letter A, and followed by the succeeding letters in regular order to and including the letter G. Series A to consist of thirteen thousand bonds for one thousand dollars each, numbered from one to thirteen thousand, both inclusive, and four thousand bonds for five hundred dollars each, numbered from thirteen thousand and one to seventeen thousand, both inclusive; Series B to F, both inclusive, to consist of five thousand bonds each, for one thousand dollars each, numbered from seventeen thousand and one to forty-two thousand, both inclusive; Series G to consist of six thousand bonds for one thousand dollars each, numbered from forty-two thousand and one to forty-eight thousand, both inclusive. All of said bonds payable thirty years after date, with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, said series A to bear date April first, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and the said several succeeding series to bear such dates respectively as the board of directors of said Southern Pacific Railroad Company may direct: All of said bonds aggregating the sum of forty-six millions of dollars;

And whereas, said deed of trust, among other matters, provided that the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company should have the sole and exclusive control and management of said lands, with full power to make sales of the same upon such terms and conditions as might, from time to time, be agreed upon between the said Railroad Company and the said trustees; and that when such sales had been made, and the purchase money fully paid, the said company and the said trustees should unite in a conveyance in fee simple of the lands so sold to the purchaser or purchasers thereof, which conveyance should absolutely and forever release the lands so conveyed from any and all lien or encumbrance for or on account of said bonds, or any other debt or obligation of the said railroad company;

And whereas, on the twenty-fourth day of March, 1883, Lloyd Tevis, one of the trustees, did resign his trust under said conveyance of the first of April, 1875; and whereas, on the third day of April, 1883, the said D. O. Mills, the remaining trustee under said conveyance, did, pursuant to the terms of his trust, nominate Gerrit L. Lansing, of the city of San Francisco, and State of California, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of said Lloyd Tevis;

And whereas, on the seventeenth day of April, 1883, the board of directors of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, pursuant to the terms of said trust, did ratify and approve said nomination, and did appoint said Gerrit L. Lansing to fill said vacancy; and whereas, on the eighteenth day of April, 1883, the said Gerrit L. Lansing did formally accept the position of trustee under said deed of trust;

And whereas, said deed of trust further provided, that, for the sake of convenience in making said conveyances, the said trustee, should have power to act, by attorney, duly nominated and appointed by them, jointly by letter of attorney, which should be duly acknowledged and recorded in each and all the counties in which said lands, or any part thereof, are situated, and that all deeds made in their names by such attorney should have the same force and effect as if made by them in person;

And whereas, on the twenty-first day of April, 1883, said trustees, D. O. Mills and Gerrit L. Lansing, acting under the power so vested in them, did nominate, constitute and appoint, by letter of attorney, duly acknowledged and recorded as aforesaid, Jerome Madden, of the city and county of San Francisco, and State of California, their true and lawful attorney, in their names, place and stead, to make, execute and deliver all conveyances required of them, as aforesaid;

And whereas, the said railroad company has sold the lands hereinafter described, pursuant to the foregoing conditions, to ———— for the sum of ———— dollars, which sum has been by —h— fully paid to the said D. O. Mills and Gerrit L. Lansing, trustees as aforesaid:

Now, therefore, in consideration of the premises, and the said sum of ———— dollars, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and the said D. O. Mills and Gerrit L. Lansing, trustees as aforesaid, do grant, bargain, sell and convey to the said ———— and ——— heirs and assigns, the following described tract —— of land situate, lying and being in the county of ————, and State of ————, towit: ———— of section No. ————————, in township ———— of range ———— base and meridian, containing ———————— acres, according to the United States surveys, together with all the privileges and appurtenances thereunto appertaining and belonging, excepting and reserving, however, for railroad purposes, a strip of land one hundred feet wide, lying equally on each side of the track of the railroad of said company, or any branch railroad now or hereafter constructed on said lands, and the right to use all water needed for the operacting and repairing of said railroad; and subject also to the reservation and condition that the said purchaser ———— heirs and assigns, shall erect and maintain good and sufficient fences on both sides of said strip or strips of land and also reserving all claim of the United States to the same as mineral land.

To have and to hold, the aforesaid premises, to the said ———————— heirs and assigns, to ———— and their use and behoof forever.

In testimony whereof, the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company has caused these presents to be signed by its president and secretary and sealed with its corporate seal; and the said D. O. Mills and Gerrit L. Lansing, trustees, by their said attorney, Jerome Madden, have subscribed their names and affixed their seals, this ——— day of ———, A. D. 18—.

FORM OF CONTRACT FOR DEED.

G. 30. (10-17-90-2,000.)

Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Land Department.

No.———.

This agreement made at San Francisco, California, this ——— day of ———, A. D. 189—, betwen the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, party of the first part, and ————————of the county of ————, State of California, part— of the second part,

Witnesseth: That the party of the first part, in consideration of the covenants and agreements of the part— of the second part hereinafter contained, agrees tosell to the part— of the second part, the following tract— of land, situated in the county of ————, State of California, and known and designated on the public surveys of the United States as ———————————— of section——, township——, range——, ———— base and meridian, containing ————————100 acres, for the sum of ————————100 dollars, gold coin of the United States.

And the part— of the second part, in consideration of the premises, agree— to buy the land hereinbefore described, and to pay to the party of the first part, the said sum of ————100 dollars, as follows, towit:———— ——100 dollars and also $ ———, one year's interest in advance on the remainder, in United States gold coin of the present standard of value, on the execution of this contract, (which last two mentioned sums have this day been fully paid), and the remainder, towit: the sum of ————————100 dollars, with interest thereon, annually in advance, at the rate of seven per cent, per annum, both in United States gold coin, of the present standard of value, at its office in the city and county of San Francisco, on of before the ——— day of ———— 189—; and, also, to pay all taxes and assessments that may at any time be levied or imposed upon said premises, or any part therof; and if the part— of the second part shall fail to pay such taxes or assessments, or any part thereof, at any time when the same shall become due, then the said party of the first part may pay the same; and all sums so paid by the party of the first part shall be added to and become part of the unpaid remainder, and shall bear interest at the same rate, and be paid in the same manner and at the same time and place hereinbefore provided for the payment of said remainder and the interest thereon.

It is further agreed, that upon the punctual payment of said purchase money, interest, taxes, and assessments, and the strict and faithful performance by the part— of the second part, —— legal representatives or assigns, of all the agreements herein contained, the party of the first part will, after the receipt of a patent therefor, from the United States, upon demand and the surrender of this instrument, execute and deliver to the part— of the second part, ——— heirs and assigns, a grant, bargain, and sale deed of said premises, reserving all claim of the United States, to the same as mineral land, and also reserving therein to the party of the first part, for railroad purposes, a strip of land one hundred feet wide, lying equally on each side of the track of the railroad of said company, and all branch railroads now or hereafter constructed thereon, and the right to use all water needed for the operating and repair of said railroads———— and with the condition that the part— of the second part, ——— heirs and assigns, shall erect and forever maintain good and sufficient fences on both sides of said strip or strips of land.

It is further agreed, that until the full payment of said purchase money, interest, taxes, and assessments, no strip or waste shall be made on said premises, and that no wood or growing trees shall be cut thereon, except for necessary fuel for the family of the legal occupant under this contract, and for the erection of buildings or fences on said land, without the previous written consent of the party of the first part.

It is further agreed, that the part— of the second part may at once enter upon, take and hold possession of said premises, provided, however, that if the part— of the second part shall fail to make any of said payments of remainder, or interest, taxes, or assessments as herein provided, or shall fail to comply strictly with any of the stipulations of this contract, then this right shall cease, and the party of the first part, its successors or assigns, may without notice, enter upon, and take and hold possession of the said premises with all the improvements thereon.

It is further agreed, between the parties hereto, that the party of the first part claims all the tracts hereinbe-fore described, as part of a grant of lands to it by the Congress of the United States; that patent has not yet issued to it for said tracts; that it will use ordinary diligence to procure patents for them; that, as in consequence of circumstances beyond its control, it sometimes fails to obtain patent for lands that seem to be legally a portion of its said grant, therefore, nothing in this instrument shall be considered a guarantee or assurance that patent or title will be procured; that in case it be finally determined that patent shall not issue to said party of the first part for all or any of the tracts herein described, it will, upon demand, repay (without interest), to the part— of the second part, all moneys that may have been paid to it by ———— on account of any such tracts as it shall fail to procure patent for, the amount of repayment to be calculated at the rate and price per acre, fixed at this date for such tracts by said party of the first part, as per schedule on page 3 hereof; that said lands being unpatented, the party of the first part does not guarantee the possession of them to the part— of the second part, and will not be responsible to ——— for damages or cost in case of ——— failure to obtain and keep such possession.

It is further agreed, that if the party of the first part shall obtain patent for part of the lands herein described, and shall fail to obtain patent for the remainder of them, this contract shall in all its provisions be and remain in full force and virtue as to the tracts patented, and shall, except as to repayments herein provided for, be null and void as regards those tracts for which it shall be finally determined that patents cannot be obtained.

It is further agreed, that the part— of the second part will never deny that the tracts herein described, or any part of them, are a part of said grant, and will do no act to hinder, delay, or impede the obtaining of patent for them by the party of the first part; and that ———— will not obtain or hold possession of all or any of them adversely to said party of the first part.

It is further agreed, that this contract shall not be assignable, except by endorsement, and with the written consent of the party of the first part and the written promise of the assignee— to perform all the undertakings and promises of the part— of the second part as above set forth.

It is further agreed, that the part— of the second part shall pay three dollars for expenses of the acknowledgments to the deed that shall be issued on this contract.

In testimony whereof, the party of the first part has caused these presents to be signed in duplicate by its secretary, and land agent, and the part— of the second part ha—— signed ———— name— hereto.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Land Department.

No.———

Article of agreement, made at San Francisco, California, this ———— day of———— A. D. 18——, between the Southern Pacific Raliroad Company, party of the first part, and———— of ———— county, State of ————, part—— of the second part.

The said party of the first part, in consideration of the agreements of the said part—— of the second part herein contained, hereby agrees to sell unto the said part—— of the second part, the following tract— of land, situate in the county of ————, State of California, towit: and known and designated on the public surveys of the United States as ———————————— of section No. ———, in township ———, of range——— ————base and meridian, containing ————— 100 acres, for the sum of ————————100 dollars, United States gold coin, of which sum the said part—— of the second part ha—— this day paid the sum of ——— ————100 dollars, with ————————100 dollars, one year's interest on the remainder of said purchase money; the remainder of said principal sum, amounting to ————————100 dollars, United States gold coin, with interest thereon, annually in advance, at the rate of seven per cent per annum, to be paid by the said part—— of the second part on or before the———— day of ———— 18——.

And the said party of the first part hereby further agrees that upon the punctual payment of said purchase money and interest, and the strict and faithful performance by the said part—— of the second part, ——— legal representatives or assigns, of all the agreements herein contained, then the said party of the first part will cause to be made and executed to the said part—— of the second part, ———heirs and assigns, upon request and surrender of this contract, a deed of grant, bargain and sale, for the conveyance of said premises, reserving, however, for railroad purposes, a strip of land one hundred feet wide, lying equally on each side of the track of the railroad of said company, and all branch railroads now or hereafter constructed thereon, and the right to use all water needed for the operating and repair of said railroads, and subject also to the reservation and condition, that the said purchaser—, ———— heirs and assigns, shall erect and maintain good and sufficient fences on both sides of said strip or strips of land, and also reserving all claim of the United States to the same as mineral land.

And the said part—— of the second part hereby agree— to pay to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, its successors or assigns, the said sum of ——————————100 dollars, United States gold coin of the present standard of value, with interest thereon, annually in advance, at the rate of seven per cent per annum, at its office in the city of San Francisco, on or before the ———— day of ————, 18——, both principal and interest payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value, and until the full payment of said purchase money and interest, will permit no strip or waste to be made on said premises, and no wood or growing trees to be cut thereon, except for necessary fuel for the family of the legal occupant under this contract, and for the erection of buildings or fences, without the previous written consent of the said party of the first part. And if the said part—— of the second part shall fail to make punctually any of said payments of interest or principal, or shall fail to comply strictly with any of the stipulations of this contract, then the said party of the first part, its successors or assigns, shall have the right to enter upon and take possession of the said premises, with all the improvements thereon.

It is further mutually agreed and understood, that the said part—— of the second part shall have the immediate possession and enjoyment of said premises, and, if the same be in the adverse possession of a third party, the right to use at his own cost and charge the name of the party of the first part to recover the same by action. And that in consideration of such possession and enjoyment he will pay all taxes and assessments that may be, at any time, imposed upon said premises. And it is further agreed that, should said part—— of the second part fail to pay such taxes or assessments, or any part thereof, at any time when the same shall become due, the said party of the first part may pay the same, and add the amount thereof to the price to be paid for said premises, and such taxes or assessments with interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum shall be paid before said part—— of the second part shall be entitled to a conveyance of said premises.

The part—— of the second part hereby agrees to pay three dollars for expenses of the acknowledgments to the deed that shall be issued on this contract.

This contract shal not be assignable, except upon the consent of said party of the first part, and the written promise of the assignee— to perform all the undertakings and promises of the said part—— of the second part as above set forth.

In testimony whereof, the said party of the first part has caused these presents to be signed in duplicate by its secretary, and land agent, and the said part—— of the second part ha—— signed ——— name— hereto.

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, by the act of Congress approved July 27,1866, "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of said State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act, from the city of San Francisco to a point of connection with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company, "every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any State, and whenever on the line thereof the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof, filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office.

And whereas it is further provided by said act that "whenever prior to said time any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted, or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof under the direction of the secretary of the interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections, and not included in the reserved numbers."

And whereas, it is further enacted by the twenty-third section of the act of March 3, 1871, "for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass by way of Los Angeles to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California," by the aforesaid act of July 27, 1866.

And whereas, official statements from the secretary of the interior have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President under the provisions of the fourth section of the said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him that the entire line of said branch railroad and telegraph from the town of Mojave in the State of California, by way of Los Angeles to the Colorado river at Yuma, has been constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by the said act of July 27, 1866, and accepted by the President,

And whereas, the following tracts have been selected under the acts aforesaid, by the duly authorized land agent of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by his original lists of selections approved by the local officers and on file in this office,

All of fractional section one, containing six hundred and forty acres and ninety-two hundredths of an acre. All of fractional section three, containing six hundred and forty-two acres, and twenty-four hundredths of an acre. All of section eleven, containing six hundred and forty acres.

Township Thirteen, Range Eleven.

The southwest quarter of section five, containing one hundred and sixty acres. All of fractional section seven, containing six hundred and thirty-nine acres and forty-two hundredths of an acre. The northwest quarter of section nine, containing one hundred and sixty acres.

North of base line and east of San Bernardino meridian, California.

Township One, Range Nine.

The northwest quarter, and the east half of section thirty-three, containing four hundred and eighty acres.

The said tracts of land as described in the foregoing make the aggregate area of (30,899.45) thirty thousand, eight hundred and ninety-nine acres and forty-five hundredths of an acre.

Now know ye, that the United States of America in consideration of the premises and pursuant to the said acts of Congress, have given and granted, and by these presents do give and grant unto the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, and to its successors and assigns, the tracts of land selected as aforesaid and described in the foregoing, yet excluding and excepting, "all mineral lands," should any such be found in the tracts aforesaid, but this exclusion and exception according to the terms of the statute, "shall not be construed to include coal and iron lands."

To have and to hold the same, together with all rights, privileges, immunities, and appurtenances of whatever nature thereunto belonging unto said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, and to its successors and assigns forever.

In testimony whereof, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States of America, have caused these letters to be made patent and the seal of the general land office to be hereunto affixed.

Given under my hand at the city of Washington this the twenty-eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-four, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and nineteenth.

By the President, GROVER CLEVELAND.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC—MAIN LINE

RAILROAD LANDS.

INDEMNITY LIMITS.

SAN FRANCISCO AND VISALIA

LAND DISTRICTS,

CALIFORNIA.

1250b600 4-446.

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and joint resolution of June 28, 1870, "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military and other purposes, authority is given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, a corporation existing under the laws of the State, to construct a railroad and telegraph line under certain conditions and stipulations expressed in said act, from the city of San Francisco to a point of connection with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, near the boundary line of said State, and provision is made for granting to the said company "every alternate section of public land designated by odd numbers to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad on the line thereof, and within the limits of twenty miles on each side of said road, not sold, reserved, or otherwise disposed of by the United States, and to which pre-emption or homestead claim may not have attached at the time the line of said road is definitely fixed."

And whereas, it is further provided by said act that "whenever prior to said time any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof under the direction of the secretary of the interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections, and not included in the reserved numbers."

And whereas, official statements from the secretary of the interior have been filed in the general land office, showing that the commissioners appointed by the President under the provisions of the fourth section of the said act of July 27, 1866, have reported to him that the line of said railroad and telegraph from San Jose to Tres Pinos and from Alcalde to Mojave, together comprising two hundred and fifty-two miles and four hundred and seventy-nine thousandths of a mile, has been constructed and fully completed and equipped in the manner prescribed by said act of July 27, 1866, and accepted by the President.

And whereas, the following tracts have been selected under the act aforesaid by the duly authorized land agent of the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company as shown by his original lists of selections approved by the local officers and on file in this office.

And whereas, the said tracts of land lie coterminous to the constructed line of said road and are particularly described as follows, towit:

CONTRACT FOR DEED.

G. 291 (2 29-88-2,000)

Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

No. 9654. Land Department.

This agreement, made at San Francisco, California, this first (1st) day of June, A. D. 1888, between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, party of the first part, and William Sexton, of the city and county of San Francisco, State of California, party of the second part,

Witnesseth: That the party of the first part, in consideration of the covenants and agreements of the party of the second part hereinafter contained, agrees to sell to the party of the second part, the following tract of land, situated in the county of Kern, State of California, and known and designated on the public survey of the United States as northeast quarter (N. E. ¼) of section seventeen (17), township nine (9) north, range fifteen (15) west, San Bernardino base and meridian, containing one hundred and sixty (160.00) 00-100 acres, for the sum of four hundred ($400.00) 00-100 dollars, gold coin of the United States.

And the party of the second part, in consideration of the premises, agrees to buy the land hereinbefore described, and to pay to the party of the first part, the said sum of four hundred ($400.00) 00-100 dollars, as follows, to-wit: Eighty ($80.00) 00-100 dollars, and also $22.40, one year's interest in advance on the remainder, in United States gold coin of the present standard of value, on the execution of this contract (which two last-mentioned sums have this day been fully paid), and the remainder, towit: the sum of three hundred and twenty ($320.00) 00-100 dollars, with interest thereon, annually in advance, at the rate of seven per cent per annum, both in United States gold coin, of the present standard of value, at its office in the city and county of San Francisco, on or before the first day of June, 1893; and, also, to pay all taxes and assessments that may at any time be levied or imposed upon said premises, or any part thereof; and if the party of the second part shall fail to pay such taxes or assessments, or any part thereof, at any time when the same shall become due, then the said party of the first part may pay the same; and all sums so paid by the party of the first part shall be added to and become part of the unpaid remainder, and shall bear interest at the same rate, and be paid in the same manner and at the same time and place hereinbefore provided for the payment of said remainder and the interest thereon.

It is further agreed, that upon the punctual payment of said purchase money, interest, taxes, and assessments, and the strict and faithful performance by the party of the second part, his legal representatives or assigns, of all the agreements herein contained, the party of the first part will, after the receipt of a patent therefor from the United States, upon demand and the surrender of this instrument, execute and deliver to the party of the second part, his heirs and assigns, a grant, bargain, and sale deed of said premises, reserving all claim of the United States to the same as mineral land, and also reserving therein to the party of the first part, for railroad purposes, a strip of land one hundred feet wide, lying equally on each side of the track of the railroad of said company, and all branch railroads now or hereafter constructed thereon, and the right to use all water needed for the operation and repair of said railroads, and with the condition that the party of the second part, heirs, and assigns, shall erect and forever maintain good and sufficient fences on both sides of said strip or strips of land.

It is further agreed, that until the full payment of said purchase money, interest, taxes and assessments, no strip or waste shall be made on said premises, and that no wood or growing trees shall be cut thereon, except for necessary fuel for the family of the legal occupant under this contract, and for the erection of buildings or fences on said land, without the previous written consent of the party of the first part.

It is further agreed, that the party of the second part may at once enter upon, take and hold possession of said premises, provided, however, that if the party of the second part shall fail to make any of said payments of remainder, or interest, taxes, or assessments as herein provided, or shall fail to comply strictly with any of the stipulations of this contract, then this right shall cease, and the party of the first part, its successors or assigns, may without notice, enter upon, take and hold possession of the said premises with all the improvements thereon.

It is further agreed, between the parties hereto, that the party of the first part claims all the tracts hereinbefore described, as part of a grant of lands to it by the Congress of the United States; that patent has not yet issued to it for said tracts; that it will use ordinary diligence to procure patents for them; that, as in consequence of circumstances beyond its control, it sometimes fails to obtain patent for lands that seem to be legally a portion of its said grant, therefore, nothing in this instrument shall be considered a guarantee or assurance that patent or title will be procured; that in case it be finally determined that patent shall not issue to said party of the first part for all or any of the tracts herein described, it will, upon demand, repay (without interest), to the party of the second part, all moneys that may have been paid to it by him on account of any such tracts as it shall fail to procure patent for, the amount of repayment to be calculated at the rate and price per acre, fixed at this date for such tracts by said party of the first part, as per schedule on page 3 hereof; that said lands being unpatented, the party of the first part, does not guarantee the possession of them to the party of the second part, and will not be responsible to him, for damages or cost in case of his failure to obtain and keep such possession.

It is further agreed that if the party of the first part shall obtain patent for part of the lands herein described, and shall fail to obtain patent for the remainder of them, this contract shall in all its provisions be and remain in full force and virtue as to the tracts patented, and shall, except as to repayments herein provided for, be null and void as regards those tracts for which it shall be finally determined that patents cannot be obtained.

It is further agreed that the party of the second part will never deny that the tracts herein described, or any part of them, are a part of said grant, and will do no act to hinder, delay or impede the obtaining of patent for them by the party of the first part; and that he will not obtain or hold possession of all or any of them adversely to said party of the first part.

It is further agreed that this contract shall not be assignable, except by endorsement, and with the written consent of the party of the first part and the written promise of the assignee to perform all the undertakings and promises of the party of the second part as above set forth.

It is further agreed, that the party of the second part shall pay $3.00 for expenses of the knowledgments of the deed that shall be issued in this contract.

In testimony whereof, the party of the first part has caused these presents to be signed in duplicate by its secretary, and land agent, and the party of the second part has signed his name thereto.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Complainant and Appellee,

vs.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY; D. O. MILLS and HOMER S. KING, trustees; CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY of New York, Defendants and Appellants.

No. 600.

Assignment of Errors.

The defendants, by the undersigned, their counsel and attorney, in connection with their petition and appeal herein, say that the decree in this case is erroneous and against their just rights, in the following particulars:

1.

The court erred in adjudging and decreeing the complainant the owner, by title in fee simple absolute, or otherwise, of the lands, or any thereof, described in the decree as so owned by the complainant; and in not adjudging that the complainant take nothing as to any of such lands. because, as shown by the evidence:

1st. A large portion of the lands described in the decree as owned by the United States, are situated within the primary limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1886 (Vol. 14 U. S. Stats., p. 292) and joint resolution of Congress approved June 28, 1870 (Vol. 16 U. S. Stat., p. 382), and are not embraced by any exception to the grant of lands thereby made; and defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company duly constructed the railroad contemplated, and fully performed all the conditions imposed, by the said act and joint resolution; and the railroad so constructed has been duly accepted and approved by the proper officers of the United States. The defendants are, therefore, the owners by title in fee simple, absolute and indefeasible, of all the lands in this paragraph referred to.

2d. Another large portion of the lands described in the decree as owned by the United States, are situated within the indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the act of joint resolution mentioned in the next preceding paragraph, and are not embraced by any exception to the grant of lands thereby made; and all the odd-sections within the primary and indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the said act and joint resolution, not finally disposed of by the United States prior to July 27, 1866, are insufficient to make or equal the amount of land thereby granted to the said defendant company. For these reasons, and the other reasons set forth in the next preceding paragraph, the defendants are also the owners by title in fee simple, absolute and indefeasible, of all the lands in this paragraph referred to.

3d. Some of the lands referred to in the next preceding paragraphs were duly selected by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the direction of the secretary of the interior, as indemnity lands granted to it by the said act and joint resolution. As to which selected lands the defendants are, for the reasons hereinbefore set forth, entitled to the issue of patents from the United States to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and are also entitled to select, and receive patents for, all of the lands referred to in the "1st" and "2d" paragraphs hereof which remain unselected.

4th. Another large portion of the lands described in the decree as owned by the United States, are situated within the indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the act of Congress approved March 3, 1871 (Vol. 16 U. S. Stat., p. 573), and are not embraced by any exception to the grant of land thereby made; the said company duly constructed the railroad contemplated, and fully performed all the conditions imposed, by the last mentioned act of Congress; the railroad so constructed was duly accepted and approved by the proper officers of the United States; and all the odd-sections, within the primary and indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the said act of March 3, 1871, are insufficient to make or equal the amount of lands thereby granted. The defendants are, therefore, the owners by title in fee simple, absolute and indefeasible, of all the lands in this paragraph referred to.

5th. Some of the lands referred to in the next preceding paragraph were duly selected by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, as indemnity lands granted to it by the said act of March 3, 1871. As to which selected lands the defendants are, for the reasons set forth in the "4th" paragraph hereof, entitled to the issue of patents from the United States to the defendant the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and are also entitled to select, and receive patents, for all the lands referred to in the "4th" paragraph hereof which remain unselected.

6th. The defendants D. O. Mills and Homer S. King are trustees under a deed of trust duly executed on April 1, 1875, by the defendants Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and the defendant Central Trust Company of New York is the trustee under a deed of trust duly executed on August 25, 1888; which deeds conveyed all the lands described in the decree as owned by the United States, to secure the payment of, and out of the proceeds of the sale of the lands conveyed to redeem and pay, a large number of bonds issued and sold by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for several millions of dollars paid to it by numerous bona fide purchasers thereof, who still hold the bonds so purchased, unpaid. The said trustees are, therefore, bona fide purchasers of all the said lands so conveyed to them; and the defendants' title is expressly confirmed by the act of March 2, 1896 (29 U. S. Stats., p. 42), to such of those lands as are covered by patents from the United States to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

II.

The court erred in adjudging and decreeing that all patents issued by the United States to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for all, or any, of the lands described in the decree as owned by the complainant, to be null, void or vacated; because, as shown by the evidence:

1st. Several of such patents are for lands referred to in the "1st" paragraph of assignment "I" hereof, and were duly selected by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, prior to the issue of such patents, as primary limits lands granted to the said company by the act of 1866 and joint resolution of 1870, hereinbefore mentioned. For which reasons, and the other reasons set forth in the "1st" paragraph of the said assignment "I", such patents were duly and lawfully issued and are valid.

2d. Several other of such patents are for lands referred to in the "3d" paragraph of assignment "I" hereof; and for the reasons set forth in the "1st", "2d" and"3" paragraphs of the said assignment "I", such patents were duly and lawfully issued and are valid.

3d. Several other of such patents are for lands referred to in the "5th" paragraph of assignment "I" hereof; and for the reasons set forth in the "4th" and "5th" paragraphs of said assignment "I", such patents were duly and lawfully issued and are valid.

4th. All patents issued to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company and adjudged null, void and vacated by the decree, are for lands held by the trustee defendants in trust for bona fide purchasers and holders of outstanding bonds, under the trust deeds hereinbefore set forth; and for the reasons given in the "6th" paragraph of assignment "I" hereof; the said trustees are bona fide purchasers of the land subject of all the patents adjudged, null, void and vacated by the decree. Wherefor such patents, and the title of the trustee defendants to the lands thereof, are confirmed by the act of Congress approved March 2, 1896 (29 U. S. Stats., p. 42); and all of such patents are valid.

III.

The court erred in ordering, adjudging or decreeing the defendants enjoined or restrained from having or claiming any right, title or interest in, or lien upon, any or all of the lands described in the decree as owned by the United States; for the reasons given in assignments "I" and "II" hereof, and the several paragraphs thereunder.

IV.

For the reasons hereinbefore assigned, the court erred in adjudging that the complainant have and recover its costs of suit herein; and in not adjudging that the defendants have and recover their costs.

Wherefore the defendants prays that the said decree be reversed, excepting in so far as it adjudges and decrees that the complainant take nothing; and that the said Circuit Court be directed to enter a decree adjudging and decreeing that the complainant take nothing as to any of the lands or patents referred to in the decree appealed from—and that the defendants have and recover their costs.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Complainant and Appellee, vs. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS and HOMER S. KING, Trustees, and CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Defendants and Appellants.	No. 600.

Petition for Appeal.

The said defendants, conceiving themselves aggrieved by the decree made and entered herein on June 6, 1898, appeal from the said decree to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, for the reasons specified in their assignment of errors filed herewith; and they pray that their appeal may be allowed, and that a true copy of the record, opinion of the court, assignment of errors, and all proceedings in the cause under the seal of this Court and the hand of its clerk, be sent to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

Your petitioners further pray that, upon giving a good and sufficient bond to be approved by this Court, all proceedings in this cause and upon said decree may be stayed, pending their appeal.

Dated June 11, 1898.

WM. SINGER, Jr.,
Attorney for the Defendants.

WM. F. HERRIN,
Counsel for the Defendants.

Order Allowing Appeal.

The foregoing claim of appeal, and prayer for supersedeas, are allowed and granted; the supersedeas to take effect upon the filing of a good and sufficient bond in the sum of three thousand dollars, conditioned that the defendants shall prosecute their appeal to effect, and answer all damages and costs if they fail to make their appeal good.

It is further ordered that a true copy of the record, opinion of the court, assignment of errors, and all proceedings in the cause, under the seal of this Court and the hand of its clerk, be sent to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY et al., Appellants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES,
Appellee.

Stipulation.

One. It is stipulated that the following original documents, forming part of the evidence in this cause, being necessary to inspection by this Court and by the Supreme Court, if appealed thereto, shall be sent up as original documents with the transcript of the record in accordance with subdivision 4 of Rule 14 of the rules of this court, and subdivision 4 of Rule 8 of the rules of the Supreme Court, towit:

Plaintiff's Exhibit 13, being maps of sections of Atlantic & Pacific Railroad.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 14, being map of another section of Atlantic & Pacific Railroad.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 15, being map of another section of Atlantic & Pacific Railroad.

Defendants' Exhibits 260, 263, 267, 270, 273, 276, 279, 282, 285, 288, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296 and 301, being maps of sections of constructed Southern Pacific Railroad.

Opinion U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States, for the Southern District of California.

This is a suit in equity brought by the United States against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the other defendants named in the bill, to quiet the title to certain lands in California embraced within the granted and indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company under the act of Congress, approved July 27, 1866 (14 Stats. at Large, 492). The lands in controversy are situated on both sides of that part of the line of the road as located between The Needles on the Colorado river and San Buenaventura on the Pacific Coast.

The act of July 27, 1866, granted lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast, and to carry out the purposes of the grant the act incorporated the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and authorized that company to lay out, locate, and construct a continuous line of railroad and telegraph from the town of Springfield, in the State of Missouri, thence westerly to the head waters of the Colorado Chiquito, and "thence along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude as near as may be found most suitable for a railway route to the Colorado river, at such point as may be selected by said company for crossing; thence by the most practicable and eligible route to the Pacific."

For the purpose of aiding in the construction of this road and telegraph line to the Pacific Coast, the third section of the act granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of ten alternate sections per mile on each side of said road whenever it passed through any State, and whenever on the line thereof the United States had full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights at the time the line of said road should be designated by a plat thereof, filed in the office of the commissioner of the General Land Office. It was further provided that whenever, prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections, and not including the reserved numbers.

The sixth section of the act provided: "That the President of the United States shall cause the lands to be surveyed for forty miles in width on both sides of the entire line of said road after the general route shall be fixed, and as fast as may be required by the construction of said railroad; and the odd sections of land hereby granted shall not be liable to sale or entry, or pre-emption, before or after they are surveyed, except by said company, as provided in this act."

The eighth section of the act provided: "That each and every grant, right, and privilege herein are so made and given to and accepted by said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company upon and subject to the following conditions, namely: that the said company shall commence the work on said road within two years from the approval of this act by the President, and shall complete not less than fifty miles per year after the second year, and shall construct, equip, furnish, and complete the main line of the whole road by the fourth day of July, Anno Domini eighteen hundred seventy-eight."

The eighteenth section of the act provided: "That the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the State of California, is hereby authorized to connect with the said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, formed under this act, at such point near the boundary line of the State of California as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco; and shall have a uniform gauge and rate of freight or fare with said road, and in consideration thereof, to aid in its construction, shall have similar grants of land, subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided; and shall be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad herein provided for."

In 1872 the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office certain maps, designating its line of railroad, as located, from a point selected by the company for crossing the Colorado river by the route deemed by the company the most practicable and eligible to the Pacific. The line of road so designated ran from a point on the Colorado river near the thirty-fifth parallel (The Needles) to San Buenaventura, on the Pacific Coast, thence to Santa Barbara, San Miguel Mission, and San Francisco.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company referred to in the eighteenth section of the act of July 27, 1866, was incorporated under the laws of the State of California on the twenty-ninth day of November, 1865. The charter of the corporation provided for the building of "a railroad from some point on the bay of San Francisco in the State of California, and to pass through the counties of Santa Clara, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Los Angeles, and San Diego, to the town of San Diego in said State, thence eastward through the said county of San Diego to the eastern line of the State of California, there to connect with a contemplated railroad from said eastern line of the State of California to the Mississippi river."

Under this charter the Southern Pacific Company, on the third day of January, 1867, filed in the Interior Department at Washington a plat of preliminary survey showing a line of projected railroad from San Francisco to the Colorado river, with the request that the lands indicated be withdrawn from market. Thereafter, on March 19, 1867, the Secretary of the Interior directed the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue instructions to the local land offices in California to withhold the odd-numbered sections within the granted limits of twenty miles on each side of the road, as shown on the map, and also withdraw the odd-numbered sections outside of the twenty miles and within thirty miles on each side of the road, from which the indemnity for lands disposed of within the granted limits were to be taken. These instructions were carried out by the Commissioner of the General Land Office under date of March 22, 1867. The right of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to have this withdrawal made for its benefit was, however, further considered by the Secretary of the Interior, and on July 14, 1868, he addressed a communication to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in which he revoked the order of withdrawal contained in his letter of March 19, 1867, having determined that the map filed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was upon a route not authorized by the charter of the company, the laws of California, or contemplated by the act of Congress. This revocation was afterward in part suspended, but finally adhered to by the Secretary of the Interior in a letter addressed to the Comissioner of the General Land Office under date of November 2, 1869. Thereupon the Southern Pacific Company procured the passage of an act of the Legislature of California, approved April 4, 1870 (Stats. of California 1869-70, p. 883), authorizing the company to change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the State of California by such route as the company should determine to be the most practicable, and to file new and amendatory articles of association. The act further authorized the company to accept such grants as had been or might thereafter be made by Congress.

On June 28, 1870, Congress passed a joint resolution (16 Stats. at Large, 382), by which the Southern Pacific Company was authorized to construct its road as near as might be on the route indicated by the map filed by said company in the Department of the Interior on the third day of January, 1867. It was further provided that as each section of the road should be constructed, patents to lands should issue to the extent and amount granted to said company by said act of July 27, 1866, expressly saving and reserving all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act. Pursuant to this resolution the order of withdrawal of lands within the granted limits, as made by the Secretary of the Interior on March 19, 1867 (the revocation of which had been suspended pending action on the part of Congress), was renewed and carried into effect by the Commissioner of the General Land Office under date of July 29, 1870. Under the authority of the joint resolution of Congress of June 28, 1870, the Southern Pacific Company constructed that part of the railroad from Mojave to The Needles on the Colorado river, in the year 1885, and at that time filed in the Interior Department, in sections, its map showing the line of route as so constructed and located by the company, and the land grant to the company was adjusted upon those maps of constructed road. This road from Mojave to The Needles is known as the Southern Pacific "main line grant." The grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, overlapped the lands withdrawn under the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific made by the act of July 27, 1866, from a point near Mojave to the Colorado river, and those lands are a part of the lands in suit here.

On March 3, 1871, Congress passed an act entitled, "An Act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes" (16 Stat. 573). The twenty-third section of this act provided: "That for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapi Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions, and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California by the act of July twenty-seven, eighteen hundred and sixty-six: Provided, however, that this section shall in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company or any other railroad company." The Southern Pacific Company filed its map of general route under this act of March 3, 1871, from Mojave via Los Angeles to Yuma, on April 3, 1871, and thereafter as the road was constructed, filed its map of road, so constructed and located, in five sections, during the years from 1874 to 1878 inclusive. This grant to the Southern Pacific Company from Mojave via Los Angeles to Yuma is known as the "branch line grant," and overlaps the lands withdrawn under the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific, and those lands are a part of the lands in controversy here.

The Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company failed to complete its road as required by the act of July 27, 1866, and in the year 1886 had failed to construct any railroad on its line west of the Colorado river. Thereupon Congress passed the act of July 6, 1886 (24 Stats. at Large, 123), forfeiting the lands granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portions of the main line of said road embraced within both the granted and the indemnity limits, as contemplated to be constructed under and by the provisions of said act of July 27, 1866, and acts and joint resolutions subsequent thereto and relating to the construction of said road and telegraph line, and the lands were declared forfeited and restored to the public domain.

The act of March 3, 1887 (24 Stats. at Large, 556), entitled "An Act to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads, and for the forfeiture of unearned lands, and for other purposes," provided for the immediate adjustment of all railroad land grants made by Congress, and upon the completion of such adjustment, if it should appear that lands had been from any cause erroneously certified or patented by the United States to or for the use or benefit of any company claiming by, through, or under grant from the United States to aid in the construction of a railroad, it was made the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to demand from such company a relinquishment or reconveyance to the United States of all such lands, whether within granted or indemnity limits; and if such company should neglect or fail to so reconvey such lands to the United States within ninety days after such demand, it should thereupon be the duty of the attorney-general to commence and prosecute in the proper courts the necessary proceedings to cancel all patents, certificates, or other evidence of title theretofore issued for such lands, and to restore the title thereof to the United States.

The act of Congress approved March 2, 1896 (29 Stats. at Large, 42), provided for the extension of the time within which suits might be brought to vacate and annul land patents, and provided that no patent to any lands held by a bona fide purchaser should be vacated or annulled, but the right and title of such purchaser was by the act confirmed.

The present action was commenced in the Southern District of California, on the fourteenth day of May, 1894. The bill of complaint alleged, among other things, that the plaintiffs are the absolute owners by title in fee simple, and are in the possession of the lands described in an exhibit marked "A" attached to the bill of complaint; that the officers of the Interior Department have erroneously and without any authority of law, caused to be issued to the defendant, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company patents of the United States in due form of law for the tracts of land described in Exhibit "A." The prayer of the bill is that the title of the plaintiffs to the lands described in Exhibit "A" be quieted; that the patents be vacated and decreed to be void, and that the defendants and each of them be forever enjoined from asserting or claiming any right or title to said lands adverse to the plaintiffs, and that the defendants be forever enjoined from chopping down or carrying away any wood, trees, or timber upon said lands, and from removing any minerals or other valuable deposits thereon.

The bill also includes the unpatented lands within the granted and indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in California, and alleges that maps of definite location, designating that part of the line, were filed by the company in the General Land Office in the year 1872; that as said plats or maps were filed in the Interior Department they were each then approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and upon the filing of such maps or plats the United States withdrew from market and reserved all the odd-numbered sections of land in California within thirty (30) miles of said line of route, and in pursuance of orders of the Secretary of the Interior and Commissioner of the General Land Office, the withdrawal and reservation of said lands were then made of record in the General Land Office and United States District Land Offices; that the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company did not, within the time or manner required by the act of July 27, 1866, or at all, construct or complete any railroad or telegraph line in whole or in part within the State of California, and by the act of Congress approved July 6, 1886 (24 Stats. at Large, 123) all lands and rights to lands granted to and conferred upon said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and situated within the State of California, were forfeited and returned to the United States, and said lands were restored to the public domain, including all the odd-numbered sections of land for thirty (30) miles on each side of the line of route of said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company between the eastern boundary of California and the Pacific Ocean at San Buenaventura.

The bill alleges that the defendant, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company claims that a line of railroad and telegraph from Tehachapi Pass by way of Los Angeles to the Colorado river, had been constructed by the defendant within the time and in the manner provided by the act of Congress approved March 3, 1871 (16 Stats. at Large, 573); that the company accepted said grant and in the year 1874 designated its line by a plat thereof filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and the defendants claim that the lands described in the act were granted to said company by said act, but it is alleged that none of said lands were granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company or to any of the other defendants by said act of Congress; that on the contrary, they were lands reserved and otherwise claimed, and are still owned by the United States. It is further alleged that the defendants, and each of them, claim some interest in said lands under and by virtue of said act of March 3, 1871, and not otherwise. With respect to these lands claimed by the defendants, and for which patents had not been issued, the prayer of the bill is that the Court will define and determine the rights of the plaintiffs to the odd-numbered sections of land in California within the thirty-mile limits of the line of route of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by the maps of said company on file and of record in the General Land Office, and will decree that the United States are the owners in fee of said lands as against all rights and claims of the defendants based upon or through said grants made by the United States by said acts of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871, except the lands embraced in pending suits against the defendants.

The plaintiffs, on May 21, 1894, filed an amendment to their bill praying that their rights and title to the lands within the granted and indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company be quieted, and the defendants perpetually enjoined from having or claiming any right, title, or interest in or to said lands, from, through, or under the acts of Congress approved July 27, 1866 (14 Stats. at Large, 492), or March 3, 1871 (16 Stats. at Large, 573), or joint resolution of Congress approved June 28, 1870 (16 Stats. at Large, 382), for which it is alleged patents have been erroneously issued to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

The lands described in Exhibit "A" amount to 29,914.24 acres. The United States attorney, on January 7, 1898, dismissed the cause of action as to certain lands described in Exhibit "A," amounting to 27,040.40 acres, leaving the action to proceed against 2,873.84 acres described in that exhibit. An examination of the record discloses the fact, however, that with the exception of two tracts of 160 acres each, these remaining lands described in Exhibit "A" are not properly involved in this action; that is to say, a number of the tracts described are clearly outside the limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, while other tracts are involved in another suit.

The remaining lands involved in this action as being within the granted and indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and for which no patents have yet been issued, amount to about three millions of acres.

The answer of the defendants denies plaintiffs' ownership and possession of the lands described in Exhibit "A"; denies that the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company filed maps of definite location, designating parts of its line in the State of California, in the General Land Office in the year 1872, or at any time or at all; denies that as said plates or maps were so filed in the Interior Department they were each then approved by the Secretary of the Interior; denies that upon the filing of such maps or plats the United States withdrew from market and reserved all or any of the odd-numbered sections of land in California within thirty miles of the line of route, or that in pursuance of orders of the Secretary of the Interior, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the withdrawal or reservation of said lands was made then of record in the General Land Office and the United States District Land Offices in California by proper plats, documents and maps, or in any manner or at all; denies that any lands in suit herein fell within the thirty-mile limits of any such line, or were ever withdrawn from market or reserved for or for the benefit of said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company. The answer further recites the proceedings relating to the location of the route of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in California, and alleges that the location or designation of the route was upon an unauthorized and impracticable line, and that the maps filed by the company were fraudulent, spurious, and manufactured, and deceived the officers of the government. The answer also recites the facts relating to defendants' claim to the lands in question, and the execution of certain mortgages to the other defendants in the action covering such lands to secure the payment of certain mortgage bonds.

The decree in the Court below was in favor of the plaintiffs, adjudging that the United States are the owners by title in fee simple, absolute, unencumbered, of all the lands described in the decree, and that all patents issued by the United States to the defendant the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to or for any of said lands are null and void, and by the decree such patents are vacated, and the defendants forever enjoined and restrained from having or claiming any right, title, interest or lien in or to any of said lands, and the title of the United States to said lands is quieted. The lands described are "all the sections and parts of sections of land in the State of California, surveyed and unsurveyed, designated by odd numbers, within thirty miles on each side of the line of route of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company from the Colorado river to the Pacific Ocean at or near San Buenaventura, California, and co-terminous with said line of route, as designated and established by the maps filed by said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in the General Land Office and in the Department of the Interior in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, copies of which were introduced in evidence in this cause and are now on file herein, to which maps, designating said line of route, reference is hereby made; excepting, however, from the lands so described, and from the operation of this decree, the following specific tracts of land which are not embraced by this suit." The lands excepted are those mentioned in the bill as being involved in other suits; the lands described in the order of dismissal entered upon the motion of the United States on January 7, 1898, and also certain lands which it was adjudged were, prior to the commencement of the suit, sold by the defendant the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons, who purchased the same in good faith and for value, and as to such lands the Court holding that the act of Congress approved March 2, 1896 (29 Stats. at Large, 42), confirmed the sale of such lands to the purchasers, whether such patents were issued prior to the institution of the suit or subsequent thereto, for lands for which a contract of sale had been entered into in good faith and for value between the railroad company and the purchaser. (United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Co., 86 Fed. 962.) Both parties have appealed from the decree.

Wm. Singer, Jr., attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company et al.; Wm. F. Herrin, of counsel.

Joseph H. Call, Special United States Attorney.

Before GILBERT and MORROW, Circuit Judges, and HAWLEY, District Judge.

MORROW, Circuit Judge, after stating the case, delivered the opinion of the Court.

The appeal of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company (Case No. 494) will first be considered. It will be convenient to designate the parties plaintiffs and defendants, as they were in the Court below.

It is contended on the part of the plaintiffs that all the questions involved in the present case with respect to the lands in controversy, have been considered in other cases and determined, and having passed to final judgment, are now res judicata.

This was the principal question before the Supreme Court in Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. United States, 168 U. S. 1. It was there contended on behalf of the United States, that the lands in dispute in that case were in the same category in every respect with those in controversy in United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad, 146 U. S. 570, and United States v. Colton Marble & Lime Co., and United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad, 146 U. S. 615, and that so far as the question of title was concerned, the judgment in those cases had conclusively determined, as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and its privies, the essential facts upon which the government rested its claim in the case then before the Court. In support of this position it was insisted on the part of the United States that in the former cases the controlling matter in issue was whether certain maps filed by the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in 1872, and which were accepted by the Land Department as sufficiently designating that company's line of road under the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, were valid maps of definite location, the United States contending in those cases that they were, and the Southern Pacific Company contending that they were not maps of that character, and that issue having been determined in favor of the United States and the lands in dispute in the case then before the Court being within the limits of the line of road so designated, it was not open to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to question the former determination that such maps sufficiently identified the lands granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company by the act of 1866, and were therefore valid maps. The defendants, on the other hand, contended in the later case that the decrees in the former cases decided by the Supreme Court were not conclusive in favor of the United States, either as res judicata or as estoppel or as evidence, for the reason that the case then before the Court presented new questions of law arising upon new and different facts. To determine this controversy it became necessary for the Supreme Court to ascertain what was in issue and what was determined in the former cases. The Court accordingly reviewed the previous litigation between the parties, considered the issues presented by the pleadings, the fact that the lands involved in those suits were within the overlapping limits of the two grants, and determined the scope of the former adjudications. The Court then proceeds to consider the questions involved in the case under consideration, and, referring to the lands in controversy, classifies them as follows:

"It may be said that the lands here in dispute belong to one or the other of the following classes: Lands within the common granted limits of both the Atlantic & Pacific grant of 1866 and the Southern Pacific grant of 1871; lands within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific grant and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant; lands within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits and the Atlantic & Pacific granted limits; lands within the common indemnity limits of both grants. Of those in dispute, 219,012.93 acres have not been surveyed by the United States. But all the lands now in dispute are within the limits of the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, if the maps filed by that company in 1872, and which were approved by the Land Department, are to be regarded as maps of definite location." (168 U. S. 47.)

The lands here classified by the Court embrace all the different classes of lands within the overlapping limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant of July 27, 1866, and the Southern Pacific grant of March 3, 1871, but no special consideration appears to have been given to this fact. The controlling fact appears to have been that all the lands in dispute were within the limits of the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and this fact left but one other question to be determined—and that was, the validity of the maps of definite location filed by the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company. This question is disposed of by the Court in the following comprehensive language:

"It was distinctly adjudged, in the former cases, as between the Government and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S. 570, 596, that the maps filed in 1872 sufficiently identified the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company on the contemplated line between the Colorado river and San Buenaventura on the Pacific Coast, although, for want of authority in that company to construct a railroad to San Francisco, they did not secure to the company any lands north of San Buenaventura; that is, those maps were directly adjudged to be maps adequately fixing or locating the line of the road under the act of 1866. The records of those cases having been introduced in the present suit, there is no room for doubt—if those records are competent evidence—as to what was in issue and what was adjudged in the former cases. The maps which in this case are relied upon by the United States as maps of definite location, and which the Southern Pacific Railroad Company denies to be of that character, are the identical maps which the Government relied on in the former cases, and the same which that company referred to and made part of its answer in the former litigation, and which were adjudged by this Court, in conformity with the contention of the Government, to be valid maps of definite location, the acceptance of which made it impossible for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to acquire any interest in any lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company that were forfeited to the United States by the act of 1886."

The Court then proceeds to consider the effect of this adjudication upon the matter in issue under the pleadings in the case before the Court, and arrives at the conclusion that it must be taken to have been conclusively adjudicated in the former cases as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Company:

"1. That the maps filed by the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient, as maps of definite location, to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of 1866.

"2. That upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department, the rights of that company in the lands so granted, attached, by relation, as of the date of the act of 1866; and

"3. That in view of the conditions attached to the grant, and of the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the forfeiture act of 1886, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain, without the Southern Pacific Railroad Company having acquired any interest therein that affected the power of the United States to forfeit and restore them to the public domain.

"These grounds being accepted as the basis of our decision, the law in the present case is clearly for the United States; for, as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872, and, therefore, appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be, for the reasons stated in the former decision, that the United States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to the relief given by the decree below."

In the present case the pleadings disclose substantially the same issues as were in controversy in the former cases, and they are all supported by practically the same evidence, but the defendants seek to distinguish this case from all the previous cases by the fact that a classification of the lands embraced within the limits of the overlapping grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and the grants to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company will show that the lands in controversy in this cases are not of the particular classes involved in any of the former cases. Upon this fact it is claimed that the rights pertaining to such lands have not been determined. This distinction is based largely upon the fact that the greater portion of the lands involved in this case are claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under what is called its "main line grant," for that part of its road from Mojave to The Needles, on the Colorado river, while in the former suits the claim of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the lands in dispute was under what is called its "branch line grant" for that part of its road from Mojave via Los Angeles to Yuma on the Colorado river. The classification of the lands of the overlapping grants under which this claim is made may be stated as follows:

1. Lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific "main line grant."

2. Lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic &

Pacific grant, and also within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific "main line grant."

3. Lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific "main line grant."

4. Lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific "main line grant."

5. Lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific "branch line grant."

6. Lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific "branch line grant."

7. Lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific "branch line grant."

8. Lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and also within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific "branch line grant."

This method of classification might be further extended by considering the Southern Pacific main line and branch line grants as overlapping each other within both primary and indemnity limits, and in such relations conflicting with both the primary and indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant.

If now we classify the lands involved in the various cases that have been tried and determined, we have the following result: In United States v. The Colton Marble & Lime Co., 146 U. S. 615 (No. 88 in the Circuit Court), the land in controversy was within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the primary limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant. In United States v. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S. 615 (Nos. 67, 68, and 69, consolidated as No. 68 in the Circuit Court), the land was within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the primary limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant. In United States v. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S. 570 (No. 178 in the Circuit Court), the land was within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant and within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant. In United States v. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S. 570 (No. 177 in the Circuit Court), the land was within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant and within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant. In United States v. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 168 U. S. 1 (No. 184 in the Circuit Court), the lands were within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, and within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant. There were also lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant; and in addition to these lands there were lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific main line grant.

It will be observed that the lands involved in these various suits embraced all the four classifications of land in conflict between the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the Southern Pacific branch line grant, and that in the last case there is a classification of land in conflict between the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the Southern Pacific main line grant.

The defendants contend that while in the previous cases between these parties lands were in controversy embraced in all the possible classifications of conflict between the grants, except three, nevertheless these three are in the main line grant of the Southern Pacific, having rights under the statutes which distinguish them from all the other lands heretofore in dispute. The defendants contend further that with respect to the lands in the last case (168 U. S. 1) found to be in conflict between the Atlantic & Pacific grant and the Southern Pacific main line grant, this conflict was not observed when the case was tried in the Court below, and was not noticed by the Supreme Court; and that with respect to lands lying within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific branch line grant, the right of the Southern Pacific to such lands was not considered or discussed in any of the previous cases.

The controversy with respect to the lands in suit in this case may now be stated as follows: The plaintiffs contend that there is no question to be decided by a classification of the lands in dispute; that all the lands involved were granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company by the act of July 27, 1866; that the company failed to build a road west of the Colorado river; that by the forfeiture act of July 6, 1886, Congress restored the lands within the limits of the grant to the absolute ownership of the United States, without any right or title having attached to any of the lands under either of the grants to the Southern Pacific Company; that in any event these lands were all excepted and reserved from the Southern Pacific's grants, because withdrawn for the benefit of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company prior to the several dates the Southern Pacific definitely located its railroads, and that the plaintiffs' claim in this respect has been determined in the prior cases mentioned, and is res judicata.

The defendants claim that the lands in conflict within the limits of the Southern Pacific's main line grant were granted the Southern Pacific by section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866 (14 Stat. 292), and the Joint Resolution of June 28, 1870 (16 Stat. 382); that, in any event, the said act and joint resolution of Congress granted the Southern Pacific an equal, undivided moiety interest in all conflict lands within the limits of its main line grant, and that defendants' claim in this respect has not been determined, but is open for adjudication.

The defendants admit that, on the principle of priority of title with priority of granting act, the Atlantic & Pacific grant defeats the Southern Pacific's right and title to all conflict lands within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific's branch line grant, and that this question has been so determined in prior litigation. But the defendants claim that the Southern Pacific is entitled to select and receive patents for lands lying within the indemnity limits of either its branch line or main line grants and within the limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant, such lands having been restored to their original status as public lands, and therefore subject to such selection by the forfeiture act of July 6, 1886.

It is obvious that the first and most important inquiry is as to the right acquired by the Southern Pacific Company under the act of July 27, 1866, to the lands west of the Colorado river. The grant was in praesenti, and if, upon the definite location and construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad in 1885 from Mojave to a point on the Colorado river, where it connected with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, the odd-numbered sections of land along that line passed to the Southern Pacific Company under section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866, as of that date, then the Atlantic & Pacific acquired no interest in that part of the grant, and the act of July 6, 1886, forfeiting the lands granted to that company adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portions of the line of its track, did not affect any lands west of the Colorado river, and gave to the United States no right to assert any claim to such lands under the forfeiture act. This aspect of the case was necessarily involved in any controversy concerning whatever right the Atlantic & Pacific Company may have had in the lands in question. In other words, the claim of the Southern Pacific Company to any lands within the disputed territory of the Atlantic & Pacific grant west of the Colorado river compelled the United States to put in issue the entire title of the latter company to the lands within that territory. In the several cases that have been tried and determined between the parties, the United States have been the plaintiff's and have had the burden of presenting a clear title in support of the various actions. Hence we find the decisions of the Courts upon the issues thus presented dealing with the title of the Atlantic & Pacific Company, and not the title of the Southern Pacific Company. In the case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. United States, 168 U. S. 1, the Supreme Court makes this very plain when, after a review of all the questions involved in previous cases, it holds as a determination of the controversy that the maps filed by the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient as maps of definite location to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of July 27, 1866; that upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department, the rights of that company in the lands so granted attached by relation as of the date of that act, and that in view of the conditions attached to the grant and of the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the act of July 6, 1886, forfeiting the lands granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain, without the Southern Pacific Railroad Company having acquired any interest therein that affected the ownership of the United States. This declaration of the Court as to the character of the title held by the United States as against any claim asserted by the Southern Pacific Company is but a restatement of what was said in United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S. 570, 598. It was there said: "Congress intends no scramble between companies for the grasping of titles by priority of location, but that it is to be regarded as though title passes as of the date of the act, and to the company having priority of grant, and, therefore, that in the eye of the law it is now as though there never was a period of time during which any title to these lands was in the Southern Pacific."

It is no answer, therefore, to the claim of title presented by the United States in this case under the Atlantic & Pacific grant and its forfeiture by Congress, for the Southern Pacific Company to say that previous adjudications cannot be considered because it has a better title to the lands involved in this case than it had before in the other cases. The primary question is not what claim of title the Southern Pacific Company has to these lands, but what title the Atlantic & Pacific Company had to which the United States have succeeded, and upon which they now rest their claim of right. The plaintiffs present this title and the evidence in its support, and say upon this evidence in previous litigation between these parties this title has been declared to be valid, and under it the United States hold all the lands in dispute by title in fee simple absolute and unencumbered. Is not that sufficient, and the adjudication conclusive upon the questions at issue in the present case?

In Southern Pacific Railroad v. United States, 168 U. S. 1, the Court said: "The maps which in this case are relied upon by the United States as maps of definite location, and which the Southern Pacific Railroad Company denies to be of that character, are the identical maps which the Government relied on in the former cases, and the same which that company referred to and made part of its answer in the former litigation, and which were adjudged by this Court, in conformity with the contention of the Government, to be valid maps of definite location, the acceptance of which made it impossible for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to acquire any interest in any lands granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company that were forfeited to the United States by the act of 1886."

The effect of this adjudication upon the title of the plaintiffs is thus explained by the Court: "The general principle announced in numerous cases is that a right, question, or fact distinctly put in issue and directly determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, as a ground of recovery, cannot be disputed in a subsequent suit between the same parties or their privies; and even if the second suit is for a different cause of action, the right, question, or fact once so determined must, as between the same parties or their privies, be taken as conclusively established, so long as the judgment in the first suit remains unmodified. This general rule is demanded by the very object for which civil courts have been established, which is to secure the peace and repose of society by the settlement of matters capable of judicial determination. Its enforcement is essential to the maintenance of social order; for the aid of judicial tribunals would not be invoked for the vindication of rights of person and property if, as between parties and their privies, conclusiveness did not attend the judgments of such tribunals in respect of all matters properly put in issue and actually determined by them." Further on the Court applies this rule to the claim of the United States for the lands embraced by the maps of 1872. The Court says: "Even if we were prepared, upon a re-examination of the former cases, or upon the showing made by the present record, to hold that the maps of 1872 were not valid maps of definite location, we could not for that reason, in this proceeding, go behind the former adjudication, and deny to the United States the benefit of the rule making that adjudication, so long as it was unmodified, conclusive, as between the parties to it, of all matters actually determined under the issues in the prior suits."

The scope of these decisions of the Supreme Court cannot be mistaken. They were intended to dispose of all the questions in issue and make it perfectly clear that all the lands embraced within the primary and indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant between the Colorado river and San Buenaventura had been forfeited to the United States and restored to the public domain free from any claim whatever on the part of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and these decisions have been placed upon grounds that leave no room for the consideration of a claim of title based upon the theory that the Southern Pacific Company had acquired a right to the lands contemporaneously with the Atlantic & Pacific Company under section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company referred to in that section was at that time authorized by its charter to build a railroad from San Francisco through the counties of Santa Clara, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Los Angeles, and San Diego, to the town of San Diego, and thence eastward through the county of San Diego to the eastern line of the State, but that is a very different line of road from the one down the San Joaquin Valley through the Tehachapi Pass to Mojave, and thence eastward to The Needles on the Colorado river, the authority for the building of which under its charter was not obtained from the legislature of the State until April 4, 1870, and was not authorized by Congress until June 28, 1870; and then the resolution of Congress granting the authority expressly provided for the saving and reserving of all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and resolutions provided for in the third section of the act of July 27, 1866. Among the other conditions and restrictions contained in that section was the provision that the lands granted were those to which the United States had full title, and not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated. What effect this resolution had upon the original grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Company is not now open for consideration. The question was before the Court in the cases that have been determined, together with all the facts relating to the claim of the Southern Pacific Company to the grant of land between Mojave and the Colorado river, and was part of the case against plaintiff's title under the grant.

It follows that the claim now made that in any event the two companies take the lands within the conflicting lines in equal, undivided moities, must be considered as having been adjudicated and determined adversely to the claim of the Southern Pacific Company.

Nor is there any room for the consideration of a claim of title based upon any supposed rights arising out of a classification of lands under the different grants to the Southern Pacific Company. It appears, however, that lands claimed as belonging to the main line grant to that company were in fact involved in the case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. United States, 168 U. S. 1, and in a petition to the Supreme Court for a rehearing of the case that fact was pressed upon the attention of the Court as distinguishing that case from the former cases and calling for a different decree. But the Court evidently considered that the fact was sufficiently covered by the decision, and refused a rehearing. That question must therefore be considered as having been determined, and is now res judicata. The same disposition must be made of the claim that the right of the Southern Pacific Company to select lands within the indemnity limits is dependent upon the status of the land at the date of selection, and not at the date of the grant, and that when the forfeiture act restored the lands of the Atlantic & Pacific grant to the public domain, they became subject to selection by the Southern Pacific Company as indemnity for loss of land within the primary limits.

This question was before the Court in all the cases that have been determined, and the claim of the Southern Pacific Company to lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant has been considered and denied in all of them; and if, as the Supreme Court said in United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S. 570, 598, "In the eye of the law it is now as though there never was a period of time during which any title to these lands was in the Southern Pacific," it is difficult to see how the Southern Pacific Company has sustained any loss of lands within the primary limits of its main line grant on account of the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Company for which it may claim an indemnity out of the indemnity limits of the latter. If the Southern Pacific Company never had any right or title to lands within the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Company, then it never had any land in that territory to lose. This was one of the conditions and restrictions contained in section three of the act of July 27, 1866, and imposed upon the Southern Pacific Company by the joint resolution of Congress of June 28, 1870. It was expressly provided by section three that if the route of the Atlantic & Pacific grant be found upon the line of any other railroad route to aid in the construction of which lands had theretofore been granted by the United States as far as the routes were upon the same general line, the amount of land theretofore granted should be deducted from the amount granted by that act. The main line of the Southern Pacific having been located upon the same general line as that of the Atlantic & Pacific Company between The Needles and Mojave, it follows that the Southern Pacific Company has lost nothing upon that route. The law does not contemplate an indemnity for a loss which has never been sustained, and we think that the Supreme Court has so determined, and the controversy has been closed.

In The United States v. Colton Marble & Lime Co., 146 U. S. 615, the Supreme Court had before it the claim of the Southern Pacific Company's branch line for lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant. In disposing of this claim the Court held that the proviso in the act of March 3, 1871 (16 Stats. 573), granting lands in aid of the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad that the grant should "in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company," operated to exempt the indemnity lands of the Atlantic & Pacific Company from the grant to the Southern Pacific Company. This is clearly a final adjudication upon the claim of indemnity for the Southern Pacific branch line, as that was the specific claim involved in the case, and leaves no question to be determined in the present case with respect to any claim of the Southern Pacific Company to lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific grant.

The rights of the defendants other than the Southern Pacific Company, as mortgagees to secure the payment of certain mortgage bonds, have also been considered in the previous cases, and determined adversely to their claim.

The appeal of the United States in Case No. 495 raises the question as to the correctness of that part of the decree adjudging that certain lands therein described were, prior to the commencement of the suit, sold by the defendant the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons who purchased the same in good faith for value, and as to which lands it is adjudged that the United States take nothing by the decree. The Court below held that by the act of Congress of March 2, 1896 (29 Stats. at Large, 42), supplementing the act of March 3, 1887 (24 Stats. at Large, 556), such of the lands described in the bill as had been patented by the authority of the United States to and were sold by the defendant railroad company for value and in good faith, were thereby confirmed to such persons, whether such patents were issued prior to the commencement of the suit or subsequent thereto. United States v. Southern Pacific R. R. Co., 86 Fed. 962.

The act of March 3, 1887, provided for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and for the forfeiture of unearned lands. It required the Secretary of the Interior to immediately adjust, in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court, each of the railroad land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads theretofore unadjusted, and if it should appear upon the completion of such adjustments respectively, or sooner, that the lands had been, from any cause, theretofore erroneously certified or patented by the United States to or for the use or benefit of any company claiming by, through or under grant from the United States, to aid in the construction of a railroad, it was made the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to thereupon demand from such company a relinquishment or reconveyance to the United States of all such lands, whether within granted or indemnity limits, and if such company should neglect or fail to so reconvey such lands to the United States within ninety days after making the demand, then the Attorney-General was required to commence and prosecute in the proper Courts the necessary proceedings to cancel all patents, certificates or other evidence of title theretofore issued for such lands, and to restore the title thereof to the United States. The act also provided that as to such of the lands so erroneously certified or patented which had theretofore been sold by the grantee company to citizens of the United States, or to persons who had declared their intention to become such citizens, the person or persons so purchasing in good faith, and the heirs or assigns of such person or persons, should be entitled to the land so purchased upon making proof of the fact of such purchase at the proper land office, within such time and under such rules as should be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, after the respective grants should have been adjusted; and that patents of the United States should issue therefor, and should relate back to the date of the original certificate or patenting, and directing the Secretary of the Interior, on behalf of the United States, to demand payment from the company which had so disposed of such lands of an amount equal to the government price for similar lands; and in case of neglect or refusal of such company to make payment as specified in the act within ninety days after the demand, the Attorney-General was directed to cause suit or suits to be brought against such company for such amount, provided that nothing in the act should prevent any purchaser of lands erroneously withdrawn, certified, or patented, from recovering the purchase money therefor from the grantee company, less the amount paid to the United States by such company as by the act required.

The act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stats. at Large, 1093), provided that suits by the United States to vacate and annul any payment therefor issued should only be brought within five years from the passage of that act, and suits to vacate and annul patents thereafter issued should only be brought within six years after the date of the issuance of such patents.

The act of March 2, 1896 (29 Stats. at Large, 42), extended the time for bringing such suits, and provided, in section 1, that suits by the United States to vacate and annul any patent to lands therefor erroneously issued under a railroad or wagon-road grant, should only be brought within five years from the passage of that act, and suits to vacate and annul patents thereafter issued should only be brought within six years after the date of the issuance of such patents. And it was further provided: "But no patent to any lands held by a bona fide purchaser shall be vacated or annulled, but the right and title of such purchaser is hereby confirmed."

The question as to who are bona fide purchasers under this act was considered by the Supreme Court in United States v. Winona etc. R. R. Co., 165 U. S. 463, 477, and clearly described.

The Court said:

"Given a bona fide purchaser, his right and title is conferred, and no suit can be maintained at the instance of the government to disturb it."

The Court then proceeded to consider the question whether the holders of title in that case were bona fide purchasers, and said:

"It is earnestly contended by the government that the present holders of the title are not 'bona fide purchasers'; that that term has a fixed and well defined meaning as announced in the frequent decisions of this and other courts; that as said in 2 Pom. Eq. Jur., par. 745, 'The essential elements which constitute a bona fide purchaser are, therefore, three: a valuable consideration, the absence of notice, and presence of good faith.' United States v. California, etc. Land Co., 148 U. S. 31, 42; that while two of these essential elements may be found, to wit, a valuable consideration and the presence of good faith, the third, the absence of notice, is lacking; that all men are conclusively presumed to know the law and that as the true rule of construction in reference to these grants was laid down by this Court, the purchasers were bound to know such true rule; that the records of the land office disclosed the existence of these homestead entries and pre-emption filings, and therefore they who purchased from the railroad company knew, or at least were chargeable with knowledge of the fact that those lands could not rightfully have been certified to the railroad company, but were excepted from the terms of grant, and in fact remained the property of the government. It is further insisted that as Congress in this statute used this well-understood expression, it intended only the protection of such parties as came within the scope of this settled meaning. It is said that the only cases to be covered by this provision were those in which the State or the railroad company, by presentation to the land office before the filing of the map of definite location of a forged relinquishment by the pre-emptor, or one having made a homestead entry, or by some other fraudulent representation, secured a certification or patent to the tracts, and thereafter sold and conveyed to one who purchased in ignorance of the fraud.

"We are unable to agree with this contention of counsel, for several reasons: In the first place, the situation as it was known to exist, makes against any such narrow construction. While instances of such fraudulent conduct on the part of the State to which the lands were certified, or the company to which the lands were patented, might exist, yet in the nature of things they would be few and hardly worth the special notice of Congress, while on the other hand, the fact that there had been a difference between the land department and the Courts, one construction obtaining in the former prior to the decisions by the latter, and the further fact that by this difference of construction many tracts had been erroneously certified or patented, must have been well known to Congress, and naturally, therefore, a subject for its legislation. Further, there was no need of any legislation to protect a 'bona fide purchaser.' This had been settled by repeated decisions of this Court. United States vs. Burlington & Missouri River R. R. Co., 98 U. S. 334, 342; Colorado Coal Co. vs. United States, 123 U. S. 307, 313; reaffirmed in United States vs. California, etc. Land Co., 148 U. S. 31. For in each of those cases it was decided that although a patent was fraudulently and wrongfully obtained from the government, if the land conveyed was within the jurisdiction of the land department, the title of a bona fide purchaser from the patentee could not be disturbed by the government, so that this provision was absolutely unnecessary if that which is now claimed by counsel for the government is all that was intended by Congress. We do not mean to assert that because legislation to cover such a contingency was unnecessary, therefore the language used by Congress necessarily implies something other and different, because of course it may have been that Congress intended nothing but a simple declaration of the law as it was known to exist. At the same time, the fact that under one construction it was needless, raises a presumption that something more was intended, and that Congress had in view the protecton of other parties than were already protected by general law.

"But we need not rest on these inferences and presumptions. Other provisions of the acts of 1887 and 1896 make clear the intent of Congress. Section three of the act of 1887 provides that if the homestead or pre-emption entry of any bona fide settler has been erroneously canceled on account of any railroad grant, it may be reinstated, provided he has not located another claim, or made an entry in lieu of the one so canceled, and also did not voluntarily abandon such entry. By this section Congress provided for a reinstating of the title of one deprived thereof by an erroneous ruling of the Land Department, but at the same time limited the right of reinstating to cases in which the original entryman had not voluntarily abandoned his entry, or had not since that time made a new entry. In other words, it was limiting the restoration of the title of the original entryman to cases in which he had a continuing and present equitable right to recognition. As to all other cases, Congress reserved the determination of the equities between the government, the railroad company, and purchasers from the latter, and in subsequent sections it made provision for the adjustment of such equities.

"Section four of the same act, expressly referring to all other lands erroneously certified or patented to any railroad company, provides that citizens who had purchased such lands in good faith, should be entitled to the lands so purchased and to patents therefor issuing directly from the United States, and that the only remedy of the government should be an action against the railroad company for the government price of similar land. It will be observed that this protection is not granted to simply bona fide purchasers (using that term in the technical sense), but to those who have one of the elements declared to be essential to a bona fide purchaser, to wit, good faith. It matters not what constructive notice may be chargeable to such a purchaser, if in actual ignorance of any defect in the railroad company's title and in reliance of the action of the government in the apparent transfer of title by certification or patent, he has made an honest purchase of the lands. The plain intent of this section is to secure him the lands and to reinforce his defective title by a direct patent from the United States, and to leave to the government a simple claim for money against the railroad company. It will be observed that the technical term 'bona fide purchaser' is not found in this section, and while it is provided that a mortgage or pledge shall not be considered a sale so as to entitle the mortgagee or pledgee to the benefit of the act, it does secure to every one who in good faith has made an absolute purchase from a railroad company, protection to his title, irrespective of any errors or mistakes in the certification or patent.

"Section five of the same act applies to cases in which no certification or patent has issued, and yet the lands sold by the railroad company are the numbered sections prescribed in its grant, and co-terminous with the constructed portions of its road, and it is there provided that where the lands so sold by the company 'are for any reason excepted from the operation of the grant to said company,' the purchaser may obtain title directly from the government by paying to it the ordinary government price of such lands. It is true the term used here is 'bona fide purchaser,' but it is a bona fide purchaser from the company, and the description given of the land as not conveyed and 'for any reason excepted from the operation of the grant,' indicates that the fact of notice of defect of title was not to be considered fatal to the right. Congress attempted to protect an honest transaction between a purchaser and a railroad company, even in the absence of a certification or patent. These being the provisions of the act of 1887, the act of 1896 confirming the right and title of a bona fide purchaser and providing that the patent to his lands should not be vacated or annulled, must be held to include one who, if not in the fullest sense a 'bona fide purchaser,' has nevertheless purchased in good faith from the railroad company."

Under this decision there is no question but that the purchasers from the railroad company in this case were bona fide purchasers, and are fully protected by the statute.

We are further of the opinion that the bill of complaint did not call for the cancellation of the patents for the lands described. The bill alleged that the officers of the Interior Department had erroneously and without any authority of law caused to be issued to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company patents of the United States in due form of law, for the tracts of land described in plaintiffs' Exhibit "A" attached to the complaint. The prayer of the bill was that plaintiffs' title to the lands described in Exhibit "A" should be quieted, and that the pretended patents for said lands be vacated and decreed to be void, etc. The lands excepted from the decree as having been sold by the Southern Pacific Company to bona fide purchasers who purchased the same in good faith and for value, are not described in Exhibit "A," and were not therefore properly involved in the suit for the cancellation of patents.

The decree of the Circuit Court is affirmed.

} No. 494.

Assignment of Errors.

The above-named appellants, by the undersigned, their counsel and attorney, in connection with their petition on appeal herein, most respectfully show, that the decree of this Court herein is erroneous, and against their just rights, in the following particulars:

I.

This Court erred in deciding that the United States is the owner, by title in fee simple absolute, or the owner in anywise, of the lands, or any thereof, described in the affirmed decree of the Circuit Court as owned by the complainant; and in not adjudging that the complainant take nothing as to any of such lands. Because, as shown by the evidence:

First.—A large portion of the lands described in the affirmed decree of the Circuit Court as owned by the United States, are situated within the primary limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the Act of Congress approved July 27, 1886 (Vol. 14 U. S. Stats., p. 292), and Joint Resolution of Congress approved June 28, 1870 (Vol. 16 U. S. Stats., p. 382), and are not embraced by any exception to the grant of lands thereby made; and defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company duly constructed the railroad contemplated, and fully performed all the conditions imposed, by the said Act and Joint Resolution; and the railroad so constructed was duly accepted and approved by the proper officers of the United States. The defendants are, therefore, the owners by title in fee simple, absolute and indefeasible, of all the lands in this paragraph referred to.

Second.—Another large portion of the lands described in the affirmed decree of the Circuit Court as owned by the United States, are situated within the indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the Act and Joint Resolution of Congress mentioned in the next preceding paragraph, and are not embraced by any exception to the grant of lands thereby made; and all the odd-sections within the primary and indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by the said Act and Joint Resolution, not finally disposed of by the United States prior to July 27, 1866, are insufficient to make or equal the amount of land thereby granted to the said defendant company. For these reasons, and the other reasons set forth in the next preceding paragraph, the defendants are also the owners by title in fee simple, absolute and indefeasible, of all the lands referred to in this paragraph.

Third.—Some of the lands referred to in the next preceding paragraphs were duly selected by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, as indemnity lands granted to it by the said Act and Joint Resolution. As to which selected lands the defendants are, for the reasons hereinbefore set forth, entitled to the issue of patents from the United States to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and are also entitled to select, and receive patents for, all of the lands referred to in the "1st" and "2nd" paragraphs hereof, which remain unselected.

Fourth.—Another large portion of the lands described in the affirmed decree of the Circuit Court as owned by the United States, are situated within the indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1871 (Vol. 16, U. S. Stats., p. 573), and are not embraced by any exception to the grant of land thereby made; the said company duly constructed the railroad contemplated, and fully performed all the conditions imposed, by the last mentioned Act of Congress; the railroad so constructed was duly accepted and approved by the proper officers of the United States; and all the odd-sections, within the primary and indemnity limits of the land grant made to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the said Act of March 3, 1871, are insufficient to make or equal the amount of lands thereby granted. The defendants are, therefore, the owners by title in fee simple, absolute and indefeasible, of all the lands in this paragraph referred to.

Fifth.—Some of the lands referred to in the next preceding paragraph were duly selected by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, as indemnity lands granted to it by the said Act of March 3, 1871. As to which selected lands the defendants are, for the reasons set forth in the fourth paragraph hereof, entitled to the issue of patents from the United States to the defendant the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; and are also entitled to select, and receive patents for, all the lands referred to in the fourth paragraph hereof, which remain unselected.

Sixth.—The defendants, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, are trustees under a deed of trust duly executed on April 1, 1875, by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and the defendant Central Trust Company of New York is the trustee under a deed of trust, executed on August 25, 1888; which deeds of trust conveyed all the lands described in the said decree as owned by the United States, to secure the payment of, and out of the proceeds of the sale of the lands conveyed to redeem and pay, a large number of bonds issued and sold by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for several millions of dollars paid to it by numerous bona fide purchasers thereof, who still hold the bonds so purchased, unpaid. The said trustees are, therefore, bona fide purchasers of all the said lands so conveyed to them; and the defendants' title is expressly confirmed by the Act of March 2, 1896 (29 U. S. Stats., p. 42), to such of those lands as are covered by patents from the United States to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

II.

This Court erred in deciding that any patents issued by the United States to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for all, or any, of the lands described in the said decree as owned by the complainant, are, or should be, adjudged null, void or vacated; because, as shown by the evidence:

First.—Several of such patents are for lands referred to in the first paragraph of assignment I hereof, and were duly selected by the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, prior to the issue of such patents, as primary limits lands granted to the said company by the Act of July 27, 1866, and Joint Resolution of June 28, 1870, hereinbefore mentioned. For which reasons, and the other reasons set forth in the first paragraph of the said assignment I, such patents were duly and lawfully issued, and are valid.

Second.—Several other of such patents are for lands referred to in the second paragraph of assignment I hereof; and for the reasons set forth in the first, second and third paragraphs of the said assignment I, such patents were duly and lawfully issued, and are valid.

Third.—Several other of such patents are for lands referred to in the fifth paragraph of assignment I hereof; and for the reasons set forth in the fourth and fifth paragraphs of said assignment I, such patents were duly and lawfully issued and are valid.

Fourth.—All patents issued to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and adjudged null, void, and vacated by the said decree are for lands held by the trustee defendants in trust for bona fide purchasers and holders of outstanding bonds, under the trust deeds hereinbefore set forth; and for the reasons given in the sixth paragraph of assignment I hereof, the said trustees are bona fide purchasers of the land subject of all the patents adjudged, null, void, and vacated by the said decree. Wherefore such patents, and the title of the trustee defendants to the lands thereof, are confirmed by the Act of Congress approved March 2, 1896 (29 U. S. Stats., p. 42); and all of such patents are valid.

Fifth.—This suit was dismissed on January 7, 1898, on motion of counsel for the United States, in so far as it was a suit to cancel patents issued to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

III.

This Court erred in deciding that the defendants be enjoined or restrained from having or claiming any right, title or interest in, or lien upon, any or all of the lands described in the affirmed decree of the Circuit Court as owned by the United States; for the reasons given in assignment I and II hereof, and the several paragraphs thereunder.

IV.

For the reasons hereinbefore assigned, this Court erred in deciding that the complainant have and recover its costs of suit herein; and in not adjudging that the defendants have and recover their costs.

Wherefore appellants pray that the decree of this Court be reversed, excepting in so far as in affirming the decree of the Circuit Court, it adjudges that the complainant take nothing; and that the said Circuit Court be directed to enter a decree dismissing the bill of complaint of the United States herein.

To The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, Trustees, and the Central Trust Company of New York, Greeting:

You are hereby cited and admonished to be and appear at a United States Circuit Court of Appeals, for the Ninth Circuit, to be held at the city of San Francisco, in the State of California on the twenty-eighth day of November, A. D. 1898, pursuant to an order allowing an appeal entered in the Clerk's office of the Circuit Court of the United States of America, of the Ninth Judicial Circuit, in and for the Southern District of California, from a final decree made and entered on the sixth day of June, 1898, in that certain cause, being in equity, No. 600, wherein the United States of America are complainants and appellants and you are defendants and appellees, to show cause, if any there be, why the said decree rendered against said appellants as in the said order allowing the appeal mentioned, should not be corrected, and speedy justice should not be done to the parties in that behalf.

Witness, the Honorable MELVILLE W. FULLER, Chief Justice of the United States, this twenty-first day of November, A. D. 1898, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and twenty-third.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Complainants, vs. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS, and HOMER S. KING, Trustees, and CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Defendants.	No. 600.

Petition for, and Order Allowing Appeal.

To the Judges of the United States Circuit Court, Ninth Circuit:

The United States of America, conceiving themselves aggrieved by the decree made and entered herein on the sa ay of June, 1898, appeal from the said decree to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, and file herewith their assignment of errors, asserted and intended to be urged upon appeal, and they pray that their appeal may be allowed; and further pray that upon this appeal being allowed, that all proceedings in this cause may be stayed, pending such appeal.

And your petitioners further pray that in pursuance of the provisions of section 1013, United States Revised Statutes, and of section 11, of the act of Congress of March 3, 1891, establishing the Circuit Courts of Appeal, that the transcript of the record filed in the said Circuit Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit, by the defendants herein upon their appeal heretofore allowed, may be used by both parties, and that your petitioners may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases.

Dated this thirty-first day of October, 1898.

JOSEPH H. CALL,

Special Assistant United States Attorney and of Counsel for United States.

Order Allowing Same.

The foregoing petition for appeal by the United States and prayer for supersedeas are allowed and granted.

And it is further ordered that the transcript of the record filed in the said Circuit Court of Appeals by the defendants herein, upon their appeal heretofore allowed, may be used by both parties, and that this appeal of the United States may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases, and to the end that a full and complete transcript of the record shall be made and transmitted to said Circuit Court of Appeals, the clerk of this Court shall make and transmit to the said Circuit Court of Appeals in addition to the record filed by the defendants on their appeal, a true copy of the petition of the United States for appeal, their assignment of errors, the order allowing appeal and all other proceedings in the case, not included in the transcript of the record filed by the defendants, as aforesaid.

Assignment of Errors.

The United States, in connection with their petition for appeal therein, present and file therewith their assignment of errors, as to which matters and things they say that the decree entered herein on June 6, 1898, is erroneous, towit:

1. The Court erred in decreeing that the United States take nothing as to the lands, or any of them, adjudged by said decree to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith and for value, being the lands described on pages No. 15 to No. 20, inclusive, of said decree, except the southeast one-quarter of section 25, township 9 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino meridian, it appearing that said lands had been contracted to be sold by said railroad company to third persons upon partial payments, and that only a part of the purchase price had been paid, and that no sale had been completed or deed to any of said lands executed, prior to the commencement of this suit.

2. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owners and to quiet their title to the said lands or any of them.

3. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge that the defendants had no title or interest in said lands or any of them.

4. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of the legal title to said lands and of all interest and estate claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein, subject only to the equities in favor of said purchasers respectively to the equities in favor of said purchasers respectively to the amounts actually paid upon the purchase price.

5. The Court erred in adjudging that patents issued by the United States to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for said lands, pending this suit, granted to or conferred upon the defendants or any of them, any right, title or interest in said lands or any of them.

6. The Court erred in adjudging that said lands described aforesaid, or any of them, were sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith or for value.

7. The Court erred in adjudging that the terms of the contracts, under which said purchasers and each of them contracted to purchase said lands, did not carry notice to such purchasers, and each of them, of the right and title of the United States to said lands.

8. The Court erred in adjudging that its said decree shall not cancel or vacate any point issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands sold by it to a bona fide purchaser.

9. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge what title and rights the defendants before the Court had in said lands.

10. The Court erred in refusing to give the United States a decree for those lands adjudged to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company since November 22, 1889, the date of commer[illegible]ent of the suits in the cases reported in 146 U. S. 615-[illegible]9.

11. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and those in privity with that company, who contracted to purchase lands while the former suits reported in 146 U. S. 615-619, were pending, were not bound by the adjudications in those cases.

12. TheCourt erred in adjudging that any executory contract for the sale of land made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is valid as to any payment made thereon after notice to the purchaser of the rights of the United States.

Wherefore, the United States prays that said decree may be reversed in said particulars and that the United States be granted the relief therein set forth.

Assignment of errors.

The United States, in connection with its petition for appeal therein, presents and files therewith its assignment of errors, as to which matters and things it says that the decree entered herein on the day of October, 1899, is erroneous, to wit:

1. The court erred in decreeing that the United States take nothing as to the lands, or any of them, adjudged by said decree to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith and for value, being the lands described on pages No. 15 and No. 20, inclusive, of said decree, except the southeast one quarter of section 25, township 9 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino meridian, it appearing that said lands had been contracted to be sold by said railroad company to third persons upon partial payments, and that only a part of the purchase price had been paid, and that no sale had been completed or deed to any of said lands executed prior to the commencement of this suit.

15 2. The court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of and to quiet its title to the said lands, or any of them.

3. The court erred in refusing to adjudge that the defendants had no title or interest in said lands or any of them.

4. The court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of the legal title to said lands and of all interest and estate claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein, subject only to the amounts favor of said purchasers respectively to the equities in actually paid upon the purchase price.

5. The court erred in adjudging that patents issued by the United States to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for said lands, pending this suit, granted to or conferred upon the defendants, or any of them, any right, title, or interest in said lands or any of them.

6. The court erred in adjudging that said lands described aforesaid, or any of them, were sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith or for value.

7. The court erred in adjudging that the terms of the contracts, under which said purchasers and each of them contracted to purchase said lands, did not carry notice to such purchasers, and each of them, of the right and title of the United States to said lands.

8. The court erred in adjudging that its said decree shall not cancel or vacate any patent issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands sold by it to a bona fide purchaser.

9. The court erred in refusing to adjudge what title and rights the defendants before the court had in said lands.

16 10. The court erred in refusing to give the United States a decree for those lands adjudged to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company since November 22, 1889, the date of commencement of the suits in the cases reported in 146 U. S., 615-619.

11. The court erred in refusing to adjudge that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and those in privity with that company, who contracted to purchase lands while the former suits reported in 146 U. S., 615-619, were pending, were not bound by the adjudications in those cases.

12. The court erred in adjudging that any executory contract for the sale of land made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is valid as to any payment made thereon after notice to the purchaser of the rights of the United States.

Wherefore, the United States prays that said decree may be reversed in said particulars and that the United States be granted the relief sought.

(Endorsed:) Petition for appeal of U. S., assignment of errors, &c. Filed December 4, 1899, F. D. Monckton, clerk, U. S. circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit.

17 At a stated term, to wit, the October term, A. D. 1899, of the United States circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit, held at the court room, in the city and county of San Francisco, on Monday the fourth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine. Present, the Honorable William W. Morrow, circuit judge; Honorable John J. De Haven, district judge.

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, APPELLANT,
v.
THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, trustees, and the Central Trust Company of New York. } No. 495.

The petition for appeal by the United States and prayer for supersedeas are allowed and granted.

And it is further ordered that the transcript of the record filed in the Supreme Court by the defendants herein, upon their appeal heretofore allowed, may be used by both parties, and that this appeal of the United States may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases; and to the end that a full and complete transcript of the record shall be made and transmitted to said Supreme Court the clerk of this court shall make and transmit to the said Supreme Court, in addition to the record filed by the defendants on their appeal, a true copy of the petition of the United States for appeal, its assignment of errors, the order allowing appeal, and all other proceedings in the case not included in the transcript of the record filed by the defendants as aforesaid.

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, APPELLANT,
v.
THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, trustees, and the Central Trust Company of New York, appellees. } No. 495.

Certificate of clerk C. C. A. to transcript.

I, Frank D. Monckton, clerk of the United States circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit, do hereby certify the foregoing seventeen (17) pages, numbered from one (1) to seventeen (17), inclusive, to be a full, true, and correct copy of the transcript of the record, the order of submission, the decree, the petition for an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, the assignment of errors filed therewith, and the order allowing the appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States in the above-entitled cause, as the originals thereof appear of record in my office, the same being all proceedings in the case not included in the transcript of the record filed in the Supreme Court of the United States by the appellees herein upon their appeal heretofore allowed, and that the same together constitute the transcript of the record on appeal to the Supreme court of the United States in the above-entitled 19 cause in accordance with the order allowing the appeal of the United States and as requested and approved by the special United States attorney.

Attest my hand and the seal of said United States circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit, at San Francisco, California, this 21st day of December, A. D. 1899.

To the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, trustees, and the Central Trust Company of New York, greeting:

You are hereby cited and admonished to be and appear at a Supreme Court of the United States at Washington within sixty days from the date hereof, pursuant to an appeal allowed on behalf of the United States in open court on the fourth day of December, A. D. 1899, in the United States circuit court of appeals, ninth circuit, wherein the United States is plaintiff and appellant and you are defendants and appellees, to show cause, if any there be, why the decree rendered against the said appellant as in the said appeal mentioned should not be corrected and why speedy justice should not be done to the parties in that behalf.

Witness, the Honorable Melville W. Fuller, Chief Justice of the United States, this fourth day of December, A. D. 1899.

WM. W. MARVIN,
United States Circuit Judge and Presiding Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit.

APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT.

BRIEF FOR THE APPELLANTS.

Statement.

By the third section of the Act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, and entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast" (14

U. S. Stat., 292) lands were granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in aid of its projected line from the Town of Springfield, Missouri, to the Pacific Ocean (Act printed in full in Appendix, p. I).

By the 18th section of the same Act of Congress a contemporaneous grant of lands was made to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, of California, in aid of a road connecting with the proposed road of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company near the boundary line of the State of California, and running to San Francisco (Appendix, p. XIV.). This grant is known as the "Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant."

On the 28th of June, 1870, Congress passed a joint resolution approving the route indicated by the map filed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company on January 3, 1867, and making certain provisions as to the examination by the Secretary of the Interior of the various sections of the railroad when completed and as to the issuing of patents to said company for the lands granted by said Act of July 27, 1866 and coterminous to each constructed section of road (Appendix, p. XVI.).

By Section 23 of the Act of Congress approved

March 3, 1871, and entitled "An Act to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes" (16 U. S. Stat., 573), a grant of land was made to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California in aid of a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass by way of Los Angeles to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado River. This grant is known as the "Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant" and was made upon the like terms and conditions as the Main-Line Grant under the Act of 1866, above referred to, but subject to the proviso that it should "in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, or any other railroad company" (Appendix, p. XVII.).

All three of these grants (the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific, and the Main-Line and Branch-Line Grants to the Southern Pacific) were made upon the terms and conditions of the 3d section of the Atlantic and Pacific Act, which prescribed (in States) primary or granted limits ten alternate sections (i. e., twenty miles) in width on each side of the railroad line adopted by the Company, and indemnity limits extending ten miles beyond such primary limits.

The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company never built any portion of its projected railroad in the State of California, and on the 6th of July, 1886, an Act of Congress was passed (24 U. S. Stat., p. 123), forfeiting and restoring to the public domain the lands theretofore granted to said Railroad Company by the said Act of July 27, 1866 (Appendix, p. XVIII.).

After the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act of 1886, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company claimed in the Department of the Interior that (as the Atlantic and Pacific Company had ceased to have any claim thereto) it was entitled to the lands common to the primary limits of the two contemporaneous grants under the Act of 1866 to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company (Main-Line Grant), but Secretary Lamar held that the right of the Southern Pacific Company was only to a moiety of such lands (Appendix, p. XIX.).

It was further claimed in the Department of the Interior on behalf of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, both as to its Main-Line and Branch-Line Grants, that, upon the forfeiture of the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, the Southern Pacific Company was entitled to select, in lieu of its losses within the primary limits of its Main or Branch Line grants, any of the lands which had been restored by such Forfeiture Act to the public domain, upon the principle that the right of the grantee in respect of indemnity lands depended entirely upon the status of such lands at the date of selection.

The United States thereupon, and on May 14, 1894, filed in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of California the bill of complaint in this suit against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and other defendants seeking to quiet the title of the United States to the lands restored to the public domain by the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act, and to restrain the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from making any claim thereto (Rec., p. 8).

The lands involved in this suit are the sections of land designated by odd numbers within thirty miles on each side of the located route of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad as shown by the maps filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Company in the General Land Office (except those lands embraced in then pending suits of the United States against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company) (Rec., p. 36), and the prayer of the bill is "that the defendants be perpetually enjoined from having or claiming any right, title or interest in or to said lands from, through or under said acts of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, or March 3, 1871, or the joint resolution of Congress approved June 28, 1870" (Rec., p. 37).

The case was tried before the Honorable ERSKINE M. ROSS, United States Circuit Judge for the Southern District of California, and on the 6th day of June, 1898, a final decree was entered in the cause enjoining and restraining the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from having or claiming any right, title, interest or lien in or to any of the lands referred to in the bill of complaint, and the title of the United States to said lands was quieted, with the exception of the lands embraced in then pending suits brought by the United States against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and excepting, also, lands which, prior to the commencement of this suit, were sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons, who purchased the same in good faith and for value, as to which lands it was adjudged that the United States should take nothing (Rec., p. 336 et seq.).

Judge Ross in his opinion does not enter into any discussion of the issues raised by the pleadings in the cause, but merely holds that they are no longer open questions because of previous decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. He says (at page 366 of the Record):

> "These grants were the subjects of full consideration in cases heretofore brought in this Court and finally determined on appeal by the Supreme Court of the United States: United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 570; United States vs. Colton Marble and Lime Co. and United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 615; and Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1. In my opinion those decisions of the Supreme Court determined that the Southern Pacific Company by its grants acquired no interest or right in or to any of the odd-numbered sections of land embraced within the granted or indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and mortgaged none of its codefendants."

From the final decree of June 6, 1898, an appeal was taken by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and its co-defendants to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit (Record, p. 600); and on October 2, 1899, a decree was entered in said Court affirming the decree below (Record, p. 2672).

From the decree of said Circuit Court of Appeals of October 2, 1899, the present appeal to this Court has been taken (Record, p. 2680).

Assignment of Errors.

The Circuit Court of Appeals erred:

I. In not reversing the decree of the Circuit Court made and entered herein on June 6, 1898, and directing the said Court to render a decree dismissing the bill of the United States.

II. In deciding that the United States are the owners by title and fee simple absolute, or the owners in anywise, of the lands, or any of them, in controversy, and described in the pleadings and in the decree of the Circuit Court herein.

III. In deciding that the defendants and appellants, each of them, be enjoined and restrained from having or claiming any right, title, interest or lien in or to the lands, or any of them, in controversy, and described in the pleadings and in the decree of said Court herein.

IV. In deciding that the defendants and appellants were not entitled to a moiety in that part of the lands in controversy which is common to the place limits of the grant to the Alantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and the place limits of the Main-Line Grant of the Southern Pacific Company, under the contemporaneous grants to the two companies by the Act of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast."

V. In deciding that the defendants and appellants were not entitled to all lands within the primary limits of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant which also fell within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, the two grants being contemporaneous grants under the said Act of Congress approved July 27, 1866.

VI. In deciding that the defendants and appellants were not entitled by reason of the grant under the said Act of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, to select lands which were within the indemnity limits of the Main Line Southern Pacific Grant, and which prior to the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act had not been selected by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, notwithstanding that such lands had formerly been also within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant.

VII. In deciding that the defendants and appellants were not entitled to select lands within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits, under either its Main-Line or Branch-Line Grants, notwithstanding that such lands had formerly been within the place or indemnity limits of said Atlantic and Pacific Grant.

THE DECISIONS IN THE FORMER CASES.

It is important that the Court should have well in mind the questions which have already been decided by this Court in previous cases relating to the Southern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific Grants, as well as the questions which are presented upon this appeal, and before taking up the argument of this case we deem it useful to state in some detail the gist of the decisions in United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 570; United States vs. Colton Marble and Lime Co., and United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 615, and Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1.

THE CASE OF UNITED STATES VS. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, 146 U. S., 570:

The lands in controversy in this case were lands common to the primary or place limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant and of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant. (It is to be observed that no such controversy arises in this case, which, so far as Southern Pacific place lands are concerned, is limited entirely to the place lands under the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant, which was contemporaneous with the Atlantic and Pacific Grant and not in anywise subsequent thereto. The difference in the principles applicable to the place lands under the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant of 1866 and to the place lands under the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant of 1871 is too obvious to require further comment.)

This case in 146 U. S. simply held that the prior grant to the Atlantic and Pacific in 1866 and the subsequent Branch-Line Grant to the Southern Pacific in 1871 were grants in præsenti, and that upon the filing by the Atlantic and Pacific in April, 1872, of its map of definite location, the title to its place lands attached as of July 27, 1866, the date of its granting act, which was over five years before the date of the Branch-Line Grant to the Southern Pacific. In other words, the title to the place lands under the Atlantic and Pacific grant was to be deemed to have passed to that Company in 1866, and remained its property until the Forfeiture Act of 1886. This Court further held that, upon the restoration of the Atlantic and Pacific place lands to the public domain, the Branch-Line Grant to the Southern Pacific, so far as its place lands were concerned, was in no way affected or extended, and that, if the latter had no claim before the Act of Forfeiture to such restored lands falling within its place limits, it had none thereafter.

CASES OF UNITED STATES VS. COLTON MARBLE AND LIME COMPANY, AND UNITED STATES VS. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, 146 U. S., 615:

The lands involved in these cases were within the place limits of the Southern Pacific Branch Line under the Act of 1871 and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Company. (It is sufficient for the present to say that there is no controversy in the present case in regard to any land within the place limits of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant.)

The decision of this case was put upon the single ground that the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant of 1871 was made upon the express condition that it should "in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company," and that, by the use of the word "prospective," Congress intended that lands falling within the Atlantic and Pacific indemnity limits—that is, lands to which it had a prospective right of selection—should not be subject to be taken as place lands under the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant.

In the course of the opinion Mr. Justice BREWER was very careful to point out that the question would have been very different if the Southern Pacific had been claiming the right to select indemnity lands under its Branch-Line Grant of 1871 from the lands of the Atlantic and Pacific grant which had been restored to the public domain by the Forfeiture Act of 1886. At page 618 he said:

> "It must be borne in mind that these lands were in the granted limits of the Southern Pacific, and that they are not lands in respect to which that company would have a right of selection, and might defer the exercise of that right until such time as suited it. Being within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific, all its rights thereto vested at once, at the time of the filing of the map of definite location, and were not and could not be added to after that time; everything it could have in those lands it had then, and at that time there was an existing prospective right on the part of the Atlantic and Pacific Company to make a selection."

CASE OF SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY VS. UNITED STATES, 168 U. S., 1:

As appears from the opinion of Mr. Justice HARLAN, the only lands to which any claim was made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in this case, and the only lands as to which the Court gave any consideration in coming to its decision, were the lands within the limits of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant under the Act of 1871. That is, the case did not relate in any way to the lands covered by the Main-Line Grant under the Act of 1866. At page 29 he said:

"The Southern Pacific Railroad Company constructed the road thus contemplated, and claims that the lands here in dispute passed to it under the above Act of 1871."

Again at page 46 it was said:

"The lands now in controversy are situated opposite to and are coterminous with the first, second and fourth sections of the Southern Pacific Railroad as constructed between 1873 and 1877, inclusive, and within the primary and indemnity limits of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the 23d section of the Texas and Pacific Act of March 3, 1871."

It is no doubt true that a part of the land embraced within the limits of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant was also included within the limits of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant, as by reason of the proximity of the two lines at certain points the lands granted to them overlap. It was not known at the time the case in 168 U. S. was brought or tried that the Southern Pacific had title under the Main-Line Grant (as well as the claim which it, in fact, asserted in the suit under the Branch-Line Grant) to a small portion of the lands embraced in that suit, and this fact was not observed until that case was being prepared for argument upon appeal.

The suit was brought by the United States to quiet its title to the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific lands which were also within the limits of the Branch-Line Grant to the Southern Pacific under the Act of 1871. The pleadings of both parties were framed to meet this issue alone. No claim to the lands embraced in the suit was asserted under the Main-Line Grant. The evidence taken in the case related only to the rights of the Southern Pacific under the Act of 1871. Furthermore, the cases were argued on appeal upon the theory that this was the sole issue in the case, and the Court undertook to decide such question only and nothing else.

The decision of this Court was that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was concluded by the decisions of the Court in 146 U. S., and that under the settled principles of res judicata it was too late for it to undertake to reopen the question of whether the map filed with the Land Department in 1872 by the Atlantic and Pacific was a map of "definite" location or a map of "general or preliminary route."

It is to be noticed that the cases reported in 146 U. S. all relate solely to the Branch-Line Grant to the Southern Pacific under the Act of 1871; and as the case in 168 U. S., now being discussed, was decided upon the ground that the land grants involved therein were the same as the land grants in controversy in the cases in 146 U. S., it is most persuasive evidence that the Court in this case understood that the controversy before it related only to the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant under the Act of 1871.

In other words, the decisions in the Southern Pacific Railroad cases in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S. relate only to the land grant to the Southern Pacific under the Texas Pacific Act of 1871, and such decisions did not, and did not pretend to, determine any question in regard to the Southern Pacific land grant under the Act of 1866, known as the "Main-Line Grant."

The two facts to be kept in mind in regard to the cases in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S. are:

FIRST. That the only lands in controversy in the cases in 146 U. S. were lands within the place limits of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant.

SECOND. That the case in 168 U. S. was decided solely upon the ground that the only questions raised therein had been decided adversely to the railroad company in the cases in 146 U. S.

FIRST POINT.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company is entitled to a moiety of the conflicting place lands granted to it and the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company under the Act of 1866.

The lands involved in this point are shown in red on Map 1.

It is the well-established doctrine of this Court that when lands are granted by the same Act of Congress to aid in the construction of two railroads, which lands necessarily overlap, each grantee takes as of the date of the grant an equal undivided moiety of the lands within the conflicting place limits of the two roads.

In the case of the Sioux City, &c., Railroad vs. United States, 159 U. S., 349, it appeared that the land grants to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company and to the Sioux City & St. Paul Railroad Company were under the same Act of Congress of May 12, 1864, and it was there held that the railroads took the lands common to the place limits of the two grants as tenants in common. Mr. Justice HARLAN, who delivered the opinion of the Court, said at page 364:

MAP(S) IS/ARE TOO LARGE TO BE FILMED

"The rule is well settled that when lands are granted by acts of Congress of the same date, or by the same act, to aid in the construction of two railroads that must necessarily intersect, or which are required to intersect, each grantee—the map of definite location having been filed and accepted—takes, as of the date of the grant, an equal undivided moiety of the lands within the conflicting place limits, without regard to the time of the location of the respective lines.

* * * * *

"The grants for the Sioux City and Milwaukee roads were by the same act. Of the granted sections in place limits common to both roads each company, having filed its map of definite location, took, as of the date of the grant, an equal undivided moiety—no more. The equal undivided moiety granted for one road was not granted, nor could it be used, for the other road. Congress knew when it passed the Act of 1864 that there would be an overlapping of place limits at the required point of intersection of the two roads."

In Donahue vs. Lake Superior Canal, &c., Co., 155 U. S., 386, it appeared that by the Act of Congress of June 3, 1856, grants of land were made in aid of the construction of two railroads, one from Marquette to the State line, and one from Ontonagon to the State line. These grants were bestowed by the State of Michigan separately upon the two companies. Subsequently the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, the beneficial owner of both the Marquette and Ontonagon grants, released the title to the lands within these grants to the State of Michigan. The State of Michigan, however, by its Legislature, authorized a release only of the lands granted in aid of the construction of the Marquette road. It was held by this Court that upon the location of the Ontonagon and Marquette railroads the lands within their conflicting place limits were held by them in undivided moieties, and that, upon the release of the title to these lands to the State and the release by the State to the United States of the Marquette grant only, a novel condition "resulted, in that it left the State and the United States joint owners, each holding the title to an undivided moiety of this body of lands." Notwithstanding the novelty of the situation it was decided that the State and the United States were joint owners of the lands in controversy upon the ground that conflicting place lands under contemporaneous grants are equally divided between the grantees. The syllabus of the case upon this point is as follows:

> "As the land in controversy is near the crossing of two lines that had received separate grants, it is further subject to the rule that where two lines of road are aided by land grants made by the same act, and the lines of those roads cross or intersect, the lands within the 'place' limits of both at the crossing or intersection do not pass to either company in preference to the other, no matter which line may be first located or built, but pass in equal undivided moieties to each."

In Sioux City Railroad vs. Chicago Railway, 117 U. S., 406, the question came up as to the rights of the railway companies in land within the place limits common to the two grants, which were under the same Act of Congress, and it was held that they took this land in equal undivided moieties. At page 409 of his opinion Mr. Justice MILLER said:

> "Of the lands in controversy there were $50{,}539\,^{73}/_{100}$ acres within the ten-mile limits of both roads. This the decree of the Circuit Court held to belong to the companies in equal undivided moieties, and appointed commissioners to make partition of them. This part of the decree was upon the principles we have stated correct, and must be affirmed."

In the case of St. Paul Railroad vs. Winona Railroad, 112 U. S., 720, it was held that:

> "When the acts of Congress in such cases [land grants] are of the same date, or grants are made for different roads by the same statute, priority of location gives no priority of right; but, where the limits of the primary grants which are settled by the location conflict, as by crossing or lapping, the parties building the roads under those grants, take the sections, within the conflicting limits of primary location, in equal undivided moieties, without regard to priority of location of the line of the road, or priority of construction." (Syllabus.)

There is, of course, no question but that the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company received grants of land in aid of their respective railroads under the same Act of Congress. The Atlantic and Pacific grant was under the third section of the Act of 1866 (Appendix, p. VI.). The Southern Pacific grant, known as the "Main-Line Grant," was under the eighteenth section of the same act (Appendix, p. XIV.). The grants are therefore contemporaneous, and, under the rule of this Court referred to, it is plain that the grantees thereunder became entitled to an undivided one-half interest in all the conflicting lands within the place limits of both grants.

It was certainly the understanding of the officers of the Interior Department that the United States, by reason of the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act, became the joint owners with the Southern Pacific of the place lands common to both the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant and the Atlantic and Pacific Grant; and on the 25th of November, 1887, Secretary Lamar instructed Commissioner Stockslager to notify the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to that effect (VI. L. D., 349). We have printed the letter in full at page XIX. of the appendix to this brief, and we quote only the following paragraphs:

> "The Southern Pacific Company located its main line January 3, 1867, and by the terms of the grant its right immediately attached to every odd section of land, not of the character excepted by the grant, and within the ten-mile limit, subject, however, to be divested to the extent of a half interest in every such odd section that might fall within the common limits of both roads, after the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company.

"The Atlantic and Pacific Company filed its map of definite location April 11, 1872, and April 16, 1874, showing that the primary or granted limits of said road overlapped and conflicted with the primary or granted limits of a portion of the Southern Pacific road. As to the lands falling within the granted limits of both roads, the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company, showing such conflict, immediately divested the Southern Pacific Company of the right and title of a half interest in all such odd sections, and from that moment and by that act the two companies became entitled to equal undivided moieties in such sections, without regard to the priority of location of the line of the road, or priority of construction, the right of each company relating back to the date of the grant. St. Paul and Sioux City R. R. Co. vs. Winona and St. Paul R. R. Co. (112 U. S., 720); Sioux City R. R. Co. vs. Chicago R. R. Co. (117 U. S. 406).

"The interest of the Atlantic and Pacific Company having been forfeited to the United States, the effect of said forfeiture was to make the United States a tenant in common with the Southern Pacific Company as to the lands, and therefore all the odd sections within said limits should still remain in reservation until a partition thereof has been made."

Secretary Lamar was simply following the rule to which we have referred to the effect that the grantees under the same Act of Congress of lands within the primary limits of grants in aid of railroads, which necessarily intersect or run in close proximity upon parallel courses, take such lands as tenants in common, which rule had for the first time been definitely announced by this Court about two years before in the case of St. Paul Railroad vs. Winona Railroad, 112 U. S., 720.

We know of no reason to doubt that the effect of the Forfeiture Act of 1886 was correctly stated by Secretary Lamar. This Act undertook to forfeit and restore to the public domain only the interest of the Atlantic and Pacific in the lands acquired under the Act of 1866, and such interest as to the place lands common to the two grants under said act was simply an undivided one-half interest therein. The claim now made by the Southern Pacific is not to anything which the Southern Pacific would not have been equally entitled to if the Forfeiture Act had not been passed. The Southern Pacific is not seeking any enlargement of the grant to it under the Act of 1866 by reason of the Forfeiture Act of 1886. It is simply insisting that the right and title to this land which it had before the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act has not been taken from it because of such act. In other words, the contention now made is that the Southern Pacific had an undivided one-half interest in this land prior to the Act of 1886, and that such interest could not be taken from it by any act which sought simply to forfeit the interest of the Atlantic and Pacific, and that the only result of such forfeiture act was to substitute the United States in place of the Atlantic and Pacific Company as the tenant in common with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of such land.

Just what answer can be made to this proposition is not at all obvious. The only reason given by the Court below, why this claim was not sustained, was that it was res judicata because of the decisions in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S., which have been before referred to. At page 2660 of the record the Circuit Court of Appeals said:

> " It follows that the claim now made that in any event the two companies take the lands within the conflicting lines in equal, undivided moieties, must be considered as having been adjudicated and determined adversely to the claim of the Southern Pacific Company."

We respectfully submit that this Court has never made any such adjudication or determination, and will not do so now.

As we have already pointed out, it was never supposed that any of the place or indemnity lands of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant were involved in any of the previous litigations arising between the parties to this cause, until it was discovered upon the argument upon appeal in the case reported in 168 U. S. that the Southern Pacific might properly have claimed title under the Main-Line Grant to a small portion of the lands involved in that suit, but there treated only in their relation to the Branch-Line Grant. The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in the present cause, however, seems to show that no place lands of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant were in controversy in the case in 168 U. S., 1, for at page 2652 of the record it is said in the opinion of the Court below, in describing the lands involved in the case in 168 U. S., 1, after stating the kinds of lands covered by the Branch-Line Grant, that:

> "In addition to these lands [Branch-Line lands] there were lands within the primary limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant and the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant.

"It will be observed that the lands involved in these various suits embraced all the four classifications of land in conflict between the Atlantic and Pacific Grant and the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant, and that in the last case there is a classification of land in conflict between the Atlantic and Pacific Grant and the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant."

It is very evident from the foregoing concise statement by the Circuit Court of Appeals in regard to the lands involved in the cases reported in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S., that that Court recognized that as a matter of fact there was no claim to place lands of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant involved therein, even though, as above stated, there were involved in the case in 168 U. S., 1, a small amount of land in respect to which a claim might have been (but was not) asserted under the provisions of the Main-Line Grant. That being so, it is not clear how it can be said that the question whether the place lands common to the Atlantic and Pacific and Southern Pacific Main-Line Grants belonged to the two railroads as tenants in common as of the date of the granting act (which is the question now before the Court) has been, or could ever have been, adjudicated in any previous litigation between the parties to this cause.

The theory by which the Circuit Court of Appeals arrived at the conclusion that the prior decisions of this Court were a bar to any consideration by it of this question of a moiety in the common place lands of the Atlantic and Pacific and Southern Pacific Main-Line Grants seems to have been (if we have comprehended it rightly) that this Court considered the cases from the aspect of what title the United States had acquired to the lands in the Atlantic and Pacific grant by the Forfeiture Act of 1886, and that, having decided that the United States had acquired a title to a portion of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, it must be deemed to have so decided as to the balance of the land within the Atlantic and Pacific grant, although the conditions and circumstances in regard to the balance of the land were very different. In other words, the Court below has decided that, because this Court has held that X as against Y is entitled to lot A, therefore X as against Y is entitled to lot B.

As we understand it, the doctrine of res judi- cata has never yet been extended so far as to hold that, where a man claims the possession and ownership of a tract of land under two separate titles, and an action of ejectment is brought against him as to a portion of the tract, and he sets up in his answer only one of his titles thereto and is defeated, he is thereafter estopped and in any way precluded in a subsequent action of ejectment in regard to another portion of the tract of land from setting up the other title under which he claims to own the land.

The rule was declared by Mr. Justice SHIRAS in the case of Roberts vs. Northern Pacific Railroad, 158 U. S., 1, 27, as follows:

> " It is apparent, therefore, that the q estion or point actually litigated in the State Court was not the same with those before the Federal Court, and hence, as the causes of action in the two courts were not the same, the judgment in the State Court, while it might determine the controversy between the parties to it as respects the pieces of land there in question, could not be conclusive in another action upon a different claim or demand."

In the much-cited case of Cromwell vs. County of Sac, 94 U. S., 351, it was held that a plaintiff who had been defeated in one action upon coupons cut from county bonds because he failed to show that he was a bona fide holder for value, was not precluded from showing, in a subsequent action brought to recover on other coupons cut from the same bonds, that he was such bona fide holder for value of such other coupons. Mr. Justice FIELD, in the course of his opinion, said at pages 352, 353 and 356:

> "In considering the operation of this judgment, it should be borne in mind, as stated by counsel, that there is a difference between the effect of a judgment as a bar or estoppel against the prosecution of a second action upon the same claim or demand and its effect as an estoppel in another action between the same parties upon a different claim or cause of action. In the former case the judgment, if rendered upon the merits, constitutes an absolute bar to a subsequent action. * * *
>
> "But, where the second action between the same parties is upon a different claim or demand, the judgment in the prior action operates as an estoppel only as to those matters in issue or points controverted, upon the determination of which the finding or verdict was rendered. In all cases, therefore, where it is sought to apply the estoppel of a judgment rendered upon one cause of action, to matters arising in a suit upon a different cause of action, the inquiry must always be as to the point or question actually litigated and determined in the original action, not what might have been thus litigated and determined. Only upon such matters is the judgment conclusive in another action. * * *

" It is not believed that there are any cases going to the extent that, because in the prior action a different question from that actually determined might have arisen and been litigated, therefore such possible question is to be considered as excluded from consideration in a second action between the same parties on a different demand, although loose remarks looking in that direction may be found in some opinions. On principle, a point not in litigation in one action cannot be received as conclusively settled in any subsequent action upon a different cause, because it might have been determined in the first action."

In Last Chance Mining Co. vs. Tyler Mining Company, 157 U. S., 683, Mr. Justice BREWER said at page 687 :

" The law in respect to estoppel by judgment is well settled, and the only difficulty lies in the application of the law to the facts. The particular matter in controversy in the adverse suit was the triangular piece of ground, which is not the matter of dispute in this action. The judgment in that case is therefore not conclusive in this as to matters which might have been decided, but only as to matters which were in fact decided."

To the same effect are the following cases:

Davis vs. Brown, 94 U. S., 423.
Nesbit vs. Riverside Independent District, 144 U. S., 610.
Wilmington & Weldon R. R. Co. vs. Alsbrook, 146 U. S., 279, 302.
Keokuk and Western Railroad vs. Missouri, 152 U. S., 301, 314, 415.

The foregoing cases would seem to show conclusively that the failure to assert a defense in one action did not preclude the party from setting it up in a subsequent action between the same parties, if the matter in controversy in the subsequent action was different from that involved in the first action.

THE RELATION OF JOINT RESOLUTION OF 1870 TO THE LANDS COVERED BY MAIN LINE GRANT:

It is stated in the opinion of the Court below that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at the time of the passage of the Act of July 27, 1866, was not authorized by its State charter to build a road from Mojave to the Needles, and that it did not obtain such authority from the State Legislature until April 4, 1870 (Record, p. 2659). The argument is then suggested, but is in no way made the basis of any conclusion of the Court, that, as the State in 1866 had not authorized the Southern Pacific to build the road in the counties through which it afterward passed, therefore it was not in a position to take advantage of the land grant under the Act of Congress of 1866.

It is not at all clear why it should ever have been supposed that any authorization by a State Legislature was necessary in the case of a grant by the United States, but the question would seem to be put entirely at rest by the decision of this Court in California vs. Pacific Railroad Co., 127 U. S., 1, 44, where it was distinctly held that the Act of the State Legislature of April 4, 1870, was entirely unnecessary, and that the franchise to build the road was fully conferred upon the Southern Pacific by the Act of Congress of July 27, 1866. At page 44 of the opinion, Mr. Justice BRADLEY, speaking for the Court, said:

> "An examination of the acts referred to in these findings shows that Congress authorized the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, at such point near the boundary line of the State of California, as it should deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco; and, to aid in the construction of such a railroad line, Congress declared that the company should have similar grants of land, and should be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic and Pacific. Like powers were also given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to construct a line of railroad from Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific road at the Colorado River (Fort Yuma). The Southern Pacific Company was not authorized by its original charter to extend its railroad to the Colorado River, as we already know by other cases brought before us, and as appears by the act of the State Legislature passed April 4, 1870, which assumed to authorize the company to change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the State; thus duplicating the power given to it by the Act of Congress (see the State act quoted in 118 U. S., p. 399). This State legislation was probably procured to remove all doubts with regard to the company's power to construct such roads. It is apparent, however, that the franchise to do so was fully conferred by Congress, and that franchise was accepted, and the roads have been constructed in conformity thereto."

It would seem unnecessary to argue this question further. Our proposition simply is that the question of whether the United States by the Forfeiture Act of 1886 acquired title to all the place lands common to the Atlantic and Pacific Grant and the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant under the Act of 1866, or only to an undivided moiety thereof, has never in any way directly or indirectly been presented to any Court prior to the case at bar; that this Court, by its previous decisions in regard to the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S., in which it held that said Forfeiture Act was not for the benefit of the Southern Pacific, never intended to be understood as saying that land not belonging to the Atlantic and Pacific, but being at the time of the act the property of the Southern Pacific, was forfeited by such act and restored to the public domain; and that we are not precluded by any prior decisions of this Court from having the question now presented for consideration examined and determined upon its merits.

MAP(S) IS/ARE TOO LARGE TO BE FILMED

SECOND POINT.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company is entitled to all lands within the PLACE limits of its MAIN-Line Grant, which also fall within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant.

The lands covered by this point are shown in red upon Map 2.

It would seem entirely unnecessary to discuss this question, as it has been squarely decided by this Court that when there are grants to two railroad companies under the same Act of Congress, and place lands under one grant conflict with indemnity lands under the other grant, the railroad company whose place lands fall within the overlap, is entitled to them exclusively, and the railroad company within the indemnity limits of which the lands are situated has no interest in or claim to them.

This question came up in Sioux City Railroad vs. Chicago Railway, 117 U. S., 406. In the court below the land within the place limits of the Sioux City road and the indemnity limits of the Milwaukee road had been divided equally between the two companies. This Court, however, reversed the decree below in this respect, and decided that the Sioux City road was entitled to all the land within its place limits which at the same time fell within the indemnity limits of the Milwaukee road. Mr. Justice MILLER, in speaking of the lands in controversy, said at page 409:

> "1. Of these, 63,796 $^{24}/_{100}$ acres are within the ten-mile limit of the Sioux City road, and not within the ten-mile limit of the Milwaukee road, though they are within its twenty-mile limit. * * *
>
> "The principles we have stated, and which were fully considered in The St. Paul Company vs. The Winona Company, exclude the Milwaukee Company in this case from invading the ten-mile limit of the Sioux City road to seek indemnity for losses by reason of lands within its own ten-mile limit previously disposed of. This 63,796$^{24}/_{100}$ acres, being odd sections within the ten-mile limit of the Sioux City road and not within the ten-mile limit of the Milwaukee road, belonged exclusively to the former, and the latter company had no interest in them. The decree is in that respect erroneous, and must be reversed, and all these lands given to the Sioux City Company."

Again in the same case, when the position was reversed, it was held that land within the place limits of the Milwaukee Company and the indem- nity limits of the Sioux City Company belonged exclusively to the former company, and that the Sioux City Company had no interest therein. As to this it was said in the opinion at page 409:

> "2. Of the lands in controversy there were $33,071^{8}/_{100}$ acres within the ten-mile limit of the Milwaukee road, and not within the ten-mile limit of the Sioux City road, but within its twenty-mile limit, which, according to the ruling of the Circuit Court, were equally divided between the two companies. * * * For the same reasons which govern with regard to the $63,796^{24}/_{100}$ acres just disposed of, this part of the decree must be reversed and these $33,071^{8}/_{100}$ acres given to the Milwaukee Company."

One of the questions in the case of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Ry. Co., XI. L. D., 607, was as to the title of lands within the primary limits of the grant to the Wisconsin Central, which were also within the indemnity limits of the Omaha Company. The grants to the two railroads were contemporaneous, and under the Act of Congress of May 5, 1864 (13 U. S. Stat., 365). It was held by Secretary Noble, at page 609, as follows:

> "But as to the conflict between the primary limits of the Wisconsin Central and > the twenty miles indemnity limits of the Omaha Company the rule is different. Both companies deriving their grant from the same act, the Wisconsin Central is clearly entitled to the land in question, without regard to either priority of location or construction. This rule is well settled."

It has already been held by the Interior Department that the very lands now in question were unaffected by the Forfeiture Act of 1886, as appears by Secretary Lamar's letter to Acting-Commissioner Stockslager, of November 25, 1887, in which he stated that the Commissioners had decided that:

> "The lands within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific main line and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, are not affected by said act of forfeiture" (Appendix, p. xx.).

If, prior to the Forfeiture Act of 1886, the Southern Pacific was entitled absolutely to all lands within its place limits which happened to conflict with lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, and if the latter company had no interest in or claim to such lands whatever (as would seem to be well settled by the foregoing decisions) of course the vested right of the Southern Pacific in such land could not be taken from it by an Act of Congress which forfeited and purported to forfeit only the rights and interests of the Atlantic and Pacific therein. If said land did not belong to the Atlantic and Pacific at the time of the Forfeiture Act and said company had no interest therein how can it be seriously argued that by such Forfeiture Act the land was taken away from the Southern Pacific and restored to the public domain?

It is idle for the counsel for the Government to say that the Southern Pacific is now estopped from raising this question upon the ground that it has been already adjudicated against it in the cases in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S.

There was no claim to place lands under the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant involved in any of those cases, so that it was impossible that this matter should be adjudicated, and, furthermore, this Court has never in any case overruled its prior decisions upon the subject above referred to. Under the decision in the Sioux City Case in 117 U. S., 406, the Southern Pacific is unquestionably entitled to the place lands within its main-line grant which are in conflict with the Atlantic and Pacific indemnity lands. This case has never been overruled or its doctrine modified, but the decision of the Court in that case is the law on that subject to-day. The Court neither in 146 U. S. nor in 168 U. S. has held the contrary, or in anywise modified the doctrine of that case. It must have completely reversed it if the question now before this Court upon this point is res judicata against the Southern Pacific Company. As was said in Holmes vs. Oregon & Cal. R. R. Co., 7 Sawy., 380, 399: "It cannot be supposed that it was the intention to overrule long established principles without even mentioning the cases in which they were elaborately discussed and established." We therefore respectfully submit that the plea of res judicata is without avail as to the claim that the Southern Pacific is entitled to all lands within the place limits of its main-line grant which happen to also fall within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, and that we are entitled to have this question considered and determined without any regard to the prior decisions of this Court in 146 U. S. and 168 U. S.

MAP(S) IS/ARE TOO LARGE TO BE FILMED

THIRD POINT.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company is entitled to select as indemnity under its Main-Line Grant lands within the indemnity limits of that grant, notwithstanding that such lands are also within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant.

The lands involved under this point are shown in red on Map 3.

While it is established law that lands within the common primary limits of contemporaneous grants to two railroads which intersect or run in close proximity to one another are to be equally divided between them, it is at the same time equally well settled that in the case of the common indemnity lands of two such roads no rule of the sort applies, and as between them the one which makes the first selection from their common indemnity limits is entitled thereto.

In St. Paul Railroad vs. Winona Railroad, 112 U. S., 720, it was held that:

> "When the acts of Congress * * * are of the same date, or grants are made for different roads by the same statute * * * in case of lands to be selected in lieu of those within the limits of primary > location, which have been sold or pre-empted before the location is made, where the limits of selection interfere or overlap, * * * neither priority of grant, nor priority of location, nor priority of construction, gives priority of right; but this is determined by priority of selection when the selection is made according to law."

The doctrine that the title to indemnity lands remained in the United States until selection and approval has been recognized by this Court in an unbroken line of decisions.

In the case of New Orleans and Pacific Railway vs. Parker, 143 U. S., 42, it was said by Mr. Justice BREWER at page 57 that:

> "As to lands within the indemnity limits, it has always been held that no title is acquired until the specific parcels have been selected by the grantee and approved by the Secretary of the Interior."

In United States vs. Missouri, etc. Railway, 141 U. S., 358, Mr. Justice HARLAN again stated the rule as follows at page 374:

> "As to lands which may legally be taken for purposes of indemnity, the principle is firmly established that title to them does not vest in the railroad company for the benefit of which they are contingently granted, but, in the fullest legal sense, remains in the United States until they are actually selected and set apart under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior specifically for indemnity purposes."

In Wisconsin Railroad Company vs. Price County, 133 U. S., 496, 512, Mr. Justice FIELD, who delivered the opinion of the Court, said:

> "Until the selections were approved there were no selections in fact, only preliminary proceedings taken for that purpose; and the indemnity lands remained unaffected in their title. Until then the lands which might be taken as indemnity were incapable of identification; the proposed selections remained the property of the United States. The Government was, indeed, under a promise to give the company indemnity lands in lieu of what might be lost by the causes mentioned. But such promise passed no title, and, until it was executed, created no legal interest which could be enforced in the courts. The doctrine that until selection made no title vests in any indemnity lands has been recognized in several decisions of this Court."

In Barney vs. Winona, etc., Railroad, 117 U. S., 228, Mr. Justice FIELD, at page 232, said:

> "In the construction of land-grant acts in aid of railroads there is a well-established distinction observed between 'granted lands' > and 'indemnity lands.' The former are those falling within the limits specially designated, and the title to which attaches when the lands are located by an approved and accepted survey of the line of the road filed in the Land Department, as of the date of the Act of Congress. The latter are those lands selected in lieu of parcels lost by previous disposition or reservation for other purposes, and the title to which accrues only from the time of their selection."

We have, therefore, this situation: If there had been no Forfeiture Act of 1886, the Southern Pacific would be in a position to select from the common indemnity limits of the two grants any land not theretofore selected by the Atlantic and Pacific. Such right was in existence at the date of said act of forfeiture, and the question is whether such right of the Southern Pacific was forfeited by an act which, so far as unselected Atlantic and Pacific indemnity lands were concerned must be deemed to have been passed solely to forfeit the right of the Atlantic and Pacific to make such selection.

It is unnecessary to elaborate at any great length this proposition. The mere statement of it would seem enough. On July 5, 1886, the Southern Pacific had an undisputed right as against the Atlantic and Pacific to select indemnity lands from the indemnity limits common to the two grants. Did the Southern Pacific lose that right on July 6, 1886, by an act which did not undertake to forfeit any rights of the Southern Pacific, but forfeited only rights of the Atlantic and Pacific?

It can hardly be seriously argued that a forfeiture act is ever to be given a force and effect beyond its terms. It is construed as strictly as any penal act, and we have not yet found or been referred to any decision which says that an act which by its terms forfeits, and which was intended to forfeit, only A's rights in certain lands, can by any possibility be construed as forfeiting B's rights in such lands also.

It is impossible to say that there is any prior decision of this Court which is a bar to the raising of this question in the present case. There were no indemnity lands of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant involved in the cases in 146 U. S. It is true that a claim might have been set up under the indemnity clause of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant to a small amount of land which was in controversy in the case in 168 U. S., but no such claim was set up or adjudicated. The lands referred to were at the same time embraced in the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant; they were claimed under that grant alone, and it was entirely with relation to their situation as Branch-Line Grant lands, that the claims of title thereto were made in the pleadings, and the case tried, argued, considered and decided. There is certainly not a word in any decision of this Court in 146 U. S. or 168 U. S. which goes to show that this Court ever considered or decided the question whether an act forfeiting one man's rights in land can be held to forfeit the rights of another having an independent claim thereto, or that, if the Court ever did consider such a proposition, it decided it in the affirmative. Such is the real question here so far as the indemnity lands are concerned which are common to the two contemporaneous grants under the Act of 1866.

Suppose the land within A, B, C and D upon the opposite diagram to be land common to the indemnity limits of the two grants under the Act of 1866, and that at the date of the Forfeiture Act section X thereof had been selected by the Atlantic and Pacific and such selection approved by the Secretary of the Interior, section Y by the Southern Pacific, and section Z by neither of the Companies. The result of the passage of the Act of 1886 would, we take it, have been to restore section X to the public domain, to have left section Y as it found it, and to have left section Z as it was so far as the rights therein of the Southern Pacific were concerned, but to have taken from the Atlantic and Pacific its right to ever exercise a right of selection in regard thereto.

In other words, the Forfeiture Act of 1886 forfeited only the land selected by the Atlantic and Pacific and the right of selection of the Atlantic and Pacific in the unselected land within the indemnity limits of its grant, and did not undertake or pretend to forfeit whatever right of selection the Southern Pacific had in such land.

FOURTH POINT.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company is entitled to select from the place and indemnity lands of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, which have been actually restored to the public domain by the Act of 1886, any lands which are within its own indemnity limits, whether under its Main or Branch Line Grant, to supply losses within its Main and Branch line place limits.

This question is entirely apart from the right of the Southern Pacific (1) to a moiety of the lands common to the place limits of the two grants under the Act of 1866, (2) to all the lands within its Main-Line place limits which also fall within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, and (3) to select lands within the indemnity limits common to the two grants under the Act of 1866.

The point which we now make is that a railroad is entitled to select indemnity lands from any lands within its indemnity limits which at the time of selection are public lands.

The lands which are involved in the discussion of this branch of the case are:

1. Lands common to the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Main-Line Grant and either the place or indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, which are shown in red on Map 4.

2. Lands common to the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant and either the place or indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, which are shown in red on Map 5.

As we understand it, the case of Ryan vs. Railroad Co., 99 U. S., 382, is on all fours with the case at bar. In the Ryan case the land in controversy was within the indemnity limits of the grant in aid of the California and Oregon Railroad Company under the Act of July 25, 1866 (14 Stat., 239). At the time of the grant to the railroad company the land was not public land, but was claimed to be within the boundaries of a prior Mexican grant. Between the date of the granting act and of the selection of the land by the railroad, and about a year prior to such selection, this Court held the Mexican grant invalid, and the land was thereby restored to the public domain. It was decided that, whereas the rights of the company under such a grant, in respect to lands within primary limits, depend upon the status of the lands, as public lands or otherwise, at the date of the act and the time of definite location, the rights to lands within indemnity limits depend upon their status, as public lands or otherwise, at the date of selection.

The Court in the Ryan case especially distinguished it from Newhall vs. Sanger, 92 U. S., 761, where the land restored to the public domain was within the primary or granted limits of the company, and at the time of the grant thereof and its location was affected by an adverse claim, so that the railroad was not capable of taking title thereto. The Court in the Ryan case said at page 388:

> "It was within the secondary or indemnity territory where that deficiency was to be supplied. The railroad company had not and could not have any claim to it until specially selected, as it was, for that purpose. It was taken to help satisfy the grant to the extent that the odd sections originally given failed to meet its requirements. When so selected there was no Mexican or other claim impending over it. It had ceased to be sub judice and was no longer in litigation. It was as much 'public land' as any other part of the national domain. The patent gave the same title to the appellee that a like patent for any other public land would have given to any other party. The Mexican claim when condemned lost its vitality. From that time, as regards the future, it ceased to be a factor to be considered, and was in all respects as if it had never existed. In this state of things the appellee acquired its title, and that title is indefeasible."

So in the present case the land within the indemnity limits of the two Southern Pacific Grants, which was also embraced within both the primary and indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, is now, since the Forfeiture Act of 1886 (except so far as the indemnity rights of the Southern Pacific therein are concerned), as much a part of the public domain of the United States as any of the land of the United States. The right of the Southern Pacific to select such lands within its indemnity limits is entirely unaffected by the past history of that land. It is as if the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific "had never existed." The question is: What is that land now, when selection is sought to be made? Is it now public land or not? If it is now public land, it is of no importance whatever what parties in the past may have had claims or rights thereto, and it would seem absolutely immaterial whether the title to such land had formerly been claimed under a Mexican title thereafter declared void (as in the Ryan case), or under a grant of the United States subsequently declared to be forfeited, as in the case at bar.

In Alabama and Chattanooga R. R. Co., XX. L. D., 408, it appeared that the land in question had been taken under a homestead entry at the time the railroad made application to select the same as within its indemnity limits. The claim under the homestead entry was afterwards relinquished to the United States, "thus leaving the question wholly between the company and the United States" as to whether the railroad was entitled to the land after its restoration to the public domain. Secretary Smith held that:

> "While the selection in question could not properly have been allowed at the time made by reason of Morton's entry, yet it now appears that such entry never ripened into a patent, but was relinquished to the United States. That being true, I see no reason why the selection may not now be approved."

In Southern Pacific R. R. Co., XXVI. L. D., 452, it was held by Secretary Bliss that:

> "Lands excepted from the grant to the Southern Pacific by homestead entries that were existing at the date when the grant took effect may be taken on behalf of said grant in lieu of mineral lands, if at the date of selection such entries have been canceled, and the lands are free from other claims or rights" (Syllabus).

Since the Ryan case the decisions of the Department of the Interior have been invariably to the effect that the status of lands within indemnity limits at the time of selection determines entirely the right of the railroad thereto.

In Allers vs. Northern Pacific R. R. Co., 9 L. D., 452 (1899), Secretary Noble held that:

"A tract is not excluded from indemnity selection by reason of its being within the primary limits of another grant, if it is in fact vacant public land at date of selection and otherwise subject to such appropriation."

In Northern Pacific R. R. Co. vs. Halvorson, 10 L. D., 15 (1890), Secretary Noble held that:

"The right to select indemnity is not defeated by the fact that the land is within the primary limits of another grant, if the land is excepted from such grant and vacant public land at date of selection."

In Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. vs. Beal, 10 L. D., 504 (1890), Secretary Noble held that:

"Prior to selection, the right to indemnity lands is only a float; and the right acquired by selection is dependent upon the status of the lands at date of selection, and not at date of withdrawal."

In Northern Pacific R. R. Co. vs. Moling, 11 L. D., 138 (1890), Secretary Noble held that:

"The right to select a tract as indemnity under a railroad grant is not defeated by the mere fact that the selection is within the primary limits of another grant, if the tract is vacant public land at date of selection."

In Hensley vs. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., 12 L. D., 19 (1891), Secretary Noble held that:

> "The right to take a tract of land as indemnity is determined by its status at the date of selection, and not at date of withdrawal."

In Northern Pacific R. R. Co. vs. Bass, 13 L. D., 201 (1891), Acting Secretary Chandler held that:

> "The mere fact that a tract is within the geographical limits of another grant will not defeat the right to select the same as indemnity, if it is otherwise subject to selection."

In Hastings and Dakota Ry. Co. vs. St. Paul, M. & M. Ry. Co., 13 L. D., 535 (1891), Acting Secretary Chandler held that

> "The right acquired by an indemnity selection is dependent upon the status of the land at date of selection."

In St. Paul, M. & M. R. Co. vs. Munz, 17 L. D., 288 (1893), Secretary Smith held that:

> "A tract of land within the primary limits of one grant and the indemnity limits of another, may be selected by the latter, on proper basis, if excepted from the grant to the former, and free from other claims at date of selection."

In South and North Alabama R. R. Co. vs.

Hall, 22 L. D., 273 (1896), Secretary Smith held that:

> "The status of indemnity lands at the date of selection, not definite location of the road, determines the right of the company thereto."

In Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. McKinley, 22 L. D., 493 (1896), Secretary Smith held that:

> "The right of a railroad company to take a tract of land as indemnity must be determined by the status of such tract at the date of the application to select the same."

It may be said by counsel for the Government that Bardon vs. Northern Pacific Railroad, 145 U. S., 535, is in conflict with the doctrine of the Ryan case. We do not so understand it. In the Bardon case the land in controversy was within the place limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. At the time the railroad took title to its place lands, the land involved was not public land, and was excepted from the grant for the reason that it had been taken up on a pre-emption claim, and the only question before the Court was whether, upon the restoration to the public domain of lands within the place limits of a railroad grant, which were reserved at the time of the grant, such lands fell within the grant. It was then held that the land in question could not be acquired by the railroad as part of its place lands for the reason that it "was severed from the mass of public lands from which the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company could alone be satisfied" by the terms of the granting act, which gave to the railroad for its place limits ten alternate sections of land "not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights, at the time the line of said road is definitely fixed." In other words, the Court held that at the time the road of the Northern Pacific was definitely fixed the land involved was pre-empted. It did not, therefore, then fall within the grant of place lands, and could not thereafter by reason of the cancellation of the pre-emption claim, because it was too late, the grant of the place lands by its terms only taking effect as of a certain time—viz., when the line of road was definitely fixed, which was prior to the cancellation of the claim.

It was at the same time held that the land so restored to the public domain could not be taken by the railroad as indemnity land to make up a deficiency within the place limits for the sole reason that such deficiency could only be supplied from land within the limits expressly specified by Congress.

It is hard to conceive that anyone could seriously consider that the Bardon case in any way conflicts with the doctrine of the Ryan case above quoted. It may be that the counsel for the Government will make the same quotation from the decision in the Bardon case which he did in the court below, which was from page 545 as follows:

> "Not only does the land once reserved not fall under the grant should the reservation afterwards from any cause be removed, but it does not then become a source of indemnity for deficiencies in the place limits."

If counsel had quoted the succeeding sentence, he would have found the reason well stated as to why such lands could not be taken as a source of indemnity. It was that "such deficiencies can only be supplied from lands within limits designated by the granting act or other law of Congress." That is to say, all lands which are taken to supply a deficiency in the place limits of a railroad grant must be taken from the indemnity limits of that grant and from no other lands. The land involved in the Bardon case was not within such indemnity limits, and therefore could not be considered a "source of indemnity."

It would, therefore, seem very clear that this Court did not undertake to decide in the Bardon case that, if the pre-empted land in question had been within the indemnity limits of the Northern Pacific grant, and the pre-emption claim had been canceled subsequent to the granting act, the railroad would not have been entitled to select such land as indemnity land after its restoration to the public domain. The only possible inference from the case is that, if such question had been before it for determination, it would have decided that the railroad was entitled to make such selection, for the sole reason given by the Court why the land after restoration to the public domain could not be taken as indemnity land was that it was not situated within the indemnity limits granted to the railroad company, implying that, if it had been within such indemnity limits, the railroad company would have been entitled to it after it had been restored to the public domain, although it was not public land at the time of the grant.

The Ryan case has since its decision always been referred to with approval by this Court and is now established law. The decisions of the Interior Department have ever since the Ryan case been in accord therewith. We, therefore, respectfully submit that the Southern Pacific is now entitled to select from within the indemnity limits of both Main and Branch Line Grants the lands of the Atlantic and Pacific which were restored to the public domain by the Forfeiture Act of 1886.

The Government will perhaps contend that the question of the right of the Southern Pacific under its Branch-Line Grant to select lands from its indemnity limits which were restored to the public domain by the Act of Forfeiture of 1886 has already been adjudicated against the Railroad Company, and that all discussion of such question is precluded by the decision of this Court in Southern Pacific Railroad vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1.

It is no doubt true that in the case referred to a part of the land in controversy was within the indemnity limits of the Branch-Line Grant to the Southern Pacific, but in that case there was no discussion whatever of the question whether lands within the indemnity limits of a railroad grant, which were reserved at time of the grant, but subsequently restored to the public domain, could after such restoration be selected by the Railroad Company in lieu of losses within the primary limits. No such question was presented to the Court or considered by it, and the sole ground of the decision was that the Southern Pacific was estopped from raising the questions involved in the case because of the decisions of the Court reported in 146 U. S.

Turning to such decisions we find that there were no indemnity lands of the Southern Pacific involved therein. The cases in 146 U. S. related entirely to place lands of the Southern Pacific Branch-Line Grant and their conflict with Atlantic and Pacific place lands (146 U. S., 570) and indemnity lands (146 U. S., 615), and the question decided therein was that the Atlantic and Pacific had filed a good and sufficient map of definite location and had a title to its place lands as of the date of the granting act (Act of July 27, 1866), and that upon the forfeiture of such lands the Southern Pacific could not take title thereto under its primary or place grant, as whatever it was entitled to thereunder was the land free from any claim at the time of filing the map of definite location of the road in accordance with the decision of this Court in Newhall vs. Sanger, 92 U. S., 761.

We have already quoted from Mr. Justice BREWER'S decision in 146 U. S., 615, 618 for the purpose of showing how careful the Court was to indicate that such decision was limited entirely to the place lands of the Branch-Line Grant as distinguished from the indemnity lands, and we now cite from it again as follows:

> "It must be borne in mind that these lands were in the granted limits of the Southern Pacific, and that they are not lands in respect to which that company would have a right of selection, and might defer the exercise of that right until such time as suited it. Being within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific, all its rights thereto vested at once, at the time of the filing of the map of definite location, and were not and could not be added to after that time; everything it could have in those lands it had then, and at that time there was an existing prospective right on the part of the Atlantic and Pacific Company to make a selection."

The question now before the Court, which was squarely decided in our favor in the case of Ryan vs. Railroad Co., 99 U. S., 382, was therefore never by any possible view of the matter before the Court in the cases in 146 U. S.; and, as the case in 168 U. S. was decided solely upon the ground that all questions therein had been determined in the cases in 146 U. S., it is obvious that the right of the Southern Pacific to select under its indemnity clause and from within its indemnity limits the Atlantic and Pacific lands restored to the public domain by the Act of 1886 has never been passed upon and decided by this Court, but that, on the contrary, a very similar, if not identical, right in favor of the Central Pacific was conceded by this Court in the Ryan case.

Ladd, J. R. Moores, Walter Monteith, John Kelly, B. F. Dowell, of Oregon; James L. Johnson, Henry Connelly, Franciscus Perea, of New Mexico; J. H. Mills, A. P. K. Safford, E. S. Davis, of Nevada; King S.

Woolsey, William H. Hardy, Coles Bashford, of Arizona; Henry D. Cook, of the District of Columbia; and all such other persons who shall or may be associated with them, and their successors, are hereby created and erected into a body corporate and politic, in deed and in law, by the name, style, and title of the "Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company," and by that name shall have perpetual succession, and shall be able to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, defend and be defended, in all courts of law and equity within the United States, and may make and have a common seal. And said corporation is hereby authorized and empowered to lay out, locate and construct, furnish, maintain and enjoy, a continuous railroad and telegraph line, with the appurtenances, namely: Beginning at or near the Town of Springfield, in the State of Missouri, thence to the western boundary line of said State, and thence by the most eligible railroad route as shall be determined by said Company to a point on the Canadian River; thence to the Town of Albuquerque, on the River Del Norte, and thence by way of the Agua Frio, or other suitable pass, to the headwaters of the Colorado Chiquito, and thence along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude, as near as may be found most suitable for a railway route to the Colorado River, at such point as may be selected by said Company for crossing; thence by the most practicable and eligible route to the Pacific. The said Company shall have the right to construct a branch from the point at which the road strikes the Canadian River eastwardly along the most suitable route as selected to a point in the western boundary line of Arkansas, at or near the Town of Van Buren. And the said Company is hereby vested with all the powers, privileges and immunities necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act as herein set forth. The capital stock of said Company shall consist of one million shares of one hundred dollars each, which shall in all respects be deemed personal property, and shall be transferable in such manner as the laws of said corporation shall provide. The persons hereinbefore named are hereby appointed commissioners, and shall be called the "Board of Commissioners of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company," and fifteen shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The first meeting of said board of commissioners shall be held at the Turner Hall, in the City of St. Louis, on the first day of October, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-six, or at such time within three months thereafter as any ten commissioners herein named from Missouri shall appoint, notice of which shall be given by them to the other commissioners by publishing said notice in at least one daily newspaper in the cities of Boston, New York, Cincinnati, Saint Louis, Memphis and Nashville, once a week for at least four weeks previous to the day of meeting. Said board shall organize by the choice from its number of a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, and they shall require from said Treasurer such bonds as may be deemed proper, and may from time to time increase the amount thereof, as they may deem proper. The Secretary shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duties, and such oath shall be entered upon the records of the company, signed by him, and the oath verified thereon. The president and secretary of said boards shall, in like manner, call all other meetings, naming the time and place thereof. It shall be the duty of said board of commissioners to open books, or cause books to be opened, at such times and in such principal cities or other places in the United States as they or a quorum of them shall determine, within twelve months after the passage of this act; to receive subscriptions to the capital stock of said corporation, and a cash payment of ten per centum on all subscriptions, and to receipt therefor. So soon as ten thousand shares shall in good faith be subscribed for, and ten dollars per share actually paid into the treasury of the company, the said president and secretary of said board of commissioners shall appoint a time and place for the first meeting of the subscribers to the stock of said company, and shall give notice thereof in at least one newspaper in each State in which sub-n books have been opened, at least fifteen days previous to the day of meeting, and such subscribers as shall attend the meeting so called, either in person or by lawful proxy, then and there shall elect, by ballot, thirteen directors for said corporation; and in such election each share of said capital stock shall entitle the owner thereof to one vote. The president and secretary of the board of commissioners, and, in case of their absence or inability, any two of the officers of said board shall act as inspectors of said election, and shall certify, under their hands, the names of the directors elected at said meeting. And the said commissioners, treasurer and secretary shall then deliver over to said directors all the moneys, properties, subscription books and other books in their possession, and thereupon the duties of said commissioners and the officers previously appointed by them shall cease and determine forever, and thereafter the stockholders shall constitute said body politic and corporate. Annual meetings of the stockholders of the said corporation for the choice of officers (when they are to be chosen), and for the transaction of business, shall be holden at such time and place and upon such notice as may be prescribed in the by-laws.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the right of way through the public lands be, and the same is hereby, granted to the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, for the construction of a railroad and telegraph as proposed, and the right, power and authority is hereby given to said corporation to take from the public lands adjacent to the line of said road material of earth, stone, timber, and so forth, for the construction thereof. Said way is granted to said railroad to the extent of one hundred feet in width on each side of said railroad where it may pass through the public domain, including all necessary grounds for station buildings, workshops, depots, machine shops, switches, side-tracks, turn-tables and water stations; and the right of way shall be exempt from taxation within the Territories of the United States. The United States shall extinguish, as rapidly as may be consistent with public policy and the welfare of the Indians, and only by their voluntary cession, the Indian title to all lands falling under the operation of this act and acquired in the donation to the road named in the act.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there be, and hereby is, granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, for the purpose of aiding in the construction of said railroad and telegraph line to the Pacific Coast, and to secure the safe and speedy transportation of the mails, troops, munitions of war and public stores over the route of said line of railway and its branches, every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile, on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the Territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any State, and whenever, on the line thereof, the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office; and whenever, prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted, or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections and not including reserved numbers: Provided, That if said route shall be found upon the line of any other railroad route, to aid in the construction of which lands have been heretofore granted by the United States, as far as the routes are upon the same general line, the amount of land heretofore granted shall be deducted from the amount granted by this act: Provided, further, That the railroad company receiving the previous grant of land may assign their interest to said "Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company," or may consolidate, confederate and associate with said company upon the terms named in the first and seventeenth sections of this act: Provided, further, That all mineral lands be, and the same are hereby, excluded from the operations of this act, and in lieu thereof a like quantity of unoccupied and unappropriated agricultural lands in odd-numbered sections nearest to the line of said road, and within twenty miles thereof, may be selected as above provided: And provided, further, That the word "mineral," when it occurs in this act, shall not be held to include iron or coal: And provided, further, That no money shall be drawn from the Treasury of the United States to aid in the construction of the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That whenever said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company shall have twenty-five consecutive miles of any portion of said railroad and telegraph line ready for the service contemplated, the President of the United States shall appoint three commissioners to examine the same, who shall be paid a reasonable compensation for their services by the Company to be determined by the Secretary of the Interior; and if it shall appear that twenty-five consecutive miles of said road and telegraph line have been completed in a good, substantial and workmanlike manner, as in all other respects required by this act, the commissioners shall so report under oath to the President of the United States, and patents of lands, as aforesaid, shall be issued to said company, confirming to said company the right and title to said lands situated opposite to and coterminous with said completed section of said road. And from time to time, whenever twenty-five additional consecutive miles shall have been constructed, completed and in readiness as aforesaid, and verified by said commissioners to the President of the United States, then patents shall be issued to said company conveying the additional sections of land as aforesaid, and so on as fast as every twenty-five miles of said road is completed as aforesaid.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad shall be constructed in a substantial and workmanlike manner, with all the necessary draws, culverts, bridges, viaducts, crossings, turnouts, stations and watering places, and all other appurtenances, including furniture and rolling stock, equal in all respects to railroads of the first class when prepared for business, with rails of the best quality, manufactured from American iron. And a uniform gauge shall be established throughout the entire length of the road. And there shall be constructed a telegraph line of the most substantial and approved description, to be operated along the entire line: Provided, That the said company shall not charge the Government higher rates than they do individuals for like transportation and telegraphic service. And it shall be the duty of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company to permit any other railroad which shall be authorized to be built by the United States, or by the Legislature of any Territory or State in which the same may be situated, to form running connections with it, on fair and equitable terms.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States shall cause the lands to be surveyed for forty miles in width on both sides of the entire line of said road after the general route shall be fixed, and as fast as may be required by the construction of said railroad; and the odd sections of land hereby granted shall not be liable to sale or entry, or pre-emption, before or after they are surveyed, except by said company, as provided in this act; but the provisions of the act of September, eighteen hundred and forty-one, granting pre-emption rights, and the acts amendatory thereof, and of the act entitled "An Act to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain," approved May twenty, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, shall be, and the same are hereby, extended to all other lands on the line of said road when surveyed, excepting those hereby granted to said company.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company be, and is hereby, authorized and empowered to enter upon, purchase, take and hold any lands or premises that may be necessary and proper for the construction and working of said road, not exceeding in width one hundred feet on each side of the line of its railroad, unless a greater width be required for the purpose of excavation or embankment; and also any lands or premises that may be necessary and proper for turnouts, standing places for cars, depots, station-houses, or any other structures required in the construction and working of said road. And the said company shall have the right to cut and remove trees and other material that might, by falling, encumber its roadbed, though standing or being more than two hundred feet from the line of said road. And in case the owner of such lands or premises and the said company cannot agree as to the value of the premises taken, or to be taken, for the use of said road, the value thereof shall be determined by the appraisal of three disinterested commissioners, who may be appointed upon application by either party to any court of record in any of the Territories in which the lands or premises to be taken lie; and said commissioners, in their assessment of damages, shall appraise such premises at what would have been the value thereof if the road had not been built. And upon return into court of such appraisement, and upon the payment into the same of the estimated value of the premises taken for the use and benefit of the owner thereof, said premises shall be deemed to be taken by said company, which shall thereby acquire full title to the same for the purposes aforesaid. And either party feeling aggrieved at said appraisement may, within thirty days after the same has been returned into court, file an appeal therefrom, and demand a jury of twelve men to estimate the damage sustained; but such appeal shall not interfere with the rights of said company to enter upon the premises taken, or to do any act necessary and proper in the construction of its road. And said party appealing shall give bonds, with sufficient surety or sureties, for the payment of any cost that may arise upon such appeal; and, in case the party appealing does not obtain a verdict more favorable, such party shall pay the whole cost incurred by the appellee, as well as his own, and the payment into court, for the use of the owner of said premises taken, at a sum equal to that finally awarded, shall be held to vest in said company the title of said lands, and of the right to use and occupy the same for the construction, maintenance and operation of said road. And in case any of the lands to be taken, as aforesaid, shall be held by an infant, femme covert, non compos, insane person, or persons residing without the Territory within which the lands to be taken lie, or persons subjected to any legal disability, the court may appoint a guardian, for any party under any disqualification, to appear in proper person, who shall give bonds, with sufficient surety or sureties, for the proper and faithful execution of his trust, and who may represent in court the person disqualified, as aforesaid, from appearing, when the same proceedings shall be had in reference to the appraisement of the premises to be taken for the use of said company, and with the same effect as has been already described; and the title of the company to the lands taken by virtue of this act shall not be affected or impaired by reason of any failure by any guardian to discharge faithfully his trust. And in case any party shall have a right or claim to any land for a term of years, or any interest therein, in possession, reversion or remainder, the value of any such estate, less than a fee simple, shall be estimated and determined in the manner hereinbefore set forth. And in case it shall be necessary for the company to enter upon any lands which are unoccupied, and of which there is no apparent owner or claimant, it may proceed to take and use the same for the purposes of said railroad, and may institute proceedings, in the manner described, for the purpose of ascertaining the value of, and of acquiring a title to, the same; but the judge of the court hearing said suit shall determine the kinds of notice to be served on such owner or owners, and he may in his discretion appoint an agent or guardian to represent such owner or owners in case of his or their incapacity or nonappearance. But in case no claimant shall appear within six years from the time of the opening of said road across any land, all claims to damages against said company shall be barred.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That each and every grant, right and privilege herein are so made and given to and accepted by said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company upon and subject to the following conditions, namely: That the said company shall commence the work on said road within two years from the approval of this act by the President, and shall complete not less than fifty miles per year after the second year, and shall construct, equip, furnish and complete the main line of the whole road by the fourth day of July, anno Domini eighteen hundred and seventy-eight.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the United States make the several conditional grants herein, and that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company accept the same, upon the further condition that if the said company make any breach of the conditions hereof, and allow the same to continue for upwards of one year, then, in such case, at any time hereafter, the United States may do any and all acts and things which may be needful and necessary to insure a speedy completion of the said road.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That all people of the United States shall have the right to subscribe to the stock of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company until the whole capital named in this act of incorporation is taken up by complying with the terms of subscription.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, or any part thereof, shall be a post route and military road, subject to the use of the United States for postal, military, naval and all other Government service, and also subject to such regulations as Congress may impose restricting the charges for such Government transportation.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the acceptance of the terms, conditions and impositions of this act by the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company shall be signified in writing under the corporate seal of said company, duly executed pursuant to the direction of its board of directors first had and obtained, which acceptance shall be made within two years after the passage of this act and not afterwards, and shall be deposited in the office of the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That the directors of said company shall make and publish an annual report of their proceedings and expenditures, verified by the affidavits of the president and at least six of the directors, a copy of which shall be deposited in the office of said Secretary of the Interior, and they shall, from time to time, fix, determine and regulate the fares, tolls and charges to be received and paid for transportation of persons and property on said road or any part thereof.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That the directors chosen in pursuance of the first section of this act shall, so soon as may be after their election, elect from their own number a president and vice-president; and said board of directors shall, from time to time, and so soon as may be after their election, choose a treasurer and secretary, who shall hold their offices at the will and pleasure of the board of directors. The treasurer and secretary shall give such bonds, with such security, as the said board from time to time may require. The secretary shall, before entering upon his duty, be sworn to a faithful discharge thereof, and said oath shall be made a matter of record upon the books of said corporation. No person shall be a director of said company unless he shall be a stockholder, and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That the president, vice-president and directors shall hold their offices for the period indicated in the by-laws of said company, not exceeding three years, respectively, and until others are chosen in their place, and qualified. In case it shall so happen that an election of directors shall not be made on any day appointed by the by-laws of said company, the corporation shall not for that excuse be deemed to be dissolved, but such election may be holden on any day which shall be appointed by the directors. The directors, of whom seven, including the president, shall be a quorum for the transaction of business, shall have full power to make and prescribe such by-laws, rules and regulations as they shall deem needful and proper touching the disposition and management of the stock, property, estate and effects of the company, the transfer of shares, the duties and conduct of their officers and servants touching the election and meeting of the directors, and all matters whatsoever which may appertain to the concerns of said company; and the said board of directors may have full power to fill any vacancy or vacancies that may occur from any cause or causes from time to time in their said board. And the said board of directors shall have power to appoint such engineers, agents and subordinates as may from time to time be necessary to carry into effect the object of the company, and to do all acts and things touching the location and construction of said road.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for the directors of said company to require payment of the sum of ten per centum cash assessment upon all subscriptions received of all subscribers, and the balance thereof at such times and in such proportions and on such conditions as they shall deem to be necessary to complete the said road and telegraph lines within the time in this act prescribed. Sixty days' previous notice shall be given of the payments required, and of the time and place of payment, by publishing a notice once a week in one daily newspaper in each of the cities of Boston, New York, Cincinnati, Saint Louis, Memphis and Nashville, and in case any stockholder shall neglect or refuse to pay, in pursuance of such notice, the stock held by such person shall be forfeited absolutely to the use of the company, and also any payment or payments that shall have been made on account thereof, subject to the condition that the board of directors may allow the redemption on such terms as they may prescribe.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the said company is authorized to accept to its own use any grant, donation, loan, power, franchise, aid or assistance which may be granted to or conferred on said company by the Congress of the United States by the legislature of any State, or by any corporation, person or persons, or by any Indian tribe or nation through whose reservation the road herein provided for may pass; and said corporation is authorized to hold and enjoy any such grant, donation, loan, power, franchise, aid or assistance, to its own use, for the purpose aforesaid: Provided that any such grant or donation, power, aid or assistance from any Indian tribe or nation shall be subject to the approval of the President of the United States.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the State of California, is hereby authorized to connect with the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, formed under this act, at such point, near the boundary line of the State of California, as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco, and shall have a uniform gauge and rate of freight or fare with said road; and in consideration thereof, to aid in its construction, shall have similar grants of land, subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided, and shall be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad herein provided for.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That unless the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company shall obtain bona fide subscriptions to the stock of said company to the amount of one million of dollars, with ten per centum paid, within two years after the passage of and approval of this act, it shall be null and void.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That the better to accomplish the object of this act—namely, to promote the public interest and welfare by the construction of said railroad and telegraph line, and keeping the same in working order, and to secure to the Government at all times, but particularly in time of war, the use and benefits of the same for postal, military and other purposes—Congress may, at any time, having due regard for the rights of said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, add to, alter, amend or repeal this act.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That whenever in any grant of land, or other subsidies, made or hereafter to be made, to railroads or other corporations, the United States has reserved the right, or shall reserve it, to appoint directors, engineers, commissioners or other agents to examine said roads, or act in conjunction with other officers of said company or companies, all the costs, charges and pay of said directors, engineers, commissioners or agents shall be paid by the respective companies. Said directors, engineers, commissioners or agents shall be paid for said services the sum of ten dollars per day for each and every day actually and necessarily employed, and ten cents per mile for each and every mile actually and necessarily traveled, in discharging the duties required of them, which per diem and mileage shall be in full compensation for said services. And in case any company shall refuse or neglect to make such payments, no more patents for lands or other subsidies shall be issued to said company, until these requirements are complied with.

Joint Resolution Concerning the Southern Pacific Railroad of California (16 United States Statutes at Large, p. 382.)

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California may construct its road and telegraph line, as near as may be, on the route indicated by the map filed by said company in the Department of the Interior on the third day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven; and upon the construction of each section of said road, in the manner and within the time provided by law, and notice thereof being given by the company to the Secretary of the Interior, he shall direct an examination of each such section by commissioners to be appointed by the President, as provided in the act making a grant of land to said company, approved July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and upon the report of the Commissioners to the Secretary of the Interior that such section of said railroad and telegraph line has been constructed as required by law, it shall be the duty of the said Secretary of the Interior to cause patents to be issued to said company for the sections of land coterminous to each constructed section reported on as aforesaid, to the extent and amount granted to said company by the said act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, expressly saving and reserving all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act.

Approved, June 28, 1870.

SECTION 23 OF THE TEXAS PACIFIC ACT (16 UNITED STATES STATUTES AT LARGE, P. 579).

SEC. 23. That, for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the City of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad, at or near the Colorado River, with the same rights, grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions, as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California by the Act of July twenty-seven, eighteen hundred and sixty-six; provided, however, that this section shall in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company or any other railroad company.

Approved, March 3, 1871.

Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act (24 United States Statutes at Large, p. 123).

CHAPTER DCXXXVII.

An Act to forfeit the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast, and to restore the same to settlement and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all the lands, excepting the right of way and the right, power and authority given to said corporation to take from the public lands adjacent to the line of said road material of earth, stone, timber and so forth, for the construction thereof, including all necessary grounds for station buildings, workshops, depots, machine-shops, switches, side-tracks, turntables and water stations, heretofore granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by an act entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," approved July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and subsequent acts and joint resolutions of Congress, which are adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portions of the main line of said road, embraced within both the granted and indemnity limits, as contemplated to be constructed under and by the provisions of the said Act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and the acts and joint resolutions subsequent thereto and relating to the construction of said road and telegraph, be, and the same are hereby, declared forfeited and restored to the public domain.

Approved July 6, 1886.

LETTER OF SECRETARY LAMAR AS PRINTED IN VI. L. D., 349.

RAILROAD GRANT—COMMON GRANTED LIMITS—SOUTHERN PAC. R. R. CO.

The grant to the Atlantic Pacific and Southern Pacific was made by the same act; and, under the provisions thereof, the said companies were each entitled to an undivided moiety of every odd section, not reserved from the grant, falling within the common granted limits of the respective roads, without respect to priority of location or construction, the right of each company relating back to the date of the grant.

The forfeiture of the grant to the Atlantic Pacific did not reinvest the Southern Pacific with the right, title and interest, of which it was divested by the definite location of the Atlantic Pacific, as the declaration of forfeiture expressly provided for the restoration of the forfeited lands to the public domain.

If the Southern Pacific elect to accept every other alternate odd-numbered section within the said common limits, the remaining odd-numbered sections may be immediately restored to the public domain.

SECRETARY LAMAR TO ACTING-COMMISSIONER STOCKSLAGER, NOVEMBER 25, 1887.

A rule was served upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to show cause why certain lands adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portion of the main line of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, which are intersected by the line of the Southern Pacific Company, should not be restored to the public domain, Congress having declared a forfeiture of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Company as to the uncompleted portion of said road.

In considering said rule upon the answer of the company, you held :

(1) That, since the grants to both of said companies were made by the same act, the Southern Pacific "is only entitled (if at all) to, and cannot rightfully claim more than, a moiety of the lands" in the conflicting granted limits, and the recommendation is made by your office

"that every other alternate odd-numbered section (as sections 1, 5, 9, etc.) be now restored to the public domain, leaving the remaining odd-numbered sections in reservation for the present."

(2) That the lands within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific main line, and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, are not affected by said act of forfeiture, and they should continue in reservation for the present.

(3) That the lands within the granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, and the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific, "could not have been selected as indemnity by the Southern Pacific" for the reason that, although said lands were withdrawn for the Southern Pacific Company, they fell within the granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, upon the subsequent definite location of its road.

(4) That the lands within the common indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific and the Southern Pacific (both main and branch line) should still remain in reservation.

(5) That the Southern Pacific Railroad Company can have no valid claim to lands within the common granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific and the Southern Pacific branch line, and that such lands should be at once restored; and,

(6) That the Southern Pacific Company has no right to any lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and the granted limits of the branch line of the Southern Pacific Company, for the reason that they are excepted from the grant to the latter company on account of the prospective right of the former company to select said lands for indemnity.

While the rule was pending before the Department, all lands withdrawn for indemnity purposes for the benefit of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Atlantic and Pacific R. R. Company were restored to the public domain by order of August 15, 1887 (6 L. D., 84–92).

Counsel for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company have now filed an application protesting against any further action for the restoration of lands within granted limits, because: (1) The right of the company vested by definite location and final completion of the road to all lands mentioned in the Commissioner's report of March last, and that the question as to what particular lands within said limits are granted or excepted does not properly arise now, and there is no case before the Department requiring a decision. (2) Because the lands were withdrawn by the Act of Congress making the grant.

I see no reason for any further action by the Department upon this rule, except as to lands embraced within the common granted or primary limits of both roads.

A decision upon this question is rendered necessary in order that you may not be hindered or delayed in the adjustment of this grant under the general instructions issued from this Department of November 22, 1887.

The Act of Congress of July 27, 1866 (14 Stat., 292), granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Company

Every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of * * * ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad, whenever it passed through any State, and whenever on the line thereof the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated and free from pre-emption, or other claims or rights, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office; and whenever, prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted, or otherwise disposed of, other land shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof.

By the 18th section of said act the Southern Pacific road was authorized to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific road at a point near the boundary line of California, with a similar grant of land subject to all the conditions and limitations provided for in said act.

The grant contained a proviso "that if said route shall be found upon the line of any other railroad route, to aid in the construction of which lands have been heretofore granted to the United States, as far as the routes are upon the same general line, the amount of land heretofore granted shall be deducted from the amount granted by this act."

Here is a grant made by the same act to each road, of certain odd sections, to be designated by the filing of a map of definite location, and of the right to select other lands as indemnity for such odd sections within the granted lands as may have been granted, sold, reserved or occupied by homestead and pre-emption settlers prior to date of definite location.

Therefore, the filing of the map of definite location by either of the roads vested in such road the right and title to all the odd-numbered sections within the designated limits, and not within the exceptions referred to, and of the right to select other lands within the indemnity limits in lieu of lands so excepted. But as neither road was prohibited from constructing upon or near the general line of the other road, and it being evident from the proviso referred to that Congress did not intend to make a double grant for the same general line of road, that right and title was subject to be divested to the extent of a half interest in all odd-numbered sections that might fall within the common granted limits of both roads.

The Southern Pacific Company located its main line January 3, 1867, and by the terms of the grant its right immediately attached to every odd section of land, not of the character excepted by the grant, and within the ten-mile limit, subject, however, to be divested to the extent of a half-interest in every such odd section that might fall within the common limits of both roads, after the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company.

The Atlantic and Pacific Company filed its map of definite location April 11, 1872, and April 16, 1874, showing that the primary or granted limits of said road overlapped and conflicted with the primary or granted limits of a portion of the Southern Pacific road. As to the lands falling within the granted limits of both roads, the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company, showing such conflict, immediately divested the Southern Pacific Company of the right and title to a half interest in all such odd sections, and from that moment and by that act the two companies became entitled to equal undivided moieties in such sections, without regard to the priority of location of the line of the road, or priority of construction, the right of each company relating back to the date of the grant. St. Paul and Sioux City R. R. Co. vs. Winona and St. Paul R. R. Co. (112 U. S., 720); Sioux City R. R. Co. vs. Chicago R. R. Co. (117 U. S., 406).

It cannot be questioned that these completed acts on the part of both roads vested in each of said companies the right and title to their respective interests in said conflicting limits, and determined the extent and quantity of the grant to each company along that portion of their respective roads. That is, the Atlantic and Pacific Company had a vested interest in every odd section within the limits of its grant of the character contemplated by the grant, and not in conflict with the limits of the other road, and an undivided half interest in all such sections within the conflicting limits of the two roads, and also the right to indemnity for such sections or interest in sections that may have been pre-empted, sold, reserved, etc., as provided for by the grant. The same right vested in the other road as to lands similarly situated within its limits, and those vested rights, titles and interests were existing at the date of the forfeiture of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Company. If the Atlantic and Pacific Company had no such title and interest in these lands, there would have been nothing to forfeit. That it did have such right, title and interest cannot be questioned.

But it is insisted that by the act of forfeiture the Southern Pacific Company was reinvested with the right, title and interest of which it was divested by the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company. I do not think this position tenable, even if the act declaring a forfeiture of those lands was silent as to the disposition to be made of them. There was no restoration to a right in the Southern Pacific Company, because that company had no right to restore. The act of forfeiture divested the Atlantic and Pacific Company of all right, title and interest in said lands, and reinvested the title in the Government.

Congress, by the act of forfeiture, could have invested the Southern Pacific Company with the entire interest in the lands held in common by the two roads, but that it was not the intention of Congress to dispose of this interest of the Atlantic and Pacific Company in that manner is evident from the act of forfeiture, which declares that

> All the lands * * * which are adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portions of the main line of said road [Atlantic and Pacific], embraced within both the granted and indemnity limits, * * * be, and the same are hereby, declared forfeited and restored to the public domain.

The interest of the Atlantic and Pacific Company having been forfeited to the United States, the effect of said forfeiture was to make the United States a tenant in common with the Southern Pacific Company as to said lands, and, therefore, all the odd sections within said limits should still remain in reservation until a partition thereof has been made.

If said company is willing to accede to the plan suggested by your office, and take only every other alternate odd-numbered section within said common limits, I know of no objection to such a course being taken, and the remaining odd-numbered sections could be immediately restored to the public domain. If, however, the company declines to accept said plan, it will be necessary to take other steps looking to a partition of the lands granted.

You will, therefore, notify the Southern Pacific Company that it will be allowed a reasonable time to advise your office of its acceptance or rejection of the plan proposed, and if said plan is rejected you will report the same to this Department for further action.

It not being necessary, at present, to pass upon the remaining question presented in the rule, the papers are herewith returned.

THE UNITED STATES, Appellant,

vs.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY ET AL., Appellees.

On the Motion by the United States to Open and Correct Judgment.

REPLY OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

It is difficult to attempt to make clearer the plain, explicit opinion of the Court, delivered by Mr. Justice Brewer on January 6th inst.

No point is made in the motion by the United States that the matter in litigation, as well as the distinct question presented for consideration by the Court here, are not accurately stated, viz: 1st, whether the Southern Pacific Railroad Company took any title to these lands by virtue of the Act of 1866 or subsequent legislation; and 2d, do the prior decisions of this Court control the determination of this case?

Answering the first question in the affirmative, on the merits of the case, and the second in the negative, it was perfectly clear that, considering the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act of 1886, the United States and the Southern Pacific hold each an undivided moiety in all the odd-numbered sections which lie within the conflicting place limits of the grant made to both companies by the Act of 1866.

The court below assumed to decide every possible phase of a contest arising out of this grant and the overlaps, not only as to lands within overlapping place limits but the eight different possible classifications of overlaps of "primary" and "indemnity" limits, pertaining to the location. (Rec., p. 2650.)

The court below took it upon itself to decide all possible claims to any lands in any of these classes, upon the grounds that the Southern Pacific neither took nor could take either title or interest in any lands of the United States under the Act of 1866, because, as held, first: that by its charter it had no right to build the line from Mohave to the Needles, and so could take nothing until the Joint Resolution of 1870; meanwhile, the Atlantic and Pacific, having filed its maps of definite location, it took title to all the grant as of 1866; and, second, that every possible question to arise out of the conflict of these two grants, of 1866 and 1871, had been adjudicated by this Court in the prior decisions referred to in 146 and 168 U. S.

Now, in 146 U. S., 570, the lands in controversy were lands in the common place limits of the Atlantic and Pacific and the Southern Pacific under the Act of 1871. In 146 U. S., p. 615, the lands were within the place limits of the Southern Pacific, and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, under the same act, in which case the sole question was, whether the proviso in the grant of 1871, which is, in substance, that the grant to the Southern Pacific shall in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, had such an effect that the indemnity lands of the Atlantic and Pacific where crossed by the Southern Pacific were exempted from the grant to the Southern Pacific so that the title to none of these indemnity lands passed or could pass to the Southern Pacific.

In both cases solely a question of title passing or not passing, by the grant itself was presented ; none of the incidents of the grants, such as the right to indemnity or its extent, or where or how it should be exercised, were involved in or necessary to the decision of either case ; nor were they decided.

In case in 168 U. S., it is stated in the third paragraph in the opinion that the principal contention of the United States is that the lands in dispute are in the same category in every respect with those in controversy in U. S. vs. S. P. R. R. Co., 146 U. S., 570, and U. S. vs. Colton Marble and Lime Co. and U. S. vs. S. P. R. R. Co., 146 U. S., 615, and that so far as the question of title is concerned, the judgments in those cases have conclusively determined * * * the essential facts upon which the Government rests its present claim."

So that the only question was whether certain maps of the Atlantic and Pacific had been conclusively adjudicated to be maps of definite location of the line of road of that company in California ; and if so, was the question of title to the lands in place limits of both grants as between the Southern Pacific under the Act of 1871 and the Atlantic and Pacific under the Act of 1866, conclusively determined ?

So that in these prior decisions questions of title and title only by the grant direct have been involved.

But, as stated, the court below, taking the broadest possible view, held that every question to arise out of these grants, not only of 1871, but of 1866 as well ; not only as to grant and title direct thereunder, but all incidentals as to indemnity as well, had been decided by this Court, and gave the Government a decree for all lands within the Atlantic and Pacific grant, both in granted as well as indemnity limits, upon both grounds, viz: that the Southern Pacific had no authority to take the grant till the Joint Resolution of 1870, and also that all these questions were res adjudicata.

This Court, in the opinion before us, holds that the Southern Pacific took jointly with the Atlantic and Pacific under the Act of 1866, and that its claim is "of equal force with that of the Atlantic and Pacific."

That is to say, the Southern Pacific has a land grant with the ordinary legal incidents of selection, contest, indemnity, etc., etc., to be adjusted and administered under the law and in the Land Department under its proper regulations as adjustment may progress, the question of the validity and extent of the grant being settled.

As stated in the opinion, "It is also unnecessary to determine the rights of the Southern Pacific to lands outside the conflict," i. e., outside the common granted limits.

This motion attacks this paragraph in the opinion; the motion assumes, in the first paragraph, that the Southern Pacific is not entitled to any indemnity whatever as to its grant under the Act of 1866, by asking the Court to direct the Circuit Court to enter a decree in favor of the Government for all lands outside the 20-mile (granted) limits of the Southern Pacific under the Act of 1866.

No such idea has hitherto been suggested, argued or considered in any of this litigation,

No right to specific land as indemnity under a railroad land grant can arise until adjustment is being had—a loss in place shown and a selection made of land, the status of which, at date of selection, makes it subject thereto.

To ask this Court to direct a decree below, that the Southern Pacific has no right of indemnity, to decree that it shall assert no right hereafter to any lands in common indemnity limits of a grant first declared to be valid and effectual, is certainly novel.

The Southern Pacific is not asserting any right to any specific lands in indemnity limits until establishing loss and making selection ; its rights thereto will be presented in each individual case, and be determined by the status then existing. Its rights in such case should not, cannot be foreclosed by such an order as is asked here.

At this point we notice specially some of the points in the printed motion here.

The statement on page 6 "that the Government was entitled to a decree for these lands were practically conceded by counsel for the Southern Pacific Company and is conceded by the Court by reason of its prior adjudication" is as far from accuracy as the writer could possibly get.

These 600,000 acres of land are all indemnity lands as such, all are outside the place limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, and a large proportion appertain as indemnity to the grant of 1866, the validity of which this Court has just affirmed.

The statement that "counsel for the Southern Pacific have practically conceded that the Government was entitled to a decree for these lands" is best met by the counter statement, that counsel for the Southern Pacific have not only not so conceded, but they have uniformly and strenuously insisted precisely the contrary ; they have uniformly insisted that the Company had the usual right of indemnity selection in these lands, the regularity of which will be passed upon when they shall be made.

Moreover, this Court has not "conceded by reason of its prior adjudications that the Government was entitled to a decree for these lands," because this Court has never made a decision upon the question of the right to indemnity in either of these grants on the part of the Southern Pacific.

We have shown above accurately just what questions have been decided in prior litigation by this Court—question of technical title as such, and that only.

In the pending case—clearly, expressly—the decision is as to title and title alone, under the grant of 1866.

By what warrant does counsel for the Government assume to say that this Court, in this opinion, decides that while affirming the validity of the grant of 1866 to us, that it also decides that we have no right to indemnity privileges provided for in the act, and appertaining to the grant? and that it should be decreed that the Southern Pacific should be forever barred from asserting any right or claim thereto?

The Court has made proper disposition of these lands, in its order which directs the Court "to dismiss the bill as to all other lands without prejudice to any future suit or action."

Of course the decree of the Court below had to be wholly reversed; it was erroneous on every question with which it undertook to deal.

The point presented on page 10 of the motion here needs but a passing notice.

No one has ever claimed for the Southern Pacific that it "had a pre-existing right or title to such indemnity lands without having an approved selection."

Certainly it will claim that it has a "right to select such indemnity lands to supply deficiencies within the place limits."

It has never claimed that such right "confers a present right or title to any specific tract of land until selection."

Whenever its claims to indemnity lands are presented to the proper forum, they will be passed on in precisely the manner outlined by the Court in the opinion before us, "the adjustment of the grant is properly to be had in the Land Department, subject of course if necessay to further contests in the courts."

Counsel for the Government assume still, as did the Circuit Court of Appeals, that every possible question growing out of these grant has been conclusively determined.

This Court puts it clearly : that the decrees in the several cases "are conclusive of the title to the property involved in them, no matter what claims or rights either party may have had and failed to produce, but as to property which was not involved in those suits they are conclusive only as to the matters which were actually litigated and determined."

The motion should be overruled.

Respectfully submitted,

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

OCTOBER TERM, 1900.

No. 185.

THE UNITED STATES,
Appellant,

vs.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY (D. O. MILLS and HOMER S. KING, Trustees), and THE CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Appellees.

CROSS APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT.

BRIEF OF APPELLEES.

The main question upon this cross-appeal is whether the decision of both courts below that all purchases from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of the lands erroneously patented to the Railroad by the Government were protected by the adjustment acts of March 3, 1887 (24 U. S., Stat., 556), and March 2, 1896 (29 U. S. Stat., 42), as construed by this court in the two Winona cases (165 U. S., 462 and 483) is right. As this is substantially the same question which was raised in the case of the United States vs. the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which is No. 186 upon the present docket of this Court, and is to be argued with this case, we have considered it unnecessary to here repeat at length our argument presented in that case, and we repectfully refer the Court to the brief in No. 186 for our views upon the subject.

There is, however, an additional reason why this cross-appeal should be dismissed which is peculiar to this particular case. In subdivision IX. of the bill of complaint (Main Record in No. 152, p. 15), it is stated:

> "That the officers of the interior department have erroneously and without any authority of law caused to be issued to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company patents of the United States, in due form of law, for the tracts of land described in plaintiff's exhibit "A" hereto attached and made a part hereof."

Subsequently and in subdivision XII. of the bill the only prayer of the bill which seeks to cancel any patents from the Government to the Railroad is as follows:

> "Your orators pray that their title to said lands described in said Exhibit "A" hereto annexed may be quieted; that said pretended patents be vacated and decreed to be void."

Now, the only patents which the bill asks to have canceled are those conveying the lands described in Exhibit "A" to the bill, and it appears, from an examination of the record, that none of the land excepted from the operation of the final decree, upon the ground that it had been sold to bona fide purchasers (Record, p. 353 et seq.), is a part of the land described in Exhibit "A," attached to the complaint (see Appendix), and that, therefore, there is no prayer in the bill asking that the patents covering the land conveyed by the Railroad to bona fide purchasers should be canceled.

We take it that it is clear that the rights of bona fide purchasers in the land erroneously patented to the United States cannot be annulled and the patents for such land canceled by a bill seeking simply to remove a cloud upon the title to land of the complainant, and that all relief seeking the cancellation of patents is necessarily limited to the patents which the bill specifically asks to be canceled.

As to this, the Circuit Court of Appeals said, in its opinion, at page 2671 of the main record, in No. 152:

> "We are further of the opinion that the bill of complaint did not call for the cancellation of the patents for the lands described. The bill alleged that the officers of the Interior Department had erroneously and without any authority of law caused to be issued to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company patents of the United States in due form of law, for the tracts of land described in plaintiffs' Exhibit "A" attached to the complaint. The prayer of the bill was that plaintiffs' title to the lands described in Exhibit "A" should be quieted, and that the pretended patents for said lands be vacated and decreed to be void, etc. The lands excepted from the decree as having been sold by the Southern Pacific Company to bona fide purchasers who purchased the same in good faith and for value, are not described in exhibit "A," and were not therefore properly involved in the suit for the cancellation of patents."

In the case of Dick vs. Foraker, 155 U. S., 404, 414, it was said:

"The appellee then, seeks to have a cloud removed from his title when he holds no title whatever; for, of course, it follows that if the court was without jurisdiction the decree by it rendered was utterly void, and the sale, having been made under the decree, was equally vicious and wholly null. The rule in ejectment is that the plaintiff must recover on the strength of his own title, and not on the weakness of the title of his adversary. A like rule obtains in an equitable action to remove a cloud from a title; and title in the complainant is of the essence of the right to relief. In Frost v. Spitley, 121 U. S., 552, 556, we said: 'Under the jurisdiction and practice in equity independently of statute, the object of a bill to remove a cloud upon title, and to quiet the possession of real estate, is to protect the owner of the legal title from being disturbed in his possession, or harassed by suits in regard to that title; and the bill cannot be maintained without clear proof of both possession and legal title in the plaintiff.' Alexander v. Pendleton, 8 Cranch., 462; Peirsoll v. Elliott, 6 Pet., 95; Orton v. Smith, 18 How., 263; Crews v. Burcham, 1 Black., 352; Ward v. Chamberlain, 2 Black., 430. As observed by Mr. Justice GRIER in Orton v. Smith, 'Those only who have a clear, legal and equitable title to land, connected with possession, have any right to claim the interference of a court of equity to give them peace or dissipate a cloud on the title.' 18 How., 265.

" The law of Arkansas authorizes a bill to remove a cloud on a title whether or not the complainant be in possession. Act of March 26, 1891, No. 74, Stats. of 1891, 132. By reason of this statute a bill in equity may be maintained in the Circuit Court of the United States by a person not in possession against another who is also out of possession. Holland v. Challen, 110 U. S., 15, 25. But this does not make the complainant's rights any the less dependent upon title in him nor does it put him in a position to have a cloud removed from a title which has no existence. In Frost v. Spitley, supra, it was said, p. 557:

" A statute of Nebraska authorizes an action to be brought 'by any person or persons, whether in actual possession or not, claiming title to real estate, against any person or persons who claim an adverse estate or interest therein, for the purpose of determining such estate or interest, and quieting the title to said real estate'. Nebraska Stat., Feb. 24, 1873; Rev. Stat., 1873, p. 882. . . . The requisite of the plaintiff's possession is thus dispensed with, but not the other rules which govern the jurisdiction of courts of equity over such bills. Under that statute, as under the general jurisdiction in equity, it is 'the title', that is to say, the legal title, to real estate, that is to be quieted against claims of adverse estates or interests. In State v. Sioux City & Pacific Railroad, the Supreme Court of Nebraska said: 'Whatever the rule may be as to a party in actual possession, it is clear that a party not in possession must possess the legal title, in order to maintain the action'. 7 Nebraska, 357, 376. And in Holland v. Challen, above cited, this court said: 'Undoubtedly, as a foundation for the relief sought, the plaintiff must show that he has a legal title to the premises'. The necessary conclusion is, that Spitley, not having the legal title of the lots in question, cannot maintain his bill for the purpose of removing a cloud on the title. * * *

"There are other contentions urged, but they are all covered by what has been already said. They either arise from the erroneous postulate that the complainant's title is not void, but simply voidable, or are predicted on the equally unsound premise that one having no title can successfully invoke the aid of a court of equity to 'remove a cloud' from such non-existent title; that is to say, can ask a court to substract something from nothing."

In the case of United States vs. Winona and St. Paul Railroad, 67 Fed. Rep., 948, it was said at page 959:

"It is not difficult to determine whether the certificates issued in this case were void or voidable when tested by these rules. Jurisdiction of the subject-matter is the power to deal with the general abstract question, to hear the particular facts in any case relating to this question, and to determine whether or not they are sufficient to invoke the exercise of that power. The test of jurisdiction is whether the tribunal has power to enter upon the inquiry, not whether its conclusion in the course of it is right or wrong. Foltz v. Railway Co., 8 C. C. A., 635, 60 Fed. 316, 318, and cases cited.

" When these certificates were issued, the Winona Railroad Company had undoubtedly applied to the land department for conveyances of the lands in controversy to the state for its benefit. These lands were a part of the public lands of the United States, the disposition of which had been intrusted to that department by the acts of congress which established it and defined the powers and duties of its officers. Moreover, the acts of congress under which the Winona Company claimed these lands expressly provided, as we have seen, that the secretary of the interior should indicate the lands granted under them in all cases. The conclusion is irresistible that these acts conferred the power and imposed the duty upon the officers of the land department to hear and determine the ultimate question whether or not the railroad company was entitled to these lands under its grants, and to 'indicate' the lands granted by certificates or patents to the state. In no other way could they have discharged the duties these acts imposed upon them. In deciding this question they necessarily considered whether or not the railroad company had so far complied with the acts granting the lands that it had earned them, the character of the lands themselves, and the class to which they belonged, the time of the definite location of the line of the railroad, the homestead entries and preemption filings that were then upon the lands, the cancellation of all these entries and filings that had been made, and finally, the legal effect of all these and all other material facts upon the claim of the railroad company to receive the lands under the acts of congress. It now appears that they were mistaken as to the legal effect of these facts, but the question they decided was one which the acts of congress authorized and required them to decide—one which they were obliged to decide before they issued the certificates; and, although their decision and their conveyances evidenced by these certificates may be voidable, they are not absolutely void. They are impregnable to collateral attack, and they conveyed the legal title to the lands to the state and its grantees."

Our proposition is simply that no relief can be had under the bill of complaint in this suit as to any lands purchased from the railroad by bona fide purchasers, for the reason that the bill does not ask to cancel the patents conveying such land to the Railroad Company, but is limited in its relief in this regard to the land conveyed by the patents, which it specifically asks to have canceled. In other words, a patent of lands from the Government, however erroneously obtained, cannot be attacked collaterally, and can only be set aside in a direct proceeding for that purpose.

With this one additional suggestion, we respectfully submit the case upon our brief in the case of United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad, No. 186, submitted and argued with this case.

MAXWELL EVARTS,
Of Counsel for Appellees.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, et al., Appellants, vs. THE UNITED STATES, Appellee.	No. 152.
THE UNITED STATES, Appellant, vs. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, et al., Appellees.	No. 185.

Appeal and Cross Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit.

Brief for United States.

Statement of the Case.

This suit in equity represents a continuation of the controversy between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, concerning the title of the United States to the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant in California, the title to which, as the Government contends, has been in former suits adjudged in favor of the United States.

Like the former cases this suit is brought to quiet the title of the United States, and to vacate patents so far as erroneously issued by the Interior Department, and for general equitable relief.

The rights of the United States to the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant, have been so often before the courts and so thoroughly considered, it is believed that a comparison of the issues presented in the present appeals with the issues and adjudications in the former cases, will show to the court that not only are the questions, claims, and rights of the respective parties res adjudicata, but that upon the merits the law is clearly for the Government.

See

United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 570.

United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 615.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1, 66.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. United States, 69 Fed., 47 (C. C. A.).

In the present case the Circuit Court adjudged that the United States was entitled to a decree quieting its title to the lands in controversy, being all the lands within the thirty-mile limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant in California, except those covered by previous suits and except certain tracts dismissed from suit by the Government, and except certain tracts of land which the court adjudged had been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third parties prior to commencement of this suit and as to which lands so sold the court adjudged that the United States take nothing. (86 Fed., 962, record 365, 336.)

Both parties having appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals, that court affirmed the decree of the Circuit Court upon both appeals. (98 Fed,. 27, record 2630, 2672.)

Both parties have appealed from the decree of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company was made by the act of Congress of July 27, 1866 (14 U. S., Stat. 292), and the grant of lands in California was for ten alternate sections of public land not reserved, claimed or otherwise disposed of on each side of the line of route of the railroad to be designated by the company by a plat filed in the Interior Department; also a right to indemnity for losses in place limits within a further limit of ten miles on each side, which made the granted limits embrace the alternate sections for twenty miles on each side and the indemnity for ten miles further, making altogether thirty miles on each side. (see section 3.)

The line of route of the Atlantic and Pacific described in the charter was from the town of Springfield, in Missouri, thence by Albuquerque, New Mexico, thence along or near the 35th parallel of latitude, "as near as may be found most suitable for a railway route to the Colorado river at such point as may be selected by said company for crossing, and thence by the most practicable and eligible route to the Pacific."

The western terminus on the Pacific was not fixed, and the natural routes open to exploration were from the Colorado to the Bay of San Diego, to the Pacific at San Pedro, and the route by way of Soledad Pass to the Pacific at San Buenaventura. In the year of 1872, the company selected the latter route, and in that year filed its map of definite location upon that line from Needles on the Colorado to Ventura, by maps filed in sections, three maps embracing that part of the line in California between Needles and Ventura, and this completed the entire line of definite location from Springfield, Mo., to the Pacific.

The maps of the Atlantic and Pacific east of the Colorado river are not printed, it being stipulated that they were sufficient. [rec. 2615.]

Section 6 of the act provided for a withdrawal of lands for the benefit of the company after the general route should be fixed.

When the Atlantic and Pacific filed its map of definite location in 1872, the Commissioner of the General Land Office withdrew and reserved for the benefit of the company all of the odd sections falling within thirty miles on each side of the line of route. [rec. 623, 624, 877, 878.]

The grant to the Atlantic and Pacific was in praesenti upon a condition subsequent that not less than fifty miles of road should be constructed each year after the second, and that the whole road should be completed by July 4, 1878. (see section 8.)

The grant further provided that if the company made any breach of the conditions and allowed the same to continue for upwards of one year, that the United States might do any and all acts and things needful and necessary to insure speedy completion of said road. (see section 9.) And Congress also reserved the right to alter, amend or repeal the act.

The Atlantic and Pacific Company by the year 1886 had failed to construct any railroad in California, and by the act of Congress of July 6, 1886 (24 Stat., 123), all lands and rights to lands in California were forfeited and restored to the public domain.

Atlantic and Pacific Railroad vs. Mingus, 165 U. S., 413.

United States vs. Southern Pacific, 146 U. S., 570, and 168 U. S., 1–66.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California was authorized by Section 18 of the Atlantic and Pacific act to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad "at such point near the boundary line of the state of California as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Franscisco and * * * to aid in its construction shall have similar grants of land subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided, and shall be required to construct its road on like regulations as to time and manner with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad herein provided for." (see appendix.)

When this grant was made (1866) the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a California corporation, was authorized and empowered by its articles of incorporation to construct a single line of railroad described in its charter as follows:

"from some point on the Bay of San Francisco in the state of California, through the counties of Santa Clara, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Los Angeles and San Diego to the town of San Diego, thence eastward through the said county of San Diego to the eastern line of the state of California." [rec. 526.]

In 1867 the Southern Pacific Company attempted to file a map of general route in the Interior Department, showing a line of railroad from San Francisco via Mojave to the Colorado river at Needles, but the Interior Department, after a long controversy, determined that this map was upon a totally unauthorized route not authorized by the charter of the company, the laws of California, or contemplated by the act of Congress.

The law required and contemplated that the Southern Pacific Railroad should be constructed upon the shortest practicable route to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, but upon an authorized route.

The statute did not designate which "boundary line of California" was meant, but the nearest boundary line was the western or southern.

The charter of the Southern Pacific Railroad called for a line of railroad down the coast from San Francisco through Los Angeles county to San Diego, so that the route which was contemplated by Congress was to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad upon either the southern or western boundary line of the state.

Not only was that the nearest and most practicable route and the only route authorized by the Southern Pacific charter but to construct to the eastern boundary line involved the paralleling of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad coming from the east for a distance of more than 200 miles.

And it was held by three successive Secretaries of the Interior that the line shown upon this map was not authorized by the act of Congress or by the charter of the Southern Pacific Company.

Thereupon the Southern Pacific procured the passage of an act of the Legislature of California, approved April 4, 1870, authorizing the company to "change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the state of California by such route as the company shall determine to be the most practicable." * * * And the act further authorized the company to accept such grants as had been or might thereafter be made by Congress. (see appendix.)

Thereafter and on June 28, 1870, Congress passed a joint resolution by which the Southern Pacific was authorized to construct its road "as near as may be on the route indicated by the map filed by said company in the Department of the Interior on the third day of January, 1867." (From San Francisco via Mojave to the Colorado at Needles.) And further provided that as each section of the road should be constructed patents to lands should issue "to the extent and amount granted to said company by said act of July 27, 1866, expressly saving and reserving all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act."

This resolution or act accomplished several results. It authorized the Southern Pacific Company to construct a railroad "as near as may be on the route indicated by the map filed January 3, 1867," from San Francisco via Mojave to Needles.

It expressly made to that company a grant of lands upon that line to the extent and upon the same terms made to the Southern Pacific Company by the act of July 27, 1866.

It expressly reserved the rights of settlers "together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act."

All of these favorable provisions of the joint resolution of 1870 were accepted by the Southern Pacific Company and acted upon by it, but one of the provisions of this act of 1870, was that it should be subject to the terms and conditions of section 3, of the act of 1866, which expressly provided that the grant shall be only of lands " not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated, and free from preëmption or other claims or rights at the time the line of said route is designated by a plat. * * *"

The Southern Pacific pursuant to the resolution of 1870 constructed that part of the railroad from Mojave to Needles on the Colorado river in the year 1885, and at that time filed in the Interior Department in sections, its maps showing the line of route as so constructed and located by the company, and the land grant to the company was adjusted upon those maps of constructed road. This is known as the Southern Pacific " main line grant." The Southern Pacific never filed any other maps than the general route map of 1867 and the sectional maps of constructed road, but that part of the road between Tres Pinos and Alcaldè has never been constructed and no map designating that part of the road has ever been filed by the company.

The grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by the joint resolution of 1870, overlapped the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific made by the act of 1866, from a point near Mojave to the Colorado river, and those lands are a part of the lands in suit here.

The grant to the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, act of Congress of March 3d, 1871, by section 23 of the act authorized the Southern Pacific Railroad Company

"to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapi Pass (Mojave) by way of Los Angeles to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, of California, by the act of July twenty-seven, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, provided, however, that this section shall in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, or any other railroad company."

The Southern Pacific filed its map of general route under this grant of 1871, from Mojave via Los Angeles to Yuma, on April 3, 1871, and thereafter as the road was constructed filed its map of road, so constructed, and located, in five sections, during the years from 1874 to 1878 inclusive.

This grant to the Southern Pacific, known as "branch line grant," also overlaps the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific, and a part of the lands in such overlap are in controversy here.

In the present case the Southern Pacific claims the lands of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, as either primary or indemnity, under section 18, of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, or joint resolution of June 28, 1870, or act of March 3, 1871.

In appendix (3) to this brief, "Table of Dates," there is shown the date when each section of the map of definite location of the Atlantic and Pacific Company was filed; when approved and when the lands were withdrawn; also when the Southern Pacific Company filed its map of general route, and when it filed its sectional maps of definitely located and constructed roads on both its main and branch lines; and when the lands were withdrawn; also the action taken by the Interior Department thereon at different times, together with references to the record.

The Essential Facts Briefly Stated.

The Atlantic and Pacific Company filed its map of definite location, under its grant of 1866, in 1872, when the lands were withdrawn. The Southern Pacific Company filed its map of general route on its main line, on January, 3, 1867 (which was rejected), and filed its maps of definite location in sections thereafter pursuant to the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, those sections covering the lands in suit herein were filed in the year 1885.

The Southern Pacific Company filed its map of general route on its branch line from Mojave, via Los Angeles to the Colorado river, under the grant of 1866, on April 3, 1871, and filed its map of definite location in five sections during the years from 1874 to 1878.

From this general statement it will be seen that the following facts are evidenced:

First. That the Atlantic and Pacific grant was a present grant which took effect July 27, 1866, long before either the main line grant or branch line grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad was made, and the title to the lands was vested in the Atlantic and Pacific Company until forfeited by the act of congress of July 6, 1886.

Second. Both the joint resolution of 1870 and section 23 of the act of 1871, provided that there should be excluded from the Southern Pacific grants respectively all lands granted, reserved, disposed of or claimed prior to filing the map of definite location of that company.

Third. That long before the Southern Pacific Company filed its maps of definite location on either the main line or branch line, these lands were reserved by operation of law from the filing of the maps of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and were also reserved by the executive orders of withdrawal, and they were "claimed" by the Atlantic and Pacific Company. The legal conclusions which result from the facts, follow with such certainty in view of the many cases deciding the principles involved, that it would seem that extensive argument should be unnecessary.

Former Adjudications.

In order to judicially determine the rights of the United States to the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant, several suits were brought in the year 1889 against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the trustees of its mortgage bonds and numerous purchasers from the railroad

The first four cases thus commenced involved lands within both the granted and indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant and were decided in the Circuit Court adversely to the Government (see 45 Fed, 596 and 46 Fed., 683), but upon appeal to this court the decrees below were reversed and decrees ordered in favor of the Government for the relief sought. (see 146 U. S., 570–615–619.)

Those cases were argued twice in the Supreme Court and were given careful consideration as will appear from the opinions, and after they were decided the United States contended that the effect of those decisions was to determine the right of the United States to the whole of the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant in California, but the Southern Pacific Railroad Company contended that nothing was adjudged in those cases, but the title to the particular tracts of land there sued for and that the cases were not res adjudicata as to the title of any other land whatever.

Thereupon the United States pressed against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company another case involving some 700,000 acres of lands within the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant, and within the limits primary and indemnity of the grants to the Southern Pacific.

In that case the Circuit Court failed to give effect to the prior adjudications, but decided the case in favor of the Government upon the merits. (see 62 Fed., 531.)

Upon appeal by the Southern Pacific from this decree, the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the decree of the court below upon the merits, upon slightly different grounds from that upon which the decision of the Circuit Court was based, but did not decide as to the effect of the prior adjudications. (69 Fed., 47.)

Upon appeal by the Southern Pacific to this Court, the court affirmed the decree entered below (168 U. S., 1, 66), upon the ground as to the Southern Pacific Co., that the issues in the case had been distinctly presented and determined in favor of the United States in the former cases in 146 U. S., 570, 615, 619.

The opinion of this court upon the scope of the pleadings in the prior suits and the effect of the adjucations (168 U. S., 1, 66), shows that the court gave great consideration to the questions presented in order that there should be no misunderstanding thereafter as to the effect which should be given to the final decision of the court of last resort.

In that case the court said (pp. 48, 49) :

"The general principle announced in numerous cases is that a right, question, or fact, distinctly put in issue, and directly determined by a court of competent jurisdiction as a ground of recovery, cannot be disputed in a subsequent suit between the same parties or their privies, and even if the second suit is for a different cause of action the right, question, or fact once so determined must as between the same parties or their privies, be taken as conclusively established so long as the judgment in the first suit remains unmodified"

The court held that the decisions in 146 U. S., 615, 619, conclusively determined that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company acquired no title to any of the lands in the Atlantic and Pacific grant.

The court, in the clearest and most unambiguous words of which the English language is suceptible, stated what issues were presented by the pleadings, and then gave the grounds of their decision as follows (pp. 61, 62):

"For the reasons stated, we are of opinion that it must be taken in this case to have been conclusively adjudicated in the former cases, as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company—

"1. That the maps filed by the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient, as maps of definite location, to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of 1866.

"2. That upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department, the rights of that company in the lands so granted, attached, by relation, as of the date of the act 1866; and

"3. That in view of the conditions attached to the grant, and of the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the forfeiture act of 1886, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain without the Southern Pacific Railroad Company having acquired any interest therein that affected the power of the United States to forfeit and restore them to the public domain.

"These grounds being accepted as the basis of our decision, the law in the present case is clearly for the United States; for, as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872, and therefore appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be, for the reasons stated in the former decision, that the United States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to the relief given by the decree below." (see 168 U. S., 61, 62.)

The grounds of this decision, as stated by the court, are not predicated upon the classes of lands into which counsel for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has sought to divide its alleged grants, that is as to whether the lands are in the Southern Pacific "primary limits" or "indemnity limits" or "main line limits", but is solely predicated upon the ground that the Atlantic and Pacific grant in California, from the Colorado to the Pacific, is an entirety, and for the purposes of the case must be regarded as a single tract, and that all questions as to its validity, extent and operative effect on the lands along the line and appertaining to it and its forfeiture to the United States were in issue and were determined in favor of the United States.

By these decisions the court has finally determined the validity and operative effect of two instruments embracing the Atlantic and Pacific grant in California,(1) the grant of July 27, 1866, to the Atlantic and Pacific Company definitely located by the maps of 1872, and which location operated upon the lands along and pertaining to the road, and (2) the re-conveyance to the United States by the act of forfeiture of July 6, 1886.

The court also determined a third question equally important, viz., that in re-taking the grant under the act of 1886, it was so re-taken freed from all claims of the Southern Pacific Company.

Any claim of any kind to this grant now made by the Southern Pacific again denies the validity of these determinations and cannot be tolerated under the settled principles of res adjudicata.

The view of counsel for the Southern Pacific, that the controling questions in the former cases were as to the title of certain classes of their lands, is quite different from the view that the controling questions were as to the validity and effect of the instruments, making a grant of all these lands to the Atlantic and Pacific by the act of 1866, and the instrument re taking them by the act of 1886 free of all claims of any kind by the Southern Pacific.

The records of the cases in 146 U. S., are in evidence, and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and D. O. Mills and G. L. Lansing (now Homer S. King substituted for Lansing), trustees, were paaties. They are also parties here and are bound by the prior adjudication.

The defendant Central Trust Company in the present case is in privity with the Southern Pacific Company, as will be hereinafter shown, and is also bound by the prior adjudications.

Evidence of Former Adjudications.

On the trial of the case at bar in the Circuit court, the Government put in evidence the identical evidence introduced and before the court in the former cases before mentioned—the same maps of definite location of the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and the Interior Department letters and orders approving those maps, and ordering withdrawal of granted and indemnity lands.

The Government also introduced in evidence, as conclusive of the controlling issues in the case at bar, the final records of the former cases, including the pleadings, final decrees, mandates and opinions of the court in 146 U. S., 570, 615, 619.

The record of the case of U. S. vs. S. P. R. R. Co., et al. (146 U. S. 570), involving lands in the primary or twenty-mile limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, is found in the record as follows:

Replication, record 805;
Mandate of Supreme Court, record 813;

The record of the case involving lands in the Atlantic and Pacific indemnity limits (146 U. S., 619) is found in the record as follows:

Answer, record 684–707;

The Pleadings and Issues in the Present Case.

AS TO THE SCOPE OF THE BILL.

In the courts below, counsel for the railroad advanced the claim that the scope of the bill in the present case was only to vacate patents to the particular lands described in exhibit "A" to the bill, and did not embrace the remaining lands within the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant, notwithstanding that the answer took issue on all the allegations of the bill and alleged title in the defendants to the Atlantic and Pacific grant in California under both the acts of 1866 and 1871. For this reason, as well as to show that the issues are res adjudicata, material parts of the bill will be set forth.

This bill, as clearly disclosed upon its face, is brought to annul patents to certain lands described in exhibit "A" to the bill, and to determine the title of the United States to all of the lands in sections designated by odd numbers within the state of California, falling within the thirty-mile limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company made by act of July 27, 1866, and which line of road was definitely located in the year 1872, estimated to contain upwards of three millions of acres, but there is excepted from the suit certain lands the titles to which have been quieted in former suits brought by the United States against the same parties.

The essential allegations of the bill, describing the lands, and showing the grant made to the Atlantic and Pacific Company by the act of 1866, the acceptance of the grant, definite location of the road, breach of condition in failure to construct the road, and the forfeiture of those lands to the United States by the act of July 6, 1866, and the allegation of ownership of these lands by the United States, and prayer for relief are as follows:

"Your orators further show: that by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, entitled, 'An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the states of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast,' Congress incorporated the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company and granted to said company, to aid in the construction of said railroad, a large amount of lands in the state of California and other States and Territories, and to the whole of which said act your orators refer. (see United States Statutes, Vol. 14, p. 292.) * * * *

"Your orators further show that said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company duly accepted said grant, and the terms and conditions of said act, of July 27, 1866, within the time therein required, and did designate upon plats or maps the whole of its line of route under said act, definitely locating the same from Springfield, Missouri, by way of the points and places named in said act, in the time and manner provided in said act, to the Pacific ocean at San Buenaventura, in the state of California, and did file such plats or maps designating said line of route, in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, within the time and in the manner provided in said act, definitely establishing the whole thereof.

"That said company filed maps of definite location designating that part of its said line in the state of California, in said office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in the year 1872, and as said plats or maps were so filed in the Interior Department they were each then approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and upon the filing of such maps or plats as aforesaid, the United States withdrew from market and reserved all the odd numbered sections of land in California within thirty (30) miles of said line of route, including the lands hereinafter described, and in pursuance of orders of the Secretary of the Interior and Commissioner of the General Land Office, said withdrawal and reservation of said lands was made then of record in the General Land Office and United States district land offices in California, by proper plats, diagrams and maps, to all of which your orators refer.

* * * * * * * * * *

"Your orators allege that said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company did not, within the time or manner required by said act of Congress of July 27, 1866, nor at all, construct or complete any railroad or telegraph line, in whole or in part, within the state of California, and that by the act of Congress of July 6, 1886 (24 Stats., p. 123), all lands and rights to lands granted to and conferred upon said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and situated within the state of California, were forfeited and resumed to the United States, and said lands were restored to the public domain, including all the odd numbered sections of land for thirty (30) miles on each side of said line of route of said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company definitely fixed as aforesaid between the eastern boundary of California and the Pacific ocean at San Buenaventura, which lands are still owned by your orators."

* * * * * * * * *

And the bill among other things prays as follows:

" Your orators further pray that the Court will define and determine the rights of your orators to the odd numbered sections of land in California within the thirty-mile limits of the said line of route of said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, as shown by the maps of said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company on file and of record in the General Land Office, and will decree that the United States are the owners in fee of said lands, as against all rights and claims of the defendants based upon or through said grants made by the United States by said acts of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871.

* * * * * * * * *

" Your orators pray for such other and further relief as to the court may seem equitable. * * *"

The prayer of the bill was amended by asking further relief as against the defendant's claims under the resolution of 1870 and act of 1866. [rec. 36, 37.]

The amendment was not necessary to authorize the court to grant the relief to the United States under the prayer for general relief and under the prayer to quiet title to all the lands within the Atlantic and Pacific grant, but if there were any doubt, that ambiguity was clearly removed by the amendment.

The Answer.

The answer of the Southern Pacific Company and other defendants admits the failure of the Atlantic and Pacific Company to construct any railroad in California, and admits that all rights to lands of that company were forfeited and restored to the public domain by the act of July 6, 1886, but puts in issue every other material allegation of the bill.

The answer sets forth at length the alleged grants by Congress of the lands in suit to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866, joint resolution of June 28, 1870, and section 23 of the act of March 3, 1871. (rec. 55–89.)

The answer contains the following:

"Said defendants deny that said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company filed maps of definite location designating part of its line in the state of California, in the said office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in the year 1872, or at any time or at all. * * * * * * * * "

The answer also denies that the maps were approved and that any withdrawal was made for the Atlantic and Pacific Company.

The answer also contains the following:

"Said defendants deny that said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company had or claimed to have a prospective right or a present right or a prospective as well as a present right to said lands in controversy. * * * * * * * " "The defendants allege that the plaintiff has no right, title or interest whatsoever in or to said lands or any part thereof. That all of said lands were granted to and are owned by these defendants as is hereinbefore particularly set forth, and that the Department of the Interior has no authority or power to sell or in anywise dispose of said lands."

The United States filed a general replication to the answer, thereby putting in issue all of the allegations of the answer.

The court will observe that the controlling issues in the case are the following:

(1) Whether a valid grant was made to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by the act of July 27, 1866.

(2) Whether that company filed its map of definite location.

(3) Whether the maps were approved by the Interior Department.

(4) Whether the act of Congress of July 6, 1886, forfeited those lands and restored them to the public domain free and clear of all rights of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to them.

(5) Whether the grants to the Southern Pacific operated upon any lands within the limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant.

That these issues were all determined in the first cases in favor of the Government and against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the trustees of its mortgage bonds and those in privity with them, clearly appears from the opinions of the court in 146 U. S., 517, 619, and 168 U. S., 1, 66.

The Lands in Suit.

The Government dismissed from the present suit on January 7, 1898, a list of lands which had been patented to the railroad and sold to third parties prior to commencement of suit, which lands are described in the decree.

Of the patented lands remaining in suit 360 acres were patented prior to commencement of this case.

The bill in the present case was filed May 14, 1894, and thereafter and pendente lite patents were erroneously issued by the Interior Department to the Southern Pacific for about 30,000 acres of lands embraced in the suit and within the Atlantic and Pacific grant. Prior to the suit the railroad had made executory contracts to third parties for these lands so patented pendente lite, and had received about one-fifth of the purchase price, and the contracts provided in effect that the company had not received patents or title to these lands, and that if it failed to do so the contract should be void and the money paid should be refunded.

While the Circuit Court gave the Government a decree for all of the lands in the Atlantic and Pacific grant, except those above named, the court dismissed the bill as to those 30,000 acres patented pendente lite although it appeared that the railroad held the legal title to the lands, subject to the payment of the bulk of the purchase price, which still remained unpaid. (Record 336, 353.)

Pleas in Abatement.

This suit having been brought to enforce a claim to real estate and to remove a cloud upon the title, such of the defendants as were non-residents of the state were served by publication.

Defendants Southern Pacific Railroad Company and D. O. Mills and G. L. Lansing, trustees, alleged to be citizens of California, residing at San Francisco in the northern district, who were personally served in the state (rec. 40, 41), and the Central Trust Company of

New York, a citizen of the state of New York, filed pleas in abatement and to the jurisdiction. [record 42, 46.]

The pleas upon full argument were overruled [record 49, 51] upon the grounds clearly shown in the opinion filed by Judge Ross of the Circuit Court [see 63 Fed., 481, 486], that there is an essential difference between suits in rem and suits in personam, and that a suit to enforce a claim to real estate or to remove a cloud upon the title is "substantially a suit in rem" within the doctrine of cases, such as Arndt vs Griggs, 134 U. S., 316, and, therefore, that the court could entertain jurisdiction of the cause upon service by publication, as provided by section 8 of the act of March 3, 1875.

Since the opinion of Judge Ross was rendered upon this question, the whole matter has been entirely put at rest, and in accordance with the views of the Circuit Court in the decisions in Greeley vs. Lowe, 155 U. S., 58.

Dick vs. Foraker, 155 U. S., 404, 410, 411.

But as the ruling of the Circuit Court in overruling the pleas is not assigned as error, the contention has doubtless been abandoned by defendants.

Jurisdiction in Equity.

The relief sought by this bill is to cancel patents erroneously issued to a part of the lands, and to quiet and determine the title to the lands in California within the Atlantic & Pacific grant, not embraced in former suits.

The jurisdiction in equity is grounded upon: (1) cancellation of the patents, and (2) the quieting of title conferred by California statute, Code Civil Procedure, section 738, authorizing suits to quiet title, and which statute will be administered by the United States courts in equity. (Moore vs. Steinbach, 127 U. S., 70, 84.)

In the present case the defendants answered to the merits, without raising any question as to the jurisdiction in equity, and put the United States to its proof, and as the Circuit Court had undoubted power to grant the relief sought, any objection to the jurisdiction in equity was waived. (Perrego vs. Dodge, 163 U. S., 160, 164. Brown vs. Lake Superior Co., 134 U. S., 530, 535.)

Assignment of Errors.

(On cross-appeal of United States.)

1. The court erred in decreeing that the United States take nothing as to the lands, or any of them, adjudged by said decree to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith and for value, being the lands described on pages No. 15 and No. 20, inclusive, of said decree, except the southeast one-quarter of section 25, township 9 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino meridian, it appearing that said lands had been contracted to be sold by said railroad company to third persons upon partial payments, and that only a part of the purchase price had been paid, and that no sale had been completed or deed to any of said lands executed prior to the commencement of this suit.

2. The court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of and to quiet its title to the said lands, or any of them.

3. The court erred in refusing to adjudge that the defendants had no title or interest in said lands or any of them.

4. The court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of the legal title to said lands and of all interest and estate claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein, subject only to the equities in favor of said purchasers respectively to the amounts actually paid upon the purchase price.

5. The court erred in adjudging that patents issued by the United States to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for said lands, pending this suit, granted to or conferred upon the defendants, or any of them, any right, title, or interest in said lands or any of them.

6. The court erred in adjudging that said lands described as aforesaid, or any of them were sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith or for value.

7. The court erred in adjudging that the terms of the contracts, under which said purchasers and each of them contracted to purchase said lands, did not carry notice to such purchasers, and each of them, of the right and title of the United States to said lands.

8. The court erred in refusing to adjudge what title and rights the defendants before the courts had in said lands.

9. The court erred in refusing to adjudge what title and rights the defendants before the court had in said lands.

10. The court erred in refusing to give the United States a decree for those lands adjudged to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company since November 22, 1889, the date of commencement of the suits in the cases reported in 146 U. S., 615–619.

11. The court erred in refusing to adjudge that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and those in privity with that company, who contracted to purchase lands while the former suits reported in 146 U. S., 615–619, were pending, were not bound by the adjudication in those cases.

12. The court erred in adjudging that any executory contract for the sale of land made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is valid as to any payment made thereon after notice to the purchaser of the rights of the United States.

Points and Authorities.

First Point.

THE QUESTIONS AND CLAIMS IN ISSUE BETWEEN THE PARTIES IN THE PRESENT SUIT, WERE IN ISSUE AND WERE FINALLY AND CONCLUSIVELY DETERMINED IN THE FORMER SUITS BETWEEN THE SAME PARTIES REPORTED IN 146 U. S., 570, 615, 619.

As to what questions, claims and facts were in issue and finally determined in the former cases in 146 U. S. can hardly be stated more clearly than has already been done in 168 U. S., 1, 66.

Notwithstanding that the court evidently supposed it had for ever put at rest all questions as to the scope, validity and effect of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Company in California, and as to the operation and effect of the forfeiture of that grant by the act of Congress of July 6, 1886, and as to whether any grant, or claim of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company could operate upon or affect any right of the United States to forfeit those lands and to restore them to the public domain, we find that the Southern Pacific Company is contending here that the former decisions related only to certain tracts of land or certain classes of land, and that nothing has been adjudged as to the rights of that company to the Atlantic and Pacific grant, under the grant to the Southern Pacific Company by the act of July 27, 1866, and resolution of June 28, 1870, and as to the rights of the Southern Pacific to select as indemnity the lands of the Atlantic and Pacific grant falling within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific grants.

The effort of the Southern Pacific Company to distinguish the present case from the cases in 146 U. S., 570, 615, 619, is similar to that assumed by the company in 168 U. S., 1, 66, but however ingenious the argument, the court would not allow counsel for the company to make out that a different question or issue was presented, because slightly different words or phraseology might have been used in the different answers filed by that company, and the court could not see its way clear to say that a different question or claim was presented because different or other testimony had been taken, and the court, quoting from Last Chance Company vs. Tyler Company, 157 U. S., 690, said:

"The essence of estoppel by judgment being that there has been a judicial determination of the facts, and the question always is, has there been such determination? and not upon what evidence or by what means was it reached."

The court also said:

"The general principle announced in numerous cases is that a right, question or fact distinctly put in issue and directly determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, as a ground of recovery, cannot be disputed in a subsequent suit between the same parties or their privies; and even if the second suit is for a different cause of action, the right, question, or fact, once so determined must, as between the same parties or their privies, be taken as conclusively established, so long as the judgment in the first suit remains unmodified. This general rule is demanded by the very object for which civil courts have been established, which is to secure the peace and repose of society by the settlement of matters capable of judicial determination. Its enforcement is essential to the maintenance of social order; for, the aid of judicial tribunals would not be invoked for the vindication of the rights of persons and property if, as between parties and their privies, conclusiveness did not attend the judgments of such tribunals in respect to all matters properly put in issue and actually determined by them."

In the former case the amended bill of complaint of the United States against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company et al., which was filed December 22, 1889, and the decision in which case is reported in 146 U. S., 615, 619, alleged that a grant was made to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866.

The amended bill then proceeds to quote the provisions of said act, and then alleges as follows [rec. 669]:

"Your orator alleges that by and pursuant to said act of Congress, the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company was created and duly organized, and on November 23, 1866,, within the time and in the manner provided in said act, accepted said grant, and did designate the line of its route from Springfield, Missouri, to the Pacific by maps and plats thereof, which it filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in manner following, to-wit:

On or about March 9, 1872, said company filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office maps designating the line of its route and showing the general features of the country and vicinity as follows:

First—From San Francisco to San Miguel Mission, in California.

Second—Map of its route from San Miguel Mission via Santa Barbara and San Buenaventura, to a point in township 2 south, range 17 west, San Bernardino Base and Meridian, in California.

Third—Map of its route from said point last mentioned to a point in township 7 north, range 7 east, San Bernardino Base and Meridian, in California.

Fourth—Map of its route from said point last named to the Colorado river, and thereafter, on or about March, 1872, said company filed in said office as aforesaid its several other maps designating its route from said point last named to Springfield in the state of Missouri, making altogether a continuous line designating its entire route, and showing the general features of the country from said town of Springfield, Missouri, by way of the points named in said act of Congress of July 27, 1866, to the Pacific at San Buenaventura, and from there to San Francisco, and in the manner provided in said act, and such designation was accepted by the United States.

Your orator alleges that said several parts of its map, filed as aforesaid, made and constituted the entire route or line of said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, fully designating the whole thereof.

Your orator alleges that on March 9, 1872, and on April 22, 1872, the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, respectively, ordered all the odd sections of land within thirty miles on each side of said designated route of said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company reserved from sale and withdrawn.

Your orator alleges that said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company did construct and complete a portion of its road west of Springfield, Missouri, in the time and manner required by said act, but did not at any time construct or complete any railroad west of the Colorado river.

Your orator further shows that by the act of Congress approved July 6, 1886, entitled, 'An act to forfeit the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the states of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast, and to restore the same to settlement and other purposes,' all the lands and rights to lands in California theretofore granted and conferred upon said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company were forfeited, resumed and restored to entry for non-completion of that portion of said railroad to have been constructed in California." [rec. 670, 671.]

These allegations of the bill were denied and put in issue by the answer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and other defendants.

The answer contains the following:

"The defendant admits that by and under said last mentioned act of Congress (July 27, 1866) the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company was created and organized and did duly accept the provisions of said law within the time and in the manner provided in said act, but it denies that said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company did designate the line of its route from Springfield, in the state of Missouri, to the Pacific Coast, as required by said act." [rec. 688.]

* * * * * * * * *

"Said company (A. & P. R. Co.) filed two maps, and claimed that they were filed for the purpose of locating parts or fragments of a line for its road in the state of California, but the defendant denies that said maps constituted a valid location of said road in California. Certified copies of said maps are annexed to the answer heretofore filed in this suit by this defendant and marked Exhibit "A," Nos. 1 and 2, which, with the endorsements thereon, are now herein referred to and made part of this answer; and this defendant says that said railroad was not located or attempted to be located on or about March 9, 1872, or at any such time, in California, either in whole or in part, otherwise than aforesaid by said maps. This defendant denies that the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, by or through the filing of said maps, acquired the right to any lands of the United States lying opposite to the lines or route marked on said maps, and denies that said company acquired the right to select any public lands along said routes or lines as 'other lands' in lieu of sections within twenty miles that had been granted, sold, 'reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or preempted or otherwise disposed of' by the United States."

"These maps were sent to the General Land Office by the Secretary of the Interior with a letter dated March 9, 1872, of which a certified copy is annexed to said answer heretofore filed, marked Exhibit 'B'."

"This defendant says that the lands mentioned in the amended bill herein lie opposite to the line of route marked on the said map, designated in said letter as No. 2 of a portion of the proposed road of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, that is, a piece of road within the state of California, 'from a point on the western boundary line of Los Angeles county, California, to a point in township seven (7) north, range seven (7) east, of San Bernardino meridian in said state.'" [rec. 688, 689.]

* * * * * * * * * *

"Further answering, this defendant says that the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company afterward, viz., on the 13th day of August, 1872, filed in the Department of the Interior two other maps which it claimed were intended to designate the line of other fragments or portions of the railroad in California. Certified copies of said maps, and of the letter of the Secretary of the Interior of April 16, 1874, in respect thereto, are annexed to the answer filed heretofore in this suit, by this defendant, marked Exhibit 'C,' Nos. 1 and 2, and are now herein referred to and made part of this answer. And this defendant denies that said maps constituted a valid location of the parts or fractions of road therein described, and denies that the four maps hereinbefore mentioned of four several parts of the road (from Colorado river via the Pacific at Ventura to San Francisco) constituted a valid location of the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad in California. And it denies that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad was ever in any otherwise lawfully located in the state of California. The grant of lands by the said act of Congress of July 27, 1866, hereinbefore mentioned, was made to aid in the construction of a railroad 'beginning at or near the town of Springfield, in the state of Missouri, thence to the western boundary line of said state, and thence by the most elegible railroad route as shall be determined by said company to a point on the Canadian river; thence to the town of Alburquerque, on the river Del Norte, and thence by the way of the Agua Frio or other suitable pass, to the headwaters of the Colorado Chiquito, and thence along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude, as near as may be found most suitable for a railway route to the Colorado river, at such point as may be selected by said company for crossing; thence by the most practicable and eligible route to the Pacific' (14 Stat., 292.) And the defendant says that there is nothing in or upon said maps to identify the same as the line of road mentioned in the said act of Congress."

And this defendant says, that it was further provided by said act as follows, that is to say:

'SEC. 18—And be it further enacted, that the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the state of California, is hereby authorized to connect with the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, formed under this act, at such point, near the boundary line of the state of California, as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco, and shall have a uniform gauge and rate of freight or fare with said road; and in consideration thereof, to aid in its construction, shall have similar grants of land, subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided, and shall be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad herein provided for.'

And that the construction of a railroad from the Colorado river to San Francisco was expressly relegated and appropriated to this defendant, and the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company was never authorized to construct any such line of railroad or to acquire any lands by reason of or in respect of the construction or proposed construction of any such line. [rec. 690–692.]

* * * * * *

The said parts of its (A. & P. R. Co.'s) map, when taken together, showed a line terminating at San Fran- cisco, which was not the terminus provided for by said act of Congress. [rec. 692.]

This defendant denies that on March 9, 1872, and April 22, 1872, or at any such times, the Secretary of the Interior, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, ordered all the odd sections of land within thirty miles on each side of the designated route of the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company reserved from sale and withdrawn.

* * * * * * *

This defendant avers that the lands involved in this suit had previously, on the 3rd, April, 1871, by the filing of the map of definite location of the defendant's railroad, been duly reserved from sale by and under the said twenty-third section of the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, and the 6th session of the act of Congress of July 27th, 1866, which said sections are quoted in the bill of complaint herein, and avers also that said lands had been duly withdrawn from market and appropriated for the use of this defendant by the order of the commissioner of the general land office to the register and Receiver of the United States land office at Los Angeles, issued April 21, 1871, a copy of which is hereto annexed marked 'R' and made a part of this answer." [rec. 693.]

The general replication filed by the United States put in issue all of the allegations of this answer. [record 708.]

Other allegations of the bill and of the answer might be quoted for the convenience of the court, but inasmuch as they have been set forth at length by the court in 168 U. S., 1, 66, it is believed that further quotation from the pleadings in that case are unnecessary.

The bills of complaint filed by the United States in the former cases which were decided in 146 U. S., 570, 614, were similar to the bill filed November 22, 1889, in the case reported in 146 U. S., p. 619, [record 721], and in those cases D. O. Mills and G. L. Lansing, trustees (now D. O. Mills and Homer S. King), were parties defendant and they are parties defendant here. The answer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, D. O. Mills and G. L. Lansing, trustees, in those cases contained the following further averment:

"But respondents deny that by said act (July 27, 1866), any grant of lands was made to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, which attached to the surface of the earth in the State of California, or took any lands in the State of California from out the public domain." [record 779–780.]

From these pleadings it appears that the issues presented and the claims made by the respective parties were the following:

The United States claimed that a valid grant had been made from Springfield, Missouri, to the Pacific ocean at San Buena Ventura to the Atlantic and Pacific Company, which grant in the state of California, primary and indemnity limits, was thirty miles wide on each side of the route, embracing alternate sections.

That the Atlantic and Pacific Company definitely located its line of railroad from Springfield, Missouri, to the Pacific ocean according to law, and that such plats were accepted by the United States in 1872, and at that time the lands falling within the primary and indemnity limits were withdrawn from market and reserved, and were appropriated to that company.

That the Atlantic and Pacific violated the conditions of its grant by failing to build the road, and that the entire grant in California was forfeited, resumed and restored to the public domain by the act of Congress of July 6, 1886.

These claims of the Government were all denied by the Southern Pacific Company and by the other defendants.

The Southern Pacific Company and the trustees of the mortgage bonds made the following claims:

That a grant of lands was never made to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in the state of California.

That that company never filed any map of definite location of its line of railroad, or otherwise identified any line of route or any lands contiguous to any such line.

That the grant of lands and authority to build a railroad from Needles on the Colorado river to the Pacific ocean was never conferred upon the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, but in the language of the answer, referring to section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866, and of the maps filed by the Atlantic and Patific from the Colorado river via Ventura to San Francisco, that the said grant and right "was expressly relegated and appropriated to this defendant * * *."

That section 18 of the act of 1866 made a grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company upon the very line which the Atlantic and Pacfic Company accepted and upon which it filed its map of definite location, and consquently that the Southern Pacific Company was entitled to that grant and not the Atlantic and Pacific Company.

That the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Company never took effect "on the surface of the earth in the state of California."

That the lands within the limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant were granted to the Southern Pacific by the acts of 1866 and 1871.

That the operative effect of the act of Congress of July 6, 1886, was not to restore to the public domain the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific, but that it was wholly inoperative as affecting any lands in California or the rights of the Southern Pacific to them. (see 168 U. S., 38, 39, 40.)

These claims of the Southern Pacific Company were put in issue by the United States by general replication to the answer.

Upon the issues thus joined and proofs made by the respective parties, the Circuit Court entered decisions in favor of the defendants dismissing the bills of complaint, from which appeals were taken to this court. (see 39 Fed., 132; 40 Fed., 611; 45 Fed., 596; 46 Fed., 683.)

Upon appeal to this court it was adjudged that sufficient and valid maps of definite location were filed in the year 1872 by the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, which took effect upon the lands along the line of route in California, between the Colorado river and the Pacific ocean, and that the title and right to those lands remained in the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, subject to a condition subsequent, and that upon failure to construct the road the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad was forfeited and resumed by the United States by the act of Congress of July 6, 1886, and that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company acquired no right or title to those lands. (See 146 U. S., 570, 615, 619.)

And the court said, at page 603:

"There never was a time, therefore, at which the grant of the Southern Pacific could be said to have attached to these lands, and the plausible argument based thereon, made by counsel in behalf of the Southern Pacific Company, falls to the ground."

The court further said, at page 607:

"Our conclusions, therefore, are, that a valid and sufficient map of definite location of its route from the Colorado river to the Pacific ocean was filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior; that by such act the title to these lands passed, under the grant of 1866, to the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and remained held by it subject to a condition subsequent until the act of forfeiture of 1886; that by that act of forfeiture the title of the Atlantic and Pacific was retaken by the general government, and retaken for its own benefit, and not that of the Southern Pacific Company; and that the latter company has no title of any kind to these lands. The decrees of the Circuit Court must be reversed, and the cases remanded with instructions to enter decrees for the plaintiff for the relief sought."

The Southern Pacific Company, still disputing the effect of the former adjudications in the cases in 146 U. S., compelled the Government to press to final decree other suits against that company, including the case against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, et al., reported in 168 U. S., 1–66, in which case the court then adjudged, as it had in the former suits, that the lands appertaining to the Atlantic & Pacific grant in California, between the Colorado river and the Pacific were forfeited in 1886 by the United States, without the Southern Pacific having acquired any right, title or interest therein that affected the power and authority of the Government to forfeit them and retake them.

The cause reported in 168 U. S., 1–66, was not only brought for lands within the Atlantic & Pacific grant claimed by the Southern Pacific under the act of March 3, 1871, called the "branch-line grant", but also embraced a large quantity of lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Company under the act of July 27, 1866, called the Southern Pacific "main-line grant"; and the lands embraced in the case in 168 U. S., 1–66, included:

(1) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific granted limits and granted limits of Southern Pacific Railroad branch line;

(2) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific granted limits and Southern Pacific indemnity limits branch line;

(3) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific indemnity limits and Southern Pacific granted limits branch line;

(4) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific indemnity limits and Southern Pacific indemnity limits branch line;

(5) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific granted limits and Southern Pacific granted limits main line;

(6) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific granted limits and Southern Pacific indemnity limits main line;

(7) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific indemnity limits and Southern Pacific granted limits main line;

(8) Lands in Atlantic and Pacific indemnity limits and Southern Pacific indemnity limits main line.

It was vigorously argued and at great length by counsel for the Southern Pacific in the case in 168 U. S., that the principle of res adjudicata could not be applied to the lands there involved, because the lands were in a different class from those involved in the cases in 146 U. S., but the ground upon which the court rested its decision precluded the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and those in privity with it from claiming the lands in California appertaining to the Atlantic and Pacific grant, which it had been adjudged were forfeited and restored to the public domain in 1886, without the Southern Pacific Company having acquired any interest in those lands.

THE CASE OF SOUTHERN PACIFIC VS. UNITED STATES, 168 U. S., 1, 66, WHICH INVOLVED LANDS IN THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT CLAIMED BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC UNDER BOTH ITS "MAIN LINE" GRANT OF 1866 AND "BRANCH LINE" GRANT OF 1871, WAS DECIDED AFTER THE PRESENT CASE WAS ARGUED AND SUBMITTED IN THE CIRCUIT CO T (Record 334), AND THEREFORE THE R CORD IN THAT SUIT WAS NOT INTRODUCED IN EVIDENCE IN THE PRESENT CASE, BUT THE QUESTIONS THERE DECIDED CONTROL EVERY ASPECT OF THE PRESENT SUIT.

The contention now made by the Southern Pacific that the court did not decide, in Southern Pacific Railroad vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1, against the claim of that company to lands within its "main line" grant under the act of July 27, 1866, and joint resolution of June 28, 1870, is fully met by the claims made in that suit, the evidence in the case, the decree of the courts below, the arguments of counsel for the railroad company, the opinion of this court and especially by the grounds of that decision.

The seven hundred thousand acres of land involved in that suit are described in the opinion of the court (168 U. S., 24), the location of which with respect to the main and branch lines of the Southern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific grants can be readily ascertained by reference to the maps in evidence in the former case (see map 33), and in the present case by the same map at page 640.

The answer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and of the other defendants in the case in 168 U. S. 1–66, upon which issue was joined by general replication, distinctly set up and averred a claim of right to the lands embraced in that suit under its "main line grant" of July 27, 1866, as well as its "branch line grant" of March 3, 1871.

Counsel for the Southern Pacific have seen fit to quote from the oral argument in the Circuit Court of Appeals of counsel for the Government, in the attempt to show that there was no issue as to the main line grant in either of the lower courts or in this court in that suit; but what was contended in the Court of Appeals as well as in this court in that cause by counsel for the Government was that the Southern Pacific Company had badly pleaded its cause and had weakly supported it by evidence in failing to distinctly aver and prove a definite location and construction of the road.

But the claims of that company to that grant and the proofs to support them were made in their own peculiar way.

In the answer of the Southern Pacific in that cause, which was filed May 1, 1891, and which was a part of the record in the Circuit Court and in the Circuit Court of Appeals, but which for some reason, is not contained in the printed record in that cause, in this court, contains the following averments:

"The respondents deny that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company was authorized by said act or any other act of Congress to locate or construct a line of railroad from the crossing of the Colorado river to San Francisco. They are advised and believe, and therefore aver, that under said act of Congress the respondent, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, alone was authorized to construct a line of railroad from the crossing of the Colorado river to San Francisco and to acquire lands under said act of Congress along and opposite said line * * * * *

The respondents admit that the lands described in the complainant's bill are not mineral lands and that they have never been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, pre-empted, or otherwise disposed of by the United States, except as they have been granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under said Congressional grants, made July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871. * * * * * *

As to the other lands described in said bill of complaint, and not included in the said schedules, Exhibits A, B, C, and D above mentioned, the respondents claim the right to locate and select under said acts of Congress of July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871, all such as are or at the time of the accrual of their rights under said acts were public lands, not excepted from said grants."

In the amended answer of the Southern Pacific Company and others, in that cause, filed June 12, 1893, it is averred as follows: (record No. 71, October 1, 1900. 168 U. S.)

"The said respondents aver that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company never made any actual or definite location of its railroad in California, nor constructed any part of a railroad in said state, under or according to the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866, or any amendments, modifications or supplements thereto, or otherwise howsoever.

* * * * * * * * *

The said respondents deny that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company was authorized by said act or any other act of Congress to locate or construct a line of railroad from the crossing of the Colorado river to San Francisco; they are advised and believe and therefore aver that under said act of Congress the respondent, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, alone was authorized to construct a line of railroad from the crossing of the Colorado river to San Francisco, and to acquire lands under said act of Congress along and opposite said line."

(record in case in 168 U. S., 1, at pages 100, 101, and 102.)

It is further averred in the amended answer in that cause:

"That attached hereto and made a part of this answer, are several exhibits, which respondents ask may be taken as a part of the answer, and referring thereto and to each and every allegation, to which said exhibits are pertinent, namely * * * * * * Exhibit B, referred to on page 22 of the answer, being a statement under date of July 3, 1890, of the condition on the books of the Land Department of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of lands involved in said suit, tabulated under the following headings:

Contract No. Contract dated. Purchaser. Address. Fraction. Sec. Twp. Rge. Acres. Sold for. Surveyed or unsurveyed. A. & P. R. R. Co. limits. S. P. R. R. limits. Main. Branch line," and other information.

(record in 168 U. S., 1, at pages 120, 121.)

The tables of land sales in the statement of July 3, 1890, referred to in the answer, and made a part thereof, are found in the record in the case in 168 U. S., in the first half of Volume 6, and those tables show that lands estimated to exceed one hundred thousand acres in quantity are situated within the Southern Pacific "main line grant," and within the following townships described in those tables.

Township 6 and 7 north, ranges 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17 west; township 5 north, ranges 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13 west, S. B. M.

The maps showing the Southern Pacific main and branch line grants and their 20 and 30-mile limits, some of which were introduced by each party, are found in the record in that case in Volume 6, being maps 4, 19, 33 and 36.

The decree of the Circuit Court in the case in 168 U. S. annulled all patents issued pursuant to the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, and acts amendatory and supplemental thereto (record in 168 U. S., 1, at page 357), and the land tables contained in Exhibit "B" to the answer, show that a large part of the lands within the main line grant were embraced by the patents so vacated.

This ruling of the Circuit Court and the affirmation thereof by the Circuit Court of Appeals annuling patents under the act of 1866, was assigned as error by the Southern Pacific Company upon its appeals (record in 168 U. S., 1, at pages 3175 and 3218).

The claim of the Southern Pacific Company to those lands within its "main line" grant was argued in this court by counsel for appellants and also by counsel for the Government. (See appellee's brief, pp. 122–130.)

Although it was contended by council for the appellants that a considerable part of the lands involved were situated within the main line grant of the Southern Pacific, and for that reason that the lands were held under a different title and could not be controlled by the decisions in 146 U. S., yet it was argued with the same breath that the Southern Pacific Company had not sufficiently alleged and proven a definite location of the road to fully present its claim of title, but the result reached in most cases is because one side or the other has lacked in sufficiency of proofs and it is held that a final adjudication may be had even in a case where the defendant has defaulted.

Southern Pacific vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1, 51.

In the opening brief of counsel for appellants in the case in 168 U. S., 1, at pages 120, 121, it is said:

"It appears that some 6,077.80 acres of land involved in this suit (and embraced within the limits of the Branch Line Grant under the Texas Pacific Act of 1871) are also embraced within the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, made by the 18th section of the Atlantic & Pacific Act of July 27, 1866, for what is called (in land-grant nomenclature) the Main Line of the Southern Pacific—viz., from Mojave to the Needles.

This fact appears from a diagram offered in evidence by the complainant marked 'Exhibit No. 29' (vide Vol. 6 of Record, Map 31). This diagram was certified by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, January 19, 1889, as "a diagram on file in this office showing "the limits of the grant to the Atlantic & Pacific Rail-"road Company in Los Angeles Land District with the "intersecting limits to the agent to the Southern "Pacific Railroad Company, main and branch lines," and shows the line of the Southern Pacific Main Line Grant, and also by a yellow line the 20-mile limit therefrom on the south. Embraced in this suit, but north of said yellow line (and thus included in the Main Line Grant), are the following lands:

Sections 13, 15 and 17, T. 7 N., R. 11 W	1,920.00 acres
Sections 13, 15 and 17, T. 7 N., R. 12 W	1,920 00 "
Sections 7, 13, 15 and 17, T. 7 N., R. 13 W	2,237.80 "
Total	6,077.80 acres

In the petition for rehearing filed in that case by counsel for appellants, wherein a reconsideration was sought as to lands within the Southern Pacific main line grant and as to the right of the Southern Pacific to select indemnity within the limits of the forfeited Atlantic & Pacific grant, counsel for appellants, apparently forgetting the allegations of their answer, the maps introduced in evidence by both parties, and the decree of the Circuit Court, annulling patents under the act of 1866, and their own assignment of error in the lower courts showing to the contrary, proceed as follows, in their Petition for Rehearing:

"The appellants in the above entitled cause hereby humbly pray that the said case may be reheard, and a reargument therein ordered as to certain classes of land involved in the suit, and which are hereinafter specifically referred to, and that decrees be rendered in respect to such respective classes of land, as hereinafter prayed respectively." (See pages 1 and 2.)

"FIRST."

"AS TO THE LANDS EMBRACED WITHIN THE INDEMNITY LIMITS OF SOUTHERN PACIFIC BRANCH LINE GRANT, AND THE RIGHT OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY TO MAKE INDEMNITY SELECTIONS THEREIN AFTER THE FORFEITURE OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT AND THE RESTORATION TO THE PUBLIC DOMAIN OF THE LANDS INCLUDED THEREIN."

"SECOND."

"AS TO THE CLAIM OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, AND THE MORTGAGE TRUSTEES, IN RESPECT TO LANDS EMBRACED WITHIN ITS MAIN LINE GRANT UNDER THE 18TH SECTION OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC ACT OF 1866."

"As a matter of fact considerable amounts of land embraced within the limits of the Main Line Grant are included within the land for the recovery of which by the United States this suit was brought. But these lands were also embraced within the limits of the Southern Pacific Branch Line Grant, and it was not observed by counsel in charge of the defense of this suit that these lands were also covered by the Main Line Grant, until the case was being prepared for argument in the Circuit Court of Appeals. (See page 47.)

This court decided against the claims and contentions of the Southern Pacific Company as to the lands within the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant claimed by it under both its main line and branch line grants, and placed its decision upon the following grounds, which absolutely precluded that company from claiming any of the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant under either the act of 1871, 1866 or any other act.

"For the reasons stated, we are of opinion that it must be taken in this case to have been conclusively adjudicated in the former cases as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company—

1. That the maps filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient, as maps of definite location, to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of 1866.

2. That upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department, the rights of that company in the lands so granted, attached, by relation, as of the date of the act of 1866; and,

3. That in view of the conditions attached to the grant, and of the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the forfeiture act of 1886, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain, WITHOUT THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY HAVING ACQUIRED ANY INTEREST THEREIN THAT AFFECTED THE POWER OF THE UNITED STATES TO FORFEIT AND RESTORE THEM TO THE PUBLIC DOMAIN.

These grounds being accepted as the basis of our decision, the law in the present case is clearly for the United States; for, as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872, and, therefore, appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be, for the reasons stated in the former decision, that the United States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to the relief given by the decree below."

The lands in suit here are also within the thirty-mile limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Company and appertain to the line of route as definitely located and established by that company in the year 1872. It cannot be possible, therefore, that the defendants in former suits or their privies can have any right, title or interest in or to any of these lands under the act of July 27, 1866, or act of March 3, 1871, or any other act.

The determination by the court of every one of the issues and claims of the respective parties in the former suits is necessarily repugnant to and inconsistent with any claim by the defendants here to any of these lands.

In the former suits the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and D. O. Mills and G. L. Lansing, trustees for bondholders, under the mortgage of 1875, were parties defendant. By reason of the death of Lansing, Homer S. King has been substituted as defendant in this suit.

The adjudications are, therefore, binding upon the Southern Pacific Company and D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, trustees.

2. DEFENDANT, THE CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, HAVING BEEN INTERESTED IN THE FORMER SUITS, AND HAVING BEEN REPRESENTED THERE BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, IS ALSO BOUND BY THE FORMER ADJUDICATIONS.

In the present case defendant, Central Trust Company of New York, is a trustee for the bondholders under a certain mortgage or deed of trust, secured upon the lands granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the acts of Congress of July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871, executed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the Central Trust Company on August 25, 1888. [rec. 1725.]

The mortgage of 1875 from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to Mills and Lansing, trustees referred to in the mortgage of 1888, contains the following provision:

"That all the lands hereinabove conveyed and mortgaged shall be under the sole and exclusive management and control of the said party of the first part (Southern Pacific Railroad Company), who shall have full power and authority to make contracts for the sale of the same at such prices and on such credit or terms of payment and such other conditions as shall be agreed on by the said parties of the first and second parts, and as shall seem to them best calculated to secure the payment in full of all the bonds issued as hereinbefore provided, until entry or foreclosure by the trustees * * * ." [rec. 1706.]

The mortgage of August 25, 1888, to the Central Trust Company provides as follows: (see p. 1751.)

"All lands granted or conveyed under the acts of Congress hereinbefore referred to and in anywise affected by the provisions hereof, shall be subject to the express provision that if and so long as the bonds issued under and secured by the said indenture or mortgage to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, dated April 1, 1875, or any thereof shall remain outstanding, any and all sales made in the manner in said mentioned indenture of mortgage prescribed, shall absolutely and forever release the said lands from any and all liens or en- cumbrances of, under or in respect of, this mortgage or the bonds issued thereunder; and if and when all the bonds issued under said indenture of mortgage of April 1, 1875, shall have been fully satisfied and discharged and the lien of such last mentioned indenture of mortgage upon such lands fully released, then the lands, so far as they remain unsold at that time, shall be subject to like provisions in respect to sale, and conveyance and release from the lien of this mortgage as are in said mortgage of April 1, 1875, prescribed in respect to sale and conveyance and release from the lien thereof."

By the very terms of this mortgage the "sole and exclusive management and control" of these lands was placed by the Central Trust Company, trustee for the bondholders in the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, thereby contemplating and intending that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company should not only go on and secure title to these lands from the United States under the acts of Congress, if possible, and from time to time to sell and dispose of them, but that it should prosecute or defend all suits or other proceedings affecting the management and control of these lands. But the trust deed to the Central Trust Company expresssly provided that it should not cover any lands theretofore "sold" [rec. 1745]. Therefore if the trust deed of 1875 was a "sale" as now contended, these lands were not covered by the trust deed of 1888.

In pursuance of the power and authority conferred upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the trustees and bondholders to take charge of the sole and exclusive management and control of these lands, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company vigorously defended the former suits brought by the Government to quiet the title of the United States to the lands in controversy, and it is not denied but that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the trustees of the bonds were ably represented in those suits. In pursuance of its authority to sell the lands, the Southern Pacific Company has for years made contracts of sale to numerous persons.

The principle is well settled that a person although not a formal party of record in an action, if represented in such litigation is bound by the judgment to the same extent as if a party of record, and a judgment against a trustee or one acting in a representative capacity binds the cestui que trust.

Shaw vs. Railroad Company, 100 U. S., 605, 611.

Maloy vs. Duden, 86 Fed., 402, 404.

In the latter case the court said :

"To give full effect to the principle by which parties are held bound by a judgment and are not permitted to re-examine the controversy decided by it, not only those who are nominal or formal parties are considered but so are all others who are identified in interest with either of the immediate parties, and who actually participate in conducting the controversy. The real principal who is behind the formal party and is actually represented by him throughout the controversy is the real party, and in order to invoke a judgment as an estoppel for or against him, it is always competent to show what the real situation was and what part in promoting or defending the suit was actually taken by him. 1 Greenl. Ev., 523; Lovejoy vs. Murray, 3 Wall., 1; Robbins vs. Chicago City, 4 Wall., 657. It is upon this principle that it has often been held that the owner of a patent can invoke a former adjudication of its validity as an estoppel in a subsequent suit against an infringing defendant, although the defendant was not a party of record in the former suit. Miller vs. Tobacco Co., 7 Fed., 91; Manufacturing Co. vs. Miller, 41 Fed., 357; David Bradley Mfg. Co. vs. Eagle Mfg. Co., 6 C. C. A., 661, 57 Fed., 985."

In the recent case of Sanders vs. Peck, decided by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit, 87 Fed., 61, 62, 63, the court held that a person who was represented in a former suit by an agent was fully bound by the adjudication. In that case the court said:

"In contemplation of law the appellant was a party to the proceedings and decree, represented by his attorney Corbin, of whose unrevoked authority in the premises there is and can be no question, and if the decree so rendered is not to be regarded as having been consented to by the appellant, it is at least binding upon him until set aside, as of course it might be on proof of fraud."

It is, therefore, submitted that there can be no doubt but that the Central Trust Company of New York, trustee for bondholders under the mortgage of 1888, defendant in the present suit, is bound by the prior adjudications equally with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and as under the former decision the trustees acquired no interest in the lands, they could not be bona fide purchasers under the confirmation acts of 1887 or 1896.

3. The mortgage by the Southern Pacific Company to Mills and Lansing, trustees, executed in 1875, also provides that the Southern Pacific Company shall have the sole and exclusive management and control of the lands, and for the reasons given, and upon those authorities these trustees and the bondholders whom they represent would also be bound by the former adjudications even if they had not been parties of record.

Neither the trustees nor the bondholders could have been bona fide purchasers under the acts of 1887 or 1896, which confirmed the titles of bona fide purchasers as it was adjudicated that they had no title.

4. THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY BEING ESTOPPED BY THE PRIOR ADJUDICATIONS FROM DISPUTING THE TITLE OF THE UNITED STATES TO THE LANDS WITHIN THE LIMITS OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT, THAT COMPANY AND THOSE IN PRIVITY WITH IT ARE ESTOPPED FROM CLAIMING THAT THE COMPANY HAS SOLD ANY OF THOSE LANDS SINCE THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE FORMER SUITS TO THIRD PERSONS.

The court said, in 168 U. S., at p. 48:

That "a right, question, or fact distinctly put in issue and directly determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, as a ground of recovery, cannot be disputed in a subsequent suit between the same parties or their privies. * * * ".

The amended bill of complaint in the case against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, decided in 140 U. S., 615–619, was filed Nov. 22, 1889, and the defendants were then in court. (record 644.)

The answer of the Southern Pacific was filed December 30, 1889. (rec. 684.)

The replication of the United States was filed January 25, 1890. (rec. 708.)

The decree of the Circuit Court dismissed the bill in the present case as to about 30,000 acres of land [record 353–362] upon the ground that prior to the commencement of the present suit the Southern Pacific Railroad Company had sold or contracted to sell those 30,000 acres.

From this part of the decree the United States has taken a cross-appeal. [record case 495, pp. 4–7.]

These contracts of sale were made by the company to divers persons.

Many of the contracts of sale were made subsequent to the commencement of the former suits (see Table of Land Sales, Appendix 4), including the following:

To W. M. and M. C. Bailey, September 21, 1892; 321.29 acres; agreed price $400. Paid prior to present suit $205.62.

To same parties; same date; 320 acres; agreed price $400; paid $204.80.

To Joseph B. Lippincott, January 18, 1894; 98.64 acres; agreed price $493.20; paid $181.50.

To George R. Lyman, April 11, 1892; 160 acres; agreed price $400; paid $169.60.

To same person; same date; 160 acres; agreed price $400; paid $169.60.

To same person; same date; 160 acres; agreed price $400; paid $169.60.

To same person; same date; 160 acres; agreed price $400; paid $169.60.

To Mrs. Elizabeth Schleismayer, April 12, 1895; 120 acres; agreed price $960; paid $245.76.

To W. M. and M. C. Bailey, January 25, 1892; 320 acres; agreed price $1360; paid $307.20.

To same parties; May 13, 1892; 160 acres; agreed price $400; paid $102.

To same parties; January 25, 1892; 640 acres; agreed price $2720; paid $739.28 [record pp. 272, 284, 286.]

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and those in privity with it, being estopped in this suit from denying that the act of Congress of July 6, 1886, forfeited these lands and that by operation of that act they became the property of the United States and were restored to the public domain, it cannot lie in the mouth of the Southern Pacific to show in this suit, that after the commencement of the former suits they sold or conveyed any interest in these lands to third persons, as they and their privies are all bound and estopped by the prior adjudications.

The principle is well settled that a third person who purchases a right or property under litigation, from a party to a suit, is bound by the judgment entered in such suit to the same extent as if a formal party, and in contemplation of law such purchaser is represented in such suit by the party from whom he has purchased.

Murray vs. Ballou, 1 Johns. Ch., 566.

Whiteside vs. Hazelton, 110 U. S., 296, at p. 301.

Union Trust Co. vs. Southern Co., 130 U. S., 565, 571.

It is, therefore, submitted that the effect of the former adjudications was to establish the title of the United States to these lands as against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the purchasers who are in privity with it, and that the company defendant here is estopped from claiming that any third person has acquired any interest in the property since the commencement of the former suits.

5. IN ANY EVENT, EXECUTORY CONTRACTS OF SALE MADE BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY CAN HAVE NO VALIDITY AS TO ANY PAYMENTS MADE AFTER NOTICE TO THE PURCHASERS.

The 30,000 acres of land, as to which the decree of the Circuit Court dismissed the bill, were contracted to be sold to divers persons by the Southern Pacific Company upon executory contracts, upon which one-fifth of the purchase price was paid at date of contract, and the balance of the purchase price was payable in equal amounts, running through a period of years. [rec. 272–310.]

It appears from the evidence that one or more payments of principal had been made upon each of the contracts, at time of commencement of present suit, and on most of them there had been payments made of interest due upon the unpaid purchase price.

The tabulated statement of sales, showing names of purchasers, description of land, dates of sales, purchase price and amount paid, furnished by the Southern Pacific Company (Appendix 4) shows that the greater part of the purchase price, in each contract of sale, remained unpaid at the time of the commencement of the present suit as well as when the former suit was commenced. The bill in the present suit was filed May 14, 1894, [rec. 8–27], and subpœna served July 23, 1894. [rec. 40, 41].

In order to constitute a purchase there must be a payment, and the purchase is not completed excepting as to the payments actually made prior to notice.

In Lytle vs. Lansing, 147 U. S., 59, at p. 70, the court said that it was "a settled rule in equity that a purchaser without notice to be entitled to protection must not only be so at the time of the contract or conveyance, but at the time of the payment of the purchase money." Citing numerous authorities.

Applying this principle to the contracts to purchase in the present case, and it appears that as to whatever payments have been made after May 14, 1894, cannot operate to affect the legal or equitable rights of the United States to this land in any event.

And that principle applies with equal force to payments made subsequent to commencement of former case on September 29, 1889.

The legal title to these lands remained in the Southern Pacific Company (if not in the Government), subject to the payment of the balance of the purchase price, and an equitable right remained in the purchaser to the extent of payments made prior to the commencement of this suit or of notice.

In any event, therefore, the United States was entitled to a decree for the interest which the Southern Pacific Railroad Company held in these tracts at the time this suit was commenced, and the decree of the Circuit Court in dismissing the bill as to these lands was erroneous.

The amendatory act of Congress of Feb. 12, 1896 (see Appendix), expressly provided that where less than the Government price had been paid to the railroad that, in order to procure title from the United States, the balance should be paid to the Government.

It was optional with the Government to join or not to join the purchasers as parties defendant in this case.

The right was with the Government to pursue the railroad company alone for the interest claimed by it.

Williams vs. U. S., 138 U S., 514, 516.

Furthermore, the acts of 1887 and 1896 extend protection to the bona fide purchasers, not to the railroad.

By reason of these acts, it became a legal duty of the Government to execute proper conveyance to such purchasers.

This is required by Section 2 of the act of March 2, 1896, by Section 4 of the act of March 3, 1887, and by the act of February 12, 1896.

The Government, therefore, has a right to annul the wrongful claim of the railroad, in order to convey a full and unclouded title to the purchaser.

Curtner vs. U. S., 149 U. S., 662, 672, 673.

U. S. vs. Bell, etc., Co., 128 U. S., 362, 368.

There is not a hint or suggestion in the acts of Congress that the Government was to give the purchasers a greater estate or interest than they had purchased, yet the Circuit Court erroneously adjudged that the Government had no interest in these lands.

The effect of the decree of the Circuit Court is to give the lands to the railroad.

6. The Circuit Court by its decree erroneously adjudged that the decree shall not "cancel or vacate any patent issued by the United States to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands sold by it to a bona fide purchaser." (record 362.)

The purpose of this suit was to determine as between the United States and the defendants, the title to the lands sued for, and the effect of the decree is to leave that matter undetermined.

Such a provision as this, refusing to determine the rights of the parties, was criticised by the court in Southern Pacific Railroad vs. United States, 168 U. S., 65, 66.

It does not appear from the evidence that any lands patented to the railroad have been sold to bona fide purchasers, except as to the 30,000 acres above referred to, which the court adjudged had been sold and as to which adjudication it is contended the court erred.

The Circuit Court gave the Government a decree with a string attachment which leaves open as to all the land the very question sought to be determined.

The Government was entitled to a decree for all of the lands sued for.

This point is more fully discussed in the "Eighth Point" of the brief.

In conclusion of the brief upon res adjudicata it is submitted that the claims here made to these lands by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and by Mills and King, trustees under the mortgage of 1875, and Central Trust Company, trustee under the mortgage of 1888, have been finally and conclusively determined against them by the former adjudications.

And as it appears that as to the 30,000 acres contracted to be sold, upon which only a partial payment has been made, that the Southern Pacific Company still wrongfully holds the legal title to these lands and all equitable rights in them, except as to the portion of the purchase price paid, and that the Government is entitled to a decree against the defendants for these lands, and for the interest which the defendants have in them The decree should be affirmed upon the appeal of the Southern Pacific Company and reversed upon the appeal of the Government with direction to enter a decree as indicated.

If these views find support in the opinions of your Honors, it will be unnecessary to consider any aspect of the case upon the merits.

Second Point.

UPON THE MERITS.

NEITHER THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC GRANT, MADE BY SECTION 18 OF THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF JULY 27, 1866, OR JOINT RESOLUTION OF JUNE 28, 1870, HAD ANY OPERATIVE EFFECT UPON ANY OF THE LANDS WITHIN THE THIRTY-MILE LIMITS OF AND APPERTAINING TO THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT.

The charter of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad (Act of July 27, 1866), in Section 1, lays down the route as follows:

"Beginning at or near the town of Springfield, in the state of Missouri, * * * thence to the town of Albuquerque, on the river Del Norte, and thence by way of Agua Frio, or other suitable pass, to the headquarters of the Colorado Chiquito, and thence along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude as near as may be found most suitable for a railway route to the Colorado river, at such point as may be selected by said company for crossing, and thence by the most practical and eligible route to the Pacific."

The grant of lands to the Atlantic and Pacific in the state of California, contained in section 3 of the act, was of every alternate section for twenty miles on each side for lands in place, and ten miles further on each side within which the company was authorized to select indemnity, making thirty miles on each side, or the alternate sections for sixty miles in width altogether.

The act provided in section 6, that a withdrawal should be made for the company.

Section 18 of the act provided as follows:

"Section 18. And be it further enacted, That the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the state of California, is hereby authorized to connect with the said Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, formed under this act, at such point near the boundary line of the state of California, as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco; and shall have a uniform gauge and rate of freight or fare with said road, and, in consideration thereof, to aid in its construction, shall have similar grants of land, subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided; and shall be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad herein provided for."

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which was authorized to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad "near the boundary line of the state of California," was a corporation created in December, 1865, under the laws of the state of California, and the articles of incorporation of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company authorized that company to construct a single line of railroad, described in the articles as follows:

"from some point on the Bay of San Francisco, in the state of California, through the counties of Santa Clara, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Los Angeles and San Diego, to the town of San Diego; thence eastward through the said county of San Diego to the eastern line of the state of California." [rec. 527.]

The act of the Legislature of the state of California, approved November 29, 1865, by authority of which the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was organized, provided in section 18, as follows:

" * * * Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to confer any powers on such companies to so change their road as to avoid any point named in their said articles of incorporation, except as provided in section 17, subdivision 7, of this act."

And by subdivision 7, of section 17, it was provided:

"But no such change shall vary the general route of said road as contemplated in the articles of association of said company."

The Charter of the Atlantic and Pacific Company did not fix the point upon the Pacific where that company was required to make its western terminus. The last point of latitude mentioned in the charter was the thirty-fifth parallel, and from thence the company was required to locate to the Pacific "by the most practicable and eligible route."

The Atlantic and Pacific Company explored the routes from the Colorado to the Bay of San Diego, and also from the Colorado to San Pedro, and also from the Colorado by the Soledad Pass to the Pacific ocean at San Buenaventura, and eventually fixed upon the latter route, as the most practicable and eligible, and filed maps of definite location upon that line in 1872, which were approved by the Government that year.

From San Buenaventura the company proceeded to locate its route and file maps thereon to San Francisco, but the Government rejected that part of the line between San Francisco and the Pacific ocean at San Buenaventura, and which action this court said, in the former cases in 146 U. S., 570, was entirely proper, for that the land grant of the company was exhausted when it reached the Pacific ocean at Ventura.

The charter of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company authorized the construction of the line of road of that company from San Francisco through the county of Los Angeles to San Diego, and thence east to the Colorado, and such line might have intersected the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad at or near San Buenaventura, the western boundary of the State, or near San Pedro, also on the western boundary, or at San Diego, near the southern boundary, depending upon the point where the Atlantic and Pacific might reach the coast.

That Congress contemplated and intended that the connection of the Southern Pacific with the Atlantic and Pacific should be made at or near one of these points, and not upon the Colorado river at Needles, is made certain from the following considerations:

(1) That the line down the coast prescribed in the charter of the Southern Pacific Company was the only line of route which that company was authorized to construct upon which could have intersected and connected with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, and the charter powers of the Southern Pacific must have been known to and understood by Congress.

(2) The laws of California forbade the Southern Pacific Company from constructing a railroad upon any other line than that described in the charter or articles of incorporation.

(3) The purpose of Congress in incorporating the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and providing for its construction with the aid of an enormous land grant, was, as expressed in the act, "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the states of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast," for Governmental and other public purposes. Congress had already provided for the construction of a railroad from Omaha to San Francisco by the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroad. Therefore, the purpose was to construct another railroad to the Pacific at some other point, and the contention of counsel for the Southern Pacific that that company was authorized to intersect the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad at Needles on the Colorado and parallel the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad for two hundred and fifty miles in California, would operate to wholly defeat the purpose of Congress, to secure the construction of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad to the Pacific Coast, with a Southern Pacific branch from the connection to San Francisco.

(4) The contention that Section 18 authorized the Southern Pacific Company to construct from San Francisco via Mojave, to the Colorado at Needles, is repugnant to and inconsistent with the settled principle that where a grant of lands is made by Congress to aid in the construction of a railroad, the railroad must be constructed upon the nearest practicable route, and a connection with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad at or near Ventura where it was located, near the western boundary of the state, would be more than two hundred and fifty miles shorter than the long and devious route by Mojave to the Colorado river.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company never filed any map of general route or of definite location, and never constructed any railroad upon the line prescribed in its charter, which it was authorized to build upon at the time of the passage of the act of July 27, 1866, and therefore has never acquired or earned any lands, or rights to lands, under that act.

Notwithstanding the plain provisions of the laws of California and the route fixed in the charter of the Southern Pacific Company, and the existing grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad from the Colorado to the Pacific, and the settled principles governing the construction of such grants, the Southern Pacific Company illegally and improperly filed, or offered to file, in the Interior Department, on January 3rd, 1867, a map of its proposed general or preliminary route for a line of railroad from San Francisco, via Mojave, to the Colorado river at Needles.

Upon filing this map in 1867, it was thereafter contended by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for more than three years, that the route was authorized by the act of Congress of 1866; but three successive Secretaries of the Interior, viz., Secretaries Browning, Cox and Delano, adhered to their respective rulings and decisions, that the map of 1867 was upon a route wholly unauthorized by the charter of the Southern Pacific Company by the laws of California, and not contemplated by the act of Congress of 1866, and that the lands upon the line of that route theretofore withdrawn should be restored to the public domain and to entry.

At different times during this period of more than three years, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from time to time succeeded in securing from the Interior Department orders suspending the rejection of the map and restoration of the lands, and as often thereafter the Secretary of the Interior would set aside the suspensions and order the lands restored.

A chronological statement of these various orders and decisions of the Secretaries of the Interior, from 1867 down to 1870 inclusive, are set forth in the appendix hereto, in "Table of Dates, appendix (3)."

That the map of 1867 was a map of general route, or of preliminary survey, and not a map of definite location, is made certain by inspection of the certificate of the officers of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company upon the map itself, in the following words:

OFFICE OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

"We hereby certify that this map indicates the route of the preliminary survey of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and as such was adopted and approved by a vote of the Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at a meeting held at their office in the city of San Francisco, on the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1866.

"In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 29th day of September, A. D. 1866.

"(Signed) A. G. PHELPS,
"President Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

"CHARLES N. FOX,
"Secretary pro tem. Southern Pacific R. R. Co.

"WILLIAM I. LEWIS,
"Chief Engineer Southern Pacific R. R. Co." [record 1400.]

This map of general route was received on January 3, 1867, by the Secretary of the Interior, and transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

On March 19, 1867, Browning, Secretary of the Interior, ordered a withdrawl of lands within thirty-mile limits upon the map of 1867, but expressly reserved future consideration as to conflict with routes of other railroads. [rec. 1273, 1274.]

Secretary of the Interior Browning, in his decision of July 14, 1867, upon full consideration and argument, decided that the map of 1867, offered by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, was wholly unauthorized, and ordered the lands appertaining to that line of road to be restored to the public domain. [record 1275, 1280.]

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company brought the matter up again before Secretary of Interior Cox, on November 2, 1869, and the decision there rendered was against the validity of the map. [record 921, 923.]

On November 11, 1869, the Southern Pacific Company got a re-hearing of the matter again before Secretary Cox, and in his decision he said:

"I am clearly of opinion that when there is a grant by Congress of land to a railway company organized under a state law, for the purpose of constructing a road, the lands can only be withdrawn upon the authorized route of such road. Congress did not assume to confer upon an existing company in California the right to construct a road not authorized by its articles of association or to diverge from the route which they prescribe."

"It would be a singular anomaly if Congress should empower a state corporation to do an act expressly forbidden by a law creating it, which the state had the constitutional power to enact. The withdrawal was, I am satisfied, not warranted by the act of July 27, 1866."

"I now return my decision of the 2nd inst. and you will instruct the local land officers to restore the lands withdrawn in 1867 to their former status after sixty days' public notice by advertisement." [record 889, 892.]

Secretary of the Interior, Delano, in his decision of May 9, 1873, adhered to the decisions of his predecessors, that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was not authorized to construct any line of railroad upon the route shown by the map of 1867 [record 1301, 1305], and in that decision said:

"By the act of July 27, 1866 (14 Stat., 292), the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the state of California, was authorized to connect with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad at such point near the boundary line of the state of California as it should deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco and was granted to aid in its construction every alternate section of public land. * *

"This Southern Pacific Company located its line and filed a map of the same in the Interior Department January 3, 1867, and thereupon on the 22nd day of March, 1867, a withdrawal was directed of the odd sections that would inure to the road. Subsequently it was shown to the satisfaction of Secretary Browning that the location made by the Southern Pacific was not in accordance with the law of California, under which the company was created, and he, on the 14th of July, 1868, revoked his former order of withdrawal and directed a restoration of the lands withdrawn. * * * Mr. Secretary Cox, Nov. 2, 1869, affirmed the decision of his predecessor that the Southern Pacific was improperly located. * * * On the 15th of December, 1869, at the request of Senator Howard, chairman of the senate committee on the Pacific Railroad, and upon a suggestion that legislation was contemplated, he suspended his order of restoration made on the 2nd of November, as aforesaid."

Secretary Delano referring to the passage of the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, then says:

"It operates as a grant to the road in praesenti and is the first authority given to the company to construct its road upon the line selected. It makes such grant to the same extent and for the same amount and subject to all the conditions and restrictions specified in the third section of the act of July 27, 1866. One of those conditions is that the grant shall not operate upon any lands reserved at the time the line of the road was designated by a plat filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office."

On April 4, 1870, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company became satisfied that the map of 1867 could not be imposed upon the Government, and that it could not without further legislation from the Legislature of Califorina and from Congress connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad upon the eastern boundary of the state; and thereupon procured the passage of an act of the Legislature of California, approved April 4, 1870, which provides as follows:

"Said company (Southern Pacific Railroad Company), its successors and assigns, are hereby authorized and empowered to change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the state of California by such route as the company shall determine to be the most practicable; * * * * hereby confirming to and vesting in said company, its successors and assigns, all the rights, privileges and franchises, power and authority conferred upon, granted or vested in said company by said acts of Congress, and any acts of Congress which may be hereafter enacted." (see Appendix.)

Armed with this authority from the state the Southern Pacific Railroad Company then procured the passage of a joint resolution by Congress approved June 28, 1870, which provided as follows:

"Be it resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California may construct its road and telegraph line, as near as may be, on the route indicated by the map filed by said company in the Department of the Interior on the third day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, and upon the construction of each section of said road in the manner and within the time provided by law, and notice thereof being given by the company to the Secretary of the Interior, he shall direct an examination of each such section by commissioners to be appointed by the President, as provided in the act making a grant of land to said company, approved July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and upon the report of the Commissioners to the Secretary of the Interior that such section of said railroad and telegraph line has been constructed as required by law, it shall be the duty of the said Secretary of the Interior to cause patents to be issued to said company for the sections of land coterminus to each constructed section reported on as aforesaid, to the extent and amount granted to said company by the said act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, expressly saving and reserving all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act."

Fifteen years after the passage of this joint resolution, and in the year 1885, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company constructed a line of railroad from Mojave to the Colorado river at Needles, somewhat upon the line of route shown by the map of 1867, but varying from it at points a distance of more than thirty miles, and getting entirely outside of the thirty-mile limits, as shown by the map of 1867.

The Southern Pacific Company filed maps in the Interior Department in 1885, showing its line of railroad between Mojave and Needles as definitely located and constructed [rec. 1158, 1159], and the land grant of the Southern Pacific was adjusted according to these maps of constructed road, which were taken by the company and by the Interior Department as maps of definite location, as no other maps were filed by the Southern Pacific Company.

Case of Southern Pacific Railroad, 25 L. D., 223, 229.

The Southern Pacific maps filed in 1885 from Mojave to Needles were the first and only maps of definite location between those points filed by that company.

The map of 1867 was, as before shown, certified by the company to be a map showing preliminary survey of a proposed route, and it was filed as such and treated as such by the Government.

As all the lands involved in this case lie south and east of Mojave, it is unnecessary to refer to any other maps of the Southern Pacific main line definite location than those sections between Mojave and the Colorado river.

These several sections of the map of definite location all contain upon their face certificates of the officers of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company certifying that the map shows the true and correct location of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and the certificate upon section eleven [rec. 1158], which is similar to the others, is as follows:

"Map and Profile of Section No. Eleven of the Southern Pacific Railroad and Telegraph Line."

"Commencing at a point at the end of the 141.61 mile on the line of said railroad southeasterly from the intersection of the Southern Pacific Railroad with the San Joaquin Valley Branch of the Central Pacific Railroad, said point of commencement being in the northeast quarter of section 17, township 11 north, range 12 west, San Bernardino Meridian, and running thence in an easterly direction forty miles to a point in the northeast quarter of section 6, township 10 north, range 6 west, San Bernardino Meridian"

"I, George E. Gray, chief engineer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, certify that this is a correct map of the forty-mile line of the said road, showing the line in connection with the lines of the public survey, between the end of section number ten of said railroad * * and a point on said road forty miles easterly therefrom * * showing the radii and lengths of curves and courses of tangents, with full and correct delineations of all topography within three thousand feet of said line on either side thereof, and with other topographical facts controlling or influencing the location of said line, or showing reasons therefor, and giving the crossings of all streams. * * *

The act of July 27, 1866, which governs the terms and conditions of the Southern Pacific grants, provides by section 6 for the filing of a map of general route and by section 3 for the filing of a map of definite location. On filing the map of general route a temporary withdrawal was to be made to preserve the lands for the company, but no rights attached to any particular lands. On filing map of definite location the grant took effect. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as well as the Interior Department, recognized that there was a wide difference between a map of general route and a map of definite location, and it was held in the Interior Department, in several well considered cases, that no rights attached in the Southern Pacific Railroad on filing its map of general route. See Southern Pacific Railroad 25, L. D., 223, 229.

Southern Pacific Railroad vs. McWharter, 14 L. D., 610, 612.

Morgan vs. Southern Pacific Railroad, 11 L. D., 582.

This court clearly pointed out that the Southern Pacific grant, governed by the act of 1866, requires by section 6 a map of general route, and by section 3 one of definite location, and that the former confers no rights to lands.

U. S. vs. Southern Pacific, 146 U. S., 570, 597, 599.
Southern Pacific vs. U. S., 168 U. S., 1, 42.

Southern Pacific Company Adopts Line of Definite Location.

Before filing maps of definite location upon the main line grant above set forth, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by its Board of Directors, determined upon and adopted that line of definite location. This was done by a series of resolutions of the Board of Directors. [rec. 1805, 1810.]

Southern Pacific Maps of Definite Withdrawal (Main Line).

As each section of the definite location of the Southern Pacific main line was filed in the General Land Office, maps of definite withdrawal were prepared by that office and transmitted to the several local United States land offices in California, ordering the lands to be reserved within the twenty and thirty-mile limits, showing that line with the twenty and thirty-mile limits of the land grant adjusted thereto.

On August 2, 1878, the Secretary of the Interior decided in a number of cases, and notably in the case of Samuel Tome, that lands settled upon prior to the passage of the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, were excepted out of the Southern Pacific grant. [rec. 897.]

A comparison of the map of general route of 1867 with the map of definite location of 1885, will show that those lines of route were widely divergent. At township 17 south, Mount Diablo base, the routes are ten miles apart. At township 28 south, the lines are about twelve miles apart. In San Bernardino county at ranges 12 and 13 east, S. B. Meridian, the lines of route are more than thirty miles apart and at that point for a considerable distance the line of definite location is wholly outside of the thirty-mile limits shown by the map of general route of 1867.

In the recent case of Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 25 L. D., 223–229, the Secretary of the Interior formally accepted the Southern Pacific Railroad between Mojave and Needles and in that decision said:

"The map of 1867 was not filed as a map of definite location, but rather as a map of general route. This department had held that the route indicated upon said map was not possible under its state charter, and, therefore, revoked the withdrawal order upon said route. The passage of the resolution was, therefore, to permit the construction along the general route indicated, and not to restrict the company to the exact location shown upon said map."

"This department has never treated the line of 1867 as the definite location of the road, but has adjusted the limits of the grant to the road actually constructed."

That Congress did not make a grant to the Southern Pacific from Mojave to Needles in the act of 1866 is not a question of "corporate capacity" as argued by defendants. Of course, questions of abuse of corporate powers and franchises can ordinarily be raised only in direct proceedings, but this is a question of construction of legislation. The question here is as to whether Congress made a grant upon that line by the act of 1866, and we think we have fully shown from the language employed by Congress, from the charter of the company, which determined what line the company could build upon, from the act of the legislature, and Interior Department decisions for many years, and from the acts of the company, that it was never contemplated that the act of 1866 made such a grant, but that the first and only grant made upon the route shown by the map of 1867 was made by the joint resolution of 1870, and that grant excepted from its operation all lands reserved and claimed prior to the Southern Pacific's definite location.

(2) Congress intended in Section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866, that the Southern Pacific should connect with the Atlantic and Pacific upon the western or southern boundary of California upon the chartered route of the Southern Pacific from San Francisco through Los Angeles county to San Diego.

The route laid down in the charter of the Southern Pacific Company is deemed to be read into the Congressional act making the land grant to that company, as it is conclusively presumed that Congress had such line of route in contemplation.

In Railway Co. vs. Alling, 99 U. S., 463, at p. 474, the court said, referring to a grant to a state corporation:

"Of what the company had done, prior to the passage of the act of 1872, towards effecting the objects of its incorporation, Congress, it is fairly to be presumed, was not uninformed. It was aware, we must also presume, of the routes designated in the charter of the company, for the main road and its several branches, all so connected as to constitute, when completed, an extended railway system for that entire region. That Congress was so informed is quite clearly indicated by the terms employed in the act of 1872. That act must, therefore, receive the same construction which would be adopted had it contained a full or detailed description of the routes of the main line and branches."

In Washington Railroad vs. Cœur D'Alene Railway, 160 U. S., 77 at p. 99, the court said:

"We are unable to accept such a view of the law, but concur in the conclusion of the court below that the language of the act of Congress, under which both parties claim, wherein it provides that 'the right of way through the public lands of the United States is hereby granted to any railroad company duly authorized under the laws of any state or territory, which shall file with the Secretary of the Interior a copy of its articles of incorporation and due proofs of its organization under the same, to the extent of a hundred feet on each side of the central line of said road,' plainly means that no corporation can acquire a right of way upon any line not described in its charter or in its articles of incorporation; that it necessarily follows that no initiatory step can be taken to secure such right of way by the survey upon the ground or otherwise; that until the power to build the road upon the surveyed line was in a proper manner assumed by or conferred upon the plaintiff company, its acts of making surveys were of no avail; and that, so far as the conflicting rights of the parties to this controversy are concerned, the status of the plaintiff is the same as if its survey of October 28, 1885, had not been made."

These decisions of the court are in harmony with those of Secretaries of the Interior, Browning, Cox and Delano, before mentioned, in which they rejected the Southern Pacific map of 1867 as being upon an unauthorized route.

(3) Congress intended in section 18 of the act of 1866 that the Southern Pacific should connect with the Atlantic and Pacific by the shortest practicable route from San Francisco.

The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad was on or about the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude on the Colorado river, and from thence it was required to construct to the coast. That, of course, under the act, would have to be by a near and practicable route.

The direct route of the Southern Pacific, from San Francisco to Ventura, where the western terminus of the Atlantic and Pacific was in fact fixed, was more than two hundred and fifty miles shorter than the route via Mojave to Needles.

It has long been settled that where the termini of a land-grant-aided railroad are mentioned in an act of Congress, the railroad must be constructed upon the shortest practicable route, and if there is an unnecessary deviation it will be rejected.

U. S. vs. Northern Railroad, 152 U. S., 284, 292.

U. S. vs. S. P. R., 146 U. S., 570 at page 596.

(4) The grant to the Southern Pacific by the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, as before mentioned, provided that it was subject to the "conditions and restrictions provided for in the 3rd section of said act," referring to the act of July 27, 1866, and by Section 3 of the former act it was provided that the grant was of those lands only, "not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated and free from preemption or other claims or rights at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof * * * ."

And it was further provided, in section 3:

"That if said route shall be found upon the line of any other railroad route, to aid in the construction of which lands have been granted by the United States, so far as the routes are upon the same general line, the amount of land heretofore granted shall be deducted from the amount granted by this act."

Both of these provisions in section 3 of the act excluded from the Southern Pacific grant all the lands pertaining to the Atlantic and Pacific Road, not only because they were reserved for and claimed by the Atlantic and Pacific, but because they were upon the general lines of both the Atlantic and Pacific and Southern Pacific roads.

United States vs. Southern Pacific, 146 U. S., 570, at p. 605.

The Atlantic and Pacific grant had been located by approved maps of definite location in 1872, and the maps filed by the Southern Pacific under the joint resolution of 1870, were filed in 1885.

Independent of the express provision of the joint resolution of 1870, that the grant should not operate upon lands previously granted, reserved or claimed, the authorities are altogether in support of the view that the grant of 1870 cannot be antedated as of the date of the act of July 27, 1866, as contended by counsel for the Southern Pacific.

In the United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad, 146 U. S., 570, it was contended by counsel for the Southern Pacific that Section 23 of the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, which authorized the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to construct a railroad from Mojave via Los Angeles to Yuma, "with the same rights, grants and privileges and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California, by the act of July 27, 1866 * * *," was to be construed as having taken effect on July 27, 1866, and as an amendment of that act.

Considering this contention of counsel the court said (146 U. S., 595):

"It matters not that the act of 1871 in terms purports to bestow the same rights, grants and privileges as were granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the act of 1866. That merely defines the extent of the grant and the character of the rights and privileges; it does not operate to make the latter grant take effect by relation as of the date of the prior grant, and thus subject the grants to the two companies to the rule controlling cotemporaneous grants, as established by St. Paul & Sioux City Railroad vs. Winona & St. Peter Railroad, 112 U. S., 720 and Sioux City & St. Paul Railroad vs. Chicago, Milwaukee, etc., Railway, 117 U. S., 406. Even if Congress had in terms expressed an intent to that effect in a subsequent act, it was not competent, by such legislation, to divest the rights already vested in the Atlantic and Pacific Company."

In St. Paul Railroad vs. Northern Pacific Railroad, 139 U. S., 1, the facts were that by the act of Congress of March 3, 1857, a grant was made to Minnesota to aid in constructing a railroad from Stillwater by St. Paul to Big Stone Lake, and thereafter by the act of March 3, 1865, Congress enlarged the grant of 1857 and for its terms and conditions referred to the former act of 1857.

In the meantime, and in 1864, Congress made a grant through the same territory to the Northern Pacific Railroad and the court held that the act of 1865 did not relate back to the act of 1857, but was to be treated as a new grant, and the court said at page 15:

"The act of March 3, 1865, as above stated, is a new grant referring to but distinguishable, and distinct from that made by the act of March 3, 1857,"

And the court further said:

"It is, however, contended in answer to this position of an earlier grant to the plaintiff that the acts of March 3, 1865, and March, 3, 1871, are to be treated not as distinct acts but simply as amendments to the act of March 3, 1857, and to be given an operation as of that date. We do not assent to this position. Though the act of March 3, 1865, by its new and additional grants, amended the previous act of 1857, its operation upon any lands previously reserved to aid in any work of internal improvements were expressly restrained. What was reserved before, remained reserved afterwards."

The case of United States vs. Northern Pacific Railroad, 152 U. S., 284, is strongly in point.

In that case the act of Congress of 1864 granted to the Northern Pacific Railroad lands in aid of the main line of that railroad "from Lake Superior * * * to some point on Puget Sound, with a branch via the valley of the Columbia river to a point at or near Portland in the state of Oregon, leaving the main trunk line at the most suitable place not more than 300 miles from its western terminus."

The joint resolution of Congress of May 31, 1870, authorized the Northern Pacific Railroad to construct its main line down the Columbia river to Puget Sound with its branch line from a point across the Cascade mountains to Puget Sound with the same grant of lands as was made by the act of 1864.

In the meantime Congress made a grant to the Oregon Railroad through the territory covered by the Columbia-river line, and the court held that the joint resolution of 1870, while it authorized the construction of the main line down the Columbia river to Puget Sound, was to be considered as a new grant and subject to the grant to the Oregon Company, made by the act of Congress of May 4, 1870, and the court said at page 294:

"Undoubtedly this resolution (May 31, 1870) gave authority to locate and construct a main road via the Columbia river valley to Puget Sound A road so located and constructed would or might have passed the city of Portland. But if, as the company now insists, the act of 1864 gave ample authority to locate and construct a road extending from Lake Superior to Puget Sound along the valley of the Columbia and by the way of Portland or its vicinity, the resolution of 1870 was entirely unnecessary in so far as it gave authority to the company to locate and construct its road through the Columbia river valley to some point on Puget Sound. We cannot agree that this resolution is to be held in this respect as simply a recognition by Congress of an existing right in the company to locate and construct a road from Portland to Puget Sound with the right to obtain lands in aid thereof, as provided in the act of 1864. On the contrary, it should be regarded as giving a subsidy of land in aid of the construction of a new road, not before contemplated, that would directly connect Portland and its vicinity with Puget Sound."

In any possible view of the case the benefits which the Southern Pacific Company received by the passage of the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, were accepted and taken, subject to the express condition that the grant should not operate upon any lands previously granted, sold, reserved or otherwise appropriated, and free from claims at the time of the definite location of the road.

By the terms of the resolution of June 28, 1870, therefore, the Southern Pacific "main line grant" took effect through the lands in controversy in the year 1885, when it filed its map of definite location, and by the terms of that grant the lands then granted, reserved, otherwise disposed of, and claimed were excepted out of the Southern Pacific grant which included the lands reserved by the accepted Atlantic and Pacific maps filed in 1872.

In conclusion of this point of the brief, we submit that the following propositions are established beyond any question:

First. That the resolution of June 28, 1870, was a new and distinct grant, and when passed, these lands had been granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and that company had a vested right to them.

Second. That by the terms of the act of June 28, 1870, lands granted, reserved, claimed or disposed of prior to definite location and also lands on the general line of the Atlantic and Pacific road were excluded from the operations of the grant, and these lands were then identified and reserved from the filing of the map of definite location of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad; the filing and approval of which operated in law to reserve the lands within the indemnity, as well as within the primary limits of the grant.

Third. That when the Southern Pacific Company filed its map of definite location from Mojave to the Colorado river at Needles, all of these lands were set apart and reserved by executive orders of the United States.

Fourth. That it was not the intention of Congress to grant any of these lands to the Southern Pacific Company, and there is no difficulty in giving effect to such intention because the lands have been identified by the maps of definite location, as well as by the maps of definite withdrawal for the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and this act of the Executive Department gave identity and precision to the grant.

Upon principle, as well as upon authority, this branch of the case cannot be distinguished from

Third Point.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC "BRANCH LINE" GRANT DID NOT OPERATE ON ATLANTIC AND PACIFC GRANT, PRIMARY OR INDEMNITY LIMITS.

Under the act of March 3, 1871, the Southern Pacific Company filed its map of general route on April 3, 1871, and its map of definite location in five sections during the years from 1874 to 1878, and the Atlantic and Pacific Company, under its grant of July 27, 1866, filed its map of definite location in 1872. at which time all the lands within the thirty-mile limits were withdrawn and reserved. None of these lands could pass to the Southern Pacific Company under its grant of 1871.

First. The lands within the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant, claimed by the Southern Pacific Company under its branch line grant were therefore granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Company long before any grant was made to the Southern Pacific Company.

Second. Long before the Southern Pacific Company filed its map of definite location these lands had been withdrawn and reserved by operation of law upon the filing and approval of the Atlantic and Pacific map of definite location, which had the effect of reserving the lands within the granted, as well as indemnity, limits.

Third. When the Southern Pacific Company filed its map of definite location these lands had long before been set apart and reserved by executive orders of the Government.

Fourth. That it was not the intention of Congress to grant these lands to the Southern Pacific Company.

Upon the authorities last above cited, it is submitted that none of these lands can pass under the act of March 3, 1871, to the Southern Pacific Company.

Fourth Point.

WHEN THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC FILED ITS MAP OF DEFINITE LOCATION ON THE MAIN LINE BETWEEN MOJAVE AND NEEDLES IN 1885, AND UPON THE BRANCH LINE BETWEEN MOJAVE AND YUMA BETWEEN 1874 AND 1878, THESE LANDS WERE RESERVED.

(1) As shown to the court in the statement of the case, and as also shown in the table of dates in appendix (3), the maps of definite location of the Atlantic and Pacific Company were approved in 1872, and by executive orders all of the land falling within the thirty-mile limit was withdrawn and reserved before the Southern Pacific Railroad Company had filed any section of its map of definite location upon either its main or branch line covering the lands within the Atlantic and Pacific grant.

It is true the Southern Pacific filed its map of general route on the main line in 1867, and on the branch in 1871, but did not file any section of its map of definite location until 1885 on the main line east of Mojave, nor until 1874 on the branch. The general route location gave no right to any tract of land, and the right of disposal remained with the Government.

Independent of the effect of the prior adjudications against the Southern Pacific Company and its privies, and independent of any filing of any map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company, taking effect by relation, as of the date of the grant, the executive withdrawal of these lands before the Southern Pacific grants attached operated to except them and exclude them from either of the grants of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Lands so reserved by executive orders, when the map of definite location is filed, cannot be operated upon by the grant subsequently made.

(2) By the terms of section 3 of the act of July 27, 1866, there is excluded from the operation of the grant of the Southern Pacific Railroad Compauy all lands covered by "other claims" at the time of the definite location.

The language of this section of the Atlantic and Pacific and Southern Pacific act is identical with that contained in the Congressional grant of July 2, 1864, to the Northern Pacific Railroad

In Northern Pacific Railroad Company vs. Sanders, 166 U. S., 620, 634, 636, it was held that lands claimed at or prior to the time of the definite location of the Northern Pacific grant were excepted from the operations of the act, and that a mineral location, whether valid or otherwise, constituted such a claim.

In Monetti vs. Dillon, 167 U. S., 703, it was held that a "lawful claim" to lands within the limits of the Central Pacific grant which existed at or before the time of definite location, operated to except such land from the railroad grant, and that the withdrawal on the map of general route of the Central Pacific Company did not prevent such claim from attaching prior to definite location.

The fact that the Atlantic and Pacific Company claimed these lands as a part of its grant by virtue of what it claimed were maps of definite location, which claim was made effective from the year 1872, when the maps were filed, down to the forfeiture of the grant in 1886, would in itself operate to exclude these lands from the grants.

The rulings in Northern Pacific vs. Sanders, supra and Monetti vs. Dillion, supra, clearly support this view.

Fifth Point.

LANDS WITHIN GRANTED AND INDEMNITY LIMITS OF ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT NOT SUBJECT TO SELECTION AS INDEMNITY BY SOUTHERN PACIFIC UNDER ITS GRANTS.

(1) It is now claimed by the Southern Pacific Company that if it is not entitled to take, under its grants, lands within the limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant as granted lands, yet that it may take them as indemnity for losses in its place limits.

In the former decisions in 146 U. S., 570, 619, and 168 U. S., 1, 66, it was adjudged that by the act of forfeiture of July 6, 1886, the Atlantic and Pacific grant was forfeited to the United States, and by that act became the "property of the United States" (168 U. S., 62), and such forfeiture by the United States was "for its own benefit and not that of the Southern Pacific Company." (146 U. S., 607.)

The conclusive effect of the former adjudications against the Southern Pacific Company in the present case has been presented in the first point of this brief.

If the lands appertaining to the Atlantic and Pacific grant in California were restored to the public domain "as the property of the United States" and "for the benefit of the United States and not for the benefit of the Southern Pacific Company," it cannot be that the Southern Pacific can take any of these lands as indemnity under a pre-existing right conferred by the act of 1866, joint resolution of 1870, or act of 1871.

(2) Aside from the effect of the prior adjudications as res adjudicata, the claim of the Southern Pacific that it can select these lands since the forfeiture by the act of 1886 as indemnity has been adjudged against the company as a matter of law.

In Southern Pacific vs. United States (168 U. S., 1) the lands, the subject-matter of that suit, were within both the granted and indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and were also within the granted and indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant.

In that case the court said (pp. 46, 47):

"It may be said that the lands here in dispute belong to one or the other of the following classes * * * lands within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits and the Atlantic and Pacific granted limits, lands within the common indemnity limits of both grants," * * * "but all the lands now in dispute are within the limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Company if the maps filed by that company in 1872, and which were approved by the Land Department, are to be regarded as maps of definite location."

In that case the decree of the Circuit Court established the title of those lands in the United States and enjoined the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from claiming any interest in them. That decree was affirmed as to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in all respects. (see 168 U. S., 66.)

The question as to the right of the Southern Pacific to select the Atlantic and Pacific lands as indemnity, was discussed and argued industriously by counsel, and as ably as the nature of the topic would permit, but the contention was as clearly denied by the court.

Counsel for the Southern Pacific thought the court had "inadvertantly" and "erroneously" affirmed the decree of the courts below affecting the right of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company subsequently to the passage of the Atlantic and Pacific forfeiture act of July 6, 1886, to select those lands as indemnity for losses within the place limits, and thereupon presented to the court a petition for re-hearing, in which that question was again argued at great length, but the petition for re-hearing was denied.

The petition for re-hearing of counsel for the Southern Pacific, presenting the question of the right of the Southern Pacific to select the Atlantic and Pacific land as indemnity since the forfeiture of 1886, and presenting other questions argued in this court and disposed of, and which are now again presented to your Honors, is printed in appendix (1) to this brief for the inspection of the court.

It therefore appears that this question is not open for discussion.

Aside, however, from these direct decisions, other considerations of the question are equally against the contention of the Southern Pacific.

Lands Set Apart and Reserved for Atlantic and Pacific Not Operated Upon by Southern Pacific Grants.

(3) It is a well settled principle in the construction of Congressional grants that lands set apart and reserved by Congress or by other competent authority cannot be taken or operated upon by any subsequent grant.

In Wilcox vs. Jackson (13 Pet., 513) the court laid down the rule as follows:

"But we go further and say that whensoever a tract of land shall have once been legally appropriated to any purpose, from that moment the land thus appropriated becomes severed from the mass of public lands and that no subsequent law, or proclamation, or sale would be construed to embrace it or to operate upon it, although no reservation were made of it."

In United States vs. Missouri Railway (141 U. S., 374), in considering the right of a railroad to select as indemnity, lands within the limits of another railroad grant, reserved but not including lands granted to the other railroad, the court said:

"In neither case, however, could lands be selected that had been previously withdrawn by a competent authority from location, sale, or entry, or had been appropriated or sold by the United States, or to which pre-emption or homestead rights had attached."

And the court further said, at page 368:

"The first proviso to the same section reserved and excepted from the operation of the act all lands reserved to the United States by any act of Congress, or in any other manner by competent authority, for the purpose of aiding in any object of internal improvement or other purpose whatever. Of course, lands so reserved and exempted from the operation of the act could not be selected as indemnity lands for the road in aid of the construction of which the grant of 1866 was made."

The court further said at page 371:

"They could not be selected as indemnity lands under the act of 1863, because the lands to be selected under that act were restricted to odd numbered sections, nor under the act of 1866, because at the date of its passage they were reserved for the special purposes indicated in the second section of the act of 1863."

The principle is illustrated in United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad (supra), where it was held that lands within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant could not be taken as granted lands by the Southern Pacific Company without regard to the time when the Southern Pacific Company filed its map of definite location, for the reason that these lands had been reserved by Congressional authority.

In Bardon vs. Northern Pacific Railroad (154 U. S., 288), the mineral lands were not identified in any way at the time the company filed its map of definite location. Yet it was held that when they were identified thereafter they could not be operated upon by the railroad grant because they were reserved to the United States by another act of Congress.

This contention of counsel for appellants is at war with this settled rule that lands set apart by Congress or by other competent authority cannot be operated upon by any subsequent law or proclamation, unless specifically declared to cover the premises.

The law set apart and identified these lands when the Atlantic and Pacific map of definite location was filed, as declared by this court again and again. (Buttz vs. Northern Pacific Railroad, 119 U. S., 55; St. Paul Railroad vs. Northern Railroad, 139 U. S., 1.)

The Secretary of the Interior also set apart, reserved, and withdrew these lands as shown by maps of definite withdrawal, which it was his duty to do whether the act expressly directed it or not. (Hamblin vs. Western Land Company, 147 U. S., 531; United States vs. Des Moines Company, 142 U. S., 510.) The lands within the 30-mile limits were reserved by executive orders for that company years before the Southern Pacific filed its maps of definite location under its junior grants.

This court has often said that it is a duty of the Secretary of the Interior to set apart and reserve sufficient land where a grant is made by Congress so that the grant may be satisfied. Spencer vs. McDougal, 159 U. S., 62.

The principle that lands set apart for a public purpose at the date of a railroad land grant cannot be taken for another purpose, declared in so many cases, has been emphasized in the recent decision in Sioux City Railroad vs. United States (159 U. S., 349), and in Chicago R. R. vs. United States (159 U. S., 372, at p. 375), in holding that the moity of lands in an overlap granted to the Sioux City Railroad could not be used as a base by the Chicago Railroad upon which indemnity selections could be made, and that the grant to one road could not operate at all upon any of the lands appurtenant to the grant to the other, for the reason that those lands had been set apart by Congress for another railroad, and thus neither company could obtain any benefits from the forfeited grant of the other.

In the Northern Pacific vs. Musser-Sauntry Co., 168 U. S., 604, at p. 611, the court said:

"When a withdrawal of lands within indemnity limits is made in aid of an earlier land grant, and made prior to the filing of the map of definite location by the company having the later grant, the latter having such words of exception and limitation as are found in the grant to the plaintiff, it operates to except the withdrawn lands from the scope of such later grant."

It is therefore submitted that the contention that these lands can be selected as indemnity by the Southern Pacific Company is not supported by principle or by authority.

Southern Pacific Grant Forbade the Selection of These Lands as Indemnity.

(4) Aside from the question of intention and the principle of reservation, it is expressly provided by the Southern Pacific grant that these lands cannot be taken as indemnity.

The provision in section 3 of the act of July 27, 1866, referred to in the act of 1871, and joint resolution of 1870 governing indemnity selections, provides as follows:

"and whenever prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or preëmpted, or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof, under the direction of the Secretary of the interior, in alternate sections and designated by odd numbers, not more than 10 miles beyonds the limits of said alternate sections and not including the reserved numbers."

It will be observed that the selections are to be made from "odd numbers" and from lands which do not include the "reserved numbers."

If the selections could be made from the alternate even sections the act would not have required that they should be made only from the odd numbers. It is therefore evident that the "reserved numbers" referred to are those which have been previously granted, sold, reserved, or otherwise disposed of by the United States, and in that case lands granted to or reserved for the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad could not be selected as indemnity.

We are not lacking authority upon this particular question. In United States vs. Missouri Railroad (141 U. S., 374) it was expressly held that the provisions of that act, excluding from the operations of the grant lands reserved by Congress in any manner, by any competent authority, could under no circumstances be selected as indemnity by another railroad, although the United States held full title to such lands at all the times referred to in that case.

In adjudged cases in the Interior Department it has been held that lands within the forfeited Atlantic and Pacific grant cannot be selected as indemnity by the Southern Pacific Company. (Southern Pacific Railroad Co., 6 Land Decisions, 816; Moore vs. Kellogg, 17 id., 391–392; Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. Moore, 11 id., 534; Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 15 id., 460.)

In Southern Pacific vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1, a part of the lands being within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific, and in Atlantic and Pacific primary and indemnity limits, and it being contended by the Southern Pacific that subsequent to the forfeiture of 1886 it had a right to select those lands as indemnity, the court said (page 62):

"as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872 (Atlantic and Pacific maps), and therefore appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be for the reason stated in the former decision (146 U. S., 570), that the United States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad, to the relief given by the decree below."

The relief given by the decree below was to perpetually enjoin the Southern Pacific from claiming any of those lands.

(5) There would be nothing gained in the prosecution of this suit by the Government, or of any other suit of a similar character, if the contention of the Southern Pacific is sound, viz., that if it cannot take these Atlantic & Pacific lands as a part of its primary grant, it may select them as indemnity. For what would be the object in recovering from the Southern Pacific these lands, only to lay the foundation for the Southern Pacific to take an equal quantity of other lands in lieu of them, or to allow them to be taken under indemnity selections. The effect of such an operation would be that whenever the Government had recovered a section of land it would thereby assure to the Southern Pacific the right to take an equal quantity of as good or better land from other parts of the public domain, or take the same land as a lieu selection. Such an absurd result could not have been within the contemplation of Congress.

Sixth Point.

MILLS AND KING, TRUSTEES IN THE MORTGAGE EXECUTED BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC IN 1875, AND THE CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE IN THE MORTGAGE MADE BY THAT COMPANY IN 1888, ARE NOT BONA FIDE PURCHASERS OF THESE LANDS AND HAVE NO LEGAL OR EQUITABLE TITLE TO THEM.

(1) In the first point of this brief it was shown that both of these mortgages contained provisions assented to by the trustees and the bondholders, to the effect that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company should have the sole and exclusive management and control of these lands, and should be empowered to sell them, and it was shown we think that the prior adjudications against the Southern Pacific, operated against the trustees for the bondholders who were represented in those cases and who were in privity with the Southern Pacific Company.

(2) The trustees in the mortgage executed by the Southern Pacific in 1875, then Mills and Lansing, now Mills and King, were parties to the suits decided in 146 U. S., 615, 619 [rec. 778], and being parties that is not only a conclusive adjudication against them that they acquired no interest in these lands by virtue of the mortgage of 1875, but we find there a decision which establishes as matter of law that such a mortgage as that executed in 1875 cannot convey any interest to trustees or bondholders which could avail them in the former suit or which can avail them in this suit.

The mortgages of 1875 and 1888 are essentially identical in terms.

When the former cases were decided, the act of March 3, 1887, protecting the rights of bona fide purchasers of patented lands was in full force and operation, as it was also in operation when the cases were commenced; and the answer in the former cases distinctly put in issue the rights of the trustees and bondholders under that mortgage.

The court having entered a decree against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and against Mills and Lansing, trustees (146 U. S., 570, 614), and having adjudged that the mortgage of 1875 was inoperative to prevent the government from taking a decree, it follows, as a matter of law, aside from the effect of res adjudicata that the mortgage was wholly inoperative as to these lands.

That the act of Congress of March 2, 1896, gave no right to the trustees was determined in the case in 168 U. S., 1–66, when the judgment against the trustees was affirmed.

(3) The contention of counsel for defendants that the mortgages of 1875 and 1888 are deeds and not mortgages does not find any support, as appears from an inspection of the instruments themselves.

If the legal title was conveyed by the instrument of 1875 to Mills and Lansing, of course the legal title could not have been conveyed to the Central Trust Company by the instrument of 1888.

That these instruments are both mortgages clearly appears from an inspection of them.

The mortgage of April 1, 1875, between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, party of the first part, and Mills and Tevis (King now substituted for Tevis), parties of the second part, first recites the acts of Congress, approved July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871, and then recites that certain bonds have been authorized to be issued, and then provides as follows:

"Whereas, the said Board of Directors at the meeting aforesaid and in the manner and form and by the vote aforesaid, did further direct that to secure the payment of said bonds a first mortgage upon said road and its rolling stock, stations, fixtures, right of way and franchises, and the lands aforesaid, granted by said acts of Congress (July 27, 1866, and March 3, 1871) * * should be executed under the corporate seal of said company * * *." [record 1096.]

"Now, therefore, this indenture witnesseth: That the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for the better securing of the payment of the principal and interest of the said first mortgage bonds, * * * by these presents doth grant, bargain, sell, alien, convey and confirm unto the said parties of the second part and to their successors, duly appointed, for the execution of the trusts herein set forth, the following property * * * [rec. 1697], all and singular the said several sections of land so as aforesaid granted by said acts of Congress * * *." [rec 1704, 1705]

The instrument then provides as follows:

"That all the lands hereinabove conveyed and mortgaged shall be under the sole and exclusive management and control of the said party of the first part, who shall have full power and authority to make contracts for the sale of the same, at such price, on such credit or terms of payment, and such other conditions as shall be agreed on by the said parties of the first and second parts, and as shall seem to them best calculated to secure the payment in full of all the bonds issued as hereinbefore provided, until entry or foreclosure by the trustees * * * ." [rec. 1706.]

The instrument of August 25, 1888, to the Central Trust Company [rec. 1745], is similar in its terms to the instrument of 1875, but provides as follows: [rec. 1751.]

"All lands granted or conveyed under the acts of Congress hereinbefore referred to and in anywise affected by the provisions hereof, shall be subject to the express provision that if and so long as the bonds issued under and secured by the said indenture of mortgage to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis, dated April 1, 1875, or any thereof shall remain outstanding, any and all sales made in the manner in said last-mentioned indenture of mortgage prescribed, shall absolutely and forever release the said lands from any and all lien or encumbrance of under or in respect of this mortgage or the bonds issued thereunder; and if and when all the bonds issued under said indenture of mortgage of April 1, 1875, shall have been fully satisfied and discharged, and the lien of such last-mentioned indenture of mortgage upon such lands fully released, then the said lands, so far as they remain unsold at that time, shall be subject to the like provisions in respect to sale, and conveyance and release from the lien of this mortgage as are in said mortgage of April 1, 1875, prescribed in respect to sale and conveyance and release from the lien thereof."

Each of these mortgages was given to secure a debt.

It will be observed that the parties, themselves, to both of these instruments declare their intention as to what the instruments are by referring to them both as "mortgages"; and it will be observed that it is declared in both instruments that the bonds constitute a lien upon the lands; and it will be observed further that in both instruments the full and absolute control and disposition of the lands remains in the Southern Pacific Railroad Company until a suit for foreclosure shall have been commenced.

It will be further observed that the lien of the bonds is to be satisfied by a foreclosure.

In Jones on Mortgages (4th ed.), section 62, it is said:

"A deed of trust to secure a debt is in legal effect a mortgage. It is a conveyance made to a person other than the creditor, conditioned to be void if the debt be paid at a certain time, but if not paid that the grantee may sell the land and apply the proceeds to the extinguishment of the debt, paying over the surplus to the grantor. The addition of the power of sale does not change the character of the instrument any more than it does when contained in a mortgage. Such a deed has all the essential elements of a mortgage; it is a conveyance of land as security for a debt."

In Perry on Trusts, Vol. 2, sec. 602, d it is said:

"Mortgages containing powers of sale and deeds of trust to secure a debt due to a creditor, are substantially the same thing in law and equity. At law, both kinds of deeds purport to convey the legal title to the grantee or creditor, or trustee; but in equity the land, the title and the deeds stand for security of the debt. The debt is the principal thing, and the conveyance of the land is collateral to the debt. The mortgagor in both cases has an estate in the land called an equity of redemption; if he fails to pay the debt, his equity of redemption is barred upon due proceedings had; but if the debt is paid at any time before his equity is defeated by the steps appointed to be taken, it becomes absolute, and he is entitled to a re-conveyance or a discharge of the mortgage, as the case may be. In some circumstances a discharge of the mortgage upon payment or a re-conveyance is not material, as by the terms of the mortgage and by the law it becomes null and void. A mortgage is a pledge or security for a debt, whatever may the form which the transaction takes, whether a simple mortgage deed in form, or a mortgage with a power of sale, or a deed in trust, or a deed absolute on its face, accompanied by an agreement in writing to re convey, or to sell, or to do any other thing upon the payment of a certain sum of money; courts of equity look upon it as a mortgage, and deal with it as such. The test in all these forms is this: Does the transaction resolve itself into a security for the payment of a sum of money or a debt, and until a default in the payment of a sum of money or a debt, has the grantor any right to pay the money and keep or receive back the title to his property? And it is immaterial that the conveyance is made to a third person, and not to the creditor himself."

The contention of counsel for the Southern Pacific is that the trustees in the mortgages of 1875 and 1888 are bona fide purchasers of these lands and protected in their rights by the provisions of the acts of Congress of March 3, 1887, and March 2, 1896, relating to the adjustment of railroad grants.

These acts are printed in the appendix and are greatly relied upon by counsel for the Southern Pacific.

It is provided in the act of March 3, 1887, as follows:

"That a mortgage or pledge of said lands by the company shall not be considered as a sale for the purpose of this act. * * * * * *."

These acts are in pari materia and should be construed together. They both relate to the adjustment of railroad grants, they both make provisiou for the protection of bona fide purchasers from the railroad of lands erroneously patented or certified, and they both define the rights of such purchasers.

The principle is well settled that statutes in pari materia are to be construed together, and effect must be given to all the parts.

United States vs. Tynen, 11 Wall., 88, 92.

Chicago Railroad vs. United States, 127 U. S., 406.

Chew Heong vs. United States, 112 U. S., 536.

District of Columbia vs. Hutton, 143 U. S., 18.

Frost vs. Wenie, 157 U. S., 461, 58.

United States vs. Healey, 160 U. S., 136, 146.

That Congress intended these acts to be construed together, and that the act of March 2, 1896, was an amendment of the act of 1887, appears from the last clause of section 2 of the act, which provides in effect that a bona fide purchaser of lands may establish his claim in the United States courts "or at his option as prescribed in sections 3 and 4 of chapter 376 of the acts of the Second Session of the 49th Congress," which chapter there designated is the act of March 3, 1887. Thus, in the act of March 2, 1896, Congress not only refers to the provisions of sections 3 and 4 of the act of March 3, 1887, but gives the provisions of those sections new life and vitality by continuing their operation; and one of the provisions of section 4 is that a mortgage or pledge shall not be deemed to be a sale.

This provision, therefore, has not been repealed and remains in full force, and as the instruments of 1875 and 1888 to the trustees to secure bonds were each in the nature of a mortgage or pledge of the lands, they cannot be construed as a sale or conveyance within the meaning of the acts of Congress referred to.

Congress was dealing with mortgages or trust deeds made by railroads to secure bonds. It had been the universal custom of railroads to issue bonds secured by mortgages or deeds of trust and covering the land grants, and Congress, knowing this, provided that nothing in the nature of a pledge or mortgage should be considered a sale.

As the instruments in question here were executed for the sole purpose of securing a debt, they must, under the authorities above cited, and in view of the intention of Congress, be considered as a pledge or mortgage of the lands.

All of the patents issued to the Southern Pacific were void absolutely for want of power and authority to execute them. They could be attacked in suits at law or in equity directly or indirectly, and third parties were fully chargeable with notice from the public laws and records, that the lands were reserved, and that the patents were void.

Doolan vs. Carr, 125 U. S., 618.
Newhall vs. Sanger, 92 U. S., 761.
Morton vs. Nebraska, 21 Wall., 660.

And the mortgagees or purchasers were bound to take notice of the power of the officials of the Land Department to issue these patents.

Sioux City Railroad vs. United States, 159 U. S., 349, at p. 371.

Neither mortgagees nor purchasers, therefore, could ever have been considered bona fide purchasers, without notice, in the absence of the legislation of March 3, 1887, and March 2, 1896; and that legislation expressly provided that mortgages and pledges shall not be construed to be sales.

(4) The deeds of trust to the Central Trust Company and to Mills and Lansing (now King) do not cover the lands granted to or reserved for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, being lands in suit herein.

Those instruments do not describe any particular tracts of land, as has been shown by the quotations of parts of those instruments, but in general terms purport to cover "the lands granted to said railroad company by the acts of Congress of March 3, 1871, and July 27, 1866."

Turning now to Section 3 of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, which describes the lands covered by that grant and by the grant of 1871, we find that the following is the description:

"That there be and hereby is granted * * * * * * * every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States; and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any state, and whenever on the line thereof the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights at the time the line of said route is designated by a plat thereof, filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office." * * * * *

The lands in suit having been granted to and reserved for the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, were not and could not have been included in the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and they were not and could not have been covered by the mortgages in question, as those mortgages were expressly limited to lands granted to the Southern Pacific.

These lands which were reserved or otherwise disposed of prior to the Southern Pacific filing its map, were not included in the description of the land conveyed.

United States vs. Southern Pacific, 146 U. S., 570, 619.

Southern Pacific vs. United States, 168 U. S., 1.

This proposition seems so plain that further argument is deemed unnecessary.

Seventh Point.

THE GOVERNMENT IS ENTITLED TO A DECREE AGAINST THE PRESENT DEFENDANTS FOR THE THIRTY THOUSAND ACRES OF LANDS AS TO WHICH THE BILL WAS DISMISSED BY THE CIRCUIT COURT, WHICH LANDS WERE CONTRACTED TO BE SOLD BY THE RAILROAD AND UPON WHICH PARTIAL PAYMENT ONLY HAS BEEN MADE.

(1) In subdivisions four and five of the first point of this brief, it was shown to the court that subsequent to the commencement of the suit against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, decided in 146 U. S., 615, 619, that company had contracted to sell a large quantity of land, sued for in the present case, to divers persons, and prior to the commencement of the present suit, the railroad had received only a partial payment upon their purchase price.

And that as to all the 30,000 acres to which the court below determined the title against the Government, only a part and a small part of the purchase price had been paid at either the date of commencement of this case or the former case. (See appendix.)

It was contended by the Government that by reason of the former adjudications the Southern Pacific Company, and those in privity with it, were estopped in the present case from claiming that any right or title to these lands had been acquired, inasmuch as the estoppel operates as fully against privies as against parties, and the purchasers were undoubtedly in privity with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, except as to payments made prior to the commencement of the former suit.

(2) It was also shown we think in the former part of the brief, that inasmuch as the land had been contracted to be sold by executory contracts, and that a partial payment only had been made, that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company had, at the time of the commencement of this suit, an interest in those lands, and that by reason of the prior adjudications the Government is now entitled to have its title quieted to them.

(3) The United States has taken a cross-appeal from that part of the decree dismissing the bill as to these lands, and now, upon the merits of the case, in addition to the effect of the prior adjudications, it is insisted that the Government is entitled to a decree against the present defendants for these lands.

That the railroad company has parted with some equitable title or right to these lands cannot deprive the Government of the right to a decree for the remaining title and interest held by the railroad company.

In Lytle vs. Lansing, 147 U. S., 59, at page 70, the court said that it was "a settled rule in equity that a purchaser without notice to be entitled to protection must not only be so at the time of the contract or conveyance, but at the time of payment of the purchase price," and cited numerous authorities in support of that settled principle.

At the time these contracts of purchase were made, the lands had not been patented, nor where they patented when this suit was commenced (see appendix); the legal title to these lands was in the United States. The most favorable aspect of the case for the railroad company is that by making these executory contracts and receiving a payment upon the purchase price, the purchaser, by reason of the adjustment act of 1887, became possessed of an equitable interest to the extent of the payment made, and that the legal title remained in the Government, to be held subject to the payment of the balance of the purchase price.

The principle is well settled that where property is sold by executory contract upon partial payment, the legal title remains in the vendor, to be held until the balance of the purchase price is paid, and that the purchaser has an equitable title only to the extent of the payment made.

Williams vs. United States, 138 U. S , 514, 516.

Jennisons vs. Leonard, 21 Wall., 302, 309.

1 Story's Eq. Jur., 396.

It is not perceived why the Circuit Court refused to subrogate the Government to the interest in these lands claimed by the Southern Pacific Company.

The effect of the decree below is to give all these lands to the Railroad Company.

Granting to the purchasers all the rights and inests claimed on their behalf by counsel by virtue of the adjustment acts of March 3, 1887, of February 12, 1896, and March 2, 1895 (see appendix), and it is not perceived why the Government is not entitled to a decree for the interest claimed by the company. The act of Congress of Feb. 12, 1896, expressly provides that in cases where sales have been made by the company of patented lands (excepted from the grant) upon partial payment, and where less has been paid than the Government price, that the purchaser can secure a patent from the United States only by paying to the United States the difference between what he paid the company and the Government price. This act of March 12, 1896, amending the act of March 3, 1887, clearly shows the intention of Congress.

Congress did not intend to give these lands to the purchaser without their being paid for, and did not intend to give them to the company unless there had been a completed sale, and even in that case required the company to pay over to the Government the Government price for the lands.

The Circuit Court has not given the land to either the purchaser or to the Government, but in effect to the railroad.

Undoubtedly the act of Congress of March 2, 1896, was in the nature of a new grant to the purchaser upon the theory that his interests had been prejudiced by the erroneous rulings of the officers of the Interior Department. (Winona cases, 165 U. S., 463, 483.)

That act did not confirm the title of the railroad company nor did it enlarge or affect the title of the company in any respect, and it was for the benefit of the purchaser that the act was passed.

In Litchfield vs. Webster County, 101 U. S., 773, 775, the court construed the joint resolution of Congress of March 2, 1861, which is almost identical with the act of March 2, 1896, and originated under similar circumstances.

It had been adjudged by the court in Wolcott vs. Des Moines Co., 5 Wall., 681, and other cases, that the lands between the Racoon Fork of the Des Moines river and the north boundary of the State of Iowa, were not embraced in the grant made by Congress for the improvement of the Des Moines river, although they had been reserved by executive orders for that purpose and patents had been erroneously issued to the State and the lands had been sold to bona fide purchasers, and the court held that the joint resolution of March 2, 1861, which confirmed the title of bona fide purchasers, was a new grant to the purchaser, and the court said (101 U. S., 774, 775):

"The grant made by that resolution was just as much an original grant as if the act of 1846 (for the Des Moines improvement) had never been passed. The order of the executive department reserving them from sale neither transferred any title to nor created any interest in the State. It simply retained the ownership in the United States. While the subsequent gift was undoubtedly induced by what had happened before, the United States, until it was made, continued to be the proprietor of the lands, both in law and in equity. Such being the case they were not taxable before March 2, 1861. They, down to that time, actually belonged to the United States, and no one else had any interest whatever in them. * * * The title thus relinquished enured at once to the benefit of the purchasers, for whose use the relinquishment was made."

It will hardly be contended here that the act of 1887, or either of the acts of 1896, were intended to or did operate to confirm any title to the railroad or enlarge the interest of that company in any way in them. The acts were passed for the benefit only of the bona fide purchasers, and that being so how could it be, that either of those acts could pass to or confirm in such purchasers any greater interest than they had acquired under their executory contracts? It is submitted that the decree of the Circuit Court dismissing the bill as to these lands is erroneous.

THE WRONGFUL PROCUREMENT OF PATENTS THROUGH THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC, PENDENTE LITE, CANNOT AID THE DEFENDANTS IN THIS SUIT, AS THE CIRCUIT COURT THEN HAD JURISDICTION OF THE PARTIES AND OF THE SUBJECT-MATTER.

As before shown, the 30,000 acres as to which the court dismissed the bill, and being the same lands above mentioned, were patented pendente lite.

The present bill was filed May 14, 1894 (record 330). On July 23, 1894, defendants were served with subpœna (record 41).

The defendants appeared and filed pleas in abatement on September 1, 1894 (record 42, 45, 48), which pleas were overruled.

In some unexplained manner, and while this cause was pending for trial, and when the Circuit Court had complete jurisdiction of the parties and of the cause, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, on November 28, 1894, December 22, 1894, and July 27, 1895, respectively, procured three patents from the Interior Department embracing thirty thousand acres of the identical land sued for by the present bill, and situated within the Atlantic and Pacific grant (record 2563, 2575, 2585).

Prior to the commencement of this suit, and while the land remained unpatented, the Southern Pacific had contracted to sell the most but not all of these thirty thousand acres to divers persons, upon which a part only of the agreed purchase price had been paid (see appendix hereto).

The Circuit Court, by its final decree, in effect dismissed the bill as to all of these thirty thousand acres, upon the ground that these persons holding under contracts were bona fide purchasers of the land, and that the title to this land had been confirmed by the provisions of the act of Congress of March 2, 1896 (record 353, 362).

The effect of this decree was to finally determine that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was the owner, by absolute title in fee, of these lands, and that the United States had no title or estate, legal or equitable, in them.

The effect of the decree is to so establish the title in the Southern Pacific Company that it can maintain and enforce actions against the purchasers of these lands for the remainder of the purchase price, and deprives the Government of any interest in the land, notwithstanding that only a small part of the purchase price had been paid to the railroad company, which company held the legal title, and an equitable interest, in the property, subject to the payment of the balance of the purchase price.

For the purposes of argument and treating the land as patented land sold to bona fide purchasers, it is obvious that the effect of the decree is to nullify the provisions of the acts of Congress of March 3, 1887, and February 12, 1896, which explicitly require the bona fide purchaser to pay to the United States the difference between what has been paid and the ordinary Government price, before patent can be secured from the United States.

But none of the purchasers of these thirty thousand acres were bona fide purchasers or purchasers at all of any patented lands, because, as before stated, at the time contracts were made the lands were unpatented, and the act of Congress of March 2, 1896 (see appendix) only purported to confirm and protect the title of patented lands held by bona fide purchasers.

When those contracts were made the purchasers, of course, were fully informed, from the state of the records and from the contracts themselves, that the lands were unpatented, and the purchasers expressly agreed in those contracts (record 2052, 2551, 2552) that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company "will use ordinary diligence to procure titles for them"; and it is further provided (record 2553) "that the party of the second part (the purchaser) * * * will do no act to hinder, delay or impede the obtaining of patent for them by the party of the first part * * * ."

It is obviously contemplated by these contracts that in all matters and proceedings relating to the procurement of title to these lands by the railroad company that it should at all times fully represent and act for the purchasers, so that not only did the railroad company hold the legal title at the time the decree herein was entered, but it held an equitable interest in the lands to the extent of the unpaid purchase price upon its own account, and it acted for the purchasers in the procurement of patent.

It is, therefore, submitted, that upon well settled principles, the wrongful issuance of these patents to the Southern Pacific Company, pendente lite, should not aid the railroad company or the purchasers in holding this land as patented land sold to bona fide purchasers, as defined in the acts of 1887 and 1896.

There can be no doubt as to the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court over the parties and of the subject-matter, and it would seem that that court was empowered to go on and determine the respective rights of the United States and of the defendants in these lands, without being obstructed or impeded by the acts of the Interior Department, although it may be a tribunal in some respects having a concurrent jurisdiction.

In Farmers Loan and Trust Company vs. Lake Street Railway, 177 U. S., 51, 61, the court said:

"The possession of the res vests the court, which has first acquired jurisdiction, with the power to hear and determine all controversies relating thereto, and, for the time being, disables other courts of co-ordinate jurisdiction from exercising a like power This rule is essential to the orderly administration of justice and to prevent unseemly conflicts between courts whose jurisdiction embraces the same subjects and persons."

Harkrader vs. Wadley, 172 U. S., 148.

Central Bank vs. Stevens, 169 U. S., 432.

In Richmond Mining Company vs. Rose, 114 U. S., 576, 586, in an action brought under section 2325, Revised Statutes, to determine conflicting rights to a mining claim, and while the action was pending in the Circuit Court, one of the parties procured from the Inerior Department a patent to another mining claim, by virtue of which it was claimed the holder thereof was entitled to follow a vein upon its dip into the mining claims, the subject of suit, and the court said:

"the right to that part of this very vein being in contest between these parties in reference to the Uncle Sam and St. George claims, the decision of this controversy cannot be rendered nugatory by the introduction of a new claim by one of the parties, whose claim of right from the Government for this same location is initiated while this litigation is going on. The parties were all in court. The subject-matter was before the court. The thing to be decided was the right of the conflicting claims to this lode. This was within the jurisdiction of the court, and any patent issued to one, or the other, or both these parties, under this proceeding for this property, must relate back to the date of their claims, and override the new patent. This result cannot be defeated by producing this new patent to destroy it. The claim was initiated by a party to this suit pendente lite, and must abide the result of the litigation in this case."

There has been no transaction as between the railroad company and these purchasers between the filing of this bill and the passage of the act of Congress of March 2, 1896, to be operated upon or affected by that act, and if these patents had not been procured pendente lite the Government would have been entitled to a decree establishing its title to these lands, subject only to the payment to the Government of the Government price of the lands, as provided in section 5 of the act of Congress of March 3, 1887 (see appendix).

It is submitted that the orderly administration of justice and the protection of litigating parties, as well as of the public, requires in this case the enforcement of the salutary rule above mentioned, that the rights of the parties to this suit must be determined without reference to the issuance of these patents pendente lite, and as if they had never been issued.

The enforcement of this rule will require a reversal of the decree of the Circuit Court upon the cross-appeal of the Government, and a decree in favor of the United States.

Eighth Point.

In the decree of the Circuit Court it was adjudged as follows:

"And it is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that this decree shall not affect any right which the United States may have to recover from the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company the proper Government price for any of the aforesaid lands sold by the said company to third persons, nor shall it cancel or vacate any patent issued by the United States to the said Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands sold by it to a bona fide purchaser." (rec. 362.)

The court erred in adjudging that the decree should not cancel or vacate any patent issued to the railroad company for lands sold to a bona fide purchaser.

The very purpose of this suit was to determine the rights of the United States to these lands as against the defendants before the court.

Even if any other person not a party defendant upon the record had or claimed to have any interest in these lands, that could not prevent the United States from obtaining a decree against the defendants here for their unfounded claims.

The option was with the United States to join or not to join persons having or claiming an interest in the lands.

Williams vs. United States, 138 U. S., 514, 516, 517.

But in the present case, it does not appear from the evidence that any of the lands have been patented to the railroad and sold to bona fide purchasers, other than the 30,000 acres sold by executory contracts upon partial payments, and as to which the court, as the Government contends, erroneously dismissed the bill.

No other lands were patented to the company and sold to bona fide purchasers and the Government was entitled to a decree against the present defendants annulling all patents issued to the company and quieting its title as against the defendants.

In this case the court has fallen into the same error which was condemned in Southern Pacific Railroad vs. United States, 168 U. S, 1, 66.

In that case the court said at page 65:

"The decree which was passed declares that it is not to 'affect any right which the defendants, or any of them, other than the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, now have or may hereafter acquire in, to or respecting any of the lands hereinbefore described, in virtue of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and for the forfeiture of unearned lands, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1887.' Instead of leaving undetermined the matters in dispute between the United States and the defendants other than the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the Circuit Court should have determined, by its final decree, what rights those defendants have by virtue of the above act of March 3, 1887, 24 Stat., 556, c. 376, in the lands or any of them now in dispute and claimed by the United States. The effect of the decree is to leave undetermined the question whether the defendants who claim under the Southern Pacific Railroad Company are protected by that or any other act of Congress. The Government was entitled to a decree quieting its title to all the lands described in its pleadings except those, if any, that are protected, in the hands of claimants, by acts of Congress. United States vs. Winona & St. Peter Railroad, 165, U. S., 463; Winona & St. Peter Railroad vs. United States, 165, U. S., 483. But as the Government has not repealed, the decree cannot be reversed for the error of the Circuit Court in not finally disposing of the issues between the United States and the individual defendants who claim under the Southern Pacific Railroad."

The effect of the decree in the present case is to leave undetermined what rights the United States have to any of the lands for which the suit was brought, inasmuch as it cannot be ascertained from the decree what lands have been patented to the railroad nor what lands the railroad has sold to bona fide purchasers, and the title of the United States to all of the lands remains obscured and clouded by this provision.

In conclusion, it is submitted that the decree of the court below should be affirmed upon the appeal of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the trustees of the mortgage bonds, and should be reversed upon the appeal of the United States, with directions to enter a decree in favor of the Government for the relief sought.

JOSEPH H. CALL,
Special United States Attorney.

ACTS OF CONGRESS, AND LAWS OF CALIFORNIA.

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT.

July 27, 1866 (14 Stat., 292).

AN ACT Granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast.

Section 1 incorporated the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and provided for the construction and location of a line of railroad, as follows:

"Beginning at or near the town of Springfield, in the state of Missouri, thence to the western boundary line of said state, and thence by the most eligible railroad route, as shall be determined by said company, to a point on the Canadian river; thence to the town of Albuquerque, on the river Del Norte, and thence by way of Aqua Frio, or other suitable pass, to the headwaters of the Colorado Chiquito, and thence along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude as neear as may be found most suitable for a railway route to the Colorado river, at such point as may be selected by said company for crossing; thence by the most practicable and eligible route to the Pacific."

Section 2 grants a right of way, etc.

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there be, and hereby is, granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, for the purpose of aiding in the construction of said railroad and telegraph line to the Pacific Coast, and to secure the safe and speedy transportation of the mails, troops, munitions of war, and public stores over the route of said line of railway, and its branches, every alternate section of public land not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any state; and whenever, on the line thereof, the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from preëmption or other claims or rights, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof, filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and whenever, prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or preëmpted or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections, and not including the reserved numbers: Provided, That if said route shall be found upon the line of any other railroad route, to aid in the construction of which lands have been heretofore granted by the United States, as far as the routes are upon the same general line, the amount of land heretofore granted shall be deducted from the amount granted by this act: Provided further, That the railroad company receiving the previous grant of land may assign their interest to said 'Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company,' or may consolidate, confederate, and associate with said company upon the terms named in the first and seventeenth sections of this act: Provided further, That all mineral lands be, and the same are hereby excluded from the operations of this act; and in lieu thereof a like quantity of unoccupied and unappropriated agricultural lands in odd-numbered sections nearest to the line of said road, and within twenty miles thereof, may be selected as above provided: And provided further, That the word 'mineral,' when it occurs in this act, shall not be held to include iron or coal: And provided further, That no money shall be drawn from the Treasury of the United States to aid in the construction of the said 'Atlantic and Pacific Railroad.'"

"SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That whenever said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company shall have twenty-five consecutive miles of any portion of said railroad and telegraph line ready for the service contemplated, the President of the United States shall appoint three commissioners to examine the same, who shall be paid a reasonable compensation for their services by the company, to be determined by the Secretary of the Interior; and if it shall appear that twenty-five consecutive miles of said road and telegraph line have been completed in a good, substantial and workmanlike manner, as in all other respects required by this act, the commissioners shall so report under oath to the President of the United States, and patents of lands, as aforesaid, shall be issued to said company, confirming to said company the right and title to said lands situated opposite to and coterminous with said completed section of said road. And from time to time, whenever twenty-five additional consecutive miles shall have been constructed, completed, and in readiness as aforesaid, and verified by said commissioners to the President of the United States, then patents shall be issued to said company conveying the additional sections of land as aforesaid, and so on as fast as every twenty-five miles of said road is completed as aforesaid."

"SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States shall cause the lands to be surveyed for forty miles in width on both sides of the entire line of said road, after the general route shall be fixed, and as fast as may be required by the construction of said railroad; and the odd sections of land hereby granted shall not be liable to sale or entry or pre-emption before or after they are surveyed except by said company as provided in this act; but the provisions of the act of September, 1841, granting pre-emption rights, and the acts amendatory thereof, and of the act entitled, 'An act to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain,' approved May 20, 1862, shall be, and the same are, hereby extended to all other lands on the line of said road when surveyed, excepting those hereby granted to said company."

"SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That each and every grant, right, and privilege herein are so made and given to and accepted by said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company upon and subject to the following conditions, namely: That the said company shall commence the work on said road within two years from the approval of this act by the President, and shall complete not less than fifty miles per year after the second year, and shall construct, equip, furnish, and complete the main line of the whole road by the fourth day of July, Anno Domini, eighteen hundred seventy-eight."

"SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the United States make the several conditional grants herein, and that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company accept the same, upon the further condition that if the said company make any breach of the conditions hereof, and allow the same to continue for upwards of one year, then, in such case, at any time hereafter, the United States may do any and all acts and things which may be needful and necessary to insure a speedy completion of the said road."

"SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, or any part thereof, shall be a post route and military road, subject to the use of the United States for postal, military, naval and all other Government service, and also subject to such regulations as Congress may impose restricting the charges for such Government transportation."

"SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the acceptance of the terms, conditions, and impositions of this act by the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company shall be signified in writing under the corporate seal of said company, duly executed, pursuant to the direction of its board of directors first had and obtained, which acceptance shall be made within two years after the passage of this act, and not afterwards, and shall be deposited in the office of the Secretary of the Interior."

"SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the state of California, is hereby authorized to connect with the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, formed under this act, at such point near the boundary line of the state of California, as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco; and shall have a uniform gauge and rate of freight or fare with said road, and in consideration thereof, to aid in its construction, shall have similar grants of land, subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided; and shall be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad herein provided for.

"SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That the better to accomplish the object of this act, namely, to promote the public interest and welfare by the construction of said railroad and telegraph line, and keeping the same in working order, and to secure to the Government at all times, but particularly in time of war, the use and benefits of the same for postal, military, and other purposes Congress may, at any time, having due regard for the rights of said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, add to, alter, amend, or repeal this act."

CALIFORNIA ACT OF APRIL 4, 1870, AUTHORIZING SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY TO CHANGE LINE OF ROUTE AND TO ACCEPT CONGRESSIONAL GRANTS.

"Whereas, by the provisions of a certain act of Congress of the United States of America, entitled 'An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from San Francisco to the eastern line of the state of California,' approved July 27, 1866, certain grants were made to, and certain rights, privileges, powers and authority were vested in and conferred upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the state of California, therefore, to enable the said company to more fully and completely comply with and perform the requirements, provisions and conditions of the said act of Congress, and all other acts of Congress now in force, or which may hereafter be enacted, the state of California hereby consents to said act; and the said company, its successors and assigns are hereby authorized and empowered to change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the state of California by such route as the company shall determine to be the most practicable, and to file new and amendatory articles of association, and the right, power and privileges hereby granted to, conferred upon, and vested in them, to construct, maintain, and operate, by steam or other power, the said railroad and telegraph line mentioned in said act of Congress, hereby confirming to and vesting in the said company, its successors and assigns, all the rights, privileges, and franchises, power and authority conferred upon, granted to, or vested in said company by the said acts of Congress and any act of Congress which may be hereafter enacted."

JOINT RESOLUTION OF JUNE 28, 1870.

(16 Stat. L., 382.)

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the Southern Pacific Rail oad Company of California may construct its road and telegraph line, as near as may be, on the route indicated by the map filed by said company in the Department of the Interior on the third day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, and upon the construction of each section of said road, in the manner and within the time provided by law, and notice thereof being given by the company to the Secretary of the Interior, he shall direct an examination of each such section by commissioners to be appointed by the President, as provided in the act making a grant of land to said company, approved July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and upon the report of the commissioners to the Secretary of the Interior that such section of said railroad and telegraph line has been constructed as required by law, it shall be the duty of the said Secretary of the Interior to cause patents to be issued to said company for the sections of land coterminous to each constructed section reported on as aforesaid, to the extent and amount granted to said company by the said act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, expressly saving and reserving all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act."

TEXAS PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN PACIFIC ACT.

March 3, 1871 (6 Stat. L., 573, 579).

"AN ACT To incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and to aid in the construction of its road, and for other purposes."

Sections 1 to 22 of this act incorporated and made a grant of lands to the Texas Pacific Railroad Company.

Section 23 provides as follows:

"That for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado river, with the same rights, grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California by the act of July twenty-seven, eighteen hundred and sixty-six: Provided, however, That this section shall in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company or any other railroad company."

ACT OF FORFEITURE.

Act of July 6, 1886 (24 Stat. L., 123).

AN ACT To forfeit the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, etc.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all the lands, excepting the right of way, and the right, power and authority given to said corporation to take from the public land adjacent to the line of said road material of earth, stone, timber, and so forth, for the construction thereof, including all necessary grounds for station buildings, workshops, depots, machine shops, switches, side tracks, turntables, and water stations, heretofore granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by an act of Congress entitled 'An act granting lands to aid in the construction of railroad and telegraph lines from the states of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast,' approved July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and subsequent acts and joint resolutions of Congress which are adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portions of the main line of said road, embraced within both the granted and the indemnity limits, as contemplated to be constructed under and by the provisions of said act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and acts and joint resolutions subsequent thereto and relating to the construction of said road and telegraph line be, and the same are hereby, declared forfeited and restored to the public domain."

ACT OF CONGRESS OF MARCH 3, 1887.

Chapter 376 of second session 49th Congress.

(24 Stats., 556.)

AN ACT To provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads, and for the forfeiture of unearned lands, and for other purposes.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to immediately adjust, in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court, each of the railroad land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and heretofore unadjusted.

"SEC. 2. That if it shall appear, upon the completion of such adjustments respectfully, or sooner, that lands have been, from any cause, heretofore erroneously certified or patented by the United States, to or for the use or benefit of any company claiming by, through or under grant from the United States, to aid in the construction of a railroad, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to thereupon demand from such company a relinquishment or re-conveyance to the United States of all such lands, whether within granted or indemnity limits; and if such company shall neglect or fail to so re-convey such lands to the United States within ninety days after the aforesaid demand shall have been made, it shall thereupon be the duty of the Attorney-General to commence and prosecute in the proper courts the necessary proceedings to cancel all patents, certification, or other evidence of title heretofore issued for such lands, and to restore the title thereof to the United States.

"SEC. 3. That if, in the adjustment of said grants, it shall appear that the homestead or pre-emption entry of any bona fide settler has been erroneously canceled on account of any railroad grant or the withdrawal of public lands from market, such settler upon application shall be reinstated in all his rights and allowed to perfect his entry by complying with the public land laws: Provided, That he has not located another claim or made an entry in lieu of the one so erroneously canceled: And provided also, That he did not voluntarily abandon said original entry: And provided further, That if any of said settlers do not renew their application to be reinstated within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, then all such unclaimed lands shall be disposed of under the public land laws, with priority of right given to bona fide purchasers of said unclaimed lands, if any, and if there be no such purchasers, then to bona fide settlers residing thereon.

"SEC. 4. That as to all lands, except those mentioned in the foregoing section, which have been so erroneously certified or patented as aforesaid, and which have been sold by the grantee company to citizens of the United States, or to persons who have declared their intention to become such citizens, the person or persons so purchasing in good faith, his heirs or assigns, shall be entitled to the land so purchased upon making proof of the fact of such purchase at the proper land office, within such time and under such rules as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, after the grants, respectively, shall have been adjusted; and patents of the United States shall issue therefor, and shall relate back to the date of the original certification or patenting. And the Secretary of the Interior, on behalf of the United States, shall demand payment from the company which has so disposed of such lands of an amount equal to the Government price of similar lands. And in case of neglect or refusal of such company to make payments as hereafter specified, within ninety days after the demand shall have been made, the Attorney-General shall cause suit or suits to be brought against such company for the said amount: Provided, That nothing in this act shall prevent any purchaser of lands erroneously withdrawn, certified or patented as aforesaid from recovering the purchase money therefor from the grantee company, less the amount paid to the United States by such company as by this act required:

And provided, That a mortgage or pledge of said lands by the company shall not be considered as a sale for the purpose of this act, nor shall this act be construed as a declaration of forfeiture of any portion of any land grant for conditions broken, or as authorizing an entry for the same, or as a waiver of any rights that the United States may have on account of any breach of said conditions.

"SEC 5. That where any said company shall have sold to citizens of the United States, or to persons who have declared their intention to become such citizens, as a part of its grant, lands not conveyed to or for the use of such company, said lands being the numbered sections prescribed in the grant, and being coterminous with the constructed parts of said road, and where the lands so sold are for any reason excepted from the operation of the grant to said company, it shall be lawful for the bona fide purchaser thereof from said company to make payment to the United States for said lands at the ordinary Government price for like lands, and thereupon patents shall issue therfor to the said bona fide purchaser, his heirs or assigns: Provided, That all lands shall be excepted from the provisions of this section what at the date of such sales were in the bo[illegible]e occupation of adverse claimants under the pre-emption or homestead laws of the United States, and whose claims and occupation have not since been voluntarily abandoned, as to which excepted lands the said pre-emption and homestead claimants shall be permitted to perfect their proofs and entries and receive patents therfor. Provided further, That this section shall not apply to lands settled upon subsequent to the first day of December, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, by persons claiming to enter the same under the settlement laws of the United States, as to which lands the parties claiming the same as aforesaid shall be entitled to prove up and enter as in other like cases.

"SEC. 7. That no more lands shall be certified or conveyed to any state, or to any corporation or individual, for the benefit of either of the companies herein mentioned, where it shall appear to the Secretary of the Interior that such transfers may create an excess over the quantity of lands to which such state, corporation, or individual would be rightfully entitled."

Approved March 3, 1887. (24 Stat., 556.)

ACT OF CONGRESS, FEBRUARY 12, 1896.

(29 Stat., 6.)

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section four of an act entitled 'An act to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and for the forfeiture of unearned lands, and for other purposes,' approved March third, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, be, and the same is hereby, amended by adding thereto the following proviso: 'Provided further, That where such purchasers, their heirs or assigns, have paid only a portion of the purchase price to the company, which is less than the Government price of similar lands, they shall be required, before the delivery of patent for their lands, to pay to the Government a sum equal to the difference between the portion of the purchase price so paid and the Government price, and in such case the amount demanded from the company shall be the amount paid to it by such purchaser.'"

ACT OF CONGRESS OF MARCH 2, 1896.

(29 Stat., 42.)

"Be it enacted, &c., That suits by the United States to vacate and annul any patent to lands heretofore erroneously issued under a railroad or wagon road grant shall only be brought within five years from the passage of this act, and suits to vacate and annul patents hereafter issued shall only be brought within six years after the date of the issuance of such patents, and the limitation of section eight of chapter five hundred and sixty-one of the acts of the second session of the Fifty-first Congress, and amendments thereto, is extended accordingly as to the patents herein referred to. But no patent to any lands held by a bona fide purchaser shall be vacated or annulled, but the right and title of such purchaser is hereby confirmed: Provided, That no suit shall be brought or maintained, nor shall recovery be had for lands, or the value thereof, that were certified or patented in lieu of other lands covered by a grant which were lost or relinquished by the grantee in consequence of the failure of the Government or its officers to withdraw the same from sale or entry.

"SEC. 2. That if any person claiming to be a bona fide purchaser of any lands erroneously patented or certified shall present his claim to the Secretary of the Interior prior to the institution of a suit to cancel a patent or certification, and if it shall appear that he is a bona fide purchaser, the Secretary of the Interior shall request that suit be brought in such case against the patentee, or the corporation, company, person, or association of persons, for whose benefit the certification was made, for the value of said land, which in no case shall be more than the minimum Government price thereof, and the title of such claimant shall stand confirmed. An adverse decision by the Secretary of the Interior on the bona fides of such claimant shall not be conclusive of his rights, and if such claimant, or one claiming to be a bona fide purchaser, but who has not submitted his claim to the Secretary of the Interior, is made a party to such suit, and if found by the court to be a bona fide purchaser, the court shall decree a confirmation of the title, and shall render a decree in behalf of the United States against the patentee, corporation, company, person, or association of persons, for whose benefit the certification was made for the value of the land as hereinbefore provided. Any bona fide purchaser of lands patented or certified to a railroad company, and who is not made a party to such suit, and who has not submitted his claim to the Secretary of the Interior, may establish his right as such bona fide purchaser in any United States court having jurisdiction of the subject matter, or at his option as prescribed in sections three and four of chapter three hundred and seventy-six of the acts of the second session of the Forty-ninth Congress.

"SEC. 3. That if at any time prior to the institution of suit by the Attorney-General to cancel any patent or certification of lands erroneously patented or certified a claim or statement is presented to the Secretary of the Interior by or on behalf of any person or persons, corporation or corporations claiming that such person or persons, corporation or corporations, is a bona fide purchaser or are bona fide purchasers of any patented or certified land by deed or contract, or otherwise, from or through the original patentee or corporation to which patent or certification was issued, no suit or action shall be brought to cancel or annul the patent or certification for said land until such claim is investigated in said Department of the Interior; and if it shall appear that such person or corporation is a bona fide purchaser as aforesaid, or that such persons or corporations are such bona fide purchasers, then no such suit shall be instituted, and the title of such claimant or claimants shall stand confirmed; but the Secretary of the Interior shall request that suit be brought in such case against the patentee, or the corporation, company, person, or association of persons for whose benefit the patent was issued or certification was made for the value of the land, as hereinbefore specified.

Appendix (2).

Extracts from the Petition for Rehearing by Southern Pacific Company in Supreme Court (168 U. S., 1). Denied Dec. 20, 1897.

"Supreme Court of the United States.

OCTOBER TERM, 1897.

"No. 71.

"THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY AND OTHERS, APPELLANTS,

"vs.

"THE UNITED STATES, APPELLEE.

"APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT.

"PETITION FOR RE-HEARING AS TO CERTAIN PORTIONS OF THE LANDS INVOLVED IN THE SUIT.

"To the Honorable the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States:

"The appellants in the above entitled cause hereby humbly pray that the said case may be re-heard, and a re-argument therein ordered, as to certain classes of land involved in the suit, which are hereinafter specifically referred to, and that decrees be rendered in respect to such respective classes of lands as hereinafter prayed respectively." * * * * * * *

"The causes reported in 146 U. S. involved, however, only the claim of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to lands which were situated within the granted limits of its Branch Line Grant; the causes reported at pages 570–614 involving lands in the granted limits of the Southern Pacific Branch Line Grant which were found to be within the granted limits of the Atlantic & Pacific Grant; and the causes reported at pages 615–619 involving lands also within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific Branch Line Grant, but which were found within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic & Pacific Grant."

"The lands involved in the causes reported at pages (146 U. S.) 570–614, being included within the granted limits of both grants, were held to belong to the United States on account of the priority of the date of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant of 1866 over the Southern Pacific Branch Line Grant of 1871, upon the principle that in respect to such a conflict priority of grant controlled. The lands involved in the causes reported (146 U. S.) at pages 615–619, being included within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific Grant and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant, were held to belong to the United States on account of the proviso quoted above, which provided that the Branch Line Grant should not 'affect or impair the rights present or prospective of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company or any other railroad company.'"

"These former causes, upon the adjudication and authority of which the present case has been decided, did not however, involve lands in any of the three following categories:

"A. Lands within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Branch Line Grant of 1871; the right to select and acquire which is dependent upon the status of the lands, not at the date of the grant or definite location (as in the case in respect of lands within granted limits), but at the date of selection.

"B. Lands claimed under the Southern Pacific Main Line Grant, viz., under Section 18 of the Atlantic and Pacific act of 1866.

"C. Lands sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company before institution of suit, and the rights of purchasers thereof (1) as bona fide purchasers under general principles of law; (2) under the act of March 3, 1887; (3) under the act of March 2, 1896."

"In respect to lands involved within the three categories above referred to there was, and could be, no adjudication in any of the cases reported in 146 U. S., as none of those cases involved lands within those categories or either of them, nor do any principles established in either of those cases determine the questions involved in the determination of the rights of the company to these lands." * * * * * * * * * *

* * * * * * * * * * *

"The Grounds of this Application."

"First. The court has erroneously, but as is believed inadvertently, affirmed the decrees of the courts below affecting the right of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, subsequently to the passage of the Atlantic and Pacific forfeiture act of July 6, 1886, to select under the act of March 3, 1871, as indemnity for losses occurring in its granted limits under said act, the lands involved in this cause which are within Southern Pacific indemnity limits; and accordingly it is respectfully submitted that the decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals, so far as it affirms the decree of the Circuit Court in respect to the lands involved in this suit within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under the act of March 3, 1871, should be reversed by this court, and that the Circuit Court should be directed to dismiss the bill as respects those lands"

"Second. The final decrees, in this cause, should be so modified as to be expressed therein to be without prejudice to any right, title or interest of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under and by virtue of the Main Line Grant to that company, contained in the act of July 27, 1866, in or to any of the lands described in the bill and in the decree of the Circuit Court." *

* * * * * * * * * *

"First."

"AS TO THE LANDS EMBRACED WITHIN THE INDEMNITY LIMITS OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC BRANCH LINE GRANT, AND THE RIGHT OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY TO MAKE INDEMNITY SELECTIONS THEREIN AFTER THE FORFEITURE OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC GRANT AND THE RESTORATION TO THE PUBLIC DOMAIN OF THE LANDS INCLUDED THEREIN."

I.

"The decree of the Circuit Court of July 19, 1894, adjudged that the United States 'is the owner, by title in fee simple absolute of all the sections of lands' therein described, which are the identical lands described in the bill, and that 'the defendants are, and each of them is, forever enjoined and restrained from chopping upon or carrying from the said lands any trees, timber or wood, and from claiming or asserting any right, title or interest in or to the said lands or any thereof.' [record, vol. 1, pp. 356, 357.]"

"The Circuit Court of Appeals, on June 24, 1895, simply affirmed the decree of the Circuit Court (ib, vol. 5, p. 3214)."

"By the opinion of this court, filed on the 18th of October last, the decree of the court below is 'affirmed in all respects as to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as well as to the trustees in the mortgage executed by that company, and affirmed also as to the other defendants, subject, however, to the right of the Government to proceed in the Circuit Court to a final decree as to those defendants.'"

* * * * * * * * *

"The present cause was decided, and the decrees below were affirmed, as we understand from the opinion of the court, as upon the authority of the decisions in the former cases of The United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company (146 U. S., 570), and the United States vs. Colton Marble and Lime Company, and United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad Company (146 U. S, 615)."

"Those cases, however, involved only certain lands within the common granted or primary limits of the Southern Pacific and the Atlantic & Pacific Companies, and certain lands within the granted or primary limits of the Southern Pacific, which fell within the former indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific, and did not involve or relate to any lands within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific; and the decrees in those cases, therefore, did not and could not conclude or affect, as authority or precedent, any issues or questions of law touching the right of selection of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under the act of 1871, after the passage of the Atlantic and Pacific Forfeiture Act of 1886, in respect to the lands within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits, and the Atlantic and Pacific granted limits, or within the common indemnity limits of both grants."

* * * * * * *

"In view, however of the broad terms of the decree of the Circuit Court, and the apparent legal effect of the decree, if affirmed, with regard to such of the lands here in suit as are within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific and the former Atlantic & Pacific granted or indemnity limits, and with regard to the existing and future selections thereof by the Southern Pacific Company under the act of 1871, it is necessary that the appellants should respectfully ask, as they do, that the learned court will order a re-hearing herein, and that the decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals, affirming the decree of the Circuit Court so far as it affects such Southern Pacific indemnity lands, be reversed, and that the Circuit Court be directed to dismiss the bill as respects those lands."

* * * * * * * * *

"It will appear upon an examination of this diagram (map 33) and the decree of the Circuit Court that, of the lands described in the bill of the United States and the decree of the Circuit Court, some 99,004.85 acres, as estimated, are within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits and the former Atlantic and Pacific granted and indemnity limits."

* * * * * * * *

"Second."

"AS TO THE CLAIM OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, AND THE MORTGAGE TRUSTEES, IN RESPECT TO LANDS EMBRACED WITHIN ITS MAIN LINE GRANT UNDER THE 18TH SECTION OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC ACT OF 1866."

* * * * * * * *

* * * * * * * *

"The bill in this cause refers to the Atlantic and Pacific Act of 1866, as prescribing the extent of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, through and by means of which the lands involved were claimed to have been withheld from the Southern Pacific grant, and also for the purpose of indicating the terms and conditions upon which the Southern Pacific Branch Line Grant (which for that purpose adopted the terms of the Atlantic and Pacific Grant) was made, but it did not make nor indicate any attack upon the Southern Pacific Main Line Grant. The answer interposed in this cause (for the reason stated above) made no claim under the Main Line Grant to any of the lands involved in this suit."

"In fact, the bill of the United States was so framed and to tender issue only upon the claim of the defendants under the act of 1871, as it expressly alleged in paragraph V, 'that said defendants claim said lands under and by virtue of said act of March 3, 1871,' etc. [record, vol. 1, p. 35], and paragraph V of the answer admits that the defendants claim ownership in themselves and grantees, etc., under the act of March 3, 1871 [record, vol. 1, p. 103]."

"The evidence in the cause was taken upon the same theory [vol. 1, p. 444]. As we have said, the fact that these lands were included within the Main Line Grant, as well as within the Branch Line Grant, wholly escaped the attention of the pleader and of counsel for the defendants until the cause was being reached for argument in the Circuit Court of Appeals, when an examination by new counsel, then retained in the suit, of the maps in volume 6, paged as to 19 and 33, showed that the limit-lines of the Main Line Grant covered some of the lands in suit."

"It might undoubtedly be said that inasmuch as suit was brought for the recovery of these lands, it was incumbent upon the defendants to assert all the titles or claims which they had thereto, and that if, in addition to their claim to these lands under the Branch Line Grant (which this court has held to have been adjudicated against them by the decision of the former causes), they had a valid title thereto under the Main Line Grant, they should have asserted that valid title in their answer to the suit. We should not perhaps dispute this proposition, and this Maine Line title would of course have been asserted if its existence had been observed. But the Main Line lands being assumed to be free from challenge, and the Branch Line lands having been already challenged in the former litigations, the minds of the pleader and of counsel were directed solely to the controversy as to the Branch Line title, and the fact that these lands were included within the Main Line Grant remained unobserved by them until new counsel prepared the cause for argument in the Circuit Court of Appeals."

"If this were a suit at law in ejectment or the like, the failure to assert and put in issue the Main Line title might have been incurably fatal to any right or claim of the defendants thereunder."

"We do not understand, however, that this rule applies to equity causes; where it is perfectly competent for the court, in the exercise of a wise discretion, to protect the rights of parties by an adjudication upon the issues involved in the cause, made and expressed to be made without prejudice to any other claim not put in issue therein."

"AS TO LANDS SOLD BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY BEFORE INSTITUTION OF SUIT AND THE RIGHTS OF PURCHASERS THEREOF (1) AS BONA FIDE PURCHASERS UNDER GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF LAW, (2) UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 3 1887, (3) UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 2, 1896.

"This subject is dealt with under the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth Points (pages 330 to 352) of the original brief of the appellants in this court."

* * * * * * * * *

"The decree in the Circuit Court adjudged primarily and as to all the defendants in the case that the United States is the owner by title in fee simple absolute of all the lands described in the bill, and thereupon enjoined the defendants and each of them 'from chopping upon or carrying from the said lands any trees, timber or wood, and from claiming or asserting any right, title or interest in or to the said lands or any thereof.' "

"These paragraphs of the decree would, of course, cut off and determine adversely to the purchasers any right, title or interest on their part in respect to said lands or any part thereof."

* * * * * * * * *

"However, as pointed out in the Twelfth Point of the original brief (pages 336 to 352), there intervened, between the passage of this decree in the Circuit Court and the argument of the appeal in this court, the act of Congress of March 2, 1896, quoted on pages 337 to 340 of that brief, which proceeded upon an entirely different theory, to wit, that 'no patent to any lands held by a bona fide purchaser shall be vacated or annulled, but the right and title of such purchaser is hereby confirmed' —that is to say, that instead of canceling the old patent and creating a new title, as was contemplated under the act of 1887, the act of 1896 protected the old patent against cancellation or annullment, and the purchasers' right and title thereunder was confirmed. And in view of the provisions of this act of 1896, it was submitted on behalf of those purchasers that 'the decree of the court below in this suit should under any circumstances be reversed and the cause should be remanded to the Circuit Court with directions to that court to ascertain and determine which of the patented lands in controversy are held by bona fide purchasers within the meaning of that act, and to except such lands from the operation of any decree otherwise vacating or annulling any such patent.'"

"It is needless to repeat here the argument upon that subject contained in the Twelfth Point of the original brief, and we have but little to add to the suggestion contained therein."

"The appellants therefore pray that the said case may be reheard and a re-argument therein ordered, upon some day by the Court to be appointed, as to the three classes of lands involved in the suit herein above referred to, and that decrees be rendered in respect to such respective classes of lands as hereinbefore respectfully prayed."

Appendix (4).

Table of Land Sales.

Lands as to which the Circuit Court dismissed the bill, showing date of contracts of sale made by Southern Pacific, name of purchaser, contract price, amount paid, number of acres, and date of patent.

Explanations. (1) All of these lands were sold by executory contracts and were unpatented when contracted to be sold (except as to the 48th and 114th sales, which sales were made in 1895 pendente lite), and each contract contains a provision to the effect that the railroad has not secured title or patent for the land, and that if it fails to do so the contract shall be void and the company will refund the money paid. [record 2052, 2549, 2552.] (2) This table follows in its order that part of the decree dismissing the bill as to these lands. (3) The payments made on these lands were prior to filing supplemental answer, viz., on June 6, 1898 (rec. 200). (4) All the lands were patented pendente lite. [record 2563, 2576, 2585]. (5) Patented lands were sold by the railroad upon one form of contract, and those unpatented upon another. [rec. 2052, 2549.] The production of original contracts was waived. [rec. 2088.] (6) The facts concerning these sales, names of purchasers, dates, price and contracts to sell are shown by Exhibit "A" to the verified supplemental answer. [rec. 202-206.] The lands now in question are shown by the latter part of the exhibit, commencing with contract No. 11206. [rec. 272-310.]

(1) September 21, 1892; W. M. and M. C. Bailey; contract price $400.00, paid $205.62; 321.29 acres; patented November 28, 1894. [rec. 272.]

(2) September, 21, 1892; W. M. and M. C. Bailey; contract price $400.00, paid $204.80; 320 acres; patented November 28, 1894. [rec. 272.]

THE UNITED STATES, APPELLANT, v. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY et al., appellees.	No. 185.

APPEAL AND CROSS APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS, NINTH CIRCUIT.

ADDITIONAL BRIEF FOR UNITED STATES.

FIRST.

THAT LANDS WITHIN THE INDEMNITY LIMITS AS WELL AS THE GRANTED LIMITS OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC RAILROAD IN CALIFORNIA APPERTAIN TO THE GRANT TO THAT COMPANY, AND WERE THEREFORE EXCLUDED FROM THE GRANT TO THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD, HAS BEEN FINALLY AND CONCLUSIVELY ADJUDGED IN THE FORMER LITIGATIONS BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

It is understood that in the recent case of Hewitt v. Schultz, decided January 7, 1901, it was held under section 6 of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, which is in all respects similar to section 6 of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads, that there was no authority in the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw the indemnity lands as against preemption and homestead entries, so as to cut off or impair a preemption entry made after filing map of general route and of definite location, but whatever was intended to be ruled in that case, it is obvious for several reasons that it has no application to the present suit.

If it was finally adjudged in the former litigations between the Government and the Southern Pacific that indemnity lands of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company were lands pertaining to the Atlantic and Pacific grant, that they were forfeited to the public domain by the act of Congress of 1886 without the Southern Pacific Railroad having acquired any interest in those lands, it can not be very important what was ruled in Hewitt v. Schultz.

In the case of the United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad (146 U. S., 615, 619) the record of which case is in evidence in the present suit (pp. 644, 684, 713, 819), the lands the subject of that suit were within the indemnity limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and it was adjudged by the court that the lands within such indemnity limits, as well as those within the granted limits, covered by the preceding case (146 U. S., 570), were not operated upon or taken by the Southern Pacific Company; and the court said (pp. 617, 618):

> It might well be assumed that very likely the Atlantic and Pacific Company might be called upon to select from indemnity lands a portion to make good the deficiency in the granted limits. That the right of selection was a prospective right, and if it was to be fully exercised no adverse title could be created to any lands within the indemnity limits. * * * That prospective right would be impaired by the transfer of the title of a single tract to the Southern Pacific. Hence it follows that the title to none of these indemnity lands passed or could pass to the Southern Pacific Company.

The later case of Southern Pacific v. United States (168 U. S., 1, 66) also involved lands within the indemnity limits, as well as granted limits, of the Atlantic and Pacific grant claimed by the Southern Pacific not only under its grant of March 3, 1871, but under its grant by section 18 of the act of July 27, 1866, and the joint resolution of Congress of June 28, 1870, and of the classes of lands involved in that cause the court said that among others were included—> lands within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific grant and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant; lands within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits and the Atlantic and Pacific granted limits; lands within the common indemnity limits of both grants (p. 47).

And in that case the court, after stating what the issues were in the former suits, and what the claims and contentions of the respective parties were, stated (at pp. 61, 62) as follows:

> For the reasons stated, we are of the opinion that it must be taken in this case to have been conclusively adjudicated in the former cases as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company—
>
> 1. That the maps filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient, as maps of definite location, to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of 1866.
>
> 2. That upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department, the rights of that company in the land so granted, attached, by relation, as of the date of the act of 1866; and
>
> 3. That in view of the conditions attached to the grant, and the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the forfeiture act of 1886, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain, without the Southern Pacific Railroad having acquired any interest therein that affected the power of the United States to forfeit and restore them to the public domain.
>
> These grounds being accepted as the basis of our decision, the law in the present case is clearly for the United States; for, as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872, and, therefore, appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be, for the reasons stated in the former decision, that the United > States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to the relief given by the decree below.

It appears, therefore, to have been finally and conclusively determined in the language of the court that the Atlantic and Pacific indemnity lands, as well as the others—> are embraced by the maps of 1872, and therefore appertain to the line located by such maps.

The Southern Pacific Railroad, and the trustees in the mortgage of 1875, were parties to the former litigations and, as has already been shown on the brief for the Government, the Central Trust Company, trustee for the mortgage of 1888, is in privity with the Southern Pacific Company and was represented by it in the former suits.

With this recent final and conclusive determination against the claim of the Southern Pacific to the Atlantic and Pacific indemnity lands it may not be profitable to speculate upon what decision would be rendered if the matter were reargued as a new question.

But it was proven to the satisfaction of the court and determined in the former suits, and is established in this suit, that all of the indemnity lands of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company were insufficient in quantity to supply the losses within the granted limits of the grant to that company.

In the case 146 U. S., 615, the court said, at page 616:

> The ordinary rule with respect to lands within the indemnity limits is that no title passes > until selection. Where, as here, the deficiency within the granted limits is so great that all the indemnity lands will not make good the losses, it has been held in a contest between two railroad companies that no formal selection was necessary to give them to the one having the older grant as against the other company. (St. Paul and Pacific Railroad v. Northern Pacific Railroad, 139 U. S., 1.)

>
> And if the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company had constructed its road it would be difficult in the light of that decision to avoid the conclusion that all the lands within the indemnity limits passed to that company.

The evidence and admissions in the pleadings in that case established the fact found that the whole quantity of the indemnity lands was insufficient to supply the losses in the granted limits, and that fact further appears in the present case in the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office for the year 1875, in which the Commissioner, from information compiled in his office, estimates that there will be a total loss in the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company of 2,000,000 acres. (Record, 1225.)

The limitation in the Southern Pacific grants (section 3 of the act of July 27, 1866) was doubtless also a controlling factor in the prior cases, adjudging that none of the lands either granted or indemnity could pass to the Southern Pacific. That provision is:

> That if said route shall be found upon the line of any other railroad route, to aid in the construction of which lands have been hereto> fore granted by the United States, so far as the routes are upon the same general line, the amount of land heretofore granted shall be deducted from the amount granted by this act.

The deduction was of the total amount granted to the former from the total amount granted to the latter. Bearing in mind that the Atlantic and Pacific was the older grant and first located, and that the routes are upon the "same general line" between Mojave and the Colorado River, and also upon the Southern Pacific branch line through the Soledad Pass between Mojave and Los Angeles, and the conclusion seems irresistible that all the Atlantic and Pacific lands were deducted from the Southern Pacific grants. The significance of this proviso is commented upon by the circuit court of appeals. (Record, 2661, 2662.)

SECOND.

IT IS SETTLED AS A MATTER OF LAW THAT THE INDEMNITY LANDS OF THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC RAILROAD APPERTAIN TO THE GRANT TO THAT COMPANY, AND WERE NOT OPERATED UPON BY ANY GRANT TO THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY.

Aside from the effect of the decisions in the former cases as res adjudicata the several decisions of the court in the former suits ought to be taken as finally determining the rights of the Government to the Atlantic and Pacific lands as a question of law finally settled. (United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 146 U. S., 570, 615, 619; Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. United States, 168 U. S., 1, 66.)

THIRD.

INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DECISIONS IN THE FORMER SUITS AS EITHER RES ADJUDICATA OR AS PRECEDENTS IN THE PRESENT SUIT, THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC INDEMNITY LANDS, SET APART AND RESERVED IN 1872, CAN NOT BE TAKEN BY THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC UNDER ITS GRANTS OF 1871 OR 1870.

If, under the ruling in Hewitt v. Schultz, there was no requirement in section 6 of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, or section 6 in the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, for the withdrawal of the indemnity lands as against homestead and preemption entries, and even if there was no authority to withdraw them as against such entries there certainly was no prohibition against their being withdrawn as against their appropriation under subsequent railroad grants or as against any other mode of acquiring them.

Section 6 of the Northern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific acts provided only that the lands not granted to the company were to be subject to preemption rights and homestead settlement, and it was for that reason that the contention was made so earnestly in the Interior Department that indemnity lands could not be withdrawn from homestead or preemption entry.

In the present case the Atlantic and Pacific indemnity lands are not only insufficient to supply the losses within the primary limits, but these indemnity lands were withdrawn and set apart in 1872 upon the filing of the map of definite location of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, and at that time they were not only reserved from homestead and preemption entries, but they were also reserved from all other modes of "location" or "entry," which reservation remained unrevoked when the present suit was commenced. (Record 624, 878.)

Upon filing the two Atlantic and Pacific maps, which were filed on March 9, 1872, the Commissioner, in his order of April 22 of the same year, said in his directions to the officers of the local land office:

> You are hereby directed to withhold from preemption or homestead entry, private sale, or location all the odd-numbered sections falling within those limits (thirty-mile limits), both surveyed and unsurveyed.

And in his order to the same officers, November 23, 1874, upon the remaining two maps in California, filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company on August 15, 1872, the Commissioner said:

> You will accordingly withhold from sale or entry all the odd-numbered sections falling within the thirty-mile limits shown on the diagrams.

That this reservation of these lands for the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 and before the Southern Pacific filed its map of definite location on either its main or branch line, and which reservation was in aid of an earlier grant operated to prevent any of those lands from passing to the Southern Pacific, has been considered and fully presented in the brief heretofore filed on behalf of the Government. (See pp. 65-103.)

And the following authorities are relied upon in support of this contention:

Wolcott v. Des Moines Company, 5 Wall., 681.

Hamblin v. Western Land Company, 147 U. S., 531.

Northern Pacific v. Musser-Sauntry Co., 168 U. S., 604, 610, 611.

Wisconsin Railroad v. Forsythe, 159 U. S., 46, 57.

Spencer v. McDougal, 159 U. S, 62.

Chicago Railroad v. United States, 159 U. S., 372, 375.

Finally the entire quantity of lands in the Atlantic and Pacific grant was to be deducted from the Southern Pacific grant so far as the routes are on the same general line, which description covers the lands involved in the present case.

OCTOBER TERM, 1901.

Nos. 18 and 24.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY ET AL., APPELLANTS,

vs.

THE UNITED STATES, APPELLEE.

THE UNITED STATES, APPELLANT,

vs.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY ET AL., APPELLEES.

MOTION TO OPEN AND CORRECT JUDGMENT.

Comes now the United States and moves this honorable court to open and correct the judgment of the court rendered in pursuance of the opinion in the above-entitled cause on the 6th day of January, 1902, by further directing the circuit court to enter a decree in favor of the Government for those lands outside of the 20-mile limits of the grant to the Southern Pacific railroad of 1866, but within the 30-mile limits of the grant made to that company by the act of 1871, and overlapped by the 30-mile limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by the act of 1866.

The court appears to have inadvertently assumed that title to the lands within the overlap of the Southern Pacific Railroad branch line and the Atlantic and Pacific grant were adjudicated in the former cases between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, reported in 146th U. S., 570, 619, and 168th U. S., 1, 66, doubtless owing to the fact that the weight of the argument and the mind of the court was directed to the more acute controversies between the Government and the railroad company as to the conflict between the Southern Pacific Main Line grant of 1866 and the Atlantic and Pacific grant of the same date. We do not ask the court to reopen or reconsider any question which has been under consideration and decided by the court, but to give to the Government a decree for that large body of lands not embraced in former litigations and which are within the Southern Pacific branch line and overlapped by the Atlantic and Pacific grant, which lands are embraced by the bill and were decreed to the Government by the courts below (Record, pp. 354–362), and the titles to which lands are conceded to be in the United States.

The bill of complaint in the present suit (Record, pp. 3–37) sets forth the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, and the filing by that company of its maps of definite location, and the forfeiture of that grant within both primary and indemnity limits, and then alleges:

"And said lands were restored to the public domain, including all the odd number of sections of land for 30 miles on each side of said route of said Atlantic and Pacific Company definitely fixed as aforesaid between the eastern boundary of California and the Pacific ocean at San Buena Ventura, which lands are still owned by your orators."

The bill sought to quiet the title of the United States to all of said lands and to vacate any patents theretofore issued to any of such lands, except only those lands embraced in former litigations which are there described in the bill, and as to which lands no relief is sought in the present case (Record, pp. ~~36, 37~~). 8-18

All of the lands involved in former litigations are there described in the bill and can be readily placed upon the map showing the overlapping grants, which is found in the record in the present case at page 640, and it will be seen that a body of lands estimated at about 600,000 acres, which were not embraced in former litigations and which are outside of the 20-mile limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1866, are embraced by the bill in this case, and that no disposition has been made of them under the judgment of the court entered on the 6th day of January, 1902, although both courts below quieted the title of the United States to these lands, and the opinion of this court concedes the title of the Government to them.

The answer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company took issue upon the allegations of the bill as to the title of the United States to these lands (Record, pp. 55–89), and the evidence of both sides was directed to the question of ownership, and the Government, relying upon the estoppel by reason of the former adjudications as well as upon the merits, introduced in evidence the records of the cases reported in 146th U. S., 570, 619, and which records are found in the record in the present suit at pages 644 to 825.

The case of The United States vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad, reported in 146th U. S., 570, was brought for certain tracts of land situated within the primary or 20-mile limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant overlapped by the primary or 20-mile limits of the grant to the Southern Pacific railroad by the act of March 3, 1871.

The case of The United States vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad, reported in 146th U. S., 615, 619, was brought for certain tracts of land situated within the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant of 1866 and the primary limits of the grant to the Southern Pacific railroad, act of March 3, 1871, and in both cases this court adjudged the title to be in the United States and directed that decrees be entered by the circuit court for the relief sought.

The later case of The Southern Pacific Railroad vs. The United States, 168th U.S., 1–66, was brought for certain lands within the overlap of the Southern Pacific Branch Line grant and the Atlantic and Pacific grant, in which case the court said (168th U. S., 46, 47):

"The lands now in controversy are situated opposite to and are coterminous with the first, second and fourth sections of the Southern Pacific railroad as constructed between 1873 and 1877, inclusive, and within the primary and indemnity limits of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the 23d section of the Texas and Pacific act of March 3, 1871; the 61,939.62 acres patented to that company being opposite to the first and fourth sections of its road. It may be said that the lands here in dispute belong to one or the other of the following classes: Lands within the common granted limits of both the Atlantic and Pacific grant of 1866 and the Southern Pacific grant of 1871; lands within the granted limits of the Southern Pacific grant and the indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant; lands within the Southern Pacific indemnity limits and the Atlantic and Pacific granted limits; lands within the common indemnity limits of both grants. Of those in dispute, 219,012.93 acres have not been surveyed by the United States."

And the decree of the circuit court for all the lands involved in that suit and embraced within the four classes of land as defined by the court was entered in favor of the Government against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and was affirmed by this court. The court rested its decision upon the authority of the cases in 146th U. S., 570, 619, and determined that the title to none of the lands within the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad grant, either pri- mary or indemnity limits, could be taken by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company under its grant of March 3, 1871.

In the present case the decree of the circuit court, which was affirmed by the circuit court of appeals, quieted the title of the United States to all of the lands for which the present bill was brought except those particular lands embraced in former litigations, and which are described in the bill as well as in the decree, and except those lands sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which were dismissed from the case while in the circuit court.

The concluding paragraph of the opinion of the court in the present case, filed on January 6, 1902, and upon which the judgment of the court was entered, provides as follows:

"The decree of the circuit court of appeals of the ninth circuit, affirming the decree of the circuit court for the southern district of California will be reversed and the case remanded to the circuit court with instructions to enter a decree quieting the title of the United States to an equal undivided moiety in all alternate sections within the place or granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific in California, so far as those limits conflict with the like limits of the Southern Pacific, excepting therefrom those lands in respect to which there has been some prior adjudication, and to dismiss the bill as to all other lands without prejudice to any future suit or action."

The court has made no disposition whatever of the 600,000 acres of land to which the Government asserted title by its bill, which title was disputed by the answer of the defendants, and to which the title of the Government is sustained by the evidence upon the merits, and by the former adjudications of this court, unless the title is disposed of in that part of the judgment which directs the circuit court "to dismiss the bill as to all other lands without prejudice to any future suit or action."

That the Government was entitled to a decree for these lands was practically conceded by counsel for the Southern Pacific Company, and is conceded by the court by reason of the prior adjudications, but the court has made no provision in its judgment for preserving the rights of the Government to them, but has directed that the decrees of the courts below be reversed, and then directs that a decree be entered in favor of the Government for an undivided moiety of the lands upon the main line, and appears to have overlooked the circumstance that these other lands upon the branch line are also embraced by the bill and by the decrees of the courts below (Record, pp. ~~34 and 353~~). E, 336

These lands for which the court has made no provision in its judgment, which are upon the Southern Pacific branch line and outside of the main-line grant to that company, and which were not embraced in any former adjudication, are among the most valuable of the lands involved in the present case, and are probably worth more than three-fourths of all the lands in suit. They are lands which are largely embraced in the United States forest reservations known as the San Bernardino, Pine Mountain, and Zaca Lake reservations. The protection of the title of the Government to these lands and the protection of these forest reserves is a matter of supreme importance to the inhabitants of southern California and is becoming more important each year. The great industries in citrus fruit culture in that part of the State are largely dependent for water supply by irrigation from these forest reserves, and it would be a great disappointment for the court to omit to quiet the title of the United States to these lands, to which relief the Government is so clearly entitled and which after years of litigation it had properly secured in the courts below.

The fact that these lands in the Southern Pacific Branch Line grant and overlap of the Atlantic and Pacific grant are involved in this suit was clearly and fully set forth and argued in the brief for the Government. (See pages 13–18 also pages 91, 92, 95, 103.)

The annexed diagram illustrates the situation of the overlapping of the grants of the Southern Pacific branch line of 1871 and its grant of 1866 with the Atlantic and Pacific grant of the same date, and shows approximately the lands embraced in the former litigations, and as to which no relief was sought by the present bill and which were excepted from the decree in the cross-bill, and also shows the lands to which the Government is entitled to a decree and which it had in the courts below.

For the further convenience of the court there is also presented with this petition a copy of the diagram at page 640 in the record in the present suit upon which the townships of land embraced in the former litigations are marked by a cross with a blue pencil.

As before stated, the description of these lands, embraced in such former litigations and not included in the present bill, is set forth in the bill itself and in the decree of the circuit court, and the description is also given in the opinion of this court in 168 U. S., at page 24. The court will readily observe that the lands embraced in the former litigations included lands in both the indemnity and place limits of the Southern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific grants, and that the lands to which the Government is entitled to a decree, embraced by the present bill, include the remainder of the lands of those classifications, which this court has repeatedly said are owned by the Government, and that the Southern Pacific has no right to them.

In the opinion of the court in the present case, filed on January 6, 1902, the court, quoting from the opinion in The Southern Pacific Railroad vs. The United States, 1, said:

'The Southern Pacific Railroad Company constructed the road thus contemplated, and claims that the lands here in dispute passed to it under the above act of 1871.'

So also on page 46:

'The lands now in controversy are situated opposite to and are coterminous with the first, second and fourth sections of the Southern Pacific railroad as constructed between 1873 and 1877, inclusive, and within the primary and indemnity limits of the grant of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the twenty-third section of the Texas and Pacific act of March 3, 1871.'

"And on page 61 the conclusion was summed up in these words:"

'For the reasons stated, we are of the opinion that it must be taken in this case to have been conclusively adjudicated in the former cases, as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company—

"1. That the maps filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient, as maps of definite location, to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of 1866;

'2. That upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department the rights of that company in the lands so granted, attached, by relation as of the date of the act of 1866; and

'3. That in view of the conditions attached to the grant, and of the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the forfeiture act of 1886, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain without the Southern Pacific Railroad Company having acquired any interest therein that affected the power of the United States to forfeit and restore them to the public domain.

'These grounds being accepted as the basis of our decision, the law in the present case is clearly for the United States; for, as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872, and therefore appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be, for the reasons stated in the former decision, that the United States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to the relief given by the decree below.

"Obviously the fact settled by the decisions in those cases was the filing by the Atlantic and Pacific of an approved map of definite location. Upon that the controversy hinged. Such a map having been filed the title of Atlantic and Pacific vested as of the date of the act of July 27, 1866, and inasmuch as the Southern Pacific claimed only by a grant of date March 3, 1871, it took no title. This which is apparent from the foregoing quotation is emphasized by the full discussions in the opinions, as well as by the allegations in the pleading upon which the cases were tried. That fact having been determined must be taken in the present suit as not open to dispute. The Atlantic and Pacific did file a sufficient map of definite location of its line from the Colorado river to the Pacific ocean, and such map was approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Its title, therefore, to the land within the limits of the grant in California took effect as of date July 27, 1866. No claim of right or title arising only in 1871 and created by an act of that date could affect its title."

Throughout the entire opinion the court concedes the title of the United States to all of the lands within the Atlantic and Pacific grant, both primary and indemnity, so far as overlapped by the Southern Pacific grant of 1871, primary and indemnity, outside of the 20-mile limit main-line grant of the Southern Pacific of 1866, and thereby concurs in the view of the circuit court of appeals that the Government is entitled to a decree for these lands, but in its present form the judgment of this court reverses the decrees of the courts below for these very lands which this court as well as the courts below thinks the Government is entitled to hold

We would therefore suggest that the judgment be so modified as to affirm the decrees of the courts below as to these lands, or, if the decrees be reversed, that the circuit court be instructed "to enter a decree in favor of the Government for the alternate sections of land described by odd numbers, and embraced by the bill situated within the 30-mile limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1871 so far as they are also within the 30-mile limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant of 1866, but outside of the 20-mile limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1866."

II.

All of these 600,000 acres of land as to which we seek correction of the decree are within the limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1871 and outside of the 20-mile limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1866, and most of them are outside of the 30-mile or indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1866, but a part of the lands are situated within the common-indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific grant of 1866 and indemnity limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant.

It may therefore be claimed by the Southern Pacific that it has a naked right to select such indemnity lands to supply deficiencies within its place limits.

But such right, even if it exists, does not confer a present title or right to any tract of land until the selection has been made and approved by the Secretary of the Interior. This is the established doctrine of this court and has been lately reiterated in Hewitt vs. Schultz, 180 U. S., 139, and in the more recent cases of Southern Pacific Railroad vs. Bell and Otto Groeck, decided January 13, 1902, and in which cases the court held that the Secretary of the Interior had no power to reserve indemnity lands for the Southern Pacific railroad prior to a selection of such lands by the company. The Southern Pacific, therefore, can maintain no pre-existing right or title to such indemnity lands without having an approved selection of them any more than can a person claim and hold a part of the public domain because he is entitled under the law to make a homestead or pre-emption entry of a part of it.

The Southern Pacific Company is not entitled to select any part of the lands of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad as indemnity or otherwise, for, as was said by this court in Chicago Railroad vs. The United States, 159th U. S., 372:

"No part of the lands granted in aid of the construction of one road could be applied in aid of the other road."

In Sioux City Railroad vs. The United States, 365, 368, the court said:

"The grants for the Sioux City and Milwaukee roads were by the same act. Of the granted sections in place limits common to both roads, each company, having filed its map of definite location, took, as of the date of the grant, an equal undivided moiety—no more. The equal undivided moiety granted for one road was not granted, nor could be used, for the other road. Congress knew, when it passed the act of 1864, that there would be an overlapping of place limits at the required point of intersection of the two roads. And the Sioux City Company when it accepted the benefit of the grant, knew that such must be the case. As the act did not provide for a selection of lands for either road, on account of the undivided moiety for place lands granted for the other, we may not assume that the right to such selection was intended to be reserved. Lands lost to the Sioux City Company in one of the modes named in the act of Congress and for which other lands could be selected, were lands granted for that company, not lands granted to another company for a different road. The lands which the Sioux City Company claims to have so lost—namely, the undivided moiety granted and subsequently awarded to the Milwaukee Company out of the common place limits—were never granted for the Sioux City road, but were granted for the McGregor or Milwaukee Company."

It is clear from the adjudged cases that the Southern Pacific Company cannot invade the Atlantic and Pacific grant to select indemnity therein.

However, nearly all the lands for which we seek a modification of the judgment of January 6, 1902, are wholly outside of the 30-mile limits of the Southern Pacific grant and within the Atlantic and Pacific grant, and are therefore lands to which the Atlantic and Pacific Company had a "present or prospective right" within the meaning of section 23 of the grant of March 3, 1871.

APPENDIX.

It is further submitted that if the court be of the opinion that the Southern Pacific may be entitled to assert in this suit a right to select those lands within the indemnity limits of its grant of 1866 which are outside of the granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, but which are within the indemnity limits of the latter grant, that then the circuit court should be directed—

"to enter a decree quieting the title of the United States for "those lands embraced by the bill which are outside of the "20-mile or indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific grant "of 1866, but which are within the 30-mile limits of the "Southern Pacific grant of 1871 and within the 30-mile "limits of the Atlantic and Pacific grant, excepting there- "from those lands within the common indemnity limits of "the Southern Pacific grant of 1866 and Atlantic and Pa- "cific grant, and further quieting the title of the United "States to an equal undivided moiety in all alternate sec- "tions within the place or granted limits of the Atlantic "and Pacific in California, so far as those limits conflict "with the like limits of the Southern Pacific, excepting "therefrom those lands in respect to which there has been "some prior adjudication, and to dismiss the bill as to "all other lands without prejudice to any future suit or "action."

To The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, Trustees, and the Central Trust Company of New York, Greeting:

You are hereby cited and admonished to be and appear at a United States Circuit Court of Appeals, for the Ninth Circuit, to be held at the city of San Francisco, in the State of California on the twenty-eighth day of November, A. D. 1898, pursuant to an order allowing an appeal entered in the Clerk's office of the Circuit Court of the United States of America, of the Ninth Judicial Circuit, in and for the Southern District of California, from a final decree made and entered on the sixth day of June, 1898, in that certain cause, being in equity, No. 600, wherein the United States of America are complainants and appellants and you are defendants and appellees, to show cause, if any there be, why the said decree rendered against said appellants as in the said order allowing the appeal mentioned, should not be corrected, and speedy justice should not be done to the parties in that behalf.

Witness, the Honorable MELVILLE W. FULLER, Chief Justice of the United States, this twenty-first day of November, A. D. 1898, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and twenty-third.

ERSKINE M. ROSS,

United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Complainants, vs. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS, and HOMER S. KING, Trustees, and CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Defendants.	No. 600.

Petition for, and Order Allowing Appeal.

To the Judges of the United States Circuit Court, Ninth Circuit:

The United States of America, conceiving themselves aggrieved by the decree made and entered herein on the sixth day of June, 1898, appeal from the said decree to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, and file herewith their assignment of errors, asserted and intended to be urged upon appeal, and they pray that their appeal may be allowed; and further pray that upon this appeal being allowed, that all proceedings in this cause may be stayed, pending such appeal.

And your petitioners further pray that in pursuance of the provisions of section 1013, United States Revised Statutes, and of section 11, of the act of Congress of March 3, 1891, establishing the Circuit Courts of Appeal, that the transcript of the record filed in the said Circuit Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit, by the defendants herein upon their appeal heretofore allowed, may be used by both parties, and that your petitioners may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases.

Dated this thirty-first day of October, 1898.

JOSEPH H. CALL,

Special Assistant United States Attorney and of Counsel for United States.

Order Allowing Same.

The foregoing petition for appeal by the United States and prayer for supersedeas are allowed and granted.

And it is further ordered that the transcript of the record filed in the said Circuit Court of Appeals by the defendants herein, upon their appeal heretofore allowed, may be used by both parties, and that this appeal of the United States may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases, and to the end that a full and complete transcript of the record shall be made and transmitted to said Circuit Court of Appeals, the clerk of this Court shall make and transmit to the said Circuit Court of Appeals in addition to the record filed by the defendants on their appeal, a true copy of the petition of the United States for appeal, their assignment of errors, the order allowing appeal and all other proceedings in the case, not included in the transcript of the record filed by the defendants, as aforesaid.

Dated this thirty-first day of October, 1898.

ROSS,
Circuit Judge.

No. 600.

Assignment of Errors.

The United States, in connection with their petition for appeal therein, present and file therewith their assignment of errors, as to which matters and things they say that the decree entered herein on June 6, 1898, is erroneous, towit:

1. The Court erred in decreeing that the United States take nothing as to the lands, or any of them, adjudged by said decree to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith and for value, being the lands described on pages No. 15 to No. 20, inclusive, of said decree, except the southeast one-quarter of section 25, township 9 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino meridian, it appearing that said lands had been contracted to be sold by said railroad company to third persons upon partial payments, and that only a part of the purchase price had been paid, and that no sale had been completed or deed to any of said lands executed, prior to the commencement of this suit.

2. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owners and to quiet their title to the said lands or any of them.

3. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge that the defendants had no title or interest in said lands or any of them.

4. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of the legal title to said lands and of all interest and estate claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein, subject only to the equities in favor of said purchasers respectively to the equities in favor of said purchasers respectively to the amounts actually paid upon the purchase price.

5. The Court erred in adjudging that patents issued by the United States to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for said lands, pending this suit, granted to or conferred upon the defendants or any of them, any right, title or interest in said lands or any of them.

6. The Court erred in adjudging that said lands described aforesaid, or any of them, were sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith or for value.

7. The Court erred in adjudging that the terms of the contracts, under which said purchasers and each of them contracted to purchase said lands, did not carry notice to such purchasers, and each of them, of the right and title of the United States to said lands.

8. The Court erred in adjudging that its said decree shall not cancel or vacate any point issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands sold by it to a bona fide purchaser.

9. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge what title and rights the defendants before the Court had in said lands.

10. The Court erred in refusing to give the United States a decree for those lands adjudged to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company since November 22, 1889, the date of commencement of the suits in the cases reported in 146 U. S. 615-619.

11. The Court erred in refusing to adjudge that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and those in privity with that company, who contracted to purchase lands while the former suits reported in 146 U. S. 615-619, were pending, were not bound by the adjudications in those cases.

12. TheCourt erred in adjudging that any executory contract for the sale of land made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is valid as to any payment made thereon after notice to the purchaser of the rights of the United States.

Wherefore, the United States prays that said decree may be reversed in said particulars and that the United States be granted the relief therein set forth.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, APPELLANT,
vs.
SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS and Homer S. King, Trustees, and Central Trust Company of New York. } No. 495.

Petition for and order allowing appeal.

To the judges of the United States circuit court of appeals, ninth circuit:

The United States of America, conceiving itself aggrieved by the decree made and entered herein on the day of October, 1899, appeals from the said decree to the United States Supreme Court, and files herewith its assignment of errors, asserted and intended to be urged upon appeal, and it prays that its appeal may be allowed; and further prays that upon this appeal being allowed, that all proceedings in this cause may be stayed, pending such appeal.

And your petitioner further prays that the transcript of the record filed in the Supreme Court by the defendants herein upon their appeal heretofore allowed may be used by both parties, and that your petitioner may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases.

Dated this 4th day of December, 1899.

JOSEPH H. CALL,
Special Assistant United States Attorney,
and of Counsel for United States.

13 Order allowing same.

The foregoing petition for appeal by the United States and prayer for supersedeas are allowed and granted.

And it is further ordered that the transcript of the record filed in the said Supreme Court by the defendants herein, upon their appeal heretofore allowed, may be used by both parties, and that this appeal of the United States may be heard thereon in the same manner as if records had been filed by the appellants in both cases; and to the end that a full and complete transcript of the record shall be made and transmitted to said Supreme Court, the clerk of this court shall make and transmit to the said Supreme Court, in addition to the record filed by the defendants on their appeal, a true copy of the petition of the United States for appeal, its assignment of errors, the order allowing appeal, and all other proceedings in the case not included in the transcript of the record filed by the defendants, as aforesaid.

Dated this day of December, 1899.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, APPELLANT,
vs.
SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, D. O. MILLS and Homer S. King, Trustees, and Central Trust Company of New York. } No. 495.

Assignment of errors.

The United States, in connection with its petition for appeal therein, presents and files therewith its assignment of errors, as to which matters and things it says that the decree entered herein on the day of October, 1899, is erroneous, to wit:

1. The court erred in decreeing that the United States take nothing as to the lands, or any of them, adjudged by said decree to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith and for value, being the lands described on pages No. 15 and No. 20, inclusive, of said decree, except the southeast one quarter of section 25, township 9 north, range 15 west, San Bernardino meridian, it appearing that said lands had been contracted to be sold by said railroad company to third persons upon partial payments, and that only a part of the purchase price had been paid, and that no sale had been completed or deed to any of said lands executed prior to the commencement of this suit.

15 2. The court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of and to quiet its title to the said lands, or any of them.

3. The court erred in refusing to adjudge that the defendants had no title or interest in said lands or any of them.

4. The court erred in refusing to adjudge the United States to be the owner of the legal title to said lands and of all interest and estate claimed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company therein, subject only to the amounts favor of said purchasers respectively to the equities in actually paid upon the purchase price.

5. The court erred in adjudging that patents issued by the United States to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company for said lands, pending this suit, granted to or conferred upon the defendants, or any of them, any right, title, or interest in said lands or any of them.

6. The court erred in adjudging that said lands described aforesaid, or any of them, were sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to third persons in good faith or for value.

7. The court erred in adjudging that the terms of the contracts, under which said purchasers and each of them contracted to purchase said lands, did not carry notice to such purchasers, and each of them, of the right and title of the United States to said lands.

8. The court erred in adjudging that its said decree shall not cancel or vacate any patent issued by the United States to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for lands sold by it to a bona fide purchaser.

9. The court erred in refusing to adjudge what title and rights the defendants before the court had in said lands.

16 10. The court erred in refusing to give the United States a decree for those lands adjudged to have been sold by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company since November 22, 1889, the date of commencement of the suits in the cases reported in 146 U. S., 615-619.

11. The court erred in refusing to adjudge that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and those in privity with that company, who contracted to purchase lands while the former suits reported in 146 U. S., 615-619, were pending, were not bound by the adjudications in those cases.

12. The court erred in adjudging that any executory contract for the sale of land made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is valid as to any payment made thereon after notice to the purchaser of the rights of the United States.

Wherefore, the United States prays that said decree may be reversed in said particulars and that the United States be granted the relief sought.

Special Assistant United States Attorney and of Counsel for the United States.

To the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, trustees, and the Central Trust Company of New York, greeting:

You are hereby cited and admonished to be and appear at a Supreme Court of the United States at Washington within sixty days from the date hereof, pursuant to an appeal allowed on behalf of the United States in open court on the fourth day of December, A. D. 1899, in the United States circuit court of appeals, ninth circuit, wherein the United States is plaintiff and appellant and you are defendants and appellees, to show cause, if any there be, why the decree rendered against the said appellant as in the said appeal mentioned should not be corrected and why speedy justice should not be done to the parties in that behalf.

Witness, the Honorable Melville W. Fuller, Chief Justice of the United States, this fourth day of December, A. D. 1899.

THE UNITED STATES,

vs.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY (D. O. MILLS and HOMER S. KING, Trustees), and THE CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Appellees.

CROSS APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT.

BRIEF OF APPELLEES.

The main question upon this cross-appeal is whether the decision of both courts below that all purchases from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of the lands erroneously patented to the Railroad by the Government were protected by the adjustment acts of March 3, 1887 (24 U. S., Stat., 556), and March 2, 1896 (29 U. S. Stat., 42), as construed by this court in the two Winona cases (165 U. S., 462 and 483) is right. As this is substantially the same question which was raised in the case of the United States vs. the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which is No. 186 upon the present docket of this Court, and is to be argued with this case, we have considered it unnecessary to here repeat at length our argument presented in that case, and we repectfully refer the Court to the brief in No. 186 for our views upon the subject.

There is, however, an additional reason why this cross-appeal should be dismissed which is peculiar to this particular case. In subdivision IX. of the bill of complaint (Main Record in No. 152, p. 15), it is stated:

> "That the officers of the interior department have erroneously and without any authority of law caused to be issued to defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company patents of the United States, in due form of law, for the tracts of land described in plaintiff's exhibit "A" hereto attached and made a part hereof."

Subsequently and in subdivision XII. of the bill the only prayer of the bill which seeks to cancel any patents from the Government to the Railroad is as follows:

> "Your orators pray that their title to said lands described in said Exhibit "A" hereto annexed may be quieted; that said pretended patents be vacated and decreed to be void."

Now, the only patents which the bill asks to have canceled are those conveying the lands described in Exhibit "A" to the bill, and it appears, from an examination of the record, that none of the land excepted from the operation of the final decree, upon the ground that it had been sold to bona fide purchasers (Record, p. 353 et seq.), is a part of the land described in Exhibit "A," attached to the complaint (see Appendix), and that, therefore, there is no prayer in the bill asking that the patents covering the land conveyed by the Railroad to bona fide purchasers should be canceled.

We take it that it is clear that the rights of bona fide purchasers in the land erroneously patented to the United States cannot be annulled and the patents for such land canceled by a bill seeking simply to remove a cloud upon the title to land of the complainant, and that all relief seeking the cancellation of patents is necessarily limited to the patents which the bill specifically asks to be canceled.

As to this, the Circuit Court of Appeals said, in its opinion, at page 2671 of the main record, in No. 152:

> "We are further of the opinion that the bill of complaint did not call for the cancellation of the patents for the lands described. The bill alleged that the officers of the Interior Department had erroneously and without any authority of law caused to be issued to the defendant Southern Pacific Railroad Company patents of the United States in due form of law, for the tracts of land described in plaintiffs' Exhibit "A" attached to the complaint. The prayer of the bill was that plaintiffs' title to the lands described in Exhibit "A" should be quieted, and that the pretended patents for said lands be vacated and decreed to be void, etc. The lands excepted from the decree as having been sold by the Southern Pacific Company to bona fide purchasers who purchased the same in good faith and for value, are not described in exhibit "A," and were not therefore properly involved in the suit for the cancellation of patents."

In the case of Dick vs. Foraker, 155 U. S., 404, 414, it was said:

"The appellee then, seeks to have a cloud removed from his title when he holds no title whatever; for, of course, it follows that if the court was without jurisdiction the decree by it rendered was utterly void, and the sale, having been made under the decree, was equally vicious and wholly null. The rule in ejectment is that the plaintiff must recover on the strength of his own title, and not on the weakness of the title of his adversary. A like rule obtains in an equitable action to remove a cloud from a title; and title in the complainant is of the essence of the right to relief. In Frost v. Spitley, 121 U. S., 552, 556, we said: 'Under the jurisdiction and practice in equity independently of statute, the object of a bill to remove a cloud upon title, and to quiet the possession of real estate, is to protect the owner of the legal title from being disturbed in his possession, or harassed by suits in regard to that title; and the bill cannot be maintained without clear proof of both possession and legal title in the plaintiff.' Alexander v. Pendleton, 8 Cranch., 462; Peirsoll v. Elliott, 6 Pet., 95; Orton v. Smith, 18 How., 263; Crews v. Burcham, 1 Black., 352; Ward v. Chamberlain, 2 Black., 430. As observed by Mr. Justice GRIER in Orton v. Smith, 'Those only who have a clear, legal and equitable title to land, connected with possession, have any right to claim the interference of a court of equity to give them peace or dissipate a cloud on the title.' 18 How., 265.

"The law of Arkansas authorizes a bill to remove a cloud on a title whether or not the complainant be in possession. Act of March 26, 1891, No. 74, Stats. of 1891, 132. By reason of this statute a bill in equity may be maintained in the Circuit Court of the United States by a person not in possession against another who is also out of possession. Holland v. Challen, 110 U. S., 15, 25. But this does not make the complainant's rights any the less dependent upon title in him nor does it put him in a position to have a cloud removed from a title which has no existence. In Frost v. Spitley, supra, it was said, p. 557:

"A statute of Nebraska authorizes an action to be brought 'by any person or persons, whether in actual possession or not, claiming title to real estate, against any person or persons who claim an adverse estate or interest therein, for the purpose of determining such estate or interest, and quieting the title to said real estate'. Nebraska Stat., Feb. 24, 1873; Rev. Stat., 1873, p. 882. . . . The requisite of the plaintiff's possession is thus dispensed with, but not the other rules which govern the jurisdiction of courts of equity over such bills. Under that statute, as under the general jurisdiction in equity, it is 'the title', that is to say, the legal title, to real estate, that is to be quieted against claims of adverse estates or interests. In State v. Sioux City & Pacific Railroad, the Supreme Court of Nebraska said: 'Whatever the rule may be as to a party in actual possession, it is clear that a party not in possession must possess the legal title, in order to maintain the action'. 7 Nebraska, 357, 376. And in Holland v. Challen, above cited, this court said: 'Undoubtedly, as a foundation for the relief sought, the plaintiff must show that he has a legal title to the premises'. The necessary conclusion is, that Spitley, not having the legal title of the lots in question, cannot maintain his bill for the purpose of removing a cloud on the title. * * *

"There are other contentions urged, but they are all covered by what has been already said. They either arise from the erroneous postulate that the complainant's title is not void, but simply voidable, or are predicted on the equally unsound premise that one having no title can successfully invoke the aid of a court of equity to 'remove a cloud' from such non-existent title; that is to say, can ask a court to substract something from nothing."

In the case of United States vs. Winona and St. Paul Railroad, 67 Fed. Rep., 948, it was said at page 959:

"It is not difficult to determine whether the certificates issued in this case were void or voidable when tested by these rules. Jurisdiction of the subject-matter is the power to deal with the general abstract question, to hear the particular facts in any case relating to this question, and to determine whether or not they are sufficient to invoke the exercise of that power. The test of jurisdiction is whether the tribunal has power to enter upon the inquiry, not whether its conclusion in the course of it is right or wrong. Foltz v. Railway Co., 8 C. C. A., 635, 60 Fed. 316, 318, and cases cited.

" When these certificates were issued, the Winona Railroad Company had undoubtedly applied to the land department for conveyances of the lands in controversy to the state for its benefit. These lands were a part of the public lands of the United States, the disposition of which had been intrusted to that department by the acts of congress which established it and defined the powers and duties of its officers. Moreover, the acts of congress under which the Winona Company claimed these lands expressly provided, as we have seen, that the secretary of the interior should indicate the lands granted under them in all cases. The conclusion is irresistible that these acts conferred the power and imposed the duty upon the officers of the land department to hear and determine the ultimate question whether or not the railroad company was entitled to these lands under its grants, and to 'indicate' the lands granted by certificates or patents to the state. In no other way could they have discharged the duties these acts imposed upon them. In deciding this question they necessarily considered whether or not the railroad company had so far complied with the acts granting the lands that it had earned them, the character of the lands themselves, and the class to which they belonged, the time of the definite location of the line of the railroad, the homestead entries and preemption filings that were then upon the lands, the cancellation of all these entries and filings that had been made, and finally, the legal effect of all these and all other material facts upon the claim of the railroad company to receive the lands under the acts of congress. It now appears that they were mistaken as to the legal effect of these facts, but the question they decided was one which the acts of congress authorized and required them to decide—one which they were obliged to decide before they issued the certificates; and, although their decision and their conveyances evidenced by these certificates may be voidable, they are not absolutely void. They are impregnable to collateral attack, and they conveyed the legal title to the lands to the state and its grantees."

Our proposition is simply that no relief can be had under the bill of complaint in this suit as to any lands purchased from the railroad by bona fide purchasers, for the reason that the bill does not ask to cancel the patents conveying such land to the Railroad Company, but is limited in its relief in this regard to the land conveyed by the patents, which it specifically asks to have canceled. In other words, a patent of lands from the Government, however erroneously obtained, cannot be attacked collaterally, and can only be set aside in a direct proceeding for that purpose.

With this one additional suggestion, we respectfully submit the case upon our brief in the case of United States vs. Southern Pacific Railroad, No. 186, submitted and argued with this case.

Supreme Court of the United States.

Nos. 18 and 24.—October Term, 1901.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company et al., Appellants, vs. The United States, Appellee.	18	Cross Appeals from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.
The United States, Appellant, vs. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company et al., Appellees.	24

[January 6, 1902.]

Mr. Justice Brewer delivered the opinion of the Court.

On May 14, 1894 the United States filed in the Circuit Court for the Southern District of California a bill of complaint against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (hereinafter called the Southern Pacific,) and others, seeking to have certain patents canceled and their title quieted to a large body of land, including those described in said patents. Upon pleading and proofs a decree was entered in favor of the United States on June 6, 1898, quieting their title to most of the lands described in the bill. (86 Fed. Rep. 962.) Cross appeals were taken from such decree to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, by which court the decree was affirmed on October 2, 1899. (98 Fed. Rep. 27.) From such decree of affirmance both parties have appealed to this court.

The lands in controversy were within the grant made July 27, 1866, (14 Stat. 292,) to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, (hereinafter called the Atlantic and Pacific,) in aid of its projected line from Springfield, Missouri, to the Pacific Ocean, and were situated along that line between the eastern boundary of California and the Pacific Ocean. The Southern Pacific claims title to these lands by virtue of the eighteenth section of that act and its proceedings thereunder, had with the express approval of Congress.

Litigation has heretofore been had between the United States and the Southern Pacific in reference to lands along the line of the Atlantic and Pacific, the result of which litigation will be found in the following decisions of this court: United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (146 U. S. 570;) United States v. Colton Marble & Lime Company, and United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (Id. 615,) and Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. United States, (168 U. S. 1.) Those decisions are claimed by the government to be controlling of this case on the principle of res judicata.

There are, therefore, two distinct questions presented for our consideration: First, whether the Southern Pacific took any title to these lands by virtue of the act of 1866 or subsequent legislation? and, second, do the prior decisions of this court control the determination of this case?

With reference to the first question, a further statement of facts is necessary. The act of 1866 chartered the Atlantic and Pacific, empowered it to build a railroad from Springfield in Missouri to the Pacific Ocean, the description of the latter part of the route being in these words:

"Thence along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude, as near as may be found most suitable for a railway route, to the Colorado River, at such point as may be selected by said company for crossing; thence by the most practicable and eligible route to the Pacific."

By the third section a grant of lands was made to said company in these words:

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there be, and hereby is, granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, for the purpose of aiding in the construction of said railroad and telegraph line to the Pacific Coast, . . . every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers, to the amount of twenty alternate sections per mile, on each side of said railroad line, as said company may adopt, through the territories of the United States, and ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of said railroad whenever it passes through any State, and whenever, on the line thereof, the United States have full title, not reserved, sold, granted or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights, at the time the line of said road is designated by a plat thereof filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office; and whenever, prior to said time, any of said sections or parts of sections shall have been granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or pre-empted, or otherwise disposed of, other lands shall be selected by said company in lieu thereof, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, in alternate sections, and designated by odd numbers, not more than ten miles beyond the limits of said alternate sections and not including the reserved numbers."

The company filed its map of definite location in 1872, but never did any work in the way of constructing that part of its road from the Colorado River, that being the eastern boundary of California, to the Pacific Ocean. On July 6, 1886, Congress passed an act forfeiting the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific, so far as they were adjacent to and coterminous with the uncompleted portions of the road. (24 Stat. 123.) By this act the interest of the Atlantic and Pacific in public lands in the State of California was divested and restored to the United States.

On December 2, 1865, the Southern Pacific was incorporated under the laws of California, "for the purpose of constructing, owning and maintaining a railroad from some point on the bay of San Francisco in the State of California, and to pass through the counties of Santa Clara, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Los Angeles and San Diego to the town of San Diego in said State, thence eastward through the said county of San Diego to the eastern line of the State of California, there to connect with a contemplated railroad from said eastern line of the State of California to the Mississippi River."

Section 18 of the act of 1866 reads as follows:

"And be it further enacted, That the Southern Pacific Railroad, a company incorporated under the laws of the State of California, is hereby authorized to connect with the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, formed under this act, at such point, near the boundary line of the State of California, as they shall deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco, and shall have a uniform gauge and rate of freight or fare with said road; and in consideration thereof, to aid in its construction, shall have similar grants of land, subject to all the conditions and limitations herein provided, and shall be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad herein provided for."

On January 3, 1867, the Southern Pacific filed in the Interior Department a map of a route from San Francisco via Mojave to Needles, on the Colorado River. This line from Mojave to Needles is on the same general course and contiguous to that adopted by the Atlantic and Pacific. The Secretary of the Interior refused to accept or approve the map on the ground that this particular part of the line was not authorized by the charter of the Southern Pacific. On April 4, 1870, the legislature of California passed the following act:

"Whereas, by the provisions of a certain act of Congress of the United States of America, entitled 'An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from San Francisco to the eastern line of the State of California,' approved July 27, 1866, certain grants were made to, and certain rights, privileges, powers and authority were vested in and conferred upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, therefore, to enable the said company to more fully and completely comply with and perform the requirements, provisions and conditions of the said act of Congress, and all other acts of Congress now in force, or which may hereafter be enacted, the State of California hereby consents to said act; and the said company, its successors and assigns, are hereby authorized and empowered to change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the State of California by such route as the company shall determine to be the most practicable, and to file new and amendatory articles of association, and the right, power and privileges hereby granted to, conferred upon and vested in them, to construct, maintain and operate, by steam or other power, the said railroad and telegraph line mentioned in said act of Congress, hereby confirming to and vesting in the said company, its successors and assigns, all the rights, privileges, franchises, power and authority conferred upon, granted to or vested in said company by the said acts of Congress and any act of Congress which may be hereafter enacted." (Statutes California, 1869–1870, p. 883.)

And on June 28, 1870, Congress passed the following joint resolution (16 Stat. 382):

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California may construct its road and telegraph line, as near as may be, on the route indicated by the map filed by said company in the Department of the Interior on the third day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven; and upon the construction of each section of said road, in the manner and within the time provided by law, and notice thereof being given by the company to the Secretary of the Interior, he shall direct an examination of each such section by commissioners to be appointed by the President, as provided in the act making a grant of land to said company, approved July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and upon the report of the commissioners to the Secretary of the Interior that such section of said railroad and telegraph line has been constructed as required by law, it shall be the duty of the said Secretary of the Interior to cause patents to be issued to said company for the sections of land coterminous to each constructed section reported on as aforesaid, to the extent and amount granted to said company by the said act of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, expressly saving and reserving all the rights of actual settlers, together with the other conditions and restrictions provided for in the third section of said act."

Along this general line the Southern Pacific constructed its road, as California said, in reference to the grant made to the Southern Pacific by section 18 of the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, that it "hereby consents to said act," and as Congress, by its resolution, approved the route selected by the Southern Pacific as a route authorized by that act, no one can question that the construction of the road was under such circumstances as entitle the company to the benefit of the grant made by said eighteenth section of the act of 1866.

By the act of 1866, Congress made grants of land to two different companies; by the third section to the Atlantic and Pacific, and by the eighteenth section to the Southern Pacific. The settled rule of construction is that where by the same act, or by acts of the same date, grants of land are made to two separate companies, in so far as the limits of their grants conflict by crossing or lapping, each company takes an equal, undivided moiety of the lands within the conflict. Neither acquires all by priority of location or priority of construction. (St. Paul Railroad v. Winona Railroad, 112 U. 720; Sioux City Railroad v. Chicago Railroad, 117 U. S. 406; Donahue v. Lake Superior Canal &c. Co., 155 U. S. 386; Sioux City &c. Railroad Co. v. United States, 159 U. S. 349.)

The question as to the two grants under this act of 1866 was presented to Mr. Justice Lamar, at that time Secretary of the Interior, and his ruling to the same effect appears in a letter of instructions to the acting Commissioner of the General Land Office on November 25, 1887. (6 Land Dec. 349.) In that letter he said:

"The Southern Pacific Company located its main line January 3, 1867, and by the terms of the grant its right immediately attached to every odd section of land, not of the character excepted by the grant, and within the ten-mile limit, subject, however, to be divested to the extent of a half interest in every such odd section that might fall within the common limits of both roads, after the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company.

"The Atlantic and Pacific Company filed its map of definite location April 11, 1872, and April 16, 1874, showing that the primary or granted limits of said road overlapped and conflicted with the primary or granted limits of a portion of the Southern Pacific road. As to the lands falling within the granted limits of both roads, the filing of the map of definite location by the Atlantic and Pacific Company, showing such conflict, immediately divested the Southern Pacific Company of the right and title to a half interest in all such odd sections, and from that moment and by that act the two companies became entitled to equal, undivided moieties in such sections, without regard to the priority of location of the line of the road, or priority of construction; the right of each company relating back to the date of the grant. (St. Paul & Sioux City R. R. Co. v. Winona & St. Paul R. R. Co., 112 U. S. 720; Sioux City R. R. Co. v. Chicago R. R. Co., 117 U. S. 406.)"

As against this, it is contended that Congress could not have intended a road running from the western to the eastern border of California, parallel and contiguous to the Atlantic and Pacific road; that it must have intended a connection between the two roads on the western boundary or border of the State—especially in view of the fact that the charter of the Southern Pacific contemplated only a line along the western part of the State from San Francisco to San Diego. Whatever doubts there might be in respect to this matter are removed by the action taken by the Southern Pacific and the resolution of June 28, 1870. The railroad company assumed that it had a right under the act of 1866 to locate a line to the eastern boundary of California, and did locate such a line, and filed a map thereof with the Secretary of the Interior, and Congress by the joint resolution of June 28 in effect accepted and approved that line, and declared that the railroad company might construct its road on the route indicated on that map.

Neither is the date of this resolution the time at which the rights of the railroad company arose, as is contended by counsel. No new land grant was contemplated; no substitution of one grant for another, or of one line for another. The obvious purpose was to accept the line proffered by the road as the line intended by the act of 1866, and the grant made by the act of 1866 was recognized as rightfully to be used in aid of the construction of a road along the line suggested by the company.

Neither is it material whether the line indicated on the map filed is to be taken as a line of general route or of definite location, for in fact the road was constructed along that line, "as near as may be," in the language of the resolution, and the road has been accepted by the government.

Neither does the fact that the line of road contemplated by the Southern Pacific's charter, at the time of the passage of the act of 1866, was along the western border of the State, prevent the operation of the grant. It is well settled that Congress has power to grant to a corporation created by a State additional franchises—at least franchises of a similar nature. (Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U. S. 700, 727; Pacific Railroad Removal Cases, 115 U. S. 1, 15; California v. Pacific Railroad Company, 127 U. S. 1; United States v. Stanford, 161 U. S. 412, 431; Central Pacific Railroad v. California, 162 U. S. 91, 118, 123.)

In California v. Pacific Railroad Company, supra, this very grant was before the court, and Mr. Justice Bradley, on page 44, having theretofore narrated the facts in reference to various charters and grants, said:

"An examination of the acts referred to in these findings shows that Congress authorized the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, at such point near the boundary line of the State of California, as it should deem most suitable for a railroad line to San Francisco; and, to aid in the construction of such a railroad line, Congress declared that the company should have similar grants of land, and should be required to construct its road on the like regulations, as to time and manner, with the Atlantic and Pacific. Like powers were also given to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to construct a line of railroad from Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific road at the Colorado River (Fort Yuma). The Southern Pacific Company was not authorized by its original charter to extend its railroad to the Colorado River, as we already know by other cases brought before us, and as appears by the act of the State legislature passed April 4, 1870, which assumed to authorize the company to change the line of its railroad so as to reach the eastern boundary line of the State; thus duplicating the power given to it by the act of Congress. (See the State act quoted in 118 U. S. 399.) This State legislation was probably procured to remove all doubts with regard to the company's power to construct such roads. It is apparent, however, that the franchise to do so was fully conferred by Congress, and that franchise was accepted, and the roads have been constructed in conformity thereto."

We are of the opinion, therefore, that Mr. Secretary Lamar was right in his conclusion that both the grant to the Southern Pacific and that to the Atlantic and Pacific took effect, and being by the same act, so far as there was a conflict, the two companies took equal, undivided moieties of the land.

We pass, therefore, to a consideration of the second question: Do prior decisions of this court control the determination of this case? United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (146 U. S. 570;) United States v. Colton Marble & Lime Co., and United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (146 U. S. 615,) and Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. United States, (168 U. S. 1,) are referred to. Those cases were brought by the United States against the Southern Pacific to quiet title to certain lands (but not the lands in controversy here) along the line of the Atlantic and Pacific within the State of California. In the last of these three cases the principle of res judicata was invoked and held applicable; and the title of the government to the lands involved was sustained on the ground that the question in controversy had been finally determined in the prior suits. In the opinion filed there was much discussion in respect to res judicata, and it was said, on page 48:

"The general principle announced in numerous cases is that a right, question or fact distinctly put in issue and directly determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, as a ground of recovery, cannot be disputed in a subsequent suit between the same parties or their privies; and even if the second suit is for a different cause of action, the right, question or fact once so determined must, as between the same parties or their privies, be taken as conclusively established so long as the judgment in the first suit remains unmodified."

See also New Orleans v. Citizens' Bank, (167 U. S. 371, 396,) in which the rule was thus stated:

"The estoppel resulting from the thing adjudged does not depend upon whether there is the same demand in both cases, but exists, even although there be different demands, when the question upon which the recovery of the second demand depends has under identical circumstances and conditions been previously concluded by a judgment between the parties or their privies."

It becomes, therefore, important to determine what was decided in the prior cases, and in order to a clear understanding these additional facts must be borne in mind: On March 3, 1871, Congress passed an act (16 Stat. 573) to incorporate the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company, the twenty-third section of which reads:

"That for the purpose of connecting the Texas Pacific Railroad with the city of San Francisco, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California is hereby authorized (subject to the laws of California) to construct a line of railroad from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, by way of Los Angeles, to the Texas Pacific Railroad at or near the Colorado River, with the same rights, grants and privileges, and subject to the same limitations, restrictions and conditions as were granted to said Southern Pacific Railroad Company of California by the act of July twenty-seven, eighteen hundred and sixty-six: Provided, however, That this section shall in no way affect or impair the rights, present or prospective, of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company or any other railroad company."

On April 3, 1871, the Southern Pacific filed a map of a route from Tehachapa Pass southward by way of Los Angeles to connect with the Texas and Pacific Railroad at the Colorado River, and subsequently constructed a road on such line. This line crossed that of the Atlantic and Pacific, the general course of the former being north and south and of the latter east and west. The grants, therefore, to the Atlantic and Pacific by the act of July 27, 1866, and that to the Southern Pacific by the act of March 3, 1871, came in conflict at and near the place of intersection of their lines. The lands in controversy in those suits were lands within the granted limits of both companies at the place of conflict. It was so distinctly stated in the opening of the opinion in the first case referred to:

"The question to be considered is not as to the validity of the grant to the Southern Pacific Company, but only as to its extent. It may be conceded that the company took title to lands generally along its line, from Tehachapa Pass to its junction with the Texas and Pacific; and the contention of the government is here limited to those lands only which lie within the granted limits of both the Atlantic and Pacific and the Southern Pacific Companies, at the crossing of their lines, as definitely located." (p. 592.)

Both grants were grants in præsenti, and when the maps of definite location were filed and approved the grants took effect by relation as of the dates of the acts. Hence, if each company filed a map of definite location the title of the Atlantic and Pacific, relating back to the year 1866, was anterior and superior to that of the Southern Pacific, of date 1871, and all the lands within the conflict passed to the Atlantic and Pacific rather than to the Southern Pacific. To avoid the effect of this conclusion—a conclusion resting upon well-settled principles of public land law—the Southern Pacific contended that no map of definite location was ever filed by the Atlantic and Pacific, or approved by the Secretary of the Interior, but after a full examination of the facts this court held otherwise, summing up its conclusions in these words:

"Our conclusions, therefore, are, that a valid and sufficient map of definite location of its route from the Colorado River to the Pacific Ocean was filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior; that by such act the title to these lands passed, under the grant of 1866, to the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and remained held by it subject to a condition subsequent until the act of forfeiture of 1886; that by that act of forfeiture the title of the Atlantic and Pacific was retaken by the general government, and retaken for its own benefit, and not that of the Southern Pacific Company; and that the latter company has no title of any kind to these lands." (p. 607.)

So, in the opinion in the last of the three cases, is this statement of the facts and question:

"The principal contention of the United States is that the lands in dispute are in the same category in every respect with those in controversy in United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad, (146 U. S. 570,) and United States v. Colton Marble & Lime Co., and United States v. Southern Pacific Railroad, (146 U. S. 615;) and that, so far as the question of title is concerned, the judgments in those cases have conclusively determined, as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and its privies, the essential facts upon which the government rests its present claim.

"Stated in another form, the United States insists that in the former cases the controlling matter in issue was, whether certain maps filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in 1872, and which were accepted by the Land Department as sufficiently designating that company's line of road under the act of Congress of July 27, 1866, c. 278, 14 Stat. 292, were valid maps of definite location; the United States contending in those cases that they were, and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company contending that they were not, maps of that character; that that issue was determined in favor of the United States; and that as the lands now in dispute are within the limits of the line of road so designated, it is not open to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, in this proceeding, to question the former determination that such maps sufficiently identified the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by the act of 1866, and were therefore valid maps of definite location." (p. 25.)

And again, on page 29, after a quotation of the twenty-third section of the act of March 3, 1871, is this declaration:

"The Southern Pacific Railroad Company constructed the road thus contemplated, and claims that the lands here in dispute passed to it under the above act of 1871."

So also on page 46:

"The lands now in controversy are situated opposite to and are coterminous with the first, second and fourth sections of the Southern Pacific Railroad as constructed between 1873 and 1877, inclusive, and within the primary and indemnity limits of the grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company made by the twenty-third section of the Texas and Pacific act of March 3, 1871."

And on page 61 the conclusion was summed up in these words:

"For the reasons stated, we are of opinion that it must be taken in this case to have been conclusively adjudicated in the former cases, as between the United States and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company—

"1. That the maps filed by the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in 1872 were sufficient, as maps of definite location, to identify the lands granted to that company by the act of 1866;

"2. That upon the acceptance of those maps by the Land Department the rights of that company in the lands so granted, attached, by relation as of the date of the act of 1866; and

"3. That in view of the conditions attached to the grant, and of the reservations of power in Congress contained in the act of 1866, such lands became, upon the passage of the forfeiture act of 1886, the property of the United States, and by force of that act were restored to the public domain without the Southern Pacific Railroad Company having acquired any interest therein that affected the power of the United States to forfeit and restore them to the public domain.

"These grounds being accepted as the basis of our decision, the law in the present case is clearly for the United States; for, as all the lands here in controversy are embraced by the maps of 1872, and therefore appertain to the line located by such maps, it must be, for the reasons stated in the former decision, that the United States is entitled, as between it and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, to the relief given by the decree below."

Obviously the fact settled by the decisions in those cases was the filing by the Atlantic and Pacific of an approved map of definite location. Upon that the controversy hinged. Such a map having been filed the title of the Atlantic and Pacific vested as of the date of the act of July 27, 1866, and inasmuch as the Southern Pacific claimed only by a grant of date March 3, 1871, it took no title. This which is apparent from the foregoing quotations is emphasized by the full discussions in the opinions, as well as by the allegations in the pleadings upon which the cases were tried. That fact having been determined must be taken in the present suit as not open to dispute. The Atlantic and Pacific did file a sufficient map of definite location of its line from the Colorado River to the Pacific Ocean, and such map was approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Its title, therefore, to the land within the limits of the grant in California took effect as of date July 27, 1866. No claim of right or title arising only in 1871 and created by an act of that date could affect its title.

But it was not adjudged in those cases either that the Southern Pacific had no title to any real estate by virtue of the act of 1866, or that if there was any real estate to which it had any claim or right by virtue of that act, such claim was not of equal force with that of the Atlantic and Pacific. The general statement at the close of the quotation from 146 U. S. 607, "that the latter company has no title of any kind to these lands," and the similar statement in paragraph 3 of the quotation from 168 U. S. 61, are to be taken as applicable only to the facts presented, and cannot be construed as announcing any determination as to matters and questions not appearing in the records. Of course, the decrees that were rendered in those cases are conclusive of the title to the property involved in them, no matter what claims or rights either party may have had and failed to produce, but as to property which was not involved in those suits they are conclusive only as to the matters which were actually litigated and determined. "On principle, a point not in litigation in one action cannot be received as conclusively settled in any subsequent action upon a different cause, because it might have been determined in the first action." (Cromwell v. County of Sac, 94 U. S. 351–356.) "The particular matter in controversy in the adverse suit was the triangular piece of ground, which is not the matter of dispute in this action. The judgment in that case is therefore not conclusive in this as to matters which might have been decided, but only as to matters which were in fact decided." (Last Chance Mining Co. v. Tyler Mining Co., 157 U. S. 683–687.) The question here presented was not determined in the prior cases, and is whether the Southern Pacific acquired any title to lands other than those involved in those suits by virtue of the act of 1866, and that question, as we have seen, must be answered in the affirmative. Nor is this a mere technical difference between those cases and this. Counsel for the railroad company call the line from Mojave southward via Los Angeles to connect with the Texas and Pacific a "branch line," and that eastward from Mojave to Needles to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific a "main line;" but by whatever name these two lines are called, they were built under the authority of two different statutes; the line from Mojave southward via Los Angeles under the authority of the act of Congress of March 3, 1871, an act which in terms authorized the building of a road from a point at or near Tehachapa Pass, which is in the vicinity of Mojave, southward by way of Los Angeles to connect with the Texas and Pacific, and gave no authority to build a line eastward from Mojave to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific; the line from Mojave eastward, under the act of 1866, which authorized the Southern Pacific to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific at or near the boundary of the State. The route which was selected by the company for this line was approved by Congress as authorized by the act of 1866. Hence the one line was built under the authority of the act of 1871, and the other under the authority of the act of 1866.

Our conclusions, therefore, are that the United States, having become by the forfeiture act of July 6, 1886, repossessed of all the rights and interests of the Atlantic and Pacific in this grant within the limits of California, hold an equal, undivided moiety in all the odd-numbered sections which lie within the conflicting place limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific and of that made to the Southern Pacific by the act of July 27, 1866; and that the Southern Pacific holds the other equal, undivided moiety therein. The United States and the Southern Pacific being, therefore, tenants in common of a large body of lands, a partition is necessary. It was suggested by Secretary Lamar, in the letter heretofore referred to, that the Southern Pacific take only every other alternate odd-numbered section. We see no impropriety in such mode of partition, though, under the case as it stands, we can make no order to that effect. In whatever way partition may be made, equity requires that the lands which the Southern Pacific has assumed to sell and which were excepted by the Circuit Court from the decree in favor of the United States, and in respect to which they took their cross appeal, must be among those set off to the Southern Pacific, and thus the title of the purchasers be perfected. It is needless, therefore, to consider the merits of the cross appeal of the United States.

It is also unnecessary to determine the rights of the Southern Pacific to lands outside the limits of conflict. It having been adjudged that the Southern Pacific, by the construction of its road eastward from Mojave to Needles, became entitled to the benefit of the grant made by the eighteenth section of the act of 1866, the adjustment of the grant is properly to be had in the Land Department, subject, of course, if necessary, to further contests in the courts.

The decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Ninth Circuit, affirming the decree of the Circuit Court for the Southern District of California will be reversed and the case remanded to the Circuit Court with instructions to enter a decree quieting the title of the United States to an equal, undivided moiety in all alternate sections within the place or granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific in California, so far as those limits conflict with the like limits of the Southern Pacific, excepting therefrom those lands in respect to which there has been some prior adjudication, and to dismiss the bill as to all other lands without prejudice to any future suit or action.
